Mr. CRESSWELL, having received a majority of the votes cast, was declared SPEAKER of the Senate.

Mr. CRESSWELL was conducted to the Chair by Mr. SCOFIELD, after which he addressed the Senate as follows;

SENATORS:—Before taking upon myself the solemn obligation that will consummate the acceptance of the office which you have assigned to me, allow me to express my acknowledgements for this mark of your confidence and esteem, and to profoundly thank you for the honor conferred upon me.

The duties of Speaker of a deliberative body are always necessarily of an arduous and delicate character.

Acting as your Speaker, and presiding officer, my highest ambition shall be, to discharge the duties incumbent upon the position truly and faithfully to the Constitution and laws of the State, and impartially to the rights and privileges belonging to you as Representatives.

Ours is a great Commonwealth—an empire almost in itself—and to our care and fidelity have been confided great and diversified interests and cherished rights. We should be ever active and vigilant in the promotion of the one and the preservation and protection of the other. If our deliberations result successfully in maintaining the rights and interests of the people, in advancing their welfare, prosperity and happiness—in fostering and encouraging the development and culture of our varied resources—we must command the approbation and enjoy the respect and confidence of those whose servants we are.

Senators, We are daily reminded of our fallibility as men, and I cannot expect, by my own humble exertions, however earnest they may be, to perfectly and satisfactorily perform, unaided, the work that I am about to assume. I entreat, therefore, your kind indulgence and your hearty co-operation.

Accepting the trust so kindly proffered, you will name a Senator to administer the obligation of office.

The oath of office was then administered to the SPEAKER by Mr. SCOFIELD—that Senator having been designated by the SPEAKER as the person to qualify him for the post.

The Senators elect, who had not been sworn, then approached the desk and took the oath of office, as follows:

- Philadelphia.—John H. Parker,
Montgomery.—John Thompson.
Bucks.—Mahlon Yardley.
Lehigh and Northampton.—Jeremiah Shindel.
Berks.—Benj. Nunnemacher.
Schuylkill.—Robert M. Palmer.
Snyder, Northumberland, Montour and Columbia.—Reuben Keller.
York.—Wm. H. Welsh.
Erie and Crawford.—Darwin A. Finney.
Clarion, Jefferson, Forest and Elk.—K. L. Blood.

On motion of Mr. BELL the Senate proceeded to the election of Chief Clerk, the Clerks acting as Tellers

Messrs. Bell, Blood, Brewer, Craig, Cresswell, Fetter, Keller, Marselis, Miller, Nunnemacher,

macher, Randall, Schell, Shindel, Steele, Turney, Welsh, and Wright—17, voted for Wm. H. MILLER.

Messrs. Baldwin, Coffey, Finney, Francis, Gazzam, Gregg, Harris, Myer, Palmer, Parker, Penney, Rutherford, Scofield, Shaeffer, Thompson, and Yardley—16, voted for J. BARCLAY HARDING.

Mr. MILLER, having received a majority of votes cast, was declared duly elected Chief Clerk.

The oath of office was then administered to him by the SPEAKER.

On motion of Mr. WRIGHT, the Senate proceeded to the election of Assistant Clerk.

Messrs. Bell, Blood, Brewer, Craig, Cresswell, Fetter, Keller, Marselis, Miller, Nunnemacher, Randall, Schell, Shindel, Steele, Turney, Welsh and Wright—17, voted for FRANCIS M. HUTCHINSON.

Messrs. Baldwin, Coffey, Finney, Francis, Gazzam, Gregg, Harris, Myer, Palmer, Parker, Penny, Rutherford, Scofield, Shaffer, Thompson and Yardley—16, voted for A. L. HENKERSHOTZ.

Mr. HUTCHINSON having received a majority of the votes cast, was declared duly elected Assistant Clerk of the Senate, and was qualified as such by the SPEAKER.

Mr. WRIGHT moved that the rules of the session of 1858 be adopted by the Senate for its present government.

An amendment was offered by Mr. SCHELL, to the effect that the forty-eighth rule of the House be incorporated into the rules of the Senate, which rule prohibits the smoking of tobacco upon the floor of the Senate.

Mr. BELL moved for the postponement of the motion for the present.

Mr. WRIGHT wished to inquire by what rules the Senate would be governed, if it refused to adopt those proposed? We must adopt some rules, he said, and he was in favor of adopting the rules of the last session, together with the amendment of the gentleman from Bedford, which he seconded with all his heart. The motion of the Senator from Chester, he thought, was not appropriate, and he hoped that it would not be entertained by the Senate.

Mr. BREWER asked for the reading of the rule.

Mr. COFFEY remarked that if gentlemen would examine the Journals of the Senate, they would find that this was not an unusual proceeding. It was customary to adopt a resolution of this character at the commencement of a session.

Mr. BELL was well aware that it was customary to adopt a resolution of a character similar to this, but he did not think it was proper to proceed to any business which would tend to interrupt the regular order, which was the election of the remaining officers of the Senate, and he must insist upon his motion for a postponement.

The SPEAKER explained that it was not customary to elect any officer of the Senate, except the SPEAKER, on the first day of the session.

Mr. SCHELL having withdrawn his amendment to the resolution of Mr. WRIGHT, it was agreed to.

Mr. FINNEY offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That a committee of two members be appointed to inform the House of Representatives that the Senate is duly organized, and ready to proceed to business; which was agreed to.

The SPEAKER appointed Messrs. FINNEY and RANDALL said committee.

Mr. TURNEY offered the following resolution; which was adopted:

Resolved, That if the House of Representatives concur, the joint rules of the last session, for the government of the two Houses, be adopted for their government during the present session.

Mr. WELSH offered the following; which was adopted:

Resolved, That a committee of three members of the Senate, be appointed to act in conjunction with a similar committee of the House of Representatives, (if the House of Representatives shall appoint such a committee,) to inform the Governor that the General Assembly is organized, and ready to receive any communication he may have to make.

The SPEAKER has not yet announced the gentlemen constituting the committee, on behalf of the Senate.

Mr. WRIGHT offered a resolution, that when the Senate adjourn, it adjourn to meet to-morrow at eleven o'clock, A. M., and that that be the standing hour of meeting until otherwise ordered, and that one o'clock be the hour of adjournment.

Mr. RANDALL moved to strike out eleven o'clock and insert ten.

Mr. WELSH rose to a point of order, the resolution not being upon second reading; when the SPEAKER declared the resolution out of order.

After a second reading of the resolution, Mr. RANDALL renewed his motion to amend, and proceeded to advocate the propriety of the earlier hour of meeting. He was opposed to wasting any of the time of the session, and was in favor of making the present session as short as possible.

Mr. HARRIS could see no objection to the amendment. The Senate could meet at ten o'clock, and as soon as its business was transacted, could adjourn.

The question being upon the amendment, the yeas and nays were called, and resulted as follows:

YEAS—Messrs. Fetter, Finney, Francis, Gazzam, Gregg, Harris, Nuemacher, Palmer, Parker, Penney, Randall, Rutherford, Schell, Scofield, Shindel, Steele, Thompson, Turney, Welsh and Yardley—21.

NAYS—Messrs. Bell, Blood, Brewer, Coffey, Craig, Keller, Marselis, Miller, Myer, Scofield, Wright and Cresswell, Speaker—12.

The question recurring upon the resolution as amended, the yeas and nays were again demanded, and resulted as follows:

YEAS—Messrs. Baldwin, Coffey, Fetter, Finney, Francis, Gazzam, Gregg, Harris, Marselis, Miller, Myer, Nuemacher, Palmer, Parker, Penney, Randall, Rutherford, Schell, Scofield, Shaeffer, Shindel, Steele, Thompson, Turney, Welsh, Wright and Yardley—27.

NAYS—Messrs. Bell, Blood, Brewer, Craig, Keller and Cresswell, Speaker—6.

Mr. STEELE, of Luzerne, moved that the Senate do now adjourn; not agreed to.

Mr. GREGG, of Centre, submitted a paper, which he stated to be a proposition to do the transcribing work of the Senate, by contract, at a less cost to the State than under the present system. He asked for the reading of the communication.

Mr. WRIGHT objected to the reading of the proposition, as improper at the present time, and hoped the gentleman would withdraw it.

Mr. FINNEY suggested that if the paper had any significance, now was the proper time to present it, prior to the election of the remaining clerks.

The SPEAKER decided that the proposition was not in order, and that it would require a two-third vote to secure for it a reading at the present time.

Mr. GREGG moved that the rule precluding the reading of the proposition at present, be dispensed with. Not agreed to; so the paper was not read.

Mr. FINNEY moved that the Senate proceed to the election of officers. Not agreed to.

Mr. BELL moved that the Senate do now adjourn. The yeas and nays were called, and resulted as follows:

YEAS—Messrs. Baldwin, Bell, Blood, Craig, Fetter, Gazzam, Harris, Keller, Myer, Nuemacher, Palmer, Penney, Randall, Rutherford, Schell, Scofield, Shindel, Steele, Turney, Welsh, Wright, Yardley and Cresswell, Speaker—23.

NAYS—Messrs. Brewer, Coffey, Finney, Francis, Gregg, Marsolis, Miller, Parker, Shaeffer and Thompson—10.

So the motion to adjourn was agreed to, and the SPEAKER adjourned the Senate until to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock.

elected SPEAKER, and was conducted to the Chair by Messrs. M'CLURE and GRITMAN.

Before taking the Chair, Mr. LAWRENCE addressed the House as follows:

Representatives of Pennsylvania:

The duties of this office are difficult and laborious; and I would assume them with great reluctance, conscious of the weakness which results from my youth and inexperience, were I not encouraged by the hope and belief that I shall be sustained by your kindness and forbearance.

No President of a large, deliberative body; of himself, can maintain order in the transaction of its business. Where the interests and opinions of men and sections are brought into frequent and violent collision, nothing but the patriotism and courtesy of members can insure harmony. It is beyond the power of the Speaker. The character of this House depends upon you, gentlemen, and not upon him whom you have chosen to preside over your deliberations. Yet high obligations are devolved upon me, and I shall not shrink from them.

The State of Pennsylvania has just passed a terrible crisis and entered a new epoch in her history. Having divorced herself from all her public works, having no large domain under her care, the duties of the Legislature are simple and few. We have a system of jurisprudence which justly commands the respect and admiration of the world. Let it be touched with great care, prudently correcting manifest error, yet not precipitating upon the people innovations which may be still more injurious.

The industrial interests of society must be protected. The immense natural wealth of the State should be developed. When individual power may be inefficient, aggregations of capital, with limited powers, carefully guarded, should be encouraged. And lastly, the great moral interests of society should be borne prominently in mind. Christianity is a part of the common law of the land, and in all our actions and counsels this should control and direct us.

I fully appreciate the compliment of being selected to fill this high office, and I shall do my duty.

The SPEAKER elect then called upon Mr. GRITMAN, who administered to him the oath of office.

After the ceremony was concluded, the members elect severally appeared and had the oath of office administered to them by the SPEAKER.

MESSAGE FROM THE GOVERNOR.

The Secretary of the Commonwealth was announced, who informed the Senate that he had the honor to transmit the annual Message of the Governor; which was received and ordered to be read, as follows:

To the Honorable the Senators and Members of the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

GENTLEMEN:—Although the year just closed has been one of great depression in the business and monetary affairs of the country, I am happy to be able to announce to the representatives of the people that the finances of Pennsylvania are in a most satisfactory condition.

The receipts at the Treasury, from all sources, for the fiscal year, ending on the 30th day of November, 1858, were $4,135,778.35; and the expenditures, for all purposes, during the same time, were $3,775,857.06. Leaving an excess of receipts over expenditures of $363,921.29.

This exhibit shows that there was actually in the Treasury on the first day of December, 1858, the sum of $363,921.29 more than there was on the first day of December, 1857. In addition to this, among the expenditures for the year, were—

Loans redeemed,	-	-	-	$380,306 85
Relief Notes redeemed,	-	-	-	41,071 00
Interest Certificates redeemed,	-	-	-	116 70

Making of the public debt, funded and unfunded, paid during the year, the sum of	-	-	-	421,494 55
--	---	---	---	------------

If we add to this the excess of money on hand, at the end of the fiscal year, over what remained in the Treasury, at the same time last year, viz:	-	-	-	363,921 29
--	---	---	---	------------

We have the sum of	-	-	-	785,415 84
--------------------	---	---	---	------------

But this is not all. The amount paid on the public improvements, including damages and old claims, during the fiscal year, was	-	-	-	341,036 58
--	---	---	---	------------

While the amount of revenue, from the same source, for the same period, was only	-	-	-	95,070 06

Making an excess of expenditures over receipts, which happily we will be relieved from in the future, of	-	-	-	245,966 52
--	---	---	---	------------

This sum should also be credited to the operations of the Treasury, during the year; for it was an extraordinary expenditure, which cannot again occur, and was, in fact, a reduction of the liabilities of the Commonwealth to that extent.

If we add this sum to the amount of debt paid, and the excess of cash on hand, we have, for the year, a balance in favor of the receipts, over the ordinary expenditures, amounting in the aggregate to $1,031,382.36.

But from this, however, should be deducted the extraordinary receipts, which were—

In all	-	-	-	$128,000 00

Which, deducted from the foregoing aggregate of $1,031,382.36, leaves the true balance of the ordinary receipts over the ordinary expenditures for the fiscal year at $903,382.36.

The funded and unfunded debt of the Commonwealth, on the first day of December, 1857, was as follows:

The funded and unfunded debt of the State at the close of the last fiscal year, December 1, 1858, stood as follows:

Total unfunded debt,	-	-	-	$133,958 00

Making the public debt on the first of December last $39,488,243 67. Since the close of the fiscal year, the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund have redeemed of the five per cent. loan, the sum of $220,132 51, leaving the real debt of the Commonwealth, at this time, funded and unfunded, $39,268,111 16.

To meet this, besides the ordinary sources of public revenue, the State owns bonds received from the sale of the public works, and which I have every reason to believe, are well secured, amounting to eleven millions one hundred and eighty-one dollars. Deducting this from the outstanding debt, it leaves to be otherwise provided for, the sum of twenty-eight millions eighty-seven thousand one hundred and eleven dollars and sixteen cents.

It is believed, that with the existing sources of revenue, and the observance of strict economy, this sum may be reduced, during the current year, at least one million of dollars.

The present would seem to be the appropriate time,—when our nation is at peace,—and when health and reasonable prosperity prevail within our own borders,—to greatly reduce the public debt. We have but carefully to husband our legitimate resources, avoiding extravagant and unnecessary appropriations, and practicing a proper economy in all the departments of Government, to render the entire extinguishment of our debt a fixed fact within a very brief period. To carefully guard the public treasury at this interesting epoch in our financial history, is so manifestly the duty of the public authorities, that I cannot for one moment believe that any other policy will be proposed. If there be any, who, relying on the improved condition of the finances of the State, would encourage the adoption of new schemes for depleting the Treasury, or would cut off the sources of our present revenue, and thus reduce it, let all such efforts, coming from whatever quarter they may, be sternly resisted. Let Pennsylvania be just before she is generous. Let our good example be a light in the pathway of our sister States, as well as an admonition to our own local governments. This is due alike to the favors which Providence has so bountifully bestowed upon us, and to that high character for honesty and integrity which has ever distinguished the people of this good old Commonwealth.

In pursuance of the act, entitled "An Act for the Sale of the State Canals," approved on the 21st day of April last, I did, as the Governor of the Commonwealth, on the 19th day of May, 1858, convey to the Sunbury and Erie Railroad Company, all the public works belonging to the Commonwealth, then remaining unsold, consisting of the Delaware Division—the Upper and Lower North Branch Divisions—the West Branch Division—and the Susquehanna Division of the Pennsylvania Canal, with all the property thereunto belonging, or in anywise appertaining, and all the estate, right, title and interest of this Commonwealth therein, for the sum of three millions five hundred thousand dollars. To secure the payment of this sum, the Sunbury and Erie Railroad Company paid to the State Treasurer its bonds, secured by a mortgage, as directed by the act, for the amount of the purchase money. The company, also, complied with the provisions of the Act which required it, as additional security, to execute and deliver to the State Treasurer a mortgage on the Delaware Division for one million—a mortgage on the Susquehanna and West Branch Divisions for half a million—and a mortgage on the Upper and Lower North Branch Divisions for half a million of dollars. The deeds and mortgages were all executed under the immediate supervision of the Attorney General, and were in strict conformity with the requirements of the law.

After the conveyances were duly executed and delivered, possession of the canals was given to the railroad company.

The act further provided that the Sunbury and Erie Railroad Company should not re-sell the Canals, or any part of them, without the consent of the Governor; and that if a re-sale were made for a greater sum, in the aggregate, than three and a half millions of dollars, seventy-five per centum of the excess should be paid to the Commonwealth, in the hands of the purchasers. It was also provided that upon a re-sale, the mortgages given by the Sunbury and Erie Railroad Company to the Commonwealth, upon the Canals, "should be cancelled by the State Treasurer and surrendered to the company by the Governor, on deposit made by the said company in the office of the State Treasurer, of an equal amount of the bonds of their grantees, secured by mortgage of the canal or canals sold as aforesaid"—with a provision that no transfer or securities should be made until the Governor should be satisfied that the new securities to be given were sufficient to protect the interests of the State; and that his written approval of the change should be filed in the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth.

Sales were made by the Sunbury and Erie Railroad Company and reported to me, under the oath of the President, of the different lines, as follows:

The Upper and Lower North Branch Canal, to the North Branch Canal Company, for	$1,600,000
The West Branch and Susquehanna Divisions, to West Branch and Susquehanna Canal Company, for	500,000
The Delaware Division, to the Delaware Division Canal Company of Pennsylvania, for	1,775,000

In all the sum of - - $3,875,000

Upon investigation and inquiry, having become satisfied that these sales were made for fair prices, and upon such terms, and to such persons composing the various purchasing associations, as to insure the payment of the purchase money, they were severally approved.

After the contract for the sale of the Delaware Division had been entered into, and my consent had been verbally given, and seventy-five thousand dollars of the purchase money had been actually paid by the purchasers, upon the faith of the contract, and my assent thereto, I was informed that a higher price had been offered, by responsible persons, for the canal. But under the circumstances, my opinion was that the offer came too late; and as the Railroad Company considered itself bound to consummate the agreement by a delivery of the deed and possession of the property to the first purchasers, I could not, in good faith, withhold my assent. The North Branch Canal Company, subsequent to the purchase of that division, sold that portion of the canal lying between Wilkesbarre and Northumberland, to the Wyoming Canal Company for the sum of nine hundred and eighty-five thousand dollars.

On the 13th of September, 1858, bonds of the various companies owning the different canals, secured by mortgages, were, in pursuance of the act, and by my approval, deposited with the State Treasurer to the amount of two millions of dollars; and the mortgages on the canals given by the Sunbury and Erie Railroad Company, were cancelled by the State Treasurer, and surrendered by me to the company in accordance with the directions of the law. At the same time a settlement was made between the Commonwealth and the Railroad Company, by which the latter paid to the State seventy-five per centum of the proceeds of the re-sale over and above the contract price of three and a half millions. This amounted to two hundred and eighty-one thousand two hundred and fifty dollars, and was paid in the following manner, viz:

Bonds of the Wyoming Canal Company, secured by mortgage on the canal from Wilkesbarre to Northumberland, payable in twenty years with interest at six per cent. payable semi-annually, - - -	$281,000
Cash, - - - - -	250
Total, - - - - -	$281,250

These bonds are well secured, and the accruing interest and principal, when due, will doubtless be promptly paid.

From information of a reliable character recently communicated to me by the President of the Sunbury and Erie railroad company, it appears that the prospects of an early completion of that great public highway are very encouraging. A large amount of work has been done on the line of the road during the past season, and at this time, very considerable portions of the road are graded and rapidly approaching completion. It is the opinion of the President of the company that within two years, the work will be entirely finished, so that cars will be running directly from the city of Philadelphia to the harbor of Erie.

When this great enterprise shall be consummated, and the desire of its friends finally accomplished, the payment of the three millions and a half of mortgage bonds, which the State has received in exchange for the canals, will unquestionably be well secured—whilst the railroad, itself, will prove of incalculable advantage to our great commercial emporium, as well as to the important, but long neglected, region through which it passes. Its construction will undoubtedly add to the value of the real estate of the Commonwealth many times its cost, and develop and bring into use the rich resources of a country which have hitherto remained as they were lavishly strown by the hand of nature. I have an abiding confidence that the result will abundantly prove the wisdom of the measure, which, while it guaranteed the completion of one of the greatest improvements ever projected in the Commonwealth, it, at the same time, divorced the State from the unprofitable and demoralizing management of her railroads and canals.

Whatever differences of opinion may, at any time, have been entertained in regard to the propriety of the details of the legislation authorizing the sale of the main line, or the branches, it can scarcely be doubted that the public welfare will, in every respect, be vastly promoted by the transfer of the management of the public works from the State to individual owners.

The short experience that we have had already, proves conclusively that the Commonwealth is greatly the gainer, in a financial point of view, and it has been equally demonstrated that the people at large have been as well, if not better, accommodated, by the change.

It would, in my judgment, be a public calamity, if, by the happening of any contingency, the Commonwealth should be constrained to again become the owner, and resume the management, of any portion of the public improvements.

The power of the General Assembly to pass the Act of the 21st of April, 1858, relative to the sale of the State canals was questioned before the Supreme Court of the State, since the transfer of the Canals; and, after full argument, the Constitutionality of the Act was sustained by the unanimous judgment of the Court.

Since the sale of the public works, and the settlement of the principal outstanding claims against the State, it is obvious that there is no further necessity for a Board of Canal Commissioners, or a Canal Department. I, therefore, recommend the abolition of the Board, and that provision be made for the transfer of the records to the office of the Auditor General.

In view of the foregoing exhibit of our resources and financial condition it is apparent that a most interesting era has been reached in the history of the Commonwealth. Relieved from the entangling embarrassments of an extensive system of internal improvements, the means of the State are now ample for all legitimate purposes, and her public debt is gradually but certainly disappearing. From these and other causes, governmental action has become greatly simplified, and the nature of the subjects of its operation has changed in a degree no less remarkable.

The almost entire disposal of the lands which belonged to the State, has already dispensed with one of the Departments created for their care, and will, ultimately, render the other unnecessary, except for preserving the evidences of their transfer.

The sale of the public works has relieved the Executive branch of the Government of many of its most responsible and perplexing duties, and in effect, dispensed with one of its most formidable and difficult departments.

In the same proportion, the action of the Legislature will, if the representatives of the people be true to the interests reposed, and sternly refuse to entangle the public with those numerous projects and enterprises which are continually seeking its alliance, be simplified and economized, purified and strengthened.

And it is as remarkable as it is propitious, that an era which has thus relieved the State authorities of burthens that consisted, either of mere material interests, or the care of local administration,—committing the one to the local sovereignty of the people, and the other to private or associated enterprise,—should also present for consideration and promotion intellectual and moral claims of peculiar importance.

It is at this period in our history that the system of public education challenges the attention of the most unobservant. And I shall be much mistaken in the cautious but steadfast character of the people of Pennsylvania, if their Representatives do not make it the first object of their solicitude.

The annual report of the Superintendent of Common Schools, will lay before you the present condition of the Common School System, and of its operations during the past year. Your close and scrutinizing attention is invited to the details of that document.

Including the city of Philadelphia, it will be observed, that there were in the public schools of the State, during the year which terminated on the first Monday of last June, 628,201 pupils; these were instructed during an average term of a little over five months, in 11,281 schools, by 13,856 teachers, at a total cost of $2,427,632 41.

Here is a public interest, which,—whether we regard its ramifications into every portion of our social fabric, its large cost, the important powers over the present which it wields, or its incalculable influence upon the future,—undoubtedly transcends all others committed to the care of the secular authorities. This being the case, I have no hesitation in asserting that the time has arrived when its full importance should be recognized, and that its due administration should be made the duty of a fully organized and effective, as well as a separate department in the government.

But the mere care and promotion of our system of Common Schools—important and extensive as it obviously is—should not be the sole object of such a Department. If it is true that the power to punish crime includes also the right to prevent it, by providing for the proper intellectual and moral training of the people, it would seem to follow that the department charged with the latter momentous duty, should also be in possession of all the sources and subjects of information, calculated to shed light upon the object of its action. Hence the collection, arrangement, and practical deductions from population and industrial statistics; from natural defects, such as deafness and dumbness, blindness and lunacy; from crime in its various forms and developments; together with such control over all the literary and scientific institutions in the State, as shall bring their full condition into view—should also belong to the same Department.

Therefore, I most respectfully, but earnestly urge upon your favorable consideration, at the present propitious moment, the organization of such a Department, in the room of those for the care of mere matter whose agency has been or soon will be discontinued by the onward and upward progress of the Commonwealth.

A suitable Department of Public Instruction, will not, however, of itself, effect all that is needed in this direction. The general results of the Common School system, already cited, show the importance of its nature, and the magnitude of its operations. If we look, also, into its special statistics, the conclusion will be equally clear that certain improvements in its working machinery, are equally indispensable.

It is needless to attempt to prove the truism that the properly qualified teacher is the life and success of the school. But the facts are startling, that of the 12,828 teachers of our public schools, exclusive of those in Philadelphia, only 5,087 are reported as "qualified" for their important trust; while 5,387 are returned as "medium," or such as are only tolerated till better can be obtained; and that 2,313 are stated to be "unfit." In other words: of the 569,880 children attending the schools out of Philadelphia, only about 230,000 (less than one half) are under proper instruction and training; while about 210,000 are receiving insufficient instruction from inferior teachers; 100,000 are actually in charge of persons wholly unfit for the task.

This presents the subject in a light that cannot be shut out; and, though the great and commendable efforts recently made by the teachers of Pennsylvania, for their own improvement, are fully recognized, it cannot be concealed that there is a work yet to be done, in this relation, which would seem to be beyond their unaided power to accomplish.

When, however, we look further into the special statistics of this branch of the system, the material for improvement is found to be of the most promising kind. Of the 12,828 teachers of our common schools, 10,889 are under thirty years of age, and 10,946 are natives of Pennsylvania; and a larger proportion than in most of the other States, are permanently devoted to the profession of teaching. To render these fit for the position to which they aspire—undoubtedly one of the most useful and honorable in the world—and to raise up a constant supply of well qualified successors, is the work to be done.

Various modes of effecting this object have been suggested or tried; but, after mature reflection, I am led to prefer that devised by the Act of May 20, 1857, entitled "An Act to provide for the due training of teachers for the Common Schools of the State." It places, in relation to the State, the teacher on the same footing with the members of such of the other learned professions as have been recognized by public authority; and it is to be regretted that the prostration of business and scarcity of money, that so soon followed the passage of the act, had the effect of checking many laudable efforts to put its provisions into operation. Under these circumstances, does it not become the duty of the State to afford such aid, or at least hold out such inducements as shall enable this measure to be fairly tested.

The passage of a law guaranteeing the payment of a moderate sum to one Teachers' School in each of the districts created by the act of 1857, would no doubt cause a sufficient number to establish the efficiency and practicability of the plan, to be completed in a few years; the money not to be paid till the schools were in full and approved operation. It is not probable that this grant would cause any considerable draft on the treasury; but, even if the whole twelve schools should ultimately be established, the boon would neither be out of proportion to that which has been conceded to other literary institutions, nor the number of graduates beyond the wants of the community. Up to the present time, Pennsylvania has appropriated about $600,000 in aid of her colleges and academies, and this mainly in the hope of obtaining from them teachers for the common schools. Though the benefits of this munificence have been, in other respects, quite equal to the amount given, it will be asserted by no one that the avowed object has been to any considerable extent effected. It would therefore appear to be time that the aid of the State should be brought directly to bear in favor of the great object so long contemplated.

I have thus briefly laid before you the condition of our noble educational system. It will afford me sincere pleasure to concur in the adoption of these, or any other measures, for its perfection, that the wisdom of the Legislature may devise.

In this country, the want of a school which shall combine the elements of learning and agricultural labor, and thus adapt itself to the education of the farmer, has been most seriously felt; for, whilst our many colleges well fill the measure of usefulness in their appropriate sphere of influence, it must be conceded that the training they impart is badly adapted to the art of practical agriculture. In Pennsylvania that interest is so important as to demand at all times our anxious attention, and active support. "The Farmers' High School of Pennsylvania," lately projected and planned by a few public spirited individuals, and which has received, to some extent, the patronage of the State, and the contributions of a number of our patriotic citizens, is destined to afford a place where young men may be educated at an expense commensurate with their means, and to a condition qualifying them for the pursuit of the business of the farm. Here, whilst daily occupation will train the body to the ability to labor, and give to the student the enviable feeling that he contributes to his own support and education, it will instruct and enlarge his mind, that it may give force and effect to all his future efforts. The design of the institution is to afford a school where boys may be thoroughly educated in all the branches of natural science, and, at the same time, be inured to the performance of labor; so that at their graduation they may return to their parents abundantly prepared to join the domestic circle, to give a right direction to the business of agriculture, and act well their part in every department of life. An object so fraught with usefulness is entitled to the highest commendation.

The application of scientific principles to the practical purposes of life, is but realizing the full benefit of those laws of nature, to discover and profit by which, is undoubtedly one of the great ends of human reason. The more this important object is held in view and effected by our higher institutions of learning, the more valuable and useful will they become. The Polytechnic College of Pennsylvania at Philadelphia, is founded on this basis; and its attempt to popularize science, and connect high acquirement with practical ability, is presented to your favorable consideration.

Under a resolution of the last House of Representatives, a committee was appointed by the Speaker of the House to examine the state and condition of several Banks chartered at the session of 1857. The resolution directed the committee to report to the Governor the result of its examination within ninety days after the adjournment of the Legislature. On the 20th of July last, the report of the committee, together with the accompanying evidence, was filed in the Office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth, a copy of which will be laid before the House of Representatives.

In view of the facts reported by the committee, in reference to the organization and subsequent management of the Tioga County Bank, the Crawford County Bank, and the Bank of Shamokin, I would recommend a careful inquiry into the present condition of these institutions, and if it shall be ascertained that the public is likely to suffer injury from the further existence of either, a speedy and certain remedy may be found in a legislative repeal of the rights and privileges granted by the acts of incorporation. The power to alter, revoke, or annul, the charter of a bank whenever its continuance may, in the opinion of the Legislature, be injurious to the citizens of the Commonwealth, is expressly given by the Constitution to the General Assembly,—to be exercised, however, in such manner as that no injustice shall be done to the corporators.

Obedience to this constitutional injunction would require that in the event of a repeal of the charter of bank, care should be taken that the rights of the stockholders to the surplus assets of the bank, after payment of its debts, were protected; and that suitable provisions should be made for settling its affairs.

The injunction contained in the constitution, that the repeal or revocation of a bank charter shall be in such manner as to work no injustice to the corporators, is not a qualification of the power to revoke, or annul the charter; but it is simply a requirement that, in taking away the charter, the rights of the stockholders shall be protected, so far as is consistent with the act of repeal itself. I do not doubt that the Legislature may alter, revoke, or annul, any existing bank charter, whenever in its opinion the continuance of the charter may be injurious to the citizens of the Commonwealth. Any other construction of the Constitutional reservation would make the interests and safety of the public subservient to the gain of the private stockholder. Believing, therefore, that there is no want of power, I cannot refrain from expressing my decided opinion that whenever it is clear that a bank is insolvent, or in great danger of becoming so, or whenever its privileges are so used or abused as to seriously prejudice the interests of the public, it is the duty of the law-making power to protect the people, by destroying its corporate existence.

In this connection I deem it my duty to reiterate the views expressed in my inaugural address. I then stated, as my decided opinion, that there should be no further increase of banks or banking capital under the present system—expressed a decided hostility to the issue of notes of a small denomination—and recommended such a change in our laws relative to banks, their organization and management, as would at least secure beyond all question the prompt redemption of all bills or notes put in circulation by the several banking institutions of the Commonwealth.

Well satisfied of the imperfection of existing laws relative to banks and banking, I deem it a duty to inform the General Assembly that I cannot give the Executive approval to any bills chartering additional banks without a radical change in the entire system. It is but just to state, that in my opinion, a large majority of the banks of the Commonwealth are well and safely managed, and in a perfectly sound condition; but this is due to the honesty and intelligence of those having charge of them, rather than to the efficiency of the laws. Under the management of incapable or dishonest men, experience has shown, that there is really but little if any security to the public in the regulations and restrictions now to be found in our banking code. True wisdom dictates a reformation.

The ruinous losses which have fallen upon the people during the financial pressure of the past eighteen months, suggest the necessity of preventing their recurrence. Although many causes may have combined to produce these disasters, it is too plain to admit of doubt that our banking system has been one of the most prominent. The value of the precious metals—the prices of property—and the wages of labor—are always affected by the abundance or scarcity of the paper medium received as a substitute for gold and silver coin. The power of the States to authorize a paper currency, through the agency of banks, has been so long exercised, and acknowledged, throughout the Union, that it is no longer an open question. But it must be acknowledged that the power has been greatly abused. The delegation of this attribute of sovereignty to a number of irresponsible corporations, without proper checks to limit its exercise, and without providing any security whatever for the redemption of the issues thus authorized, has been attended with evils of the most alarming character. These corporations are practically made the exclusive judges of the amount of paper currency to be furnished to the people, and have the exclusive power to contract or expand their circulation at pleasure. Depositors and other ordinary creditors of banks, need no legislation for their protection. Every one who has direct dealings with these institutions, either as depositor or otherwise, enters into such engagements voluntarily, for his own advantage, and may be safely left to his own vigilance, and the ordinary remedies of the law, for his protection. But the millions of people engaged in industrious pursuits, the farmer—the mechanic—the merchant—and the laboring man—are under an imperious necessity to receive for their merchandize and their labor, the ordinary paper currency of the country. It is impossible for persons of this description to investigate the concerns of every institution whose notes are in circulation. But no investigation could save them from the losses arising from the defaults and frauds of bank officers and the insolvency of bank borrowers.

The note holders of banks have peculiar claims to the protection of the Government. They are involuntary creditors, who are forced to receive the notes authorized by the Government. They have no direct dealings with the banks. They do not trust the banks from any hope of gain. They have no profit in passing the notes which they would not have had in passing gold and silver coin. They constitute almost the entire community, and the humble and ignorant are always the greatest sufferers when a bank fails to redeem its notes. The whole people are therefore deeply interested in the security of the circulation allowed by law, although many of them may never have had a share of bank stock, or been within a hundred miles of its place of business. The Government that authorizes the issue of a paper currency, is under a high moral obligation to require ample and available security for its redemption.

The certificates of loan issued by the General Government, or by this Commonwealth, at a value to be fixed upon, with the power to require additional deposits of security, from time to time, as the loans depreciate in the market, would be as safe and available as any guarantee which could be provided.

A law requiring all issues of banks hereafter organized, to be secured by the pledge of these loans, would enhance the value of the present loans, and thus give the holders a premium not contemplated when they became purchasers, and for which they never have any valuable consideration. This enhanced value would be derived from a privilege granted by the State, and the State, ought, therefore, to have the benefit of it, as far as this may be secured by legislation. The recent amendment of the Constitution circumscribes the power of the Legislature in creating State debts, with an exception in favor of debts contracted "to redeem the present outstanding indebtedness of the State." A law authorizing new State loans for the purpose of redeeming the present over due debt, would be within the constitutional exception, and would be free from objection on constitutional grounds.

The new loans thus authorized, redeemable at the expiration of twenty years, with the banking privilege attached to them, would undoubtedly sell at a high premium. The proceeds of their sale should be applied to the payment of the present State debt, now overdue, amounting to more than seventeen millions of dollars. Under this system the State loans would no longer be held by foreigners, and the semi-annual shipments of specie, to pay interest, would therefore cease.

As the currency would be limited to the amount actually secured, the danger from expansions, which have heretofore stimulated the incautious to embark in ruinous enterprises, in overtrading, and in extravagance in their expenditures, would be greatly lessened, if not entirely overcome. As the securities would be in the hands of a high and responsible officer of the State, with authority to sell them for the purpose of redeeming the circulation, the power of the banks to arrest specie payments at their own pleasure would be at an end. The system proposed is as near an approach to a specie basis as the condition and habits of the people are at present prepared for. The duty of securing the community from losses continually arising from unsafe currency, cannot be longer delayed without a manifest disregard of the public interests. The subject is therefore commended to your early attention.

The report of the Commissioners appointed to contract for and superintend the erection of a monument to the memory of citizens of Pennsylvania, who were slain or lost their lives in the late war with Mexico, will inform the Legislature of the proceedings had on that subject. After receiving proposals for the erection of the monument, and the adoption of a plan, it was determined, in view of the limited and inadequate appropriation made for the accomplishment of the purpose, by the last Legislature, to postpone the commencement of the work until further legislation could be had. It is the opinion of the Commissioners that such a monument as would do credit to the State, and honor to the living and the dead, cannot be built for a less sum than thirty thousand dollars. If the Legislature should concur in that opinion, the appropriation should be increased accordingly.

The report of the State Librarian will inform you of the progress made in the catalogue authorized by the last Legislature, and the general condition of the Library, which has grown to be an institution that deserves your fostering care. I would commend to your attention the suggestions of the Librarian.

The report of the Attorney General, which will be laid before you, will exhibit the operations of the Law Department of the Government for the past year. The Act of the 21st of April, 1857, which requires the Attorney General to keep an office at Harrisburg, and which provides that all debts due to the Commonwealth shall be collected by that officer, has proved to be a highly beneficial enactment. Under its provisions large sums are saved which were formerly paid for commissions and counsel fees. And the improved state of our finances is in no inconsiderable degree owing to the prompt manner in which outstanding claims are collected and paid into the State Treasury.

The Adjutant General's report, which will be laid before you, will show in detail the present condition of the Military Department. I would respectfully call the attention of the Legislature to the recommendations of that officer.

The Military Law of 1858, has not been fully tested; but it is believed to be, in the main, an improvement on the laws in force at the time of its passage. One of its best features, and one that should be strictly enforced, is that the system is self supporting. In no contingency should that department be a charge upon the public Treasury in time of peace.

In referring the attention of the Legislature to the elaborate reports of the Auditor General and State Treasurer, relating to the finances of the State, which will be laid before you, I cannot refrain from giving expression to my views on the importance of a change in the mode of keeping and disbursing the public moneys.

The State Treasurer receives and disburses between four and five millions of dollars annually; and it not unfrequently happens that there is a balance on the Treasury exceeding one million of dollars. The bond of the Treasurer is but for eighty thousand dollars. He deposits the money of the State wherever he pleases, and it is paid exclusively on his own check. The monthly settlements with the Auditor General afford some security that the funds of the Commonwealth will not be misapplied; but it is entirely inadequate to the complete protection of the public interests.

Until the State shall adopt a different system for the collection, safe-keeping and disbursement of her revenues, the money on hand must be kept either in the Treasury vault or deposited with the banking institutions in the State. For many years the latter mode has been adopted. I respectfully recommend that provision be made by law that no money shall be deposited in any bank by the State Treasurer without requiring security to be first given to the Commonwealth for the repayment of the sums deposited—that all checks issued by the State Treasurer shall be countersigned by the Auditor General before they are used—and that daily accounts of the moneys received and paid shall be kept in the office of the Auditor General as well as in the Treasury Department.

The Commissioners appointed to revise the Criminal Code of this Commonwealth, are progressing with the duties of their appointment, and will report the revised code before the adjournment of the Legislature.

The various charitable and reformatory institutions, which have heretofore received pecuniary assistance from the State, such as the State Lunatic Hospital, at Harrisburg, the Western Pennsylvania Hospital, at Pittsburg, the Houses of Refuge at Philadelphia and Pittsburg, the Pennsylvania Training School for idiotic and feeble-minded children, the Asylums for the Blind, and Deaf and Dumb, at Philadelphia, the Northern Home for Friendless Children, at Philadelphia—I recommend to your fostering aid and care. The annual reports exhibiting a detail of the operations of these noble and excellent charities, during the past year, will be laid before you. I cannot recommend appropriations to charitable associations of a purely local character, however praiseworthy the objects and motives of their founders and supporters, or however useful they may be to their particular localities.

The present condition of the revenues of the General Government, demonstrates the urgent necessity of increased duties upon foreign importations. The people of Pennsylvania have ever taken a lively interest in the proper adjustment of a tariff; and they have with singular unanimity, at all times, favored such an assessment of duties, as would not only produce revenue, but furnish the largest incidental protection to the great mineral, manufacturing, and industrial interests of the country. Had their voice hitherto been more potent in the councils of the nation, it is no longer problematical that much of the pecuniary distress lately experienced by all classes and conditions of business men might have been to a great extent averted. The necessities of the government and the people, now alike demand a change—an increase of duties—and I take great pleasure in indorsing the views of the President of the United States as expressed in his last annual message, relative to the change proposed. His advocacy of specific duties on all "commodities which are generally sold by weight, or by measure, and which from their nature are of equal or of nearly equal value,—such as iron, of different classes, raw sugar, and foreign wines and spirits," has met with a hearty response from the great body of the people of this State. It is to be hoped that his views on this question will be favorably regarded by Congress, and that the action of the federal government may correspond with the suggestions of the President.

When I was called upon to assume the gubernatorial chair, nearly one year ago, in deference to public opinion, and my own feelings, after a rapid review of events in Kansas, I stated, that "to the people of Pennsylvania the admission of a new State into the Union—into that Confederacy of which she is a member—must be at all times a subject of high interest. And I believe I express their sentiments, as well as my own, in declaring that all the qualified electors of a Territory should have a full and fair opportunity to participate in selecting delegates to form a constitution preparatory to admission as a State, and, if desired by them, they should also be allowed an unqualified right to vote upon such constitution after it is framed."

Subsequent events have confirmed me in these sentiments. The deplorable disputes in the first session of the present Congress—the popular excitement resulting from those disputes, together with other proceedings, in their nature novel and alarming, would all have been averted, had the people been secured in "the unqualified right" to vote upon their domestic institutions. I regret to be compelled to say, that, under various pretences, this sacred franchise has been virtually withheld from them. When they refused to accept the Lecompton Constitution, made for them by delegates representing the minority, they were explicitly denied the privilege of making their own constitution, unless upon a condition not previously exacted.—If they accepted the Lecompton Constitution, they entered the sisterhood of States at once, with a population less than one-half of the existing ratio of Congressional representation; but, if they refused that Constitution, they could not be admitted into the Union, with the Constitution of their choice, until they were ready to show by a formal census that they had attained a population equal to that ratio. The results have become historical.

The last expressive vote of the people of Kansas against the act of Congress, commonly known as the English Bill, has for a time arrested Congressional intervention. Peace has resulted alone from the votes of the people, not from the suggestions of outside influences. But, during the angry feelings which this controversy has aroused, the theory has been started, and insisted upon, that it will henceforward be the duty of Congress to protect slavery in the territories, if the people of the territories shall fail to do so. The warrant for this extraordinary assumption is alleged to exist in the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States, in the case of Dred Scott. Entertaining, as I do, profound reverence for the decision of that august tribunal, and standing ready to obey them, whenever they are enunciated, I have yet to be convinced that any such construction can be fairly given to their action in the case referred to. Such a doctrine, no matter how sanctioned, or supported, will shake the very pillars of our constitutional fabric.—It would compel every territory to elevate property in slaves above every other description of property,—and to establish a slave code in its early municipal regulations: or else it would convert the Congress into a theatre of crimination and confusion, and fill the whole country with strife. And all this, without securing a single advantage to the North, or protecting a single right of the South.

Regarding myself as fully committed to the doctrine of popular sovereignty in its broadest sense, I can never subscribe to the theory of Congressional intervention, as understood and supported by the opponents of this doctrine. By popular sovereignty, I mean no violation of the rights of the States—no assault upon the institutions of the South—no appeal to sectional prejudices. On the contrary, I regard the doctrine as the embodiment of the popular will in States and Territories, as the conservator of the rights and the equality of States and people—and as the only means by which a vexed and dangerous agitation will be satisfactorily and perpetually "settled."

A theory equally heretical has been advanced in another portion of the Union. It has been held that this government, divided into free and slave States, as it was framed by our revolutionary fathers, cannot endure—that all must become free, or all become slave. When such a doctrine shall be enforced, the constitution will have been subverted—State sovereignty prostrated—State rights disregarded, and the liberty of the people destroyed. It should meet an indignant rebuke from every lover of his country, and the blood-bought right of the people and the States to self-government.

Under the various amendments to the Constitution of Pennsylvania, the influence of the Executive has been greatly reduced by the transfer of patronage from the Governor to the people. This is in accordance with the principles of self-government, but it must be acknowledged that in relieving the Executive from many serious responsibilities, it has diminished his ability to maintain the rights of the State against Federal and other encroachments, and has thrown a greater share of responsibility upon the people. The extensive patronage of the Federal Government, and the large salaries paid to its officers, in comparison with those of the State, present constant inducements to our citizens to overlook the State in the pursuit of more lucrative employments under the United States. It is, therefore, the more necessary that the people should guard the sovereignty of the State with increasing watchfulness. The constitution of the United States contains the great fundamental principle which should govern its construction on every question respecting the extent of the Federal power. "The power not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the States, are reserved to the States respectively, or to the people." It is on this broad platform that every claim of Federal power not granted by the Constitution, should be sternly resisted. The tendency to centralization is so great, and the overshadowing influences of power and patronage so seductive, that liberty cannot long be preserved without the exercise of sleepless vigilance in enforcing a strict construction of the Federal compact. The doctrine of State rights is the doctrine of true liberty. Popular sovereignty is the life-blood of our free institutions, and the palladium of our safety. Every patriotic inducement to sustain those great principles, should be fearlessly held out to our citizens, and every unauthorized assumption of power should be resisted with unceasing energy, and by all constitutional means.

Having now discharged the duty imposed on the Executive, by the constitution, I cannot conclude without congratulating you upon the peculiarly favorable auspices under which you enter upon the duties of the Session of 1859. Few important subjects of legislation press upon your attention. Prudence, firmness, fidelity—a watchful regard for the interests of the Commonwealth—a jealous guardianship of her finances—on the part of the government—are all that are required, under Providence, to ensure the continuance and increase of our onward prosperity. Pennsylvania may then, at no remote period, rejoice in the extinguishment of her public debt—the repeal of her onerous and burdensome taxes—a fame and a credit untarnished—a free and popular educational system—and an industrious and loyal people prosperous and happy.

To HON. JOHN CRESSWELL, Jr.,

No contingencies have arisen which, in our opinion, require any increase or modification of the fund created by the said act, or any increase or reduction of taxes, to be made by the Legislature at this time.

Respectfully,

CANAL COMMISSIONERS' REPORT.

A communication was received from the Canal Commissioners and laid before the Senate by the SPEAKER; and, on motion of Mr. GAZZAM, was ordered to be printed in the Record. It is as follows:

To His Excellency, Wm. F. PACKER,
Governor of Pennsylvania:

The Canal Commissioners respectfully submit the following report for the fiscal year ending the 30th of November, 1858:

In pursuance of the act of the 21st of April, 1858, entitled "An Act for the sale of the State canals," the canals then belonging to the Commonwealth were transferred by the Executive to the Sunbury and Erie railroad company, on the 20th of May last.

By a joint resolution of the Legislature, approved the 22d of April, 1858, entitled "Resolution relating to the public works," it was enacted, "that from and after the passage of a law authorizing the sale of the public works to the Sunbury and Erie railroad, or to any other corporation, or to an individual, or an association of individuals, no moneys shall be drawn from the Treasury to be applied to the repairs of the State canals, or any of them, nor shall any moneys be drawn from the Treasury to be applied to the widening and deepening of any of said canals."

A strict construction of this joint resolution would have compelled an immediate dismissal of the entire repair force on these lines of canal, left the navigation liable to interruption from breaches or other causes, deranged the business of every person using the improvements, and produced a loss of revenue to the Treasury. After a mature consideration of the subject, the Board came to the conclusion that such was not the meaning or intention of the Legislature, and accordingly, on the 22d of April, adopted the following resolution, viz:

"Resolved, That whilst a strict construction of the foregoing resolution of the Legislature would forbid the Board from any further expenditures for the repairs of the lines of canal in operation, and compel them to withdraw all repair force therefrom, and thus endanger the works, and for a time render them useless, greatly to the disadvantage of transporters, and at a loss to the revenue of the State, they deem it their duty, should the Attorney General, State Treasurer and Auditor General concur, to continue a small force on each line, (except the Upper North Branch,) simply sufficient for watching the same and guarding against breaches."

In a consultation held with the officers named in this resolution, it was agreed that the views therein expressed were dictated by sound policy and State necessity, and that the course suggested was such as they believed to have been the intention of the Legislature. Orders were, therefore, immediately issued to each Supervisor, (with the exception of those on the Upper North Branch,) to reduce the force on his line, so that no more men should be employed than might be actually necessary to watch the banks from breaking, and if a break occurred which required more than forty-eight hours to mend it, to report the fact to the Board, before commencing the repair, and await their action. He was also directed not to make any contract, or incur a debt of any description, without first obtaining the sanction of the Board, and if he did so, without such sanction, the responsibility would rest upon him and his bail.

These orders were promptly carried into effect, and the navigation maintained, without interruption, at a small expense, until the date of transfer. In thus deviating from the strict letter of the joint resolution, and acting upon what they conceived to be the intention of the Legislature, the Board have the satisfaction to know that the works were kept open for transportation, that persons interested in doing business upon the canals were saved from the losses inseparably connected with even a temporary suspension of navigation, and that the State Treasury was benefitted by the excess of receipts over expenditures, for the period between the passage of the sale bill and the day on which the Sunbury and Erie railroad company took possession.

As the work on the Upper North Branch canal was not so far completed as to permit the immediate introduction of the water, the entire force on that line was instantly disbanded.

The following are the receipts and expenditures upon the navigable lines, from the 1st of December, 1857, to the 20th of May, 1858, the day of transfer, viz:

In making a comparison from the foregoing statement between the receipts and expenditures, the fact should not be lost sight of, that the receipts are for only about two months, whilst the expenditures cover a period of nearly six months. It must also be borne in mind, that the largest portion of the repairs for the year is executed in the winter and spring, when the canals are unproductive of tolls—that during that period the materials for whatever repairs may be required during the summer, are purchased, and that the expenditures for ordinary purposes have comparatively ceased at that very point in the season when the revenue begins to accrue.

A large amount of work was done on the lines during the last winter and spring, and when the canals passed into the hands of the company, they were reported to have been in better order than for several years past. The State Engineer, in his report on operations of the repair department, says: "As the early part of last winter proved unusually favorable, a much larger amount of work than is usual, in the shape of repairs, was accomplished. In addition to the ordinary repairs required at the locks, aqueducts, bridges, waste-wiers, &c., the out-let lock at Loyalsock creek, on the West Branch division, was entirely re-built; several hundred feet of river wall below the Nanticoke dam, on the North Branch division, was raised to guard against overflow during ordinary floods, which have for many years past, not only caused annual damage to the canal bank, but serious detention to the navigation. Numerous sand and gravel bars were removed from the canal bottom, on each of the several divisions. On the Susquehanna division, especially, the material which had been washed in from the slopes, was placed on the top of the towing-path, to such an extent as to form a substantial improvement in the capacity of the canal. The value of the repairs made during the winter, was fully demonstrated on the opening of navigation in the spring, when the canals were found to be in a better condition than they had been for several years past, and notwithstanding the fact, that as soon as the bill for the sale of the canals had become a law, the number of laborers on the several divisions were reduced to a mere watching force, the navigation on all the lines continued uninterrupted by a single accident, up to the day of their transfer."

Strenuous efforts were being made at the time of the passage of the sale bill, to place the Upper North Branch canal in navigable order at the earliest moment. The force upon it was discharged in accordance with the joint resolution. For a detailed statement of the work on that line, the Legislature is referred to the accompanying report of the State Engineer.

A large number of claims have been adjusted during the year, under the provisions of the fortieth section of the act of the 18th May, 1857, entitled "An Act to provide for the ordinary expenses of Government, the repairs of the public canals and railroads, and other general and special appropriations;" and of the seventeenth section of the act of the 24th of April, 1858, entitled "An Act to provide for the payment of certain claims against the Commonwealth," some of which were allowed and others rejected. A number of similar claims remain on file, the investigation into the correctness of which has not yet been completed. The Board have afforded every facility in their power to the claimants under these acts. To save the expense to these claimants, which would have been incurred in bringing their witnesses to Harrisburg, meetings of the Board were held at several places along the lines, of which due public notice was given. Under these circumstances, it is evident that no blame can lie at the doors of the officers of the Commonwealth, if claimants have not been heard. The difficulty experienced in the settlement of claims of this character, with a due regard to the interests of the Commonwealth, arises from the fact that many of them are of long standing; that the officers who alone could have the knowledge of the correctness of a claim were either dead or had left the vicinity of the public works; that the Board have no power to compel the attendance of witnesses, and that, consequently, in many instances, the testimony must be of an ex parte character. It is respectfully suggested whether, in the future investigation of claims against the public works, it would not be proper to confer the power to subpoena witnesses on behalf of the Commonwealth.

Two or three applications have been made to the Board for the settlement of claims which had been referred to the Canal Commissioners under acts passed by the Legislature before the approval of the act of the 21st of April, 1858, for the sale of the State canals. The seventh section of the last named act is in the following words, viz:

"That any and all claims for damages or other demands against the Commonwealth, by individuals or companies, in relation to the location, construction, repair, management or use of any of the divisions of canal sold under the provisions of this act, shall, if established, be paid by the purchaser of the proper line or division, the amount to be ascertained and payment thereof made as the Legislature may direct; but in any case the purchaser shall have notice, and an opportunity to be heard against the allowance of such demand: Provided however, That this section shall not relate to any obligation or claim incurred in the construction, management or repair of the said canals for the current fiscal year, and prior to the time of transfer."

The claims referred to fall under the description indicated in the foregoing section. They had been incurred prior to the present fiscal year, and the acts by which they had been referred for the examination of the Canal Commissioners, were passed prior to the date of the sale bill. The Board therefore, declined to act upon these claims, under the construction which they gave the section just quoted, that it repealed all former acts which came in conflict with its provisions. Before coming to a final decision, they submitted the question to the Attorney General. In his answer to the communication of the Board, he says: "I am of the opinion that the seventh section of the act of the 21st of April, A. D., 1858, entitled, 'An Act for the sale of the State canals,' is inconsistent with, and repugnant to, former acts for assessing damages on the canals sold by the Governor to the Sunbury and Erie railroad company, and consequently all such acts are of no binding force or validity. It follows from this, that the Canal Commissioners have no authority to assess damages embraced within the seventh section of the act aforesaid, and that no assessment can be made until legislative action is had providing for assessments, with notice to the purchasers of the proper division of the aforesaid canals."

Every exertion has been made to liquidate all demands against the public works incurred during the last fiscal year, and it is believed with success, only one or two claims having been presented since the officers closed their final accounts with the Commonwealth. These claimants, with several others who have presented claims, but over which the Board have no control under existing acts of Assembly, must look to the Legislature for some provision for the settlement of their demands.

The State Engineer, after the transfer of the canals, and the closing up of his business thereon, was entrusted with the payment of claims on the Columbia railroad, which, although duly authenticated, had not been presented to the Superintendent for payment before he had settled his account and retired from office. He was likewise sent to the Upper North Branch, with directions to pay the check rolls and bills for materials which had been incurred by Wm. R. Maffet, between the 1st day of December, 1857, and the 10th of February, 1858, the day of Mr. Maffet's resignation.—Having performed these duties, Mr. Gay, on the 1st day of October last, resigned as State Engineer, and the office has, as a matter of course, remained vacant. It is due to Mr. Gay to state that, during his recent connection with the public works, he discharged his important duties to the entire satisfaction of the Board. He had, by his undivided attention to the working operations of the canals, introduced a system of economy and efficiency into the department of repairs, which had but just began to develop itself in the increased capacity of the several lines, and the decreased expenditures, when the works passed into other hands.

Some time after the adjournment of the last Legislature, doubts began to be expressed of the constitutionality of the act of the 21st of April, 1858, entitled "An Act for the sale of the State Canals." Citizens from various parts of the State were urgent in their representations to the members of the Board that it was the duty of the Canal Commissioners, from their official relations to the people, to test these doubts before the highest judicial tribunal of the Commonwealth. These representations were strengthened by the submission, in the beginning of August, of the opinion of a jurist distinguished in the Legislative annals of Pennsylvania—the Hon. Charles R. Buckalow.—That opinion is in the following words, viz ;

"That the act of 21st of April, 1858, for the sale of the State Canals, violates the Constitution of Pennsylvania, manifestly appears from the face of the act itself, independently of the facts outside of the letter of the statute, which are capable of being proved.

"The eleventh article of the Constitution, (being the first of the amendments adopted in 1857,) provides for the establishment of a sinking fund, which 'shall consist of the net annual income of the public works, from time to time owned by the State, or the proceeds of the sale of the same, or any part thereof,' &c.; further on, 'no part of the said sinking fund shall be used or applied otherwise than in extinguishment of the public debt, until the amount of such debt is reduced below the sum of five millions of dollars.'

"I regard this as an injunction that income, or, in case of the sale, the value of the works, be irrevocably and fully appropriated to the public creditors; and assert that the Legislature cannot appropriate part of income or value to other uses, nor so sell that full value or price is not obtained. For a mistaken, erroneous judgment as to the value, there may be no judicial remedy, but where it manifestly appears that there was no intention to obtain full consideration, or that part of the consideration is devoted to other uses than the sinking fund, the act must be held void. And it is clear in this case upon the face of the act itself, that the so-called sale was not for full consideration, and that part of the consideration stipulated, was not to be paid to the sinking fund, and administered and applied to the public creditors by it. The term 'proceeds of sale' obviously means value, price, the equivalent for the works in money or securities that will produce it. Otherwise the section (4) is a farce. For if the sales can be made for other rates than those of value, or portions of the value be shuffled away, the Legislature may squander the works upon any pretence of sale, and the object of the section be wholly or mainly frustrated.

"I regard the following provisions of the bill, as violations of the clause of the eleventh article above cited:

"1. That upon a re-sale one-fourth of excess over $3,500,000 is to be enjoyed by the Sunbury and Erie railroad company. But the whole 'proceeds' must be paid into the sinking fund.

"2. That as part of the consideration entering into the terms of sale, a subscription of $500,000 is to be made to the stock of the Allegheny Valley railroad company. This is a diversion of a part of the value of the works to the use of a corporation.

"3. That all demands against the State upon the lines of canal sold, be paid to the claimants by the purchaser. But this outlay, whether one or three hundred thousand dollars, as far as it enters into the price, is not an application of the 'proceeds' to the sinking fund, and to be administered through it, as is expressly required.

"4. To the same purpose is the clause that the North Branch shall only be re-sold to residents or property owners along the line. Such a clog upon the purchasers for the advantage of individuals, lessens the price paid the State, just as a condition that a farm sold should only be re-sold to adjoining land owners would effect and lessen its price."

Upon the receipt of this opinion, the Board directed their President to consult with the Hon. Jeremiah S. Black and Wm. L. Hirst, Esq., and if these gentlemen should concur in the views of Mr. Buckalow, to request them to commence the proper proceedings in the Supreme Court, without delay.

The Board felt a great reluctance in the adoption of this course. It was far from their desire to come into even apparent conflict with the action of the Legislature and Executive Department of the Government, or to do anything beyond the line of their official duty prejudicial to the Sunbury and Erie railroad. But after mature deliberation, they believed it to be a duty which they owed to the people by whom they had been elected, and by whom they had been entrusted with the charge of important public interests to discard all seeming indelicacy, and to test the legality of an act which had been pronounced by eminent counsel to be unconstitutional, and which was deemed to have been passed without a full knowledge and consideration of the sacrifice of the public revenues which it involved. Besides, no public harm could be sustained if the decree of the court should be in favor of the points assumed in the application. A subsequent Legislature would have the whole matter under their control, and could correct former errors, if any had occurred, and place a proper estimate upon the value of the works, if it should be determined to dispose of them.

In making up their opinion of the value of the works embraced in the sale bill the Board were not governed by estimates, but by the recorded facts exhibited by the books of the Accounting Departments. On the 30th of March last, the Auditor General transmitted to the Legislature statements showing the receipts and expenditures for all purposes, on the finished lines embraced in the bill, for the seven years ending the 30th of November, 1857. These statements, which embrace disbursements for the sum of $203,303 56, for the enlargement of the Delaware division, and improvements on two other lines, and which had been carried to the construction account, exhibited the following facts:

	Total expenditures, ordinary and extraordinary.	Total revenue.
Delaware division.....	$467,859 91	$2,108,756 05
Susq. div.....	247,689 77	346,787 08

Add from construc- tion account mon- eys disbursed for enlarging Dela- ware div., and im- provements on two other lines...	203,303 56
Total expenditures for all purposes.....		1,505,486 93

Net profits for the seven years.....2,863,774 45
Equivalent to an interest of five per cent. per annum on a capital of \$8,182,212; or, 11 $\frac{2}{3}$  per cent. per annum on \$3,500,000, the amount for which the works were sold to the Sunbury and Erie railroad company.

This was one view of the financial part of the question. But there were others which were not passed over. By the report of the Auditor General before referred to, it appears that the total cost of construction of the lines in operation, up to November 30, 1857, was as follows.

Delaware division of canal.....	$1,643,762 83
Susquehanna division of canal...	897,160 52
North Branch, Wyoming line.....	1,623,117 04
West Branch, Lycoming line.....	1,832,183 28

Expenditures as above given.....	1,505,486 93
Deduct amount disbursed for en- largement of Delaware di- vision, &c., which amount is included in the foregoing statement of cost of construc- tion.....	203,303 56
Net profits for the seven years.....	3,067,078 01

Equal to an annual interest of near seven and a half per cent. on the cost of construction, or of twelve and a half per cent. annually on the $3,500,000 for which the works were sold.

Again: The Auditor General states in his report the cost of constructing of all these canals to be as follows:

Lines in operation as above.....	$5,897,223 67
Unfinished lines:—
North Branch extension, (Tunkhannock and Tioga lines,).....	$4,643,491 12
West Branch extension, (Tangascootac and Sinnemahoning lines,)	353,574 78

In this statement of the cost of construction, is included the cost of the unfinished Upper North Branch canal, and of the portions of the West Branch extension abandoned years ago. The Upper North Branch would have been completed, and in navigable order, during the year, and there can be no doubt that, in a very short time, it would have yielded a profitable dividend on the investment. But waiving the impropriety of taking the cost of an unfinished work into the calculation of the actual profits derived from the revenues on these finished works, it appears from the foregoing statements, that the receipts over expenditures on the finished lines for seven years, amounted to $3,067,078.01, being an interest of over four per cent. per annum on $10,894,289, the cost of construction of both the finished and unfinished lines, and, as before observed, of twelve and a half per cent. per annum on the $3,500,000 for which they were sold, and on which the Sunbury and Erie railroad company pay but five per cent. If the portion of the tolls due to the forty-five miles of the Eastern division, extending from Duncan's Island to Columbia, be deducted from this statement, together with the amount charged to the cost of construction for the long abandoned portions of the West Branch division, the aggregate results arrived at will not be materially affected.

Entertaining these views of the financial operations of the law, and having been advised by eminent counsel of its unconstitutionality, the Board unanimously directed the question to be tested. Before, however, the case was fully prepared, the Sunbury and Erie railroad instituted proceedings in the Supreme Court against Lewis Cooper, to compel the specific performance of a contract which he had entered into with the company, for the purchase of certain bonds of the Delaware division canal company, the vendee of the Sunbury and Erie railroad company with which contract Mr. Cooper refused to comply, on the ground of the presumed unconstitutionality of the law authorizing the sale. As the points involved in this suit were similar in character to those which the Canal Commissioners intended to bring to the attention of the court, the counsel of the Board were directed, if they thought it expedient, to appear on behalf of the Board, provided that in so doing, the case and the interests of the Commonwealth were not thereby prejudiced. The case came up at Sunbury, in October last, and after argument, the Judges who heard the case, directed a decree to be entered at Nisi Prius against Mr. Cooper, with the right of an appeal to the court in banc. No appeal has yet been taken, nor has any new bill been filed by the Commonwealth. Whether it is proper or not, at the present time to do either, is a question not yet decided. The counsel employed on the part of the Commonwealth, have expressed their decided conviction, in which the Board concur, that nothing has yet been done which can bar the rights of the State.

It is enjoined by law upon the Board to report their proceedings to the Legislature. In doing so, in this case, they have given the reasons which governed their action in the premises, as briefly and as fairly as it is possible for them to do.

A few words on another subject which the Board deem it their duty to notice, will close this report.

If the sale of the canals to the Sunbury and Erie railroad company is considered a fixed fact, then the Commonwealth has parted with all her public works, constructed at an aggregate cost of about thirty-five millions of dollars.

To represent these improvements, erected at such a large cost, the State has the bonds of the Pennsylvania railroad company, the bonds of the Sunbury and Erie railroad company, and the tonnage tax, as sources of revenue towards meeting the interest and liquidating the debt, to which purposes the works and their proceeds had been pledged.

The Board include the tonnage tax, because it was the consideration for the depreciation in the value of the State improvements caused by the construction of competing company works, and it stands now as it was originally understood and intended to be, a compensation to the State for that depreciation. To repeal it, or release it without a fair consideration, would be to fasten upon the people an amount of the public debt which, in justice, should be met by this tax.

It is but due to the Commonwealth and her citizens, that all these sources of revenue be held sacred for the objects to which the works which they represent, and the revenues therefrom, were pledged. If one be relinquished, or released without full consideration to the State, it is to be feared that such act would prove the precursor of the relinquishment of the others.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

A. PLUMER,
GEORGE SCOTT,
N. STRICKLAND.

ORIGINAL RESOLUTIONS.

Mr. TURNEY offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That the Board of Canal Commissioners inform the Senate on or before Monday next, of the progress made in the investigation and settlement of claims submitted to them by the last Legislature; also, the earliest day by which such of those claims as are still under examination, can be finally determined; and also, their views as to the proper disposition to be made of the records and papers of their department on the abolition of the Canal Board; adopted.

Mr. FRANCIS offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That the SPEAKER invite the clergymen of the respective churches of Harrisburg to open the sessions of the Senate with prayer, in such order as they may agree upon among themselves.

Mr. WRIGHT wished to express a word of opposition to the passage of the resolution, not from any disrespect to the gentleman who offered it, or to the cause which it was designed to subserve. He was opposed to the practice of opening public bodies with prayer. Instead of inviting the clergymen to pray for the Senate, members should do the praying themselves. He was one of those who did not think men are at all times called upon to pray; and he was not aware that any good had ever resulted to the House of Representatives, whilst he was a member of that body, from the daily prayers which were attendant upon its opening sessions. The appointment of clergymen to officiate in this manner, or their exercises, had not, he believed, ever exercised any influence upon the members of the House or its legislation. He would further say, that, so far as his knowledge extended—in the House, particularly—the resolutions inviting the clergymen to officiate at the opening meetings, were generally introduced by the most graceless, wicked persons in it, in the hopes of making for themselves some reputation for morality at home, or for buncombe in some way. He therefore opposed the resolution as an innovation upon the ancient usages of this body.

Mr. SCHELL moved to amend the resolution, by striking out "clergy of Harrisburg," and inserting "members of the Senate."

Mr. SCOFIELD suggested to Mr. FRANCIS that the resolution had better lay over until Monday, when it could be more appropriately considered and acted upon; and upon his motion, the resolution was postponed.

Mr. WELSH offered the following resolution; which was agreed to:

Resolved, That three thousand copies of the annual report of the State Treasurer, in English, and one thousand in German, be printed for the use of the Senate.

MESSAGES FROM THE GOVERNOR.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Messages from the Governor—twelve in number—relative to the following subjects; and upon the question, "Shall the bill pass?" the yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and resulted as follows:

Upon the message vetoing the "act to establish a Normal department in Green Academy, and to unite the public schools of the borough of Carmichaels with said institution, the yeas were:

YEAS—None.

NAYS—Messrs. Baldwin, Blood, Brewer, Coffey, Craig, Fetter, Finney, Francis, Gazzam, Gregg, Keller, Marselis, Miller, Myer, Nunnemacher, Palmer, Parker, Penney, Randall, Rutherford, Schell, Scofield, Shaeffer, Schindel, Steele, Thompson, Turney, Welsh, Wright, Yardley and Cresswell, Speaker—31.

So the question was determined in the negative.

"An Act to change the location of a portion of Fifth street, in South Pittsburg."

YEAS—Messrs. Gazzam and Penney—2.

NAYS—Messrs. Baldwin, Blood, Brewer, Coffey, Craig, Fetter, Francis, Harris, Keller, Marselis, Miller, Nunnemacher, Palmer, Randall, Rutherford, Schell, Shaeffer, Schindel, Steele, Thompson, Turney, Welsh, Wright, Yardley and Cresswell, Speaker—26.

So the question was determined in the negative.

"A supplement to an act to amend certain defects of the law, for the more safe and just transmission and secure enjoyment of real and personal estate, approved 27th April, 1855."

YEAS—Mr. Gazzam—1.

NAYS—Messrs. Baldwin, Blood, Coffey, Craig, Fetter, Finney, Francis, Gregg, Harris, Keller, Marselis, Miller, Nunnemacher, Palmer, Parker, Penney, Randall, Rutherford, Schell, Schindel, Steele, Thompson, Turney, Welsh, Wright, Yardley, Cresswell, Speaker—27.

So the question was determined in the negative.

"An act supplemental to the act relating to special courts."

YEAS—Messrs. Finney and Gregg—2.

NAYS—Messrs. Baldwin, Brewer, Craig, Fetter, Gazzam, Keller, Marselis, Miller, Nunnemacher, Palmer, Parker, Penney, Rutherford, Schell, Scofield, Shaeffer, Steele, Turney, Welsh, Wright, Yardley and Cresswell, Speaker—22.

So the question was determined in the negative.

Mr. MYER asked the indulgence of the Senate, in order to take up an act fixing the places of holding elections in Orwell township, Bradford county. Leave granted.

He then moved that the rules be suspended in order to go into committee of the whole.

In committee of the whole, (Mr. BREWER in the chair,) the bill was passed. The same was reported to the Senate, as committed, when the bill passed its several readings, and was sent to the House for concurrence.

Upon the consideration of the other vetoes, (being upon bills which originated in the House, and which appear in the House report,) when the message relative to "An Act further to provide for the incorporation and regulation of Insurance Companies of this Commonwealth," was read,

Mr. RANDALL remarked that he regretted that he had not an opportunity of voting upon the passage of this bill, notwithstanding the veto of the Governor. He regarded this message of the Executive as one of the most mistaken notions that had ever emanated from the Executive Chamber, of which he felt certain he could convince the Senate or the House, were an opportunity afforded. The simple object and effect of the bill was to wipe out the hordes of bogus insurance companies which curse the country, and which are allowed to prey, unmolested, upon the community, with their impositions and dishonest transactions.

HOURS OF MEETING AND ADJOURNMENT.

Mr. RANDALL, on leave, presented the following:

Resolved, That until otherwise ordered, the standing hour of the meeting of the Senate, on Mondays, be 3 o'clock, p. m., and that the hour of adjournment on said days be 5 o'clock.

Mr. MYER moved to amend, by inserting, "and the hour of meeting on all other days, be 11 o'clock."

Mr. MYER advocated his amendment. The hour of ten o'clock was too early for the meeting. Senators required two hours at least, each morning, to prepare for the duties of legislation, and it was almost impossible for them to make the necessary preparation previous to the early hour at which the Senate had been convening.

Mr. GAZZAM wished to hear from the gentleman from Philadelphia, some reason for fixing the hour of meeting on Monday's, different from that of other days of the week.

Mr. RANDALL replied, that it was to afford the Senators from Allegheny time to leave Pittsburg on Monday morning, and reach here before the meeting of the Senate, and in time for business.

Mr. GAZZAM remarked, that he had never been able to avail himself of any of the advantages proposed to be extended to him by the resolution, and that if any advantage was to result from it, the Senator from Philadelphia would enjoy the benefit.

Mr. WRIGHT said, that so far as he was concerned, he never expected to be benefited by this late hour of meeting, but he was willing to vote for it, for the accommodation of others.

The amendment of Mr. MYER was agreed to; after which the resolution, as amended, passed the Senate.

TEMPORARY ADJOURNMENT.

Mr. GAZZAM submitted the following:

Resolved, That when the Senate adjourn, it adjourn to meet on Monday next, at 3 o'clock, P. M.

The yeas and nays were called, and resulted as follow:

YEAS.—Messrs. Baldwin, Blood, Coffey, Francis, Gazzam, Gregg, Keller, Marselis, Myer, Palmer, Parker, Penney, Rutherford, Shaeffer, Schindel, Turney and Cresswell, Speaker—17.

NAYS.—Messrs. Brewer, Craig, Fetter, Harris, Miller, Nunnemacher, Randall, Schell, Scofield, Steele, Welsh, Wright and Yardley—13.

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

ADJUTANT GENERAL'S REPORT.

Mr. SHAEFFER offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That one thousand copies of the Adjutant General's Report be printed for the use of the Senate.

A Senator inquired whether that was the usual number.

Mr. SHAEFFER replied that he believed it was; but it made no difference what the usual number had been. The Governor had referred, in his message, to the workings of the new military law, and it was necessary that the people of the State should have an opportunity to judge of its merits, from the practical benefits which were portrayed, as the result of its workings, in the report of the Adjutant General. He referred to the revival which the military spirit of the State had experienced under it, and which was every day increasing and spreading in almost every town and county; and the report, he felt convinced, was calculated to throw much information, of importance and value, upon the workings of our military system. For this reason he was desirous of having it printed and circulated throughout the State; the resolution was agreed to.

Mr. WRIGHT offered the following:

Resolved, That three thousand copies, in English, and five hundred in German, of the Auditor General's report be printed for the use of the Senate.

Mr. WRIGHT wished to call the attention of the Senate to the item of five hundred in German. He did not intend that the type should be set up for this number. He understood the type had been already set up for a former order, and if it had to be re-set, he was opposed to incurring that expense for the small number contemplated by the resolution.

Mr. GREGG hoped that the gentleman would not change his resolution. He represented a large number of Germans, who cannot read English, who were as desirous of receiving information upon all matters of public interest as any others.

Mr. MYER thought the setting up of the type for so small a number as five hundred, would be making the State incur too heavy an expense.

Mr. SCHINDEL hoped the idea of striking out the five hundred German copies would not be entertained by the Senate. He had a large German constituency, who could not read English, whom he was anxious to serve with all the information of a public character in his power.

Mr. GREGG thought the object of printing these documents was to scatter them broadcast, for the information of the public. It was unfortunate that a portion of his constituents, as well as those of other Senators, could not read or speak English; yet it was so. Yet they were desirous of deriving all the information they could, and in their mother tongue could obtain a much better idea than in the English.

Mr. MYER did not desire to keep away from the Germans of our State any information. He was willing to afford them any facilities within his power of acquiring a full and accurate knowledge of public transactions, but he certainly thought the expense which would be incurred for five hundred copies much greater than was justified.

Mr. SCHINDEL moved to amend the resolution, by inserting one thousand instead of five hundred; which was agreed to.

The resolution, as amended, passed.

Mr. WRIGHT moved that the Senate adjourn. Agreed to; and the SPEAKER adjourned the Senate until Monday at 3 o'clock, P. M.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

January 6, 1859.

The House was called to order by Mr. S. P. CHASE, speaker pro tem, at 10 o'clock, A. M.

The Journal of yesterday was read and approved.

The Secretary of the Commonwealth being introduced, presented messages from the Governor.

The SPEAKER appointed Messrs. HAMERSLY, THORN and GRITMAN, a committee, in accordance with a resolution passed yesterday, to examine "A Manual for the Legislature of Pennsylvania," compiled by J. Zeigler.

The SPEAKER laid before the House a communication from the Canal Board; which was read.

ORIGINAL RESOLUTIONS.

On motion of Mr. HAMERSLY, the regular orders of the day were suspended, and in order to complete the organization, Mr. HAMERSLY submitted the following resolutions; which were twice read, considered and adopted:

Resolved, That John Clements be, and he is hereby declared elected Sergeant-at-Arms of this House during the present session.

Resolved, That John C. Morgan be, and he is hereby declared elected Door-keeper of this House during the present session.

Resolved, That S. C. Stewart be, and is hereby elected Post-Master of this House during the present session.

Resolved, That A. D. Davis be, and is hereby elected Messenger of this House, during the present session.

The SPEAKER announced that the Chief Clerk had appointed the following named gentlemen as assistant clerks:

Messrs. PEARSON FORSTER, C. W. GILFILLAN, E. H. ROUGH and JNO. PICKING.

The Sergeant-at-Arms appointed Messrs. J. M. HARLEY, J. W. FLETCHER, F. GERR and S. R. EARLES as his assistants.

The Door-keeper announced through the Speaker that he had appointed Messrs. J. P. REESE, S. M'DONALD, WM. GARDY and A. W. KIMMEL as his assistants.

The Messenger announced through the Chair that he had appointed Messrs. JAMES WILLIAMS, DAVID HEMPERLY, JNO. RHEIMER and WM. DEAL assistant messengers.

The above officers were then introduced and duly qualified.

PETITIONS PRESENTED.

By Mr. WILCOX, one from citizens of Clearfield, Cambria and Indiana counties, praying for the erection of a new county, to be called Pine.

By Mr. GOEPP, two from citizens of Northampton county, for the passage of an act to change the location of the seat of justice in said county.

By Mr. HAMERSLY, one from the Mutual fire insurance company of Germantown and vicinity, praying for an extension of their charter.

ORIGINAL RESOLUTIONS.

Mr. ROSE offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That the Sergeant-at-Arms be directed to distribute the Legislative Record as follows, to wit: Eighteen copies to each Member, Clerk, Doorkeeper, Sergeant-at-Arms and Messenger, and that one copy be kept for each Member, and be bound at the end of the session.

The resolution passed to the second reading; whereupon,

Mr. THORN desired to know whether any contract was in existence, by which the present Record was printed. On Wednesday he had received some half dozen copies of the Record, containing about half the proceedings of the previous day. His constituents could of course ascertain by telegraph what was done in the House, but he desired to have an official record, and to have it issued promptly and carefully. He did not know that the resolution rendered the continuance of the present contract (if such existed) obligatory, but as the Record had been issued in a similar manner for several years, he desired to express his dissatisfaction. He desired again to know whether the old contract continued.

Mr. GRITMAN said that he thought it was well understood that the old contract was in existence. He had heard recently many allegations unfavorable to the present Record. It was very easy to find fault, and it was very true, as the gentleman had said, that not all of the proceedings of the House had appeared in the Record of Wednesday, but let the members wait and look over the document, and it would be ascertained that the report of the proceedings was full and entire. The Record of last year was better than its predecessors for two years. As for saying anything about the telegraphic dispatches to the Philadelphia papers, or taking them as an index, it was useless. The resolution, according to the views of the gentleman, should pass at once.

Mr. ROSE, the originator of the resolution, stated that it was not intended to affect the character of the Record or the contract. This contract was evidently in force until abrogated. It was merely the desire of the gentleman to have a Record of some kind, and that one would be issued there could be no doubt.

Mr. NILL understood that by the resolution which was passed last session, the publication of the Record, by its present contractor, was to be continued until otherwise ordered. In explanation of his views, the speaker read the following, being section 40 of "An Act to provide for the ordinary expenses of government, &c.," of the session of 1858:

"Sec. 40. To Richard J. Haldeman, publisher of the Legislative Record, compensation at the rate of seven dollars per page for the numbers published and re-published of said Record at the present session, deducting any sum heretofore paid, the amount to be certified as due by the Superintendent of Public Printing; and the said publisher is hereby authorized to continue the publication of such Record at the next session, under all the terms and conditions of the existing contract, until the two Houses otherwise order, or a new contract is made for such publication."

This act rendered it evident that the contract was still in force. As for the Record itself, the speaker was not willing to say that it was perfect, but it stands as fair in all respects as at any time. It was almost impossible for the members to obtain, or for the publishers to give, full and correct reports of the proceedings, without proper means were furnished by the Legislature. It never will, and never can, be done, unless the House agrees to pay for it. As for the number of papers proposed to be distributed, by the resolution of the gentleman from Mercer, it was the same as last year. The resolution should receive his support.

Mr. THORN said that he did not agree with the gentleman from Mercer, who desired a Record "of some kind." He wanted a good and sufficient one. The gentleman from Franklin had said that the contract still existed, and the speaker feared that that contract would be so construed as to commit this Legislature. For one, he was not going to permit himself to be bound by the resolution of a past Legislature, or permit this contract to be carried out if it was possible to make a change. It certainly was possible, and the contract could be annulled.

Mr. THORN then moved that the further consideration of the subject be postponed for the present.

Mr. WILLISTON said that if Mr. THORN would withdraw his motion, he would offer a resolution which would settle the whole matter at once.

Mr. MCCLURE inquired whether a joint committee had not been already appointed to consider the matter. It would perhaps be an interference with their duties to dispose of the Record now.

Mr. ROSE stated that if he had thought that his resolution was binding upon the Legislature as to the continuance of the present Record, he would not have offered it, or would not vote for it. But he could not see how it would affect the publication.

Records were brought into the House daily, and there should be some rule for their disposal. True, a joint committee had been appointed, but whatever might be the result of their deliberations, a Record would be issued. The resolution had nothing to do with the contract for the publication of the Record.

Mr. THORN said that whether the resolution passed or not, the Record would come here and be distributed.

Mr. FOSTER said that he saw nothing in the resolution which rendered the continuance of the present contract obligatory. But it was likely that its passage would entail additional expense, inasmuch as under the existing law the binding was done by the State at the rate of about fifty cents per copy. The resolution, however, provided that one copy for each member should be bound by the Sergeant-at-Arms. This would cost more. With every desire to please his political friends, the speaker would not give his consent to any measure which would tend to make additional expense.

The question on the postponement for the present was then taken, and decided in the affirmative.

Mr. MILLER offered the following:

Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed for the purpose of inquiring into the expediency of employing a stenographer to report the proceedings of this House, to be published in the Daily Legislative Record, provided a contract be entered into for the publication of such Record.

Mr. GOEPP said, that this resolution seemed to be drawn up without due regard for the existing contract, which gives the Record to the present publisher, until otherwise ordered by both Houses. He was not opposed to the employment of a stenographer, but did not like the terms of the proposition. The resolution should either provide that the labors of the committee should have no bearing on the contract, or else that the conditions should apply to the present contract. It should be modified so as to be definite.

Mr. MILLER had no doubt but that the labors of the committee would enlighten the subject.

Mr. HAMERSLY moved to postpone the further consideration of the matter, inasmuch as the messages of the Governor were waiting to be read. On motion, agreed to.

Mr. WILCOX offered a resolution that 3000 copies of the Annual Report of the State Treasurer in English, and 1000 in German, be printed for the use of the House.

Mr. NILL moved to amend, by adding 2000 copies in English, and 500 in German, of the Surveyor General's Annual Report; which was agreed to.

Mr. FOSTER moved to amend the amendment, by adding 2000 copies in the English, and 500 in German, of the Adjutant General's Report; which was agreed to.

And the resolution as amended, was adopted.

Mr. MCCLURE moved that the vote had upon the resolution adopted yesterday, which provides for continuing the officers of the last House, until next Wednesday, be re-considered; which was agreed to.

The question recurring,

Shall the resolution pass?

Mr. MCCLURE moved to amend the same so that those officers of the last House, and who have been in attendance since the opening of the present session, and who have not been elected to positions in the other end of the capital, be retained in the same until next Wednesday; which was agreed to; and the resolution as amended was adopted.

The messages of the Governor were then read.

It was announced by the SPEAKER that the messages would lie over.

On motion of Mr. HAMERSLY, it was ordered that the messages be published in the Legislative Record.

Mr. GRITMAN suggested that they lie over until such time as they appear in the Record; agreed to.

The Auditor General presented a communication.

Mr. ROSE offered the following:

Resolved, That the State Treasurer be requested to furnish the House with a statement of the balance of money in the treasury, the amount of money deposited, and the place of deposit, &c.

Mr. ROSE moved that the rules be suspended, and that the House proceed to the consideration of the resolution; agreed to; and the resolution was adopted.

On motion of Mr. MCCLURE, the House adjourned, to meet again on Monday, 10th inst., at 3 o'clock, P. M.

VETO MESSAGES.

EXECUTIVE CHAMBER,
Harrisburg, Jan. 6, 1859. }

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

GENTLEMEN:—The General Assembly at its last session, within ten days of the adjournment, presented for my approval a bill, entitled "An Act authorizing and requiring the supervisors of Carroll township, in the county of York, to grade a certain hill on the State road, in said township, leading from Harrisburg to Gettysburg, Adams county."

This bill provides, "that the supervisors of Carroll township, York county, be and are hereby authorized and required, within one year from the passage of this act, to employ a sufficient number of hands to dig down and grade, in a good and substantial manner, so as not to exceed an elevation of four degrees, a certain hill in Carroll township, York county, about three-fourths of a mile south of Dillsburg, on the State road leading from Harrisburg to Gettysburg."

I cannot approve of the bill, because it proposes to interfere with duties devolving exclusively upon the local officers of the township. It is impossible for the Legislature to go into an investigation and determine with accuracy what hills shall be graded, and how much money shall be expended by the supervisors of the various townships in the State; and if it were possible it is utterly impracticable and unnecessary; the law having wisely imposed those duties upon a much more appropriate tribunal. It is to be presumed that the supervisors of the township of Carroll will perform their duty, and grade such hills as require it, and if they fail to discharge the duties incumbent on their office, they are personally responsible to the public, and a summary remedy may be applied by the people at their annual township election.

There is no more sound and wholesome principle than that which allows each separate governmental organization, whether it be State, county or township, to regulate and manage its own affairs in its own way, subject only to the general law of the land.

Believing that the bill under consideration is wrong in principle, and calculated, if permitted to become a law, to establish a bad precedent, I am constrained to withhold from it the Executive approval. It is, therefore, herewith returned to the House of Representatives, where it originated, for re-consideration.

EXECUTIVE CHAMBER,
Harrisburg, Jan 6, 1859. }

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

GENTLEMEN:—On the 21st day of April last, which was the day preceding the adjournment of the last General Assembly, a bill was presented for my approval, entitled "A supplement to an act to amend certain defects of the law for the more safe and just transmission and secure enjoyment of real and personal estate, approved the 27th day of April, 1855."

The first section of the bill provides "that the second section of an act, entitled 'An Act to amend certain defects of the law for the more just and safe transmission and secure enjoyment of real and personal estate, approved the 27th day of April, A. D. 1855,' shall not be so construed as to repeal or alter the provisions of the second article of the fourth section, or the fourteenth section, of the act of Assembly, entitled 'An Act relating to the descent and distribution of the estates of intestates,' approved the eighth day of April, in the year of our Lord, one thousand eight hundred and thirty-three."

My first objection to this bill is that it declares how a former act of Assembly shall be construed, or rather how it shall not be construed, notwithstanding the plain letter of the statute to the contrary. The construction of a statute is the province of the judicial department of the government. To declare what the law shall be is for the law-making power, but to determine what the existing law is, belongs to the judiciary. The General Assembly, of course, has full power to change, alter, or repeal the whole or any part of a statute, but it is obvious that the intention was not to repeal the section under consideration, but merely to prevent the judiciary from giving it a particular construction. This would be, however, in effect, a repeal of it; for, if it is not to be so construed as to repeal or alter the provisions of the second article of the fourth section, or the fourteenth section of the act relating to the descent and distribution of the estates of intestates, approved April 8th, 1833, it will be practically inoperative.

By virtue of the provisions contained in the sections of the act of 1833, referred to, where an intestate died leaving no lineal descendants nor collaterals nearer than nephews or nieces, such nephews or nieces would take the estate of such intestate to the exclusion of the children of a deceased nephew or niece; but according to the construction which has already been given by the supreme court of the State to the second section of the act of 27th of April, 1855, the children of a deceased nephew or niece are now entitled to represent the parent in the distribution of such an estate.

This section thus interferes directly with the aforementioned sections of the act of April 8th, 1833, and to say that it shall not be so construed, is to negative its manifest intention, and to deprive it of all force and effect. Such may not have been the intention of the Legislature, but if it were, then my next objection is equally fatal.

I cannot approve the bill, because I entirely concur in the wisdom of the change introduced by the act of the 27th of April, 1855, in the law of distribution, as regulated by the act of April 8th, 1833.

The bill is, therefore, herewith returned, without the Executive approval, to the Senate, in which it originated, for re-consideration.

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

GENTLEMEN:—A bill, entitled "an Act for the erection of a school district out of parts of Lehman township, Pike county, and Middle Smithfield township, Monroe county, was presented for my approval within ten days of the adjournment of the last Legislature.

The title of the bill is explanatory of its object, which is the creation of an independent school district out of parts of two townships lying in adjoining counties. The bill is objectionable, because it is a departure from the general school system, destroying its uniformity, and calculated as a precedent to encourage similar applications from other quarters, and thereby rendering the whole system discordant and unintelligible to the officers whose duty it is to explain, expound and execute it.

The general plan is that each township, ward, or borough shall form a school district, with power conferred on the courts of quarter sessions to erect independent school districts upon the application of not less than twenty taxables of the township or townships out of which it is proposed to make the new district. No general provision has been made for erecting an independent district out of territory lying in more than one county, and it is obvious that such a district would not harmonize with the general system.

The 47th section of the school law requires the county commissioners to make a triennial return of the taxable inhabitants resident in each district, upon which the State appropriation is based. The assessment is made by the township assessors. This bill makes no provision for obtaining a return of the taxables of the district it proposes to create, and hence it would be difficult to ascertain its proportion of the State appropriation and the proper amount it would be entitled to receive from each township. The reason for the application for the new district is probably that the schools in the parts of the two townships proposed to be embraced in it would be better accommodated than they are by the present arrangement.

But this can be accomplished under the provisions of the general law, which authorizes the directors of adjoining districts to establish joint schools, and permit pupils from one district to attend the schools of an adjoining one, if more convenient.

I do not believe that good can come from special school laws. The present general law has been carefully matured, and seems to be well adapted to advance the interests and promote the prosperity of the great cause of universal education; and should therefore be adhered to, until time and experience prove that to change would be to improve it.

But whenever and wherever changes may be thought advisable, let the amendment be by general and not special laws.

Entertaining these views, I decline to sanction the bill under consideration, and in accordance with the requirements of the Constitution, herewith it return to the House of Representatives, where it originated, for re-consideration.

WM. F. PACKER.

EXECUTIVE CHAMBER, }

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

GENTLEMEN:—On the 21st day of April last, the General Assembly presented for my approval, a bill, entitled "An Act to quiet titles under wills executed in other States;" and as the Legislature, by its final adjournment, prevented its return at that session, I herewith send it back, with my objections, to the House of Representatives, in which it originated, for re-consideration.

This bill provides, that in all cases in which the owner of lands within this Commonwealth, residing at the time of his demise in any other of the United States, shall have devised his said lands in this State by last will and testament, executed and proved in accordance with the requirements of the laws of the State where he executed the same, and the devisee or devisees, his or their heirs or assigns, shall have held and paid taxes on said lands, for twenty years or upwards, the title shall be deemed as good and valid as if said last will and testament had been executed and proved within this State, and in conformity with the laws of this Commonwealth.

I cannot approve of this bill, because it proposes by retro-active legislation to declare titles to land good, which would be clearly bad without such legislation. It is a well settled rule of law, and a rule of property, as well as of law, that wills by which real estate is devised must be executed and proved according to the law of the place where the land lies. It is also well settled that mere payment of taxes will not of itself give title to real estate. A legislative declaration, therefore, that a will not executed according to the laws of this State, accompanied by payment of taxes for twenty years, conveys a good title to land, is contrary to the existing law, and it is highly probable that such a declaration would be inoperative so far as regards rights already vested. I question the power of the Legislature to make one man's title good, and consequently destroy the title of another, by such legislation. Wills not proved and executed according to the laws of this State, are, so to land within this Commonwealth, no wills at all; and upon the death of the owner of such land the title descends to his heirs at law. Now to declare that land so situated, shall pass by will and not by descent, savors more of a judicial decree than of a legislative enactment. Similar legislation has heretofore been declared, by the highest judicial tribunal in this Commonwealth, to be unconstitutional and void, and it is not likely that the present attempt to make a good title out of a bad one, would be successful. At all events, I feel that I am in the performance of a plain duty, in refusing to give the bill under consideration, my official sanction.

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

GENTLEMEN:—A bill was passed by both branches of the last Legislature, and presented for my approval within ten days of the adjournment, entitled "An Act to exempt certain school property from taxation."

The bill proposes to exempt from taxation a certain building erected by George Markle, in the village of Markleville, in the county of Perry, now occupied by the Markleville normal institute.

It is understood that the building is private property, and however commendable may be the public spirit and liberality of its proprietor, I can see no good reason for exempting it from taxation. In principle, I am satisfied that the exemption of any particular property from taxation is wrong. Taxation should be general, equal, and uniform. The more general the objects of taxation are, the more equal will be the distribution of the burdens of government, and the more cheerfully will they be borne by the people. To exempt particular property is to give an unfair advantage to its owner, and to make an invidious distinction between him and his neighbors. If frequently repeated in favor of individuals or classes, it would work intolerable mischief. I am constrained by an imperative sense of duty to decline approving of bills of this character.

The bill under consideration is therefore herewith returned to the House of Representatives, where it originated, for re-consideration.

GENTLEMEN:—On the day of the adjournment of the last General Assembly, a bill was presented to me for approval, entitled "An Act to encourage the manufacture of paper in this Commonwealth."

I cannot approve the bill,

First. Because provision is already made in the general manufacturing act for the incorporation of companies to manufacture paper;

Second. Because in the bill before me, the individual liability of the stockholders is much more limited than in the general law; and

Third. Because no provision is made for enforcing even the limited liability imposed by the bill.

For these reasons, the bill is herewith returned without the Executive approval, to the House of Representatives, where it originated, for re-consideration.

EXECUTIVE CHAMBER, }
Harrisburg, Jan. 6, 1859. }

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

GENTLEMEN:—On the last day of the legislative session of 1858, a bill was presented for my approval, entitled "An Act further to provide for the incorporation and regulation of insurance companies within this Commonwealth."

I have examined the bill before me, which is very voluminous, with great care, and have devoted much time and attention to its consideration. Finding many of its provisions wise, and well calculated to exercise a beneficial influence over the management of the various insurance companies of the State, and recognizing the great necessity for legislation on the subject, it is with regret I announce to the General Assembly that I found the bill in some of its terms and details so extremely objectionable that in my judgment it ought not to become a law.

The first section of the bill makes it the duty of the judges of the district courts in the cities of Philadelphia and Pittsburg, annually to appoint three commissioners, who shall in each year examine the statements made by the insurance companies in their respective cities and in the county of Allegheny, and when the commissioners are satisfied that any such company is possessed of the amount of capital named in the section, the commissioners shall certify to the fact, and, upon obtaining said certificate, the company may lawfully transact the business of an insurance company, subject to the annual renewal of the certificate. But in the event that the commissioners shall find upon examination that the company or association is insolvent, or without the capital required by the act, they are directed to report the fact to the proper court of the county, which court is required to issue an injunction to restrain the company or association from transacting the business of insurance. And, if the insolvency reported by the commissioners shall appear to be correct, the court is to appoint a receiver to wind up the affairs of the company, and distribute its assets, after the payment of expenses, notably among the creditors of the company. The section also requires the insurance companies of the city of Philadelphia to provide an office for the commissioners, in which a record of their proceedings is to be kept.

The power of the Legislature to appoint a commission to inquire into the condition of insurance companies, and to authorize judicial proceedings in case of such as are believed to be insolvent, is unquestionable, and the exercise of such a power would probably be highly beneficial to the interests of the public; but this section requires every solvent company to obtain annually a certificate in the nature of a license to transact business, and this applies to all companies now existing, as well as to those which may hereafter be incorporated. It is questionable whether such a restriction or condition can be imposed upon the legitimate exercise of powers already granted. The various acts incorporating insurance companies, give the right to commence and continue the business of insurance on certain terms therein specified.—This bill proposes to alter these terms by imposing others which may interrupt their business, though they may be perfectly solvent and even prosperous, and it also subjects them to other than judicial control; and finally, it deprives them of an appeal to the supreme court of the State, as by the nineteenth section the decision of the district court is made final and conclusive.

The section is moreover incongruous and imperfect; for, while it requires the commissioners to report to the court such companies as are found to be insolvent, or without the requisite capital, it only authorizes proceedings against such as are reported to be insolvent, making no disposition whatever of such as are solvent, but without the required capital.

The second section makes the refusal or neglect of any company to comply with the conditions of the first section, cause of forfeiture of the charter, and imposes upon the president and secretary, upon conviction thereof, a fine of five hundred dollars. It is difficult to perceive why the president and secretary should be liable to conviction and punishment for the neglect or refusal of the company, acting through its board of managers, to comply with the requirements of the section.

Under the fourteenth section of the bill, mutual insurance companies now incorporated and located in the cities of Philadelphia, Pittsburg or Allegheny, or having agencies therein, as well as all such companies hereafter to be incorporated, wherever located, are forbidden from issuing any policy of insurance until they have a subscription list of persons desiring to become insured members, whose premiums shall amount in the aggregate to fifty thousand dollars; such companies are also required to confine their risks to the counties in which they may be severally located, and the adjoining counties; and are enjoined from issuing any policy until notice of the form thereof shall be published in one or more newspapers of the county where such company shall be located.

These provisions, in my opinion, are unnecessarily stringent and severe upon mutual insurance companies. Some of the most substantial and reliable companies in this Commonwealth are based upon the plan of mutual liability, with premium notes assessable for losses—their insurances extending to every city and county in the State, amounting in the aggregate to many millions of dollars, and as well secured as they can possibly be by any joint stock company. Why should such companies, so organized, and which make no dividends of profits, whether located in the cities of Philadelphia or Pittsburg, or Allegheny, or elsewhere, be confined in their risks to the county in which the particular company may be located and the counties adjoining thereto, while joint stock companies, that are the subject of speculation, and that declare large profits, are given a charter extensive as the State? I have looked in vain for a sufficient reason for making this distinction. Common justice requires that all shall be placed by law on an equal footing, and that none shall be favored or proscribed; then if either system prove unworthy of confidence, let it be condemned, and instead of limiting its operations to a single county or neighborhood, let it be entirely abrogated. Besides, the provision under consideration directly interferes with the powers and privileges already solemnly granted by charter to mutual insurance companies, to extend their business throughout the Commonwealth.

Again, would not the provision which requires premium notes to the amount of at least fifty thousand dollars before a policy can be issued, prevent any company from going into operation on the mutual principle, at least in the interior of the State? If two and a half per cent. be taken as an average rate of insurance, it would require property offered to be insured amounting to two millions of dollars to produce the required fifty thousand dollars of premium notes; and when it is recollected that no insurance could be effected outside of the county where the company may be located, and those immediately adjoining it, it is obvious that in many sections of the State it would be nearly or quite impossible to obtain the amount of applications thus required.

The eighteenth section is also objectionable. It provides "that the insurance companies and insurance associations respectively, of the city of Philadelphia and of the city of Pittsburg, insuring property against loss by fire, shall, after obtaining the certificate required by this act, appoint one delegate each to meet in convention in the city of Philadelphia, on the last Tuesday of September next, and adopt such uniform fire policy or policies as such convention shall deem necessary and proper, copies of which shall be filed with the insurance commissioners in said cities, and also with the Auditor General immediately after their adoption, and published by the said companies in each of said cities for at least one week in two daily newspapers having the largest bona fide circulation therein; and such policies shall, on and after the first day of December next, become of general use; and it shall not be lawful for any insurance company incorporated by, or doing business within this Commonwealth, thereafter to issue any policy of insurance against loss by fire in the city of Philadelphia, or county of Allegheny, other than in the form of the policies so agreed upon and adopted; and any company or the agent of any company issuing any policy in violation of this section, shall forfeit and pay the amount of insurance specified in any such policy to the party so insured: Provided, That this section shall not apply to companies exclusively mutual."

This section deprives the companies therein named of the power of making contracts of in-insurance on such conditions and terms as may be agreed to by both parties. Whatever the nature of the property, or of the risk, or wherever it may be situated, and whether the contract be made through an agent or by an immediate officer of the company, no form can be used, under a heavy penalty, except the one agreed upon in convention.

The right or liberty to settle the terms and conditions and form of the contract, is necessarily included in the general grant of power to make insurance without express words, and it is also given expressly in very many charters. The conditions, limitations, modifications, covenants and warranties in policies of insurance, are as various as the risks, and heretofore the parties to the contract were at liberty to make their own bargain. But this section requires the companies to agree through delegates to a common form, or forms, which shall be used in every case. Even in the conveyance of real estate this is not practicable; but in matters of contract, which relate to an infinite variety of risks and contingencies, it is in my opinion impossible. It is the policy of our law to leave all who are competent to contract free to agree for themselves, stipulating, however, for things lawful, and observing good faith, and, to my mind, the attempt to produce uniformity in contracts of insurance is such a departure from that policy, confirmed as it is by the experience of ages, as to render the experiment neither practicable nor desirable. It is quite impossible to foresee what special conditions it may be necessary to introduce into a policy, and it is unwise to place it out of the power of the parties to provide for such contingencies. The result of the adoption of this provision would undoubtedly be that no prudent company would take any risk that was not sufficiently provided for by the contract settled by the convention; and consequently parties wanting special risks insured would be compelled to go out of the State to get their insurance.

It will afford me great pleasure to co-operate with the General Assembly in providing additional checks, and making other salutary regulations for the government of insurance companies, so as effectually to protect the public against the impositions and fraudulent practices of dishonest institutions. But for the reasons already assigned, I cannot approve of this bill. It is, therefore, herewith returned to the House of Representatives, where it originated, for reconsideration.

WM. F. PACKER.

EXECUTIVE CHAMBER,
Harrisburg, Jan. 6, 1859. }

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

GENTLEMEN:—Within ten days of the adjournment of the last Legislature, a bill was presented for my approval, entitled "An Act to establish a Normal department in Green academy, and to unite the public schools of the borough of Carmichaels with said institution."

The first section of the bill authorizes the teachers of Green academy to establish a Normal school for the education of teachers in said academy, and gives to the teachers and faculty of the academy the power to grant diplomas to students graduating in the Normal department.

The second section provides "that the common schools of the borough of Carmichaels shall be connected with said Normal department, and the school directors of said borough shall pay into the treasury of said academy the school tax of said borough, as, also, the annual State appropriation by them received for the support of common schools, for which the said trustees shall keep open a school or schools sufficient to meet the wants of said district, and in conformity to the requirements of the school directors of said borough."

The third section makes the school directors members of the executive board of trustees of the academy, with power to vote on all questions relating to the public schools of the borough; and the fourth and fifth sections require the school directors, upon the application of twenty or more tax payers of the borough, to submit the question of amalgamation to the voters of the borough, and if a majority of the votes cast are against the proposed union, the provisions of the act so far as they relate to the common schools are to be inoperative and void.

The bill under consideration is objectionable, inasmuch as it provides for a total transfer of the common schools, with the revenues of the district, to the trustees of the academy; for, in case the union be consummated by a vote of the people of the district, and the trustees should refuse to conform to the requirements of the school directors, as enjoined by the second section of the act, the directors under the terms of the act would be without remedy.

Again, by the third section, the directors and executive board of the trustees of the academy are clothed with concurrent jurisdiction with regard to "all questions relating to the public schools of the borough." The number of persons composing the executive board of trustees of the academy, other than the school directors, is not stated; but, if it should be equal to the number of school directors, a conflict of jurisdiction would be possible, if not inevitable; and, if the number be greater, the votes of the directors could be nullified at pleasure. The board of trustees, it is evident, could also control the action of the executive board. The provisions of the third section conflict with, if they do not virtually overrule the latter clause of the second section already quoted, which furnishes the only semblance of protection to the interests of the common schools.

The connection of the public schools with the academy is manifestly intended for two purposes: first, to secure the revenues of the common schools for the support of the academy; and second, to furnish model schools in which to train the Normal students of the academy in the practice of their profession. The first of these objects is inadmissible, unless there be some adequate resulting benefit to the common schools. The second, is judicious and commendable, so far as the advancement of the Normal pupils is concerned; and the common schools of the borough could, doubtless, be so administered, for this purpose, as to be mutually advantageous to all parties. But, a provisional arrangement could be made with the school directors, without the agency of this bill, that would sufficiently answer the purposes of the Normal department of the academy, and, at the same time, reserve to the board of directors their proper authority over the teachers, the schools, and the finances of the district.

There is no objection to that portion of the bill which invests a Normal department in the academy, with authority to grant diplomas. This has been done, repeatedly, by the Legislature; and, presented by itself, would meet the unhesitating approval of the Executive. But, I cannot consent to impair the power of the school directors over the common schools or the common school fund of their district. In this respect, at least, there should be no encroachment on the general law.

For these reasons, I am constrained to return the bill to the Senate, in which it originated, without the Executive approval.

WM. F. PACKER.

EXECUTIVE CHAMBER,
Harrisburg, Jan. 6, 1859. }

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

GENTLEMEN:—Within ten days of the adjournment of the last General Assembly, a bill was presented for my approval, entitled "An Act supplementary to the acts relating to special courts."

This bill proposes to extend the various acts relative to special courts, so as to include all the judges of the district courts, and the associate law judges within this commonwealth, and to give to the district and associate law judges all the powers and jurisdictions of the proper president of the several courts of the county wherein the special court shall be held, in relation to all matters arising in such special court.

My objections to the bill are of a two-fold character. In the first place, I have serious doubts whether the Legislature can constitutionally substitute a judge of a district court, or an Associate law Judge of the common pleas for the proper president judge of a judicial district. The Constitution requires that the presence of a president judge, shall be necessary to the proper organization of certain courts; and it also requires that the president judge shall be elected by the people of the district over which he is to preside, and in virtue of such election, he is commissioned as president judge. Now this bill proposes to take judges, who were never elected nor commissioned as president judges, and give them all the powers and jurisdictions, for the time being, of the proper president of the district. If the Legislature can do this for a given time, what is to prevent an extension of the time so as to embrace the entire term of a Judge, and thus defeat the constitutional provision which secures to the people of a judicial district the right to elect their own president judge. To say the least, the change proposed is of exceedingly doubtful constitutionality; and therefore, cannot be justified, unless it were demanded by an overshadowing necessity. It will not be pretended that such necessity exists.

In the second place, if the constitutionality of the proposed enactment were conceded, in my judgement, it is totally unnecessary. Until within a very brief period the authority to hold special courts was confined to the president judge residing nearest to the place where the court was required to be held. In 1849 it was extended to the president judge of any adjoining district, and again, in 1853, to every president Judge of the common pleas throughout the State. Under the law as it now stands the several president judges of the courts of common pleas, may hold special courts, and even regular terms, where there is occasion for a special court in any county of the commonwealth. Surely this provision is broad enough to meet any and every demand for an exchange of judges.

For the reasons thus succinctly stated, I cannot give to this bill the Executive approval; I doubt its constitutionality, and I am clear that it is unnecessary. It is therefore returned to the Senate, where it originated, for reconsideration.

WM. F. PACKER.

EXECUTIVE CHAMBER,
Harrisburg, Jan. 6, 1859. }

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

GENTLEMEN:—I herewith return to the House of Representatives, where it originated, a bill presented for my approval on the 21st day of April last, entitled "An Act to authorize Isaac M. Pennock, trustee, to appropriate certain portions of a trust fund to the payment of debts due for the support of the celestique trusts."

The first and only section of this bill provides that Isaac M. Pennock, trustee of Mary A. Woods and children, be authorized and empowered, and is hereby authorized and empowered, to appropriate two thousand dollars of the trust estate in his hands for the payment of debts due for the support and maintenance of the cestui que trusts: Provided however, That the same be done under the order and subject to the control of the orphans' court of the proper county, and that the amount so appropriated and used shall be accounted for under the laws of this Commonwealth relating to such matters.

My objection to this bill is that it is a legislative appropriation of money received by a trustee under a power which specifies the objects of the trust and directs the application of the trust fund. If the proposed legislation is in accordance with the provisions contained in the deed of trust, it is unnecessary. If it is in contravention of the trust, it is the exercise of a doubtful power, and therefore clearly wrong. He who conveys property to another in trust for private purposes, has the undoubted right to direct the application of the trust fund; and so long as such direction is not forbidden by the law of the land, it should be scrupulously followed. Any interference with such direction, over by the constituted authorities of the State, would be an infringement of private rights, and ought to be carefully avoided.

Entertaining these views, I cannot approve the bill under consideration.

WM. F. PACKER.

EXECUTIVE CHAMBER.
Harrisburg, Jan. 6, 1859. }

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

GENTLEMEN:—On the 21st day of April last, which was within ten days of the adjournment of the last General Assembly, a bill was presented for my approval, entitled "An act to change the venue in the case of the Commonwealth vs. Anna Maria Veitengruber."

My objection to this bill is, that it proposes to transfer a trial upon an indictment for murder, now pending in the court of oyer and terminer of Sullivan county, to the court of oyer and terminer of Lycoming county, without making any provision for the payment of the costs and expenses of the trial. These belong, of right to the county where the offence was committed, and ought not to be thrown on another county. For this reason I cannot approve the bill, and it is therefore, herewith returned to the House of Representatives, where it originated, for re-consideration.

WM. F. PACKER.

STATE TREASURER'S REPORT.

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

GENTLEMEN:—In compliance with the provisions of the act of the 16th March, 1832, relating to this Department, I have the honor to submit the following report for the fiscal year ending with the 30th of November, 1858:

The available balance in the Treasury at the close of the fiscal year, 1857..... $528,106.47
Receipts to November 30, 1858, inclusive..... 4,189,778.33
4,667,884.82

Expenditures from November 30, 1857, to November 30, 1858, inclusive..... $3,775,857.06
Balance in Treasury November 30, 1858..... 892,027.76
4,667,884.82

The tables accompanying this report will exhibit in detail the receipts and expenditures of which the foregoing is but a general summary. It is not usual, in the general report, to give the operations of the Treasury for the month of December, which properly belong to the next fiscal year, but I have deemed it prudent for your information to do so at this time.

Balance in Treasury, December 1, 1858..... $892,027.76
Receipts up to and including December 31, 1858..... 121,569.11
1,013,596.87

Payments from December 1, to December 31, 1858, inclusive..... $318,700.73
Balance in Treasury, December 31, 1858..... 694,896.14

Included in the December payments are the following sums, to wit: $212,296, applied to the redemption of public loans, and $35,317.29 to the payment of interest due on the first inst. Unless something unforeseen should occur, this balance of $694,896.14, will be increased during the current month to an amount sufficient to pay the interest on the public debt, which becomes due on the first proximo, and also meet all other legitimate demands upon the Treasury, which cannot, in any event, exceed the sum of $50,000, exclusive of the current quarter salaries to public officers. Nearly all that is now due upon former appropriations, is to the public and charitable institutions of the State.

The total indebtedness of the State on the 30th of November last, amounted to the sum of thirty-nine millions four hundred and eighty-eight thousand two hundred and forty-three dollars and sixty-seven cents, as follows:

FUNDED DEBT.
6 per cent. loans..... $445,180.00
5.....do.....do.....38,420.905.67
4.....do.....do.....388,200.00
4.....do.....do.....100,000.00
$39,354,285.67

UNFUNDED DEBT.
Relief notes in circulation..... $105,350.00
Interest certificates outstanding..... 23,357.12
Interest certificates unclaimed..... 4,448.38
Domestic creditors..... 802.50
39,488,243.67

This statement exhibits a decrease in the public debt, during the past fiscal year, of $393,494.55. Since the close of the year (during the last month) the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund have redeemed of the five per cent. loans $220,132.51, and outstanding interest certificates amounting to $512.50; together amounting to the sum of $220,645.01, which, added to $393,494.55 will make the sum of $614,139.06 of the public debt which has been paid since the adjournment of the last Legislature; leaving the actual indebtedness of the Commonwealth at the present time $39,267,598.66.

A table accompanies this report in which the public loans are classified, showing the acts of Assembly under which they were created, the periods when reimbursable, the rates of interest, and the amount of each loan on the first of December, 1858, and they may be briefly stated thus:

Amount over due..... $17,465,378.20
Amount not reimbursable in 1859..... 1,123,083.70
Do.....do.....1860.....2,398,450.94
Do.....do.....1861.....79,900.00
Do.....do.....1862.....2,047,875.82
Do.....do.....1863.....188,200.00
Do.....do.....1864.....3,020,968.03
Do.....do.....1865.....1,640,015.95
Do.....do.....1866.....2,466,365.53
Do.....do.....1870.....1,819,720.70
Do.....do.....1877.....5,000,000.00

Amount reimbursable in 1878..... 428,000.00
Do.....do.....1879.....400,000.00
Do.....do.....1882.....850,000.00
Do bank charter loans..... 449,683.52
Do relief notes in circulation,..... 105,350.00
$39,482,992.79

It is fair to estimate that the receipts during the current fiscal year, under existing laws, will realize a sum sufficient to redeem at least $800,000 of the public debt, in addition to the sum of $220,645.01 paid during the last month out of revenues which belonged to the last year, and which were not applied to that purpose, at an earlier day, by the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund, under the belief that its retention in the Treasury would be required for the February interest.

The present prosperous condition of the State finances has been produced by the uniform and willing disposition manifested by the tax payers to submit to all demands upon them, rather than the faith of the Commonwealth should be tarnished. To them alone is the credit of this gratifying and auspicious result. In the darkest hour of financial distress and embarrassment, they demanded and justified heavy increased taxation, the payment of which has enabled the State to meet all demands upon the Treasury, and to create a fund that will gradually and steadily extinguish the public debt.

The following minutes, copied from the records, will explain the transactions of this office under the act of April 21, 1858, entitled "An Act for the sale of the State canals:"

"There were received, on this 19th day of May, 1858, from the Sunbury and Erie railroad company, in settlement for the purchase money due the Commonwealth for the public works sold to said company under the act of 21st April, A. D. 1858, entitled 'An Act for the sale of the State canals,' thirty-five bonds of the said Sunbury and Erie railroad company, dated May 19, 1858, each for the payment of $100,000, the first ten bonds of which will become due and payable on the 31st of July, 1872; the next ten bonds on the 31st July, 1873; the next ten bonds on the 31st July, 1874, and the five remaining bonds on the 31st day of July, 1875, with interest at the rate of five per cent. per annum, to be paid on each of said bonds on the 31st days of the months of January and July in each year. The said company also deposited in the Treasury thirty-five hundred coupon bonds, executed by said company, to Charles Macalister and George H. Stuart, trustees, for the aggregate sum of $3,500,000, dated May 19, 1858, of which the proportion or sum of $500,000 is due and payable on the 31st day of July 1873, and $1,000,000 on the 31st day of July in each of the three succeeding years, with interest at the rate of five per cent. per annum, payable on the 31st days of the months of January and July in each year.

"At the same time the said company also delivered the certificate of the recorder of deeds for the city and county of Philadelphia, of which the following is a copy:

"Received for record at Philadelphia, May 19, at seven o'clock, A. M., 1858, the mortgage from the Sunbury and Erie railroad company to Charles Macalister and George H. Stuart, trustees, for seven millions of dollars, on the Sunbury and Erie railroad company, from the borough of Sunbury, in Northumberland county, to the borough of Erie, in Erie county, Pennsylvania.

ALBERT D. BOILEAU,
Recorder of Deeds.

"The said company, also, at the same time, delivered the following described mortgages, to wit: A mortgage on the Delaware division of the Pennsylvania canal, a mortgage on the Susquehanna and West Branch division of the Pennsylvania canal, and a mortgage on the Lower and Upper North Branch divisions of the State canals. The first mortgage conditioned for the payment of $1,000,000 00, the second mortgage conditioned for the payment of $500,000 00, and the third mortgage conditioned for the payment of $500,000 00, the same being duly executed by the said Sunbury and Erie railroad company to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and bearing date the 19th day of May, A. D., 1858."

"On this 13th day of September, 1858, the Sunbury and Erie railroad company, through their president, presented at this office a certificate from the Governor, of which the following is a copy:

"Pennsylvania, ss:

"WM. F. PACKER:

In the name and by the authority of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, Wm. F. PACKER, Governor of the said Commonwealth, I do hereby certify that I am satisfied that the securities which the Sunbury and Erie railroad company proposes to deposit with the State Treasurer, viz:

"One million of dollars of bonds of the Delaware Division canal company;

"Five hundred thousand dollars of the bonds of the West Branch and Susquehanna canal company;

"Three hundred thousand dollars of bonds of the Wyoming canal company; and

"Two hundred thousand dollars of bonds of the North Branch canal company.

"In all, the sum of two millions of dollars, and all secured by mortgages upon the respective canals of said companies, in satisfaction of the mortgages now held by the Commonwealth upon said canals, are sufficient to protect the interests of the Commonwealth, and I do hereby approve of said exchange of securities.

"In testimony whereof I have herewith set my hand and caused the great seal of the State to be hereunto affixed, at Harrisburg, this thirteenth day of September, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and fifty-eight, and of the Commonwealth the eighty-third,

"and demanded the cancellation of the mortgages given by said company as additional security on the different divisions of the canal purchased by said company from the State, and the substitution in their stead of the bonds mentioned in the certificate of the Governor.

"This exchange of securities was made, and the written approval of the Governor thereto filed in this office.

"At the same time there was received from the said Sunbury and Erie railroad company, two hundred and eighty-one thousand dollars of bonds of the Wyoming canal company, each for the payment of one thousand dollars, on the 15th of July, 1878, with interest at the rate of six per centum per annum, payable on the 15th of January and of July of each year, ($281,000.00,) and the sum of two hundred and fifty dollars in cash, making in all the sum of $281,250.00, being seventy five per centum of the excess beyond $3,500,000 received by said company on sale of said canals."

Under the provisions of the act of Assembly above referred to, authorizing the sale of the canals, a portion of these bonds, to wit: the coupon bonds of the Sunbury and Erie railroad company, to Macalister and Stuart, the trustees for $3,500,000; the bonds of the Delaware Division canal company for $1,000,000; the bonds of the West Branch and Susquehanna canal company for $500,000; the bonds of the Wyoming canal company for 300,000, and the bonds of the North Branch canal company for $200,000, are liable to be surrendered to the Sunbury and Erie railroad company as the work on said road progresses to completion. The other bonds, to wit: thirty-five bonds of the Sunbury and Erie railroad company, each for the payment of $100,000, and two hundred and eighty-one bonds of the Wyoming canal company, each for the payment of $1000, making in all the sum of $2,781,000, are the property of the Commonwealth, and with the $250 paid into the Treasury at the time of the delivery of the last mentioned bonds, constitute the consideration received by the State for the transfer of the canals referred to.

The claims certified by the Canal Commissioners and paid at the Treasury, as directed by the fortieth section of the act of May 18, 1857, amount to the sum of $77,290 51; and the claims certified and paid as directed by the seventeenth section of the act of April 24, 1858, amount to the sum of $9,692 05. These claims were for debts contracted on the Portage railroad, and several of the divisions of the State canals.

Annexed to this report, are tabular statements showing the names of the claimants, the amounts due to each, the names of the officers contracting the debts, and the dates of the payments at the treasury. These statements are made from an account kept of each certificate as the same was paid. It is possible that there are some outstanding ones that have not been presented, of which there is no information in this office.

The tabular statements hereto annexed, will more fully explain the operations of the Treasury for the last fiscal year, among which will be found estimates of the receipts and expenditures for the next year. All of which, with this report, is respectfully submitted to your consideration.

H. S. MAGRAW,

State Treasurer.

Also, "A further supplement to an act relative to a burial ground and school lot, in the borough of Pottsville."

Mr. FRANCIS, "An Act supplemental to the several acts relative to the collection of taxes in Lawrence county."

Mr. WRIGHT moved that the bills on the SPEAKER'S desk be referred to the appropriate committees; which was agreed to. In accordance with which, the SPEAKER proceeded to make the reference, as required.

Mr. MYER moved that the Committee on Canals and Inland Navigation be discharged, and that the Senate proceed to the consideration of House bill No. 1, for the abolition of the Canal Board.

Mr. TURNEY wished to say a few words before the question was taken upon the motion.—He considered the action contemplated by the Senator premature and ill-advised. In order to facilitate the object desired by the bill, he had offered his resolution, calling upon the Canal Commissioners to report to the Senate the progress made in the investigation and settlement of claims submitted to them by the last Legislature; also, the earliest day at which such of those claims as are still under examination, can be finally determined. This was the day upon which they were required, by that resolution, to report; and he understood they were prepared to report. After hearing their report, the Senate would be able to act with the proper understanding. The speedy abolition of the Canal Board was an injudicious one. It is an important branch of the State Government, and had exercised control over vast interests. By the passage of the bill, previous to obtaining the necessary information to enable the Senate to act with a full understanding, they might rush into difficulty. He was in favor of abolishing the Board, but until he had heard the report of the Commissioners, he was not prepared to determine at what time it could be done without detriment to the interests of the State. There was but little doubt of the abolition of the Board at an early day, but this early, hasty and ill-considered step might work serious injury. He referred to the early action of the House, and the step taken by one of its members to catch the popular ear, and inspire the public mind with an idea of his peculiar devotion to the public interests. He hoped the Senate would not stultify itself. If, upon hearing the report asked for from the Commissioners, the settlement of the claims is in a state of forwardness to justify this step, he will go into it as cheerfully as any man. The Canal Commissioners are still engaged in investigating claims preferred against the State, and had already rejected over seventy thousand dollars of claims; and if the Board is now abolished, it will only pave the way for another tribunal to determine them.

Mr. GREGG remarked that if the Senate waited for the report of the Commissioners, or for information from them which would warrant it, they would not be able to abolish the Canal Board this session. At the last session, a bill was reported for the abolition of the board, but was passed over without the object contemplated by it being effected. The Canal Commissioners have had sufficient time to prepare for this action; and it was doubtful whether we should have such a report from them as would tend to hasten the object of the bill.

Mr. SCHELL was in favor of the discharge of the committee, and was prepared to go into committee of the whole for the consideration of the bill; but, while he was in favor of the abolition of the Canal Board, he thought there should be afforded the Senate an opportunity of obtaining the information sought by the resolution of the Senator from Westmoreland, before more definite action should be taken upon the bill.

Mr. MYER had no disposition to press the bill to a final vote to-day. The Senator from Bedford had expressed his own views with reference to the course which should be pursued, and he was prepared to second the effort to obtain such information as would enable the Senate to act with a fair understanding of the case. The Canal Commissioners have had from May last to investigate claims, and if they have failed in a discharge of their duties, it is not incumbent upon the Senate to invite a report, in order to a knowledge of the fact whether they had discharged their duties or not. They should have made a report, as usual, at the opening of the session, and he was not inclined to think the interests of the Commonwealth would suffer, as feared by the Senator from Westmoreland, by a speedy abolition of the Board.

Mr. TURNEY remarked, that the most ordinary and insignificant bill is referred to the appropriate committee; and yet here is a motion to proceed with the precipitate passage of a bill which demanded, at the hands of Senators, a due and deliberate consideration. The idea is, that it is to be gone through with hastily—not printed and laid on the desks of Senators, so that they may have an opportunity of judging of its merits, but rushed to a passage regardless of its effects upon the interests of the State. He hoped the bill would be allowed to go to the appropriate committee, and referred to the object of his resolution, which was to designate the earliest day at which the Board could be abolished, without detriment to the State. The Canal Commissioners would, themselves, in their report, recommend the abolition of the Board, at as early a day as was practicable.

Upon the question to discharge the committee, and proceed to the consideration of the bill, the yeas and nays were demanded by Messrs. Scofield and Myer, and resulted as follows:

YEAS—Messrs. Baldwin, Coffey, Finney, Francis, Gregg, Harris, Myer, Palmer, Parker, Penney, Rutherford, Scofield, Shaeffer, Thompson and Yardley—15.

NAYS—Messrs. Blood, Brewer, Craig, Fetter, Keller, Marselis, Miller, Nunnemacher, Randall, Schindel, Steele, Turney, Wright and Cresswell, Speaker—14.

Whereupon the Senate resolved itself into committee of the whole, (Mr. COFFEY in the chair,) for the consideration of the bill.

And after some time, the committee rose, and the chairman reported the bill as committed.

The SPEAKER laid before the Senate the annual report of the Attorney General of the Commonwealth; which, upon motion, was ordered to be printed in the Record.

The SPEAKER also laid before the Senate a communication from the Canal Commissioners, in obedience to the resolution of Mr. TURNEY of the 6th inst.

On motion of Mr. RANDALL, the communication was ordered to be printed in the Legislative Record.

Mr. TURNEY offered a resolution, which he remarked, had been suggested by the report just read with reference to claims.

But, the SPEAKER deciding that it must be introduced in the shape of a joint resolution, it was withdrawn for the present.

Mr. GKEGG, on leave, offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That five hundred copies of the Transactions of the Pennsylvania State Agricultural Society be printed for the use of the Senate.

Mr. SCHELL was opposed to the passage of the resolution, and did not favor the useless expenditure of money which was contemplated.—If we did not check the extravagant system of public printing in which the Legislature had been indulging, the State will land where the Government at Washington has landed. He did not think there was any necessity for this expenditure, and he was constrained to vote against it.

Mr. GREGG referred to the value which would be derived from the printing of the transactions of the society, not only to the agricultural interests of the State, but to others. A report of the transactions of the society were anxiously looked for, and he felt desirous that they should be made public in the form contemplated, particularly as previous reports had been printed in the same manner.

Mr. SCOFIELD believed the Legislature had never printed the report of the State Agricultural Society, but the society had printed its own transactions, and the State had purchased from it a number of copies. The Senate had no right, he said, to order the printing of the report, without the concurrence of the House of Representatives; nor could it make any expenditure of money, as contemplated, without the concurrent action of the House.

The SPEAKER remarked that the position of Mr. SCOFIELD was correct. The resolution should be in the shape of a joint one.

The resolution was withdrawn.

Mr. MILLER offered the following:

Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, That David S. Spear be, and he is hereby appointed an additional Assistant Doorkeeper to the Senate for the present session.

Mr. BREWER moved to amend by striking out the name of David S. Spear, and inserting that of George J. Ripper.

Mr. BELL moved further to amend by striking out the name of George J. Ripper, and inserting that of Isaac McClure.

Mr. FINNEY moved to postpone the consideration of the resolution and amendments.

Mr. SCHELL remarked that the question might as well be met now as at any other time. If we passed by it now, it would come up upon some other occasion, and most probably interrupt the business of the Senate.

Mr. MILLER thought a disposition of the matter now would save the Senate a great deal of trouble in the future. Mr. Spear had made a good and obliging officer at the last session, and he was prepared to continue him in his position. He was not in favor of an increase of officers, nor was any increase contemplated by the resolution. The selection of an Assistant Door-keeper, in the manner contemplated by the resolution, would save the Senators a great deal of annoyance from bidders for the position, and he hoped the Senate would dispose of the question now.

Mr. BREWER agreed with the Senator from Washington, as to the qualifications of Mr. Spear for the post. He was a good man and obliging officer. But while the district of the Senator, and that of the applicant himself, was represented here in the offices of the Senate, he was desirous of securing for other districts a fair proportion of the places at its disposal. He advocated the appointment of Mr. Ripper, as a gentleman equally competent and deserving, and particularly, as coming from a portion of the State which was not represented among the officers of the Senate.

Mr. WRIGHT hoped the question would not be postponed. He was prepared to vote upon it now. He was willing to vote for Mr. Spear in caucus, but the Senator from his district did not wish him brought forward, as he had another man; and he was sorry the matter had not been disposed of in caucus. Mr. Spear was a good officer, but he could not vote for him now. He had no one here himself desiring a post in the Senate, but he was desirous that the districts should be fairly represented.

Mr. FINNEY here withdrew his motion to postpone; and Mr. WRIGHT continued his remarks, in which he declared that no additional officers were required, and that he was opposed to incurring unnecessary expense.

Mr. BREWER moved that the consideration of the subject be postponed for the present.

Mr. WRIGHT moved to amend by making the postponement indefinite; upon which the yeas were called, and resulted as follow:

YEAS—Messrs. Bell, Coffey, Fetter, Finney, Francis, Gregg, Harris, Keller, Marselis, Myer, Nunnemacher, Palmer, Penney, Rutherford, Scofield, Shaeffer, Schindel, Steele, Thompson, Wright and Yardley—21.

NAYS—Messrs. Blood, Brewer, Craig, Miller, Parker, Randall, Schell, Turney and Cresswell, Speaker—9.

Mr. RANDALL, upon leave being granted, presented the following bills, which were read by their titles:

An act supplementary to the act directing the judges of the court of common pleas to appoint an examiner.

An act to incorporate the Laurel Hill and Manyunk passenger railway company.

On motion, adjourned.

ORIGINAL RESOLUTIONS.

Mr. WILCOX submitted the following:

WHEREAS, it is alleged by the Philadelphia press that the city passenger railroad companies of Philadelphia have forfeited their charters, by non-compliance with the provisions of the several acts of Assembly by which they were incorporated; therefore

Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed to investigate the truth or falsity of these charges, and that they report the facts to this House.

Which was ordered to be read the second time.

Mr. HAMERSLY wished to know whether Mr. WILCOX had based his resolution upon any better authority than newspaper reports. Did he know, of his own knowledge, of any default or failure or misdemeanor?

Mr. WILLISTON inquired whether the originator of the resolution referred to charges which had appeared in all of the Philadelphia papers, or in any one of them. It was poor policy for the House to take up every idle rumor, and appoint a committee to investigate it. If this course was adopted all the members of the House would finally be upon committees.

Mr. WILCOX replied to the effect that he had seen allegations made in several papers, and with the permission of the House would offer one of them. He then handed the Clerk a communication; which was read, as follows:

How to get up a Passenger Railway Company.

Our readers will remember that at the so-called "organization" of the Philadelphia and Gray's Ferry, Spruce and Pine Streets Railroad Company, we published certain facts in reference to the manner in which that transaction was effected, and which justified the belief that the provisions of the law in regard to bona fide subscriptions to the stock had been most shamefully evaded. Nevertheless, the party who had seized upon the charter managed to have letters patent issued, and they elected themselves directors and officers. The road was then put under contract at good round prices, payable in bonds; and after many troubles consequent upon the want of funds, the concern got to work. During the troubles with the omnibus men, a bill was filed by Lewis Scout, who was, it is said, the agent of the contractors, against all the parties in interest. It prayed an injunction against Wm. M. Reilly, President, Wm. Young, Wm. H. Cooper, John S. Struthers, Wm. H. Helmbold, George H. Armstrong, Geo. W. Middleton, John S. Thackaray, James McCahen, Wm. Young, Jr., Nelson Wanemacher, and Edward R. Helmbold, directors of said company, and against Joseph W. Scuder and John Thompson. It prayed the authority of the Supreme Court to restrain them from receiving any salary by virtue of their respective offices; from selling, pledging or transferring the stock; from issuing bonds and mortgages; from issuing or disposing of the company's bonds; and to restrain them generally from doing any corporate acts, upon the allegation that they had issued large quantities of stock, which, without any money being paid for it, they had divided among themselves.

This bill of Scout's was not pressed, in consequence of "an arrangement" made with the contractors; so that it seemed that the investigation which was expected would not take place. This hope is perhaps prevented by the appearance of a new party on the scene. This is one Andrew Johann, a stockholder. He comes in with a supplement bill against all the defendants named above, and again John Miller, Stephen Benton, John P. McFadden, J. Megee, W. D. Lewis and Wm. V. McGrath. Mr. Johann charges a corrupt and unjust combination among these persons to carry the election for offices this month, and to keep the present Board of Directors in power.

For this purpose it is alleged that William V. McGrath did receive, or is to receive, sundry shares of stock by virtue of certain agreements and collusions between himself and the directors and officers of the company, the object being to control the election to the prejudice of the bona fide stockholders.

It is charged that in December last the officers and directors made an agreement with Singerly and Young, the contractors for building the road, by which the contractors obtained all the conditions and privileges which they demanded, the same being conceded to avoid an exposure of the affairs of the Company in answer to the original bill of Scout, the said Scout being alleged to be the agent of the contractors.

It is alleged that the settlement made with the omnibus men on the Spruce and Pine streets routes was without the knowledge, &c., of the full Board, and that it was of such a character that it could not and would not have been ratified by the whole Board; that in order to have it consummated, the parties who had made it found it necessary to remove a Doctor William Young, then acting as Treasurer, and by a resolution they declared George W. Middleton the Treasurer, which said act, it was charged, was in direct violation of one of the provisions of the charter.

It is charged that on the twelfth day of July, A. D. 1858, one thousand dollars worth of the stock of the company was paid to Stephen Benton, Esq., which said stock has by himself since been returned; but why or upon what condition, the complainant is ignorant.

It is charged that William M. Reilly, President, issued to Messrs. Young and Singerly (the contractors) one hundred thousand dollars worth of the stock of the company; also, he confessed a judgment of one hundred thousand dollars in favor of them, or one of them; also, he paid to one of them eleven thousand dollars of promissory notes of the company—all of which was over and above what they, as such contractors, were entitled to. At the time of the payments of the aforesaid sums, not more than fifty thousand dollars worth of their contract had been furnished and delivered. By a resolution of the Board of Directors, the said Messrs. Young and Singerly were requested to return the said stock and notes as aforesaid, and satisfy the same judgment.

It is alleged that since the twenty-eighth day of October, A. D. 1858, the company have entered into another agreement, by which they are to pay the said contractors one hundred thousand dollars in cash, but upon what conditions or for what purpose the complainant is ignorant.

It is charged that Edward Brady was to have been paid six thousand dollars in the bonds of the company, and in lieu thereof was to return to the company six thousand seven hundred and fifty dollars in the stock of the company; but upon what conditions or for what, the complainant is ignorant.

The complainant further avers that the whole management of the Philadelphia and Gray's Ferry passenger railway company has been of a fraudulent character since the first incipency of its organization up to the present time, to the great damage of every bona fide stockholder.

The bill contains the customary interrogatories to the parties. If the case ever comes to an answer, there will be likely to be some rich developments in the art of getting up passenger railway companies without any actual capital.

Mr. RAMSDELL moved that the whole subject be referred to the committee on Divorces.

The SPEAKER declared the motion out of order.

Mr. EVANS hoped that the resolution in its present form would not pass. Its scope was too extended. It was not right to implicate all of the city passenger railroads, or to imply that they had all been guilty of misdemeanor. If the resolution was amended so as to refer particularly to the company designated in the newspaper article referred to, the speaker would have no objection to voting for its passage. There were many companies in existence in Philadelphia which had certainly never violated the provisions of their charter.

Mr. HAMERSLY said that the very case referred to had been disposed of on Saturday last in the Supreme Court at Philadelphia, by Judge Thompson. The originator, if he placed any reliance upon this court, must consider the matter as definitely settled. If, however, he was personally cognizant of any misdemeanors, the speaker would vote for the passage of the resolution. But to carry out its provisions, would require a large outlay of money.

Mr. WILCOX expressed himself as entirely opposed to any large outlay of money, but did not consider that such would be requisite. The charges were of such a grave nature as to demand notice, for the sale of the companies themselves, if for no other reasons. He hoped that the resolution would pass.

Mr. HAMERSLY reiterated his assertion that the Supreme Court had investigated the subject, and thought that its decision should be final, and be so considered by the Legislature.

The vote being taken the resolution was lost.

Mr. MILLER offered the following resolution: Resolved, That Jno. R. Smith be continued in office until the first day of February next, to assist the Postmaster who has just been elected to fill his place.

Said resolution was read the second time,

When Mr. RAMSDELL moved to amend, by substituting the name of Robert Brigham; which was not agreed to.

On the question, shall the resolution pass?

Mr. WILLIAMS saw no necessity for continuing the present Postmaster in office, inasmuch as the official who had been appointed was certainly competent to fulfil all of the duties of the post. He hoped that the House, in the beginning of the session, would at once frown down and vote down measures calculated to bring additional expense, and all resolutions of this character.

The question being then taken, it was determined in the negative.

Mr. WILLIAMS offered a resolution, that hereafter the post office hours on the Sabbath be from 9 to 10 o'clock, A. M.

Mr. FOSTER moved to amend, by adding from 6 to 7 o'clock, P. M.; which was agreed to; and the resolution, as amended, passed.

Mr. PRICE submitted a resolution, that Eli Pickel be added to the number of paper folders of the House during the present session.

Mr. WILLIAMS, (Bucks,) stated that the House was now as fully officered as during last session, when the Democrats were in power.—The impropriety of adding to the list should be seen by the intelligent body of men composing the House. It was an absurdity at the beginning of the session to go into the business of adding officers.

Mr. PRICE said Mr. WILLIAMS labored under a mistake, when he said that the House already had sufficient officers. The number yet lacked two of being equal to those of last session. The duties of the paper folders, it was well known, were onerous, and men appointed to that office would earn their money.

Mr. WILLIAMS said that if he was convinced he was incorrect, he would cheerfully vote for the resolution; but he had consulted the Clerks, and had ascertained that the House already had one more Sergeant-at-Arms, and one more Assistant Messenger, than last session. But they also had two Assistant Doorkeepers less, and the equality between this session and last was thus established.

Mr. ROSE moved to amend by substituting in place of Eli Pickel, the name of Robert Brigham; which was not agreed to.

And on the question, shall the resolution pass? The yeas and nays were required by Mr. McCLURE and Mr. WILLIAMS, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Abbott, Acker, Bryson, Church, Ellmaker, Fisher, Foster, Glatz, Gratz, Green, Harding, Irish, Laird, Lawrence, (Washington,) McDowell, Neall, Patterson, Price, Ramsdell, Rose, Shaffer, Sheppard, Wagoner, Walborn, Wilcox, Wiley, Williston, Wilson, Witherow, Wood and Zoller—31.

NAYS—Messrs. Barnesley, Barlow, Bayard, Bertolet, Boyer, (Schuylkill,) Brodhead, Burley, Campbell, Chase, Custer, Dismont, Dodds, Durbin, Eckman, Evans, Fleming, Galley, Goepp, Good, Graham, Gray, Gutman, Hamersly, Hill, Hottenstine, Jackson, Keneagy, Ketchum, Kinney, Manu, Mehafeey, McClain, McClure, McCurdy, Miller, Nall, Oaks, Palm, Pennell, Peirce, Pinkerton, Porter, Pugh, Quigley, Rohrer, Rouse, Smeid, Smith, (Philadelphia,) Stephens, Stouback, Stuart, Thompson, Walker, Warden, Whitman, Wigton, Williams, (Bedford,) Williams, (Bucks,) Wolf, Woodring and Lawrence, Speaker—61.

Mr. HAMERSLY offered a joint resolution that the Clerks of the Senate and House of Representative be authorized to procure for each Member, Clerk and Assistant Clerk, of both the Houses of the Legislature, a copy of Purdon's Digest and Sutherland's Manual, and that the State Treasurer be, and is hereby directed, to pay for the same out of any moneys not otherwise appropriated by the Legislature. Said resolution was read the second time.

Mr. HAMERSLY, in offering the resolution, hoped that the old members would not oppose it, and thereby deprive the new ones from having the books.

Mr. ROSE moved to amend, to purchase Ziegler's Manual.

The amendment did not carry.

Mr. WILLISTON said that the expense incurred by this measure would probably reach $3,000, and that it was not likely that members would get two hours reading out of the book. He said that it seemed to be the desire of some men in the House to see how much money could be spent. All that they wanted to vote an appropriation was a precedent of some kind.

Mr. HAMERSLY defended his resolution, and said that the volumes were needed by the members.

The question being then taken; it was determined in the affirmative.

OFFICERS SWORN IN.

Messrs. REIMER and DIEHL, recently appointed Assistant Door-keeper and Assistant Messenger, appeared and were duly qualified.

BILLS IN PLACE.

Mr. BAYARD, "An Act to change the name of the Pittsburg life, fire and marine insurance company."

Mr. McDOWELL, "An Act to amend the fee bill of the orphans' court, of the county of Allegheny."

Mr. ROHRER, "An Act to refund to Wm. Coulter certain moneys and expenses paid by him to the commissioners of the Nicholson court."

Mr. WILSON, "An Act to incorporate Grove cemetery, of New Brighton, Beaver county, Pennsylvania."

Mr. WILCOX, "An Act to change the place of holding elections in Highland township, Elk county;" and on his motion, said bill was taken up, considered and passed finally, and ordered that the Clerk present the same to the Senate for its concurrence.

Mr. LAIRD, "An Act to authorize the President of the Select Council, of the city of Erie, to act as Mayor of said city, until the next election for city officers;"

On his motion, said bill was taken up, considered and passed; and ordered that the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Also, "An Act to authorize the trustees of the Associate Reformed, now the United Presbyterian congregation, in the city of Erie, to sell certain property, and to remove the graves and bodies interred therein."

Mr. GALLEY, "An Act to authorize the commissioners of Fayette county to borrow money."

On his motion, said bill was taken up, considered and passed finally; and ordered that the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Mr. MCCLURE, "An Act to abolish the office of sealer of weights and measures in Franklin county."

On his motion, the rule in this case being dispensed with, the House proceeded to the consideration of the same.

The first and only section being before the House,

Mr. HAMERSLY moved that it be so amended as to make its provisions extend to every county of the State.

After some discussion, Mr. HAMERSLY withdrew his motion; which was immediately renewed by Mr. PRICE.

Mr. GRITMAN moved to postpone the further consideration of the subject for the present. To pass the bill, in its amended form, would be to entirely abolish the office of sealer of weights and measures throughout the State. This was a measure which required deliberation, and which at present the House was not prepared to take. There could not be any actual necessity for immediate legislation, inasmuch as the people of Franklin county had allowed the office to remain in their midst for a long time.—A few weeks, or one week more, could make no difference.

Mr. MCCLURE said that the office at present in Franklin county was actually vacant.

Mr. NILL said that while he favored the abolition of the office entirely, he still thought that a little time ought to be taken. The measure was one of considerable importance. He would certainly vote for the resolution as amended, but would greatly prefer that the subject should lie over.

Mr. MCCLURE explained why he was anxious for the passage of the bill. There was a person now performing the duties of sealer of weights and measures who was not authorized. He was regularly going the rounds, and the only way to prevent his further action was by the passage of a resolution like the one offered.

Mr. PRICE moved that the bill be so amended, as to include Lancaster county; which was agreed to; and the bill as amended passed finally.

Mr. ROSE, "A joint resolution relative to the pay of retiring officers of the Legislature."

The rule being in this case dispensed with, said resolution was taken up, and passed finally.

Also, "A further supplement to an act, incorporating the Pittsburg and Erie railroad company."

Also, "A joint resolution relative to the final adjournment of the Legislature," and moved that the House take up the bill: which was not agreed to.

Also, "An Act repealing the act, entitled 'An Act relative to roads and bridges in the county of Mercer,' approved the second day of April, A. D., 1845; extending an act relative to roads and bridges in the counties of Crawford, Clearfield and Greene, approved the seventh day of May, 1844."

Mr. GOOD, "A further supplement to an act, entitled 'An Act to incorporate the Allentown railroad company.'"

Mr. GRITMAN, "An Act to establish a general banking law."

Also, "An Act for the better protection of miners, mechanics, operatives and laborers to the amount of one hundred dollars, in Luzerne county."

Mr. KETCHUM, "An Act to incorporate the Hollenback and Hanover turnpike road company."

Mr. CHURCH, "An Act to incorporate the People's insurance company of the city of Philadelphia."

Mr. WALBORN, "An Act to incorporate the Fourth and Eighth street passenger railway company," of the city of Philadelphia.

Mr. WILLIAMS, (Bucks,) "A supplement to an act to incorporate the Spinnestown and Goshenhoppen turnpike road."

Mr. PIERCE, "A further supplement to an act, authorizing the Governor to incorporate the Washington and West Chester plank road company."

Mr. HOTTENSTINE, "An Act to incorporate the Farmers' fire insurance company of middle Pennsylvania."

Mr. HARDING, "An Act to incorporate the Delaware and Schuylkill dredging company."

Mr. HAMERSLY, "An Act to incorporate the Fourth and Eighth Street passenger railroad company of the city of Philadelphia."

Mr. WALBORN, "An Act to incorporate the Security fire insurance co. of Philadelphia."

Mr. HAMERSLY, "An Act to extend the charter of the Mutual fire insurance company of Germantown and vicinity."

Mr. HAMERSLY, "An Act to incorporate the City building association."

Mr. FISHER, "An Act to incorporate the People's city passenger railway company of Philadelphia."

Mr. SMITH, (Philadelphia,) "An Act to incorporate the Broad Street passenger railway company of Philadelphia."

Mr. WILEY, "A supplement to an act, entitled 'An Act to incorporate the Byberry and Beusaleem turnpike road company,' approved March 10th, 1848."

Also, "A joint resolution, requesting our national representatives to advocate the revision of the present tariff system."

Mr. QUIGLEY, "An Act to prohibit the running of locomotives or steam engines on the Philadelphia, Wilmington and Baltimore railroad, in certain parts of the city of Philadelphia."

Mr. HAMERSLY, "A supplement to the acts limiting actions against real estate."

VETO MESSAGE.

EXECUTIVE CHAMBER,
Harrisburg, Jan. 6, 1850

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

GENTLEMEN:—The bill, entitled "An Act to change the location of a portion of Fifth street, in South Pittsburg," was presented to me for approval on the 20th of April last. The Legislature, by its adjournment, having prevented its return at the last session, it is herewith transmitted to the Senate, where it originated, without the Executive approval.

This bill proposes to vacate a portion of Fifth street, in the borough of South Pittsburg, and authorizes and requires "the owners of property on both sides of Fifth street, from Bingham to Water street, to open at their own cost and expense a street, to be called New Fifth street, forty feet in width, at a point not to exceed one hundred feet west of the westward line of Fifth street on Bingham, and one hundred and ten feet west of the westward line of Fifth street on Water street, in said borough."

The vacation of old streets and the opening of new ones is so peculiarly and appropriately the province of the local authorities, that I cannot sanction legislative acts for such purposes.

Such questions and those of a kindred character, should, in my judgment, be left entirely to the disposition and control of home tribunals, where each particular case can be fully and fairly investigated, and the rights of all completely protected.

There is great danger that injustice may be done by this species of legislation, as it must necessarily be attended with a partial and imperfect understanding of the merits of the application, founded, not unfrequently, upon the allegations of interested parties, and without the knowledge of those adversely interested.

If the public convenience require that a portion of Fifth street, in South Pittsburg, be vacated, and supplied by another, on a new location, an application to the court of quarter sessions of Allegheny county would doubtless produce the desired result. Thoroughly convinced, as I am, that that court is the proper tribunal to investigate the question, and that it should be there decided, I cannot give my approval to the bill under consideration. WM. F. PACKER

ORIGINAL RESOLUTIONS.

Mr. BREWER presented the following:

Resolved, That two thousand copies of the report of the State Librarian be printed for the use of the Senate, and one hundred copies for the use of the Librarian.

Mr. SCHELL suggested that the Senator from Franklin reduce his number to one thousand.

Mr. BREWER remarked that the report contained some valuable information, which he was desirous should be given to the people of the State; and as the document was too lengthy for publicity in the public newspapers, he knew no way in which the object could be attained but by the publication of it in the manner contemplated by his resolution.

Mr. FRANCIS moved that his resolution, directing the SPEAKER to invite the clergymen of the respective churches of Harrisburg to open the sessions of the Senate with prayer, in such order as they may agree upon among themselves, be taken up and considered. Agreed to.

The question recurring upon Mr. SCHELL'S amendment, to strike out the "clergy of Harrisburg," and insert "members of the Senate,"

Mr. HARRIS said, he hoped the amendment would be voted down, and that the original resolution would pass. He did not rise to speak upon the merits of the resolution, but simply to express his hope that the Senate would concur in the views expressed in it. He adverted to the remarks of Mr. WRIGHT in opposition to the passage of the resolution, on Thursday, regarding his objections as groundless, and expressing the hope that the Senator would not press his objections, regarding the object contemplated as eminently becoming a dignified and important body.

Mr. WRIGHT was sorry that he could not agree with the Senator from Butler. They differed, not only as regards the moral and religious effects of opening the sessions of Legislative bodies with prayer, but as to its beneficial effects upon the Senate itself. He did not consider it necessary to pray at all times, or at any set time. It was not necessary to pray in the middle of a bill, or during the consideration of any question. He was not opposed to prayer by the Senators, or by individuals, but he considered the introduction of the exercises contemplated by the resolution, as an innovation upon the established rules of the Senate. He adverted to the history of the early settlers and legislators of the State, and their religious views, which he clothed with considerable interest. It was, he said, in the exercise of the rights for which they had battled and achieved, that he arose to oppose the resolution. Has, he asked, the character of the State of Pennsylvania been elevated, or its legislation benefitted by prayers in the House? Would the gentleman from Butler undertake to say, that the character of the House itself, had been elevated, or its deliberations rendered more dignified or decent, by the introduction of prayer at its opening sessions? Besides, how could the Senate, without reflection upon the various denominations represented here, invite the clergymen of Harrisburg to officiate under the resolution? Men were often liable to overstep the bounds of prudence, and to be swayed by prejudice in the choice of officiating clergymen; and some of the clergymen, or those of their congregations, might take umbrage at any course which might be adopted, and he seriously opposed the resolution, because he was not willing to take any course which might give offence to any religious sect. In this opposition he had been uniform, not only in the Senate, but in the House.

Mr. SCOFIELD would vote for the resolution, and should do so, even if he had doubts of its propriety. Many persons would regard its rejection as a slight upon religion, and he did not wish to place his vote upon record, favoring such a construction. But before he cast his vote, he wished to know the feeling of the clergymen themselves upon the subject. He did not know, but he had heard it intimated, that the performance of the services which they perform in the House, and which they were invited to perform here, often interfered with their regular pastoral duties, either to their church or their charge; and he was not willing to ask of them any neglect of their regular services. He was, however, in favor of having the Senate opened with the religious exercises contemplated by the resolution; and it was no argument against it, that the Senate has, heretofore, refused to adopt the custom. If we had never had prayer, why not have it now? For the purpose of obtaining information with regard to the feeling of the clergy, and the usages of distinguished bodies with regard to the custom, he would move a reference of the resolution to a special committee of five, of which Mr. FRANCIS, its author, should be chairman.

Mr. MARSELIS had but a word to say, and that would be in reply to the remark of the Senator from Warren, that the people of the State would regard a rejection of the resolution as a slight upon religion, and that he did not wish to record his vote against it, conveying such an inference. He did not consider that a refusal to pass the resolution would be an aspersion upon the Christian religion, but a protection. He was perfectly willing to vote against it, for with the people who know him it could have no effect such as the Senator from Warren fears; if he voted for the resolution, however, those who have now a good opinion of him might have occasion to change their impressions. Is it to be supposed that, after the passage of the resolution, we shall pass more moral laws, or that our deliberations and acts will be characterized by more dignity, or a higher regard for the public good? Why meddle with this sacred thing of prayer? It had but little effect upon the minds of legislators, many of whom, instead of listening to a solemn and fervent prayer, had their thoughts upon the bills for the passage of which they were solicitors, and many of them, too, of a bad character. He had greater respect for prayer, than to wish its introduction into the Senate, where it might be liable to the disrespect to which he had alluded.

Mr. MILLER did not desire to say a word upon the resolution itself, but to make a few remarks upon the motion of the Senator from Warren. He did not see the necessity of referring the matter to a committee for the purpose of ascertaining what other public bodies had done. In his mind it was reduced to this point—whether it was in keeping with the character and dignity of this body. It was a very simple question, and one upon which he was prepared to decide without a moment's reflection. He was, he said, singular in his views, yet he should vote for the resolution without expressing them.

Mr. RANDALL differed with his two colleagues. He did not wish to appear here any better than at home. He strove to conduct himself with a degree of propriety in keeping with his position, and he thought he succeeded pretty well in doing so. With reference to the resolution, he should vote for it, for the passage of it could do no possible harm, and might do good.

Mr. FRANCIS remarked that, if it had not been for an unalterable purpose not to advocate the passage of the resolution, he might have replied to the remarks of the Senator from Philadelphia, on Thursday; and if he had been in different humor, might have assented to the amendment of his facetious friend from Bedford. He was in favor of the object contemplated by the resolution; yet, if the Senate should vote it down, it would not hurt him at all. No man who knows him, in or out of the Senate, would for a moment suppose that its introduction was for the sake of Buncombe. The best body of men ever assembled in Pennsylvania opened their deliberations with prayer, and he was not prepared to think a similar course by the Senate, unnecessary or uncalled for.

Mr. FINNEY said as he should be constrained to vote against the reference of the matter, he would ask the indulgence of the Senate while he gave a few reasons for it. He then drew a distinction between Christianity, as practiced and taught by the Savior, and the formula of the word which he had done so much to break down. From the period in which the Savior came among men until the present, there had been gradual inroads upon these formulas, until Christianity had become part of the common law. He then opened the New Testament, at the "Sermon on the Mount," and said that he should be disposed to move that the sermon be read each morning in the Senate chamber, and that the clergymen be invited to pray for the members—not here, but in private. He read the sermon, and remarked that that was the formula inculcated—not to individuals alone, but to mankind as a body. He was not a Quaker, but believed in praying in secret, and that there was more efficacy in it than in any other. He spoke at some length in opposition to the resolution, in a speech of much force, eloquence and power.

Upon the motion to refer being submitted, it was lost; and the question recurring upon the amendment of Mr. SCHELL, it was also rejected.

The original resolution being under consideration, Mr. WRIGHT said he was pleased with the remarks of the Senator from Crawford. He believed in the authority which he cited—it covered the whole ground. He related, by way of illustrating the peculiar effect of prayer upon the House, in certain cases, an incident which had occurred in that body a few years ago.—

The venerable State Librarian, at the opening of the session, had offered up a sincere and fervent prayer, in the course of which he prayed for the members—that they might be sent home with pure hands and hearts, and might be free from the taint of bribes. To that prayer he had responded amen, with all his heart. What was the effect upon some members? The venerable gentleman who had uttered that prayer had hardly left the hall, before several members were anxiously seeking the floor to make a motion to dispense with these opening exercises, because they thought there had been a reflection upon the House. And who were those members? Many of them had been most anxious, at the commencement of the session, to have the House opened with prayer. Had a motion been made to dispense with the exercises, he should have felt constrained to vote for it, and placing himself upon the record in the light of disapproving of the sentiments of the prayer, when, in reality, he had uttered a hearty amen to all that had been said.

Upon the passage of the resolution, the yeas and nays were required by Mr. WRIGHT and Mr. FRANCIS, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Bell, Blood, Brewer, Coffey, Craig, Fetter, Francis, Gregg, Harris, Miller, Myer, Palmer, Parker, Penney, Randall, Schell, Scofield, Shaeffer, Schindel, Thompson, Turney, Welsh, Yardley and Creswell, Speaker—24.

NAYS—Messrs. Finney, Keller, Marselis, Nunnemacher, Steele and Wright—6.

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

The bill for the abolition of the Canal Board came up on second reading; when

Mr. MYER moved to amend, by inserting after Canal Commissioners, the State Engineer.

Mr. TURNEY moved further to amend, by substituting the following for the whole bill:

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That from and after the tenth day of February, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and fifty-nine, the office of Canal Commissioner of this Commonwealth be, and the same is hereby abolished; and upon the expiration of the time aforesaid, the Canal Commissioners are hereby required and directed to deliver up to the custody of the Auditor General, all books, papers, records, and other property belonging to said department, whose duty it shall be to take charge of, and preserve the same; and all claims for damages against the Commonwealth by existing laws referable to the Canal Board for settlement, not presented and decided before the act takes effect, shall be forever barred.

SEC. 2. The Auditor General is hereby authorized and required, upon the application of any person or persons, to give copies of any entry or entries of the books heretofore kept by the Canal Commissioners, under the seal of his office; and also to furnish, upon application aforesaid, copies of any paper or papers on file in said office, to any person or persons requiring the same, under the seal of his office; and for every such certificate shall charge the person or persons receiving the same, one dollar, for which he shall account to the Commonwealth; and the copies certified and attested, shall be deemed and admitted as legal evidence in any court of this Commonwealth, with like effect as the original.

SEC. 3. That from and after the passage of this act, the office of State Engineer be, and the same is hereby abolished.

SEC. 4. That the Canal Commissioners shall cause to be entered in a book to be procured for the purpose, a list of all claims that have been preferred against the Commonwealth, to be alphabetically arranged—and shall contain the name or names of claimants—on what branch of the public improvements the said claim originated, and what for—the date when the alleged liabilities accrued—amount of claim—amount allowed—or when rejected and when acted upon—and such remarks as may facilitate future investigation; which book shall be deposited in the Auditor General's Office, and to be completed at the earliest possible day.

SEC. 5. That the Auditor General be, and he is hereby authorized, if he deem it necessary, to employ an additional clerk, to take charge of the books, papers and documents, transferred from the Canal Department, at a salary of five hundred dollars per annum, to be paid by the State Treasurer out of any money in the State Treasury not otherwise appropriated.

Mr. BELL asked for the reading of the original bill. He then spoke of the question as one affecting the public interests, and as requiring calm and deliberate action. The time had, doubtless, arrived for the abolition of the Canal Board, and the public were demanding the Legislature to abolish an office which had ceased to be of importance or necessity. But we should not do it hastily, and should take care to do it in the right way. He referred to the hasty legislation upon the subject in the other House, where the bill for the abolition of the Board had been passed hurriedly, without even discussion. He hoped that the course of the Senate would be different. As for himself, he had not had an opportunity of hearing the views of gentlemen, and he was anxious that an opportunity should be afforded of thoroughly examining the bill, to see if its details are correct, and to see if the moment had arrived for the action contemplated by it. For the purpose, therefore, of testing the sense of the Senate, he would move to refer the bill to the Committee on Finance. They were all gentlemen in whom he had confidence, and by this course we could have the benefit of their investigation.

Mr. COFFEY was satisfied, since the discussions of yesterday, that a bill should be properly prepared for the important step which was contemplated. The Board of Canal Commissioners had existed as a co-ordinate branch of government for thirty years, and had exercised a vast influence upon the interests of the State. The Board had accumulated a great amount of papers and documents of interest to the public, and proper steps should be taken to preserve them. The bill to sell the main line contained a provision for the payment of all unadjusted claims; and those having claims had a right to demand that they shall be properly investigated. Many of these claims had never received the consideration they deserved. Dishonest ones are often passed, and honest ones rejected. He was desirous that there should be such an investigation of these claims by responsible parties as would insure justice to the claimants, and at the same time prevent any wrong being inflicted upon the Commonwealth, and he was anxious for its reference to the Committee on Finance, as proposed.

Mr. MYER remarked that more thought was given to this subject than the importance of the bill entitled it to. The duties of the Canal Commissioners had nearly ended, and there was no longer a necessity for the continuance of the Board, and he could see no necessity for the delay which would result from the proposition of the Senator from Chester to refer the bill to the Finance Committee. Gentlemen may talk about the action of the other House, and buncombe, as much as they please. The people looked to the Legislature for the abolition of the Board, and it should be done.

Mr. TURNEY had no intention or desire to add to what he had said yesterday. The Senator from Bradford had misapprehended the provision of his substitute. There is more to be done here than the mere abolition of the Canal Board.—They had in their possession papers and documents of vast importance as evidence in Court, and to assist in the adjustment of public claims and accounts, and the disposition of these became a matter of importance. He agreed with the Senators from Indiana and Chester, that the importance of the subject demanded that the bill should be referred to a committee in order that time may be afforded to properly digest it. The people of Pennsylvania did not demand the abolition of the Board without the proper preparatory steps being taken; and, with the Senator from Indiana, he believed that when it was abolished, it should be done well.

Mr. BELL remarked that upon subjects requiring no deliberation, the Senate referred them to the appropriate committees, and yet the Senator from Bradford called upon us to abolish a Board which had existed for thirty years, and to hastily dispose of a matter, probably involving thousands or millions of dollars, and to delegate to some other officer the power of disposing of them.

Mr. MYER rose to explain. He made no proposition to refer the matter to another officer.

Mr. BELL was glad to hear the explanation. What objection, he asked, could the gentleman have to refer the bill to the Finance Committee, in order to have the benefit of their advice and investigation? Is it right to take such a precipitate step, in the face of the report of the Canal Commissioners, in which they tell us, and tell us true, that the public interests require their continuance for a short time, in order to enable them to make such a disposition of their affairs as is desired. At least, said Mr. BELL, let us have the bill and the substitute of the Senator from Westmoreland printed, before we are called upon to vote upon it. Where was the necessity for all this hurry? Will three days or a week make any difference? Will the people who send us here expect us to vote for the abolition of the Canal Board with our eyes and ears shut?

The question being taken upon the motion to refer, it was agreed to

IN COMMITTEE OF THE WHOLE.

Mr. GREGG, by consent, called up Senate bill No. 15, entitled "An Act repealing an act to change the venue from Union to Northumberland county."

Upon its consideration in committee of the whole, Mr. CRAIG in the chair.

Mr. WRIGHT said he should like to hear the Senator from Centre explain the circumstances connected with the bill. At the last session he had approved the bill, and he should like to hear the reason for its repeal.

Mr. GREGG stated that the bill, last year, passed the House, and was defeated in the Senate by three votes. By some means unknown to him, it had got into the hands of the Governor, and received his signature. The only way to remedy the matter now, is to repeal a law which has received the signature of the Governor, without the sanction of the Senate.

Mr. WRIGHT was not disposed to stand in the way of its repeal, if it had unjustly become a law.

Mr. FETTER stated that the Senator from Centre had stated the case fairly. He had charge of the bill last session, and explained the circumstances connected with the legislation upon it.

Mr. MYER recollected that at the time of the passage of the bill, there was considerable feeling among the parties interested, and he was disposed to think the matter should be over. The present action might savor of indecent haste.

Mr. RANDALL merely voted to correct an informality. The merits of the case he knew nothing of.

After some time, the committee rose, and the chairman reported the bill as committed; after which, the bill passed its several readings, and was sent to the House for concurrence.

Mr. SCHELL asked leave to be excused from serving on the Committee on Estates and Escheats; which was granted; and Mr. BREWER substituted.

The hour of one o'clock having arrived, the SPEAKER adjourned the Senate until tomorrow morning, at eleven o'clock.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

TUESDAY, January 11, 1859.

The House was called to order at 11 A. M., by the SPEAKER, WM. C. A. LAWRENCE.

Prayer was offered by Rev. Dr. DEWITT.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal.

Mr. WILLIAMS, (Bucks,) moved to dispense with the reading of that portion of it in reference to petitions.

Mr. MCCLURE, moved to amend by dispensing with the reading altogether.

The resolution as amended was agreed to.

TARIFF RESOLUTIONS.

Mr. LAWRENCE, (Washington,) before the House adjourned yesterday, introduced the following joint resolutions.

The experience of the past and present most fully demonstrates that it is a wise and beneficial policy of the General Government which dictates the imposition of duties on such products of foreign nations as come in such direct contact with those of our country, as to interfere and prostrate the trade on our own soil and among our own citizens.

For want of such aid the country is filled with foreign products, the result of cheap labor; the monetary affairs of the nation disarranged by the exportation of specie to pay an indebtedness abroad, and the citizens and laborers in many departments of trade compelled to abandon their accustomed employment; especially do our own coal and iron interests suffer; therefore,

Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, in General Assembly met, That our Senators in Congress be instructed, and our Representatives requested, to labor for the passage (at the present session) of such an act as will not only tend to increase the revenue by the imposition of duties, but afford adequate protection to all the interests of the country injured by the productions of the cheap labor of other countries, but more especially to urge an increase of duties of coal and iron—in which so large a portion of our own people are deeply interested.

*Resolved, That the views of the President, expressed in his late Annual Message, in reference to the advantage of specific over ad valorem duties, as more uniform, less liable to frauds, and affording the most certain amount of revenue and protection, meets our most hearty approval.*

Resolved, That the Governor be requested to forward each of our Senators and Representatives in Congress, a copy of the above preamble and resolutions, informing them of their adoption.

On motion of Mr. LAWRENCE, a select committee of five was appointed, to whom was referred the above resolutions.

The SPEAKER appointed Messrs. LAWRENCE, GRITMAN, WOOD, ROHRER, and PATTERSON said committee.

Mr. WILEY submitted the following; which was referred to the same committee:

Joint resolution requesting the Senators and Representatives in Congress, from Pennsylvania, to advocate a revision of the present tariff.

WHEREAS, The various interests of the country have been, and are by serious affected in consequence of inadequate protection to American labor; therefore be it

Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, in General Assembly met, That the Senators and Representatives in Congress, from the State of Pennsylvania, be requested to urge and advocate, in every proper manner, a revision of the present tariff, with a view to afford ample protection to American industry.

Resolved, That the Governor of this Commonwealth be authorized and requested to transmit, at as early a day as possible, a copy of the foregoing resolution to each of the Senators and Representatives, in Congress from Pennsylvania.

The SPEAKER laid before the House the annual report of the State Librarian; which was read by the Clerk.

Mr. HOTTENSTINE, on leave, presented two petitions from two hundred and thirty three citizens of Northumberland county, praying to repeal existing laws giving to employers stay of execution on judgment obtained for labor.

Mr. PIERCE, on leave, read in place a further supplement to an act authorizing the Governor to incorporate the Wilmington and West Chester plank road company.

SAMUEL EALS, an assistant Sergeant-at-Arms, appeared and was duly qualified.

The SPEAKER also laid before the House the annual statement of the Depositors of the Western Savings Fund of Philadelphia.

Also, the answer of the State Treasurer to the resolution submitted by Mr. ROSE on the 6th inst;

Mr. McCLURE asked leave to present a petition from citizens of the Legislative district of the county of Cambria, contesting the seat of THOMAS H. PORTER, in the House of Representatives, and offered a motion to the effect that a committee be this day selected to investigate and report upon the case. Mr. McCLURE gave as a reason for pressing this matter, that the House had already agreed to appoint one committee to-day, and he thought that both might be selected together.

Mr. THORN said that the choice of each committee would require an hour, and it would be impossible to select both in one day, and not neglect the regular business.

Mr. McCLURE stated that he would, under these circumstances, name Wednesday.

Mr. HAMERSLY then moved, as an amendment to the original resolution, that 11 A. M. on Wednesday, be the time fixed upon for the appointment of a committee in the case of THOMAS H. PORTER; agreed to.

Mr. HAMERSLY, on leave, presented a petition from the qualified electors of the Thirteenth Representative district, contesting the right of OLIVER EVANS to a seat in this House, and moved that 12 o'clock, noon, to-morrow, be fixed for the selection of a committee to sit upon said case.

Mr. HARDING moved to amend by fixing next Tuesday for the selection of said committee.

Mr. MILLER said that the selection of one committee, upon any one day, for the purpose of investigating the case of a contested seat, was as much as could be done. Wednesday had already been fixed upon for the appointment of one committee, and their selection would be amply sufficient to occupy the time.

Mr. GOEPP trusted that the amendment of Mr. HARDING would pass. It was certainly improper to present a communication on one day in reference to a contested seat, and then oblige the member implicated to come forward upon the next with his defence. The notice was too short. The presentation of the petition was, moreover, supposed to be the first intimation received by the sitting member of any difficulty, and a regard for his rights demanded that he should have time to arrange his challenges, &c. Besides this, the act of assembly provided that the contestants should select counsel, and that the names of these persons should be withdrawn from the jury. All these preliminaries required time, and it would be unfair to deprive the defendant of an opportunity of having full justice.

Mr. HAMERSLY stated that he had no objection to the postponement of the matter, only that the parties had agreed among themselves upon Wednesday as a proper time for its disposal.

Mr. McCLURE asked leave to make a statement.

The Chairman said that the amendment which proposed to postpone until next Tuesday, was in violation of the law, and could therefore not be entertained.

Mr. McCLURE endeavored to obtain a hearing in reference to the case of the contested seat in Cambria county.

The Chairman stated that that matter had been finally disposed of, and could not now be brought forward.

Mr. GRITMAN moved that as Tuesday next had been declared to be beyond the time specified by law, Friday next, at 12 o'clock, should be fixed. He moved an amendment to that effect.

Mr. HAMERSLY would agree to a compromise, and name Thursday.

Mr. GRITMAN refused to modify his motion, so as to meet the views of Mr. HAMERSLY, and said that he would be glad to afford all the accommodation in his power, but the lapse of one day could make but little difference.

Mr. HAMERSLY offered an amendment to the amendment of Mr. GRITMAN, which was that Thursday be substituted in lieu of Friday.

Mr. CHURCH was disposed to give to the member whose seat was contested, all the time in his power. He therefore favored the postponement until Friday. He supposed that Mr. GRITMAN, who was in close proximity with Mr. EVANS, spoke for that gentleman, when he desired the extension of the period. Speaking for himself, Mr. CHURCH was desirous of rendering every possible courtesy to the sitting member, and the party to which he belonged.

Mr. HAMERSLY said that if he had understood it was the desire of Mr. EVANS to have this postponement, he would not object, but he had been led to believe that that gentleman was willing to have the matter brought forward on Wednesday. He withdrew his amendment.

Mr. EVANS stated that he had certainly said that it made but little difference what time was fixed. He had also casually mentioned Wednesday.

The amendment of Mr. GRITMAN, postponing the selection of the committee until Friday next, at 12 M., was then adopted.

The original resolution, as amended, then passed.

Mr. McCLURE rose to a privileged question. He moved that the vote by which the selection of the committee on the contested election of THOS. H. PORTER was fixed for 11 o'clock to-morrow, be re-considered; which was agreed to.

Mr. LAIRD moved to amend by fixing the time for the selection of the committee on said case at 12 o'clock next Thursday; which was agreed to; and the resolution, as amended, was agreed to.

Mr. WILCOX offered a resolution that four hundred copies of the annual report of the State Librarian be printed for the use of the House, and fifty copies for the use of Library.

Mr. CHURCH moved to amend the same by inserting five hundred and fifty instead of four hundred and fifty; which was agreed to; and the resolution, as amended, was agreed to.

Mr. WITMAN offered a resolution that the use of this hall be granted to Park Benjamin, Esq., on next Tuesday evening, for the purpose of delivering one of his celebrated lectures for the benefit of the Citizen Fire company, of Harrisburg; which was read the second time.

Mr. WILLISTON moved to strike out the word "celebrated," and insert "poppy-cock."

Mr. ROSE moved to amend the amendment by striking out another word.

The SPEAKER decided both amendments to be out of order.

Mr. HAMERSLY moved to amend by striking out the word celebrated, and the original resolution, as thus amended, was passed.

Mr. SMITH, (Phila.,) offered a joint resolution; which was decided to be out of order.

Mr. LAWRENCE, (Washington,) offered a resolution that in lieu of the Clerk authorized to be appointed at the close of the session, Mr. A. L. Linton be appointed said Clerk from this date; which was read the second time.

Mr. MCURDY moved to substitute in place of A. L. Linton, the name of George Zinn. The Chair ruled both the resolution and amendment out of order.

ADDITIONAL MEMBERS OF COMMITTEES.

Mr. HAMERSLY moved that two additional members be added to the committee on the tariff resolutions; which was agreed to.

The SPEAKER appointed Messrs. WILEY and WILCOX said additional members.

Mr. WILLISTON moved that one additional member be added to the Committee on Divorces.

Mr. ROSE seconded the motion, and said that Mr. WILLISTON had been a member of that committee for three years, and it was to be hoped that he would have his ambition gratified by being again appointed.

Mr. GOEPP desired to inquire what the special object was of the appointment of an additional member.

Mr. ROSE explained, and said that this was an intensely important committee, and that all legislation which they might undertake should be well guarded by having a sufficient number of members.

Mr. HAMERSLY said that it was not customary to do business in this manner.

The question being taken viva voce, it was decided by the SPEAKER in the negative.

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. ROSE and Mr. OAKS, and were as follow, viz: Yeas—Messrs. Abbott, Balliet, Barlow, Kinney, M'Clain, M'Clure, Price, Ramsdell, Rose, Smend, Thorn, Whitman, Williams, (Bucks,) Willistou, Witherow and Wood—16.

Nays—Messrs. Acker, Barnsley, Bayard, Ber-tolet, Boyer, (Clearfield,) Boyer, (Schuylkill,) Brodhead, Bryson, Burley, Campbell, Chase, Church, Custer, Dismont, Dodds, Dnrbaraw, Eckman, Ellmaker, Evans, Fisher, Fleming, Foster, Galley, Glatz, Goepf, Good, Graham, Gratz, Gray, Green, Gritman, Hamersly, Harding, Hill, Hottenstine, Irish, Jackson, Keneagy, Ketchum, Laird, Lawrence, (Washington,) Mann, Mehaffey, M'Curdy, M'Dowell, Miller, Neall, Nill, Oaks, Palm, Patterson, Pennell, Peirce, Pinkerton, Porter, Pugh, Quigley, Rohrer, Rouee, Shaffer, Sheppard, Shields, Smith, (Philadelphia,) Stephens, Stoneback, Stuart, Styer, Taylor, Thompson, Walborn, Waker, Warden, Wigton, Wilcox, Wiley, Williams, (Bedford,) Wilson, Wolf, Woodring, Zoller and Lawrence, Speaker—81.

So the question was determined in the negative.

The Committee then retired to their chamber, and after some time returned to the House, and the Chairman reported that Messrs. ROHRER, McDOWELL, KINNEY, IRISH, GRITMAN, FOSTER, M'CLURE, ROSE and MILLER, had been selected to investigate said contested case.

These gentlemen then appeared before the SPEAKER'S desk, and were duly qualified.

Mr. THORN moved, that said committee meet in the library room this evening, at 7½ o'clock; which was agreed to.

Mr. HAMERSLY moved, that the hour of adjournment be extended until the order of bills read in place had been gone through with; which was not agreed to.

The hour of adjournment having arrived, the SPEAKER adjourned the House until to-morrow morning, at 11 o'clock.

VETO MESSAGE.

EXECUTIVE CHAMBER, }
Harrisburg, Jan. 6, 1859 }

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

GENTLEMEN:—The bill, entitled "An Act to change the location of a portion of Fifth street, in South Pittsburg," was presented to me for approval on the 20th of April last. The Legislature, by its adjournment, having prevented its return at the last session, it is herewith transmitted to the Senate, where it originated, without the Executive approval.

This bill proposes to vacate a portion of Fifth street, in the borough of South Pittsburg, and authorizes and requires "the owners of property on both sides of Fifth street, from Bingham to Water street, to open at their own cost and expense a street, to be called New Fifth street, forty feet in width, at a point not to exceed one hundred feet west of the westward line of Fifth street on Bingham, and one hundred and ten feet west of the westward line of Fifth street on Water street, in said borough."

The vacation of old streets and the opening of new ones is so peculiarly and appropriately the province of the local authorities, that I cannot sanction legislative acts for such purposes.

Such questions and those of a kindred character, should, in my judgment, be left entirely to the disposition and control of home tribunals, where each particular case can be fully and fairly investigated, and the rights of all completely protected.

There is great danger that injustice may be done by this species of legislation, as it must necessarily be attended with a partial and imperfect understanding of the merits of the application, founded, not unfrequently, upon the allegations of interested parties, and without the knowledge of those adversely interested.

If the public convenience require that a portion of Fifth street, in South Pittsburg, be vacated, and supplied by another, on a new location, an application to the court of quarter sessions of Allegheny county would doubtless produce the desired result. Thoroughly convinced, as I am, that that court is the proper tribunal to investigate the question, and that it should be there decided, I cannot give my approval to the bill under consideration. WM. F. PACKER

EXECUTIVE CHAMBER, }
Harrisburg, Jan. 6, 1859 }

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

GENTLEMEN:—I herewith return to the House of Representatives, where it originated, a bill presented for my approval on the 21st day of April last, entitled "An Act to authorize Isaac M. Pennock, trustee, to appropriate certain portion of a trust fund to the payment of debts due for the support of the cestui que trusts."

The first and only section of this bill provides that Isaac M. Pennock, trustee of Mary A. Woods and children, be authorized and empowered, and is hereby authorized and empowered, to appropriate two thousand dollars of the trust estate in his hands for the payment of debts due for the support and maintenance of the cestui que trusts: Provided however, That the same be done under the order and subject to the control of the orphans' court of the proper county, and that the amount so appropriated and used shall be accounted for under the laws of this Commonwealth relating to such matters.

My objection to this bill is that it is a legislative appropriation of money received by a trustee under a power which specifies the objects of the trust and directs the application of the trust fund. If the proposed legislation is in accordance with the provisions contained in the deed of trust, it is unnecessary. If it is in contravention of the trust, it is the exercise of a doubtful power, and therefore clearly wrong. He who conveys property to another in trust for private purposes, has the undoubted right to direct the application of the trust fund; and so long as such direction is not forbidden by the law of the land, it should be scrupulously followed. Any interference with such direction, even by the constituted authorities of the State, would be an infringement of private rights, and ought to be carefully avoided.

Entertaining these views, I cannot approve the bill under consideration.

EXECUTIVE CHAMBER, }
Harrisburg, Jan. 6, 1859 }

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

GENTLEMEN:—On the day of the adjournment of the last General Assembly, a bill was presented to me for approval, entitled "An Act to encourage the manufacture of paper in this Commonwealth."

I cannot approve the bill,

First. Because provision is already made in the general manufacturing act for the incorporation of companies to manufacture paper:

Second. Because in the bill before me, the individual liability of the stockholders is much more limited than in the general law; and

Third. Because no provision is made for enforcing even the limited liability imposed by the bill.

For these reasons, the bill is herewith returned without the Executive approval, to the House of Representatives, where it originated, for re-consideration.

REPORT OF THE STATE LIBRARIAN.

I have the honor to present, herewith, to the Legislature, a list of books added to the Pennsylvania State Library, from the first of January, 1858, to the first of January, 1859; and a statement of the money received and expended during the same period, from which it will be seen, that there remain $3,000 extended from the last year's appropriation to the State Library of $650 00, and in addition $1,000 00, amounting to the sum of $4,000 00.

By the law of the last session, the Legislature, the State Librarian is authorized to make, under the supervision of the Secretary of the Commonwealth, a descriptive and classified catalogue of all the books, maps and plates in the State Library. I immediately on the adjournment of the supreme court last summer, this work was commenced, and has been prosecuted with all possible diligence since.

I have had occasion, in former reports, to allude to the number of broken sets of books, especially in the documentary department of the Library, and also, to the large number of duplicate volumes it contained, that might be disposed of, or exchanged with advantage for other books.

The examination requisite in making the catalogue, has shown that these defective and duplicate works are much greater than was supposed.

The duplicate volumes, amounting to more than four thousand, have been taken from the Library, arranged and placed on shelves in the garret of the capitol.

By an act of the Legislature, passed the seventh of April last, the State Librarian is authorized "to sell or exchange the surplus copies of such works in the State Library, of which there are, in his opinion, more copies than are required; also, to make sale of old editions of books, or exchange them for new, when it can be done to advantage; or to sell odd volumes, or broken sets of such works, the place of which are or can be supplied by new or more perfect copies." Under the authority of this law, ten hundred and twenty-six volumes, principally duplicate volumes of laws of other States, and Senate and House Journals of this State, have been exchanged for other books. By these exchanges I have been able to supply many defects in the Library, and have the prospect of supplying many more.

The unexpected balance of last year's appropriation has been reserved for the purchase of books to supply these deficiencies, when they cannot be obtained by exchanges. The time necessarily occupied in procuring these volumes has, and will delay the completion of the catalogue. But I thought it would better meet the views of the Legislature, to make the Library as perfect, in this respect, as it could be made, than to hurry the catalogue to a completion.

The descriptive catalogue of the law books, properly so called, has been completed, and is now in the hands of the State Printer. When the classified index shall be made, its deficiencies will be better known. It is admitted, by the profession, to be one of the best, if not the best selected law libraries in the Commonwealth, and, for the number of volumes it contains, will compare favorably with any in the Union. It is still, however, deficient in some important English reports, and in works on civil law. The individual in London, who had been recommended to me as a proper person to procure what English works we needed, has failed in doing so. Other arrangements have been made, which I trust will prevent any future failure, and lead to exchanges that will add greatly to the value of the Library. The historic life of any country, and especially of our own, where the press is so untettered, and facilities and cheapness of printing so great, flows, in what is, but should not be, the ephemeral literature of the day." The Librarian now employed in his labors, sent by him in the newspapers and pamphlets of the press, for the most important materials for his history; and the future Librarian will be, in a great measure, dependent on those that are now laid from the press, in such manner. For the papers to be woven in his narrative. There is no place for preserving these papers and pamphlets so safe, and so permanent as the State Library. By those into whose hands they first fall, they are soon regarded as of little value, and thrown aside as waste paper. Private libraries, into which some of them may have been collected, are constantly disappearing; their books are scattered, no one knows where. Nor can there be any dependence placed on the permanency of those libraries whose existence depends upon the continuance of private corporations. State Libraries, under the immediate protection of government, are not liable to be thus broken up and scattered. They should be the safe depositories of the mental wealth of the past, and the present, from which the future may draw. In them should be collected, arranged and preserved, whatever records transpiring events, and the literature and science that indicates our progressive civilization, that in the centuries to come they may throw their light upon the ages past.

Without the sanction of the Library Committee, (which has hitherto been withheld,) I have not felt at liberty to subscribe for a single newspaper for the library; though, in my judgment, there should be preserved in it, files of all the most important in the United States, especially in our own State.

Some time since, a circular was published, inviting the citizens of the Commonwealth to send the pamphlets they have thrown aside as useless to themselves, to the State Library, where they would be assorted, bound in volumes and carefully preserved. Only one individual has responded to this call. James J. Barclay, Esq., of Philadelphia, a gentleman of distinguished public spirit, has sent to us a large number of books and pamphlets, which he has been at the trouble of collecting, many of them rare, and of great value. If other citizens would emulate his example, our library would be soon greatly enriched at little expense.

I beg leave to call the attention of the Legislature to the magnificent donation of Mr. Hachett, of Paris, France, through M. Vattemare, the agent of international exchanges, to the State Library; embracing 221 volumes and pamphlets; 262 plates and prints; an Atlas of 40 sheets, and a long map of France, Belgium and Switzerland.

Mr. Hachett, for many years a distinguished teacher, is now a publisher of school books, maps, charts, &c., under the patronage of the Minister of instruction.

His long experience as an instructor, has eminently qualified him to judge of what is best adapted for the development and cultivation of the youthful mind, and but a cursory examination of the books published by him, will convince any one that he has eminently succeeded, especially in the primary branches of education.

M. Vattemare informs me, that "in choosing Pennsylvania, as one of the four States of the American Union, to whom he destined this valuable contribution to the system of international exchanges, Mr. Hachett was stimulated by his high appreciation of the noble efforts made in this Commonwealth, to the improvement of public schools, and the diffusion of useful knowledge." I would respectfully suggest, whether such a homage paid by a private individual, of a foreign country to our Commonwealth, does not call for some acknowledgment on the part of the Legislature.

The separation of so large a number of duplicate volumes, from the Library, has made room for the books upon the shelves with their titles exposed, but the shelves, and even the closets connected with the Library rooms, are full. The increase of the Library by exchanges and donations, if no books are purchased, will soon demand more room. I would respectfully suggest, whether this demand, the safety of the Library, and the public business of the Commonwealth, for which there is not now adequate accommodation, do not require the erection of a substantial, fire proof building, sufficiently large to afford room for a Library, of at least 100,000 volumes, an increase which may be rationally expected within twenty five years; and also, for specimens in natural history, especially mineralogy and geology, and a department that shall subserve the agricultural interests of the Commonwealth, as a depository for foreign seeds, plants, and roots, to be dispersed to the agriculturists over the Commonwealth; and a place where can be exhibited plates, with descriptions of all improvements, in this department of science.

The large cabinet of minerals, collected in the recent geological survey of the Commonwealth, are now locked up in the "State Lunatic Hospital," in inglorious confinement, for want of room in the State Capitol.

Since the geological survey is published, they should be placed where they can be examined by the public at large, to whom they belong, and who have a deep interest in the knowledge to be derived from them. The erection of such a building, while it would afford accommodations that are needed, and protection to a large amount of public property now exposed to the dangers of fire, would be an enduring monument to the intelligent liberality of the Legislature.

The members of the Legislature will, as heretofore, be troubled with applications for orders from the boys, to obtain books from the Library. It is earnestly hoped they will not subject the Library to the waste to which it has been exposed, by giving orders indiscriminately.

The Librarian is required to report by law, in the month of January, the number of volumes that have been lost, or unreturned during the preceding year. So far as known to the Librarian, no books have been lost. All that have been taken out of the Library, have been returned, except 5 octavo volumes, which are in the hands of responsible individuals in public offices, and will be returned when sufficiently examined.

The following papers accompany the report:

A.—The amount of moneys received and expended by the State Librarian, from the 1st of January, 1858, to the 1st of January, 1859.

B.—Catalogue of books, maps, &c., added to the State Library during the same period.

C.—Letters from Messrs. Vattemare and Hachett, and the catalogue of the books presented by the latter.

All which is respectfully submitted,

WM. R. DEWITT,
State Librarian.

HARRISBURG, Jan. 11, 1859.

VETO MESSAGES

EXECUTIVE CHAMBER,
Harrisburg, Jan. 6, 1859. }

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

GENTLEMEN:—A bill, entitled "an Act for the erection of a school district out of parts of Lehman township, Pike county, and Middle Smithfield township, Monroe county, was presented for my approval within ten days of the adjournment of the last Legislature.

The title of the bill is explanatory of its object, which is the creation of an independent school district out of parts of two townships lying in adjoining counties. The bill is objectionable, because it is a departure from the general school system, destroying its uniformity, and calculated as a precedent to encourage similar applications from other quarters, and thereby rendering the whole system discordant and unintelligible to the officers whose duty it is to explain, expound and execute it.

The general plan is that each township, ward, or borough shall form a school district, with power conferred on the courts of quarter sessions to erect independent school districts upon the application of not less than twenty taxables of the township or townships out of which it is proposed to make the new district. No general provision has been made for erecting an independent district out of territory lying in more than one county, and it is obvious that such a district would not harmonize with the general system.

The 47th section of the school law requires the county commissioners to make a triennial return of the taxable inhabitants resident in each district, upon which the State appropriation is based. The assessment is made by the township assessors. This bill makes no provision for obtaining a return of the taxables of the district it proposes to create, and hence it would be difficult to ascertain its proportion of the State appropriation and the proper amount it would be entitled to receive from each township. The reason for the application for the new district is probably that the schools in the parts of the two townships proposed to be embraced in it would be better accommodated than they are by the present arrangement.

But this can be accomplished under the provisions of the general law, which authorizes the directors of adjoining districts to establish joint schools, and permit pupils from one district to attend the schools of an adjoining one, if more convenient.

I do not believe that good can come from special school laws. The present general law has been carefully matured, and seems to be well adapted to advance the interests and promote the prosperity of the great cause of universal education; and should therefore be adhered to, until time and experience prove that to change would be to improve it.

But whenever and wherever changes may be thought advisable, let the amendment be by general and not special laws.

Entertaining these views, I decline to sanction the bill under consideration, and in accordance with the requirements of the Constitution, herewith it return to the House of Representatives, where it originated, for reconsideration.

WM. F. PACKER.

COMMUNICATION FROM THE ATTORNEY GENERAL.

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

GENTLEMEN:—It is the duty of the Attorney General to report annually to both branches of the Legislature, a summary of the official business transacted by him during the preceding year. In the performance of that duty, the following report is respectfully submitted:

When I entered upon the duties of the office, in January last, there was in the Attorney General's hands claims due the Commonwealth amounting to the sum of $365,145 80. These claims, however, were nearly all of very long standing, and by far the greatest proportion utterly worthless. In many instances the debtors are not to be found. Principals and sureties, alike being either dead or out of the State. In other cases, the persons against whom the balances are reported, are so hopelessly insolvent, that it is worse than useless to attempt to enforce collection by process of law.

During the year of these old claims, but $12,547.16 have been collected, and $9,793.06 settled by allowances made by the accounting departments; leaving an apparent balance still outstanding exclusive of interest of $342,805.58. Had these claims received prompt attention when the defaults were first made, it is highly probable that the chief part of them would have been collected; but now it is too late, and no vigilance or care that can be given to them, will bring any very considerable sums to the Treasury of the Commonwealth.

The amount of claims placed in the hands of the Attorney General for collection, since January, 1858, is $297,355 69; and the amount collected and paid into the State Treasury, on these demands, is $77,265.35. These claims have also been reduced by allowances made by the accounting departments upon re-settlements, in the sum of $26,798.78; leaving still due and unpaid, exclusive of interest, the sum of $193,291.56. There is but a small part of this balance, it is believed, but what will be finally collected.

Sixty suits have been brought since the 20th day of January, to enforce the payment of claims upon which judgments have been obtained in forty-two cases. In addition to the suits brought by the Commonwealth, a large number of appeals are pending in the common pleas of Dauphin county, from settlements made by the Auditor General and State Treasurer, to which due attention has heretofore and will hereafter be given.

In May last, a bill in equity was presented to the supreme court, against the Pennsylvania railroad company, to prevent that corporation from removing and carrying away the iron and timber upon the Portage railroad. A temporary injunction was obtained, but the case was subsequently settled by the railroad company giving to the Commonwealth a bond in the sum of three hundred thousand dollars, with sufficient sureties conditioned for the payment of that sum on the bonds held by the Commonwealth against the company. A suggestion was filed, upon which a writ of quo warranto was issued from the supreme court, against the McKean County Bank, having for its object the vacation at the letters patent, obtained by that institution. The case was argued before the supreme court of Pittsburgh, upon a demurrer to the answer, and the final decree will probably be entered in a short time in the eastern district at Philadelphia, where the court is now in session. Several other cases, in which the Commonwealth was an interested party, have been tried in the supreme court during the year, and others are still pending, but as they are of no general interest, it is not thought proper, more particularly, to refer to them.

A large portion of the business of this office consists in giving legal advice and opinions to the several departments of the government; and, likewise, in ascertaining and ascertaining by various public officers throughout the Commonwealth.

A large amount of money is due to the Commonwealth, from corporations and individuals on the State, for unpaid taxes on distilleries and capital stock. As the law now stands, suits can only be brought against such corporations to enforce the payment of these taxes in the counties where they are located.

It is quite impossible for the Attorney General to prosecute these claims in person, scattered as they are all over the Commonwealth, and as the true policy is to have the legal business of the State concentrated, I would suggest that power be given to bring suit in the cases referred to, in the common pleas of Dauphin county. I would also suggest that the law officer of the Commonwealth, be permitted to enter an appeal from the settlements made by the Auditor General and State Treasurer, in cases where, in his opinion, injustice has been done to the Commonwealth by such settlements. An appeal now can be entered by the other party, but not by the Commonwealth.

The appropriation made by the last Legislature for the contingent expenses of this department, was nearly or quite double the actual necessary expenses. No appropriation will therefore be required for the coming year, except for the salary of the clerk, which, in my judgment, should be at least eight hundred dollars per year. It is now but five hundred, and it is respectfully submitted that this compensation is entirely inadequate, when the extent of the duties necessarily performed, by the single clerk of this department, is taken into consideration.

COMMUNICATION FROM THE STATE TREASURER.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, }
Harrisburg, Jan. 10, 1859. }

HON. WM. C. A. LAWRENCE,
Speaker of the House of Representatives.

SIR:—In obedience to the resolution of the House, passed on the 6th inst., I submit the following report:

Balance in Treasury, Jan. 1. 1859, $694,896 14

Amount in Banks, the annexed list, exhibiting the Banks, and the amount in each,	$592,624 23
On deposit in Girard Bank to redeem coupons,	25,200 00
Advances to the Departments, contingent expenses and salaries,	7,453 67
Cash in vault, notes of various Banks, and coin,	69,618 24
	<hr/> $694,896 14

It is impossible for me to state, at this time, what particular Bank notes were in the Treasury, on the first of this month, as it is not customary to assort them, except at the time of the payment of the interest on the public debt, when all of the Banks redeem their notes in specie, at Philadelphia.

The item of $25,200, deposited in Girard Bank, remains a charge against the Treasurer, until he produces the coupons, which are his vouchers to the Auditor General. The coupon interest has always been paid at the Girard Bank, and the money is retained there when the interest falls due.

The payments to the various departments of the government are settled quarterly, and the receipts for advances, from time to time, are counted as cash until settlements are made.

The Warren Bank, on the first of August last, failed to redeem its liability to the Commonwealth, consisting of the sum of $1,144 09, deposited there by the officers of Warren county, and $12,410 00 of its notes received immediately before that date into the Treasury.

The entire indebtedness has since been secured, payable on the first of next month.

Very respectfully,
H. S. MAGRAW, State Treasurer.

COMMUNICATION FROM THE CANAL COMMISSIONERS.

CANAL COMMISSIONERS' OFFICE,
Harrisburg, Pa., Jan. 10, 1859.

Hon. JOHN CRESSWELL, JR.,
Speaker of the Senate:

SIR:—The Board of Canal Commissioners have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of a resolution adopted by the Senate on the 6th inst., calling on them for information "of the progress made in the investigation and settlement of claims submitted to them by the last Legislature; also, the earliest day by which such of these claims as are still under examination, can be finally determined; and also their views as to the proper disposition to be made of the records and papers of their department, on the abolition of the Canal Board."

On the first point, the Board would remark, in addition to what is stated on the same subject, in their Annual Report for the year ending the 30th day of November last, that full four-fifths of the claims submitted to them by the last Legislature, have been fully heard and received the final action of the Board. In addition to these, claims referred to the Board by a previous Legislature, have been examined and determined. A number still remain open for investigation, and to-day they received notice from a party, of his intention to take depositions in support of his claim on the 21st inst.

On the second point, the Board would suggest that the tenth day of February next would probably afford sufficient time for a full hearing, and satisfactory determination of the claims still open, and for the issuing of the certificates for such of them as shall be allowed. In some of these cases, the Board are awaiting information from persons to whom they have written, and in others, the production of the books of original entries and additional testimony, is expected from the claimants. If an act be passed abolishing the Board, to take effect on that day, it would probably conduce to prompt action on the part of the claimants, and certainly deprive them of just complaint on account of any difficulty or delay to which they might be subjected hereafter, should the present opportunity for a full hearing of their claims be neglected.

Of the large number of claims presented to the Board, most of them have been either "allowed" or "rejected," according as the Board believed them to be just or otherwise, from the evidence produced, the circumstances surrounding the case, and such information as they could procure from reliable sources. Their aim has been to do justice to the citizen, and at the same time protect the Commonwealth from wrong. A few claims will probably be left "suspended," for the reason that the Board are not satisfied of their correctness, and yet do not feel warranted in rejecting them, and thus prejudicing them, perhaps, in a future investigation.

The Board deem it not improper, in this connection, to say that the claims allowed by them and paid by the Treasury, "during the fiscal year," had no connection with the only "public improvements" in the hands of the State, any portion of the year (the canals sold to the Sunbury and Erie railroad company,) and consequently they cannot properly be embraced in any statement purporting to be an exhibit of the expenditures on these improvements.

On the third and last point to which the attention of the Board has been called, they would say that they regard the auditing department of the government, as the one to which the records and papers of this office should be assigned, on the abolition of the Canal Board, the Auditor General to be invested with all the powers and authority now possessed by this Board, in relation to claims, &c.; and we would suggest, as a convenience to members of the Legislature, who will, doubtless, frequently seek information therefrom, that they be retained for a few years at least in their present location, and that provision be made for the continuance of Mr. Wilson, the present Clerk of the Board. He is familiar with past legislation in reference to the public works, claims, &c., and with the proceedings of the Canal Board for many years. He is also possessed of much information valuable to the Commonwealth, not to be readily, if at all obtained from the records; and not only the auditing department, but the claim committees of the two Houses, would find him an important aid in the investigation of claims arising from the State improvements. Judging from what has passed, it is but reasonable to conclude that claims which have been reported against by the Board, and failed in the Legislature, will again be presented, the claimants hoping that forgetfulness of what has been done, or a want of knowledge of the facts involved, will open the way to the Treasury; and it is therefore highly important to the public interests to provide against the success of such movements.

In conclusion, the Board would remark that although they have suggested the tenth of February for the termination of this department, they cheerfully leave the whole matter to the judgment and discretion of the Legislature. If an earlier day be deemed consistent with the public interests and the rights of citizens claiming to be creditors of the Commonwealth, the Board would not, if they could, interpose against it, for there is nothing in the character of the duties in which they have latterly been engaged, to make their position a desirable one.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully, your obedient servant.

A. PLUMER, President.

VETO MESSAGE.

EXECUTIVE CHAMBER,
Harrisburg, Jan. 6, 1859.

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

GENTLEMEN:—Within ten days of the adjournment of the last General Assembly, a bill was presented for my approval, entitled "An Act supplementary to the acts relating to special courts."

This bill proposes to extend the various acts relative to special courts, so as to include all the judges of the district courts, and the associated law judges within this commonwealth, and to give to the district and associated law judges all the powers and jurisdictions of the proper president of the several courts of the county wherein the special court shall be held, in relation to all matters arising in such special court.

My objections to the bill are of a two-fold character. In the first place, I have serious doubts whether the Legislature can constitutionally substitute a judge of a district court, or an Associate law Judge of the common pleas for the proper president judge of a judicial district. The Constitution requires that the presence of a president judge, shall be necessary to the proper organization of certain courts; and it also requires that the president judge shall be elected by the people of the district over which he is to preside, and in virtue of such election, he is commissioned as president judge. Now this bill proposes to take judges, who were never elected nor commissioned as president judges, and give them all the powers and jurisdictions, for the time being, of the proper president of the district. If the Legislature can do this for a given time, what is to prevent an extension of the time so as to embrace the entire term of a Judge, and thus defeat the constitutional provision which secures to the people of a judicial district the right to elect their own president judge. To say the least, the change proposed is of exceedingly doubtful constitutionality; and therefore, cannot be justified, unless it were demanded by an overshadowing necessity. It will not be pretended that such necessity exists.

In the second place, if the constitutionality of the proposed enactment were conceded, in my judgment, it is totally unnecessary. Until within a very brief period the authority to hold special courts was confined to the president judge residing nearest to the place where the court was required to be held. In 1849 it was extended to the president judge of any adjoining district, and again, in 1853, to every president Judge of the common pleas throughout the State. Under the law as it now stands the several president judges of the courts of common pleas, may hold special courts, and even regular terms, where there is occasion for a special court in any county of the commonwealth. Surely this provision is broad enough to meet any and every demand for an exchange of judges.

For the reasons thus succinctly stated, I cannot give to this bill the Executive approval; I doubt its constitutionality, and I am clear that it is unnecessary. It is therefore returned to the Senate, where it originated, for re-consideration.

WM. F. PACKER.

VETO MESSAGE.

EXECUTIVE CHAMBER,
Harrisburg, Jan. 6, 1859.

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

GENTLEMEN:—On the 21st day of April last, which was within ten days of the adjournment of the last General Assembly, a bill was presented for my approval, entitled "An act to change the venue in the case of the Commonwealth vs. Anna Maria Veitengruber."

My objection to this bill is, that it proposes to transfer a trial upon an indictment for murder, now pending in the court of oyer and terminer of Sullivan county, to the court of oyer and terminer of Lycoming county, without making any provision for the payment of the costs and expenses of the trial. These belong, of right to the county where the offence was committed, and ought not to be thrown on another county. For this reason I cannot approve the bill, and it is therefore, herewith returned to the House of Representatives, where it originated, for re-consideration.

WM. F. PACKER.

PENN'A LEGISLATURE.

SENATE.

WEDNESDAY, January 12, 1859.

The Senate was called to order by the SPEAKER at 11 o'clock, A. M.

Prayer by the Rev. Dr. De Witt.

The Journal of yesterday's proceedings was read.

PETITIONS AND MEMORIALS.

Mr. BELL presented a petition from certain inhabitants of Delaware county, for the passage of an act to divide the county offices.

Mr. YARDLEY presented a petition from the Byberry and Bensalem turnpike road company, for an act to prevent free travel over said road.

Mr. SCOFIELD presented a petition from citizens of Venango county, for a new county, to include Spring Creek, Eldred and South-West, in Warren county.

Mr. RANDALL, chairman of the Committee on Railroads, reported the supplement to the Bedford railroad, as committed.

BILLS IN PLACE.

Mr. BELL, read in place and submitted to the Senate, "An Act to extend the jurisdiction of the orphan courts, in cases of testamentary tests."

Mr. TURNEY, "A further supplement to an act to provide for the appointment of a reporter of the decisions of the supreme court of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania."

Mr. PALMER, "A further supplement to an act, entitled 'An Act relative to huckstoring in the counties of Berks and Lebanon,' passed the 2th day of April, A. D. 1856."

Mr. PENNEY, "An Act to incorporate the Commercial Bank of Pittsburg."

Mr. PARKER, "An Act to incorporate the Commercial trust company."

Mr. STEELE, "An Act to appoint commissioners to re-survey and establish the line of the main road running through a part of Wilkesbarre township, in Luzerne county."

Mr. WRIGHT, "An Act to amend and extend the charter of the Mutual fire insurance company of Germantown and its vicinity."

The SPEAKER laid before the Senate the following resolution from the House:

Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed, to act in conjunction with a similar committee of the Senate, (if the Senate should appoint said committee,) to examine "A Manual for the Government of the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania," compiled by J. Zeigler, late Clerk of the House, in accordance with a resolution adopted at the last session of the Legislature.

Ordered, that Messrs. HAMERSLY, THORN and GRITMAN, be said committee;

Which was concurred in; and the SPEAKER appointed Messrs. WELSH, WRIGHT and SCOFIELD as the Senate committee.

Mr. SCOFIELD moved to re-consider the vote of yesterday on the appointment of an additional door-keeper.

The yeas and nays were called by Mr. FRANCIS.

Mr. BREWER hoped the gentleman from Mercer would withdraw his call for the yeas and nays. It was a mere courtesy, usual in all cases of a similar character, to move a re-consideration; and if the gentleman would allow the motion to pass, the resolution could lie over, and an opportunity be afforded for a discussion of its merits.

Mr. SCOFIELD remarked, that he had moved the re-consideration of the vote out of courtesy to certain gentlemen. Such a course was customary, and he also hoped that the call for the yeas and nays, would be withdrawn.

The call of the yeas and nays was withdrawn.

Mr. SCHELL moved the consideration of the supplement to the Bedford railroad bill; which passed its several readings, and was sent to the House for concurrence.

The SPEAKER laid before the Senate the following communication from the Superintendent of the State Lunatic Hospital; which was read:

PENNSYLVANIA STATE LUNATIC HOSPITAL, }
Harrisburg, Jan. 12th, 1859. }

Hon. JOHN CRESSWELL, Jr.,
Speaker of the Senate:

I would respectfully invite the members of the Senate to visit the Pennsylvania State Lunatic Hospital, whenever their duties will enable them so to do.

Very respectfully yours,
JOHN CURWEN, M. D.,
Superintendent.

Mr. RANDALL moved the consideration of House bill No. 23, incorporating the Western Market company; which was agreed to.

The Senate then went into committee of the whole. (Mr. BALDWIN in the chair.)

Mr. MARSELIS thought that, under this section, almost everything might be sold in the market house—even horses, if the corporators chose to do so; and he thought the change of the word "edibles" for "articles" should be made, and he moved to amend to that effect.

Mr. RANDALL did not object to the amendment proposed to be made by the gentleman; but he did not think that under the section, as it now stands, horses could be sold, unless it be in the shape of horse meat, of which he had no fear.

The amendment was agreed to.

After some time the Committee rose, and the chairman reported the bill as committed; after which, with some amendments, the bill passed, and was sent to the House for concurrence.

On motion of Mr. BLOOD, the House went into committee of the whole, on the bill changing the place of holding the election in Higbland township, Elk county. (Mr. FRANCIS in the chair.) Bill reported as committed.

The question being about to be put by the SPEAKER,

Mr. SCOFIELD said he should like to have the Senate go back to the preamble. If he was not mistaken it contained provisions which the Governor had refused to sanction, by signing the bills. We had a law giving the appointment of the places of holding elections to the courts, and the Governor and Attorney General had always held that any law taking from the courts this power, was illegal. He wished to show that there was some exception to the general rule in this case, that the bill might not be vetoed, and be compelled to be sent back to the House in order that the necessary change might be made in its provisions.

Mr. SCHELL remarked that the Governor had made a distinction in regard to such bills. Where the courts had jurisdiction, he would not sign the bill; but where they had not jurisdiction, he gave them his signature.

On motion of Mr. SCOFIELD, the preamble was re-considered, but finally passed. The bill was passed on its several readings, and sent to the House for concurrence.

Mr. TURNEY, chairman of the Committee on Finance, asked that the committee be discharged from the further consideration of House bill No. 6, authorizing the commissioners of Fayette county to borrow money; which was granted.

The Senate went into committee of the whole, (Mr. GAZZAM in the chair,) when the bill passed its several readings.

Mr. BREWER, chairman of the Judiciary Committee, asked that the committee be discharged from the further consideration of House bill No. 7, abolishing the office of sealer of weights and measures in Franklin and Lancaster counties; not agreed to.

On motion of Mr. WELSH,

Adjourned.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

WEDNESDAY, Jan. 12, 1859.

The House met, and was called to order at the usual hour.

SPEAKER in the chair.

Proceedings were opened with prayer by the Rev. C. A. Hay.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of yesterday; when,

On motion of Mr. THORN, the further reading of the same was dispensed with.

ORIGINAL RESOLUTIONS.

Mr. WILCOX submitted a resolution, that John R. Smith be continued in office until the 1st day of February next, to assist the present post master; which was twice read, considered and adopted.

On motion of Mr. CHURCH, it was ordered that the annual report of the State Librarian be published in the Daily Legislative Record.

Mr. PINKERTON offered a resolution, that Jacob Brubaker, of Schuylkill county, be appointed an additional assistant door-keeper; which passed to second reading;

And on the question.

Shall the resolution pass?

It was determined in the negative.

Mr. WILSON offered a resolution, that the report of the Canal Commissioners relative to the claims of the Borough of Bridgewater and certain citizens, together with accompanying documents, be referred to a select committee of three.

Mr. THORN said that he should like to know some reason for this extraordinary course.

Mr. WILSON said that he was personally acquainted with the matter, and knew that the examination of details would be too much labor for any regular standing committee. The facts should be brought before the House in a clear and proper manner, and the special committee, being unembarrassed with other business, could afford to go into minutiae, and make investigations, which would be impossible for any standing committee.

Mr. ROSE agreed with Mr. WILSON. The labor would be great, and there could be no objection to the appointment of a special committee.

Mr. CHASE apprehended that the labors of the regular standing committees this year would not be excessive, and thought that the special appointment was not warranted by the exigencies of the occasion. He desired to be more fully acquainted with the subject, and therefore, would suggest the reading of the report, which was the subject of discussion. The movement to appoint was an extraordinary one.

The Clerk. The report is in the hands of the printer, and cannot, therefore, be read.

Mr. ROSE denied that there was anything extraordinary in the matter. A committee was raised last session, which had charge of business relating particularly to Philadelphia, and its appointment had met with no opposition vote.

Mr. CHASE said that Mr. ROSE was laboring under a mistake. It was true that a committee of Philadelphians had been appointed last session to look after Philadelphia interests, but the speaker was not aware that a single claim had ever been referred to a committee appointed expressly for that purpose. If, as the clerk stated, the report was in the hands of the printer, so that the House could not have access to it, he would move a postponement of the subject for the present; which was agreed to.

Mr. WILLISTON offered a resolution, that the contract entered into last winter with R. J. Haldeman, for the publication of the Daily Legislative Record, be, and the same is hereby revoked and declared at an end.

Mr. GOEPP said that as it was a joint resolution, it would have to lie over for one day.

The SPEAKER stated that it was not in the form of a joint resolution.

The SPEAKER. Is the House ready to proceed to a second reading?

Mr. THORN. Is it a joint resolution or not?

The SPEAKER. It is not a joint resolution.

Mr. THORN being prepared to speak,

Mr. LAWRENCE, of Washington, stated that as he understood, the question was not yet debatable, as the House had not yet determined upon the second reading of the resolution.

Mr. GRITMAN rose to a point of order, which was that resolutions of this kind must be joint resolutions, and that the present one was therefore out of order.

The SPEAKER. The resolution is in order.

Mr. McCURE asked leave to make a statement. It was impossible, he said, to abolish this contract by any such resolution as the one just offered. Joint action could alone accomplish the object. He hoped that it would be withdrawn, as even if it passed, it could do no possible good, and would be of no effect.

The SPEAKER. The SPEAKER must entertain the motion. It is not his business to decide whether the resolution will accomplish the object or not.

Mr. LAWRENCE, of Washington, reiterated the assertion of Mr. McCURE that the passage of a resolution like the one offered would be useless, and do no good.

Mr. THORN stated that the views of Mr. LAWRENCE, of Washington, were similar to his own.

On the motion to proceed to the second reading and consideration of the resolution,

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. WILLISTON and Mr. NILL, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Barnsley, Boyer, (Schuylkill,) Kinney, McDowell, Neill, Patterson, Ramsdell, Smend, Thompson, Whitman, Williston and Lawrence, Speaker—12.

NAYS—Messrs. Abbott, Acker, Balliet, Bayard, Bertolet, Boyer, (Clearfield,) Brodhead, Bryson, Campbell, Chase, Custer, Dismont, Dodds, Durbaraw, Eckman, Ellmaker, Evans, Fearon, Fleming, Foster, Galley, Glatz, Goepf, Good, Graham, Gratz, Gray, Green, Gritman, Hamersly, Harding, Hill, Hottenstine, Irish, Jackson, Keneagy, Ketchum, Laird, Lawrence, (Washington,) Mann, Mehaffey, McClain, McClure, McCurdy, Miller, Nill, Oaks, Palm, Pennell, Peirce, Pinkerton, Porter, Price, Pugh, Quigley, Rohrer, Rose, Rouse, Shaffer, Sheppard, Shields, Smith, (Berks,) Smith, (Philadelphia,) Stephens, Stoneback, Stuart, Syer, Taylor, Thorn, Walborn, Walker, Warden, Wilcox, Wiley, Williams, (Bedford,) Williams, (Bucks,) Wilson, Witherow, Wolf, Wood, Woodring and Zoller—82.

So the question was determined in the negative.

Mr. HAMERSLY submitted the following resolution:

Resolved, That the Committee on Banks be instructed to inquire into the expediency of reporting a bill providing for the engraving, in the highest style of art, from designs which shall be approved by the Governor and State Treasurer, bank note plates of the various denominations, from five dollars to one thousand, from which all the notes issued by banks in the State shall be printed, changing only the name and the locality of the several institutions.

The resolution was read the second time; whereupon

Mr. SMITH, of Berks, moved to amend by striking out "five" and inserting "twenty;" which was not agreed to.

The question recurring, shall the resolution pass? It was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. GRATZ offered a resolution that the Clerk be authorized to furnish five hundred diagrams of the House, for the use of the members; which passed to second reading.

Mr. CRAWFORD moved to amend by striking out five hundred and inserting five thousand copies.

Mr. ROSE did not see the necessity of thus entailing additional expense upon the Legislature. Diagrams had been prepared last winter, and as far as the speaker was concerned, they had appeared to him as if printed from the same plates which had been heretofore used, with no material change except in the names of the members and clerks. Of what possible use were the diagrams, or who desired to send them to his constituents? It might, perhaps, be satisfactory to some of the representatives to inform their constituents of their exact location, and whether they had a good seat or not, but he did not believe that the people whom he had the honor to represent, cared anything about the matter.

Mr. GRATZ said that it was customary to have the diagrams, and as the number designated in the original resolution was small, he hoped that the motion would carry.

The amendment of Mr. CRAWFORD was lost.

Mr. McCURE moved to amend by making the number three thousand.

Mr. WILLISTON declared that it was only another species of Record printing that was calculated to be a donation to somebody. This matter might not cost much, but such small, useless expenses in the aggregate made up a sum of twenty-five or thirty thousand dollars.

Mr. ROSE moved to postpone the matter for the present. The motion was seconded by Mr. WILLISTON.

The motion was lost.

Mr. CHURCH said that if they were ever to have the diagrams, the present was the time. He expressed himself in favor of procuring a moderate number.

Mr. ROHRER rose to explain. As a practical printer, he desired to inform the members that the addition of a few thousand to five hundred copies would not entail much additional expense. The principal cost was in the original design.

Mr. FOSTER moved to amend the amendment of Mr. McCURE, by adding the following to the original resolution:

Provided that they are furnished at a cost not exceeding that of the diagrams of last session.

Mr. GRATZ, the original mover, adopted the amendment of Mr. FOSTER; whereupon

The question being taken upon the amendment of Mr. McCURE, it was carried, and the original resolution, as thus amended, passed.

Mr. NEALL asked and obtained leave to be excused from service on the Committee on the Militia System.

BILLS IN PLACE.

On motion of Mr. HAMERSLY, the House proceeded to the reading of bills in place, where interrupted yesterday by the selection of a committee on the contested election case of the Third representative district of Philadelphia.

Mr. HAMERSLY, then read in his place and presented to the chair, "An Act relative to passenger railway cars in the city of Philadelphia." (Referred to Committee on Railroads.)

Also, "A supplement to the act incorporating the Belmont Avenue and plank road company," approved April 8, 1852. (Referred to Committee on Roads and Bridges.)

Also, "A supplement to the general passenger railway act," approved April 21, 1853. (Referred to Committee on Railroads.)

Mr. THORN, "An Act to incorporate the Lombard and South Street passenger railway company." (Referred to Committee on Railroads.)

Also, "An Act to incorporate the Philadelphia theatre company." (Referred to Committee on Corporations.)

Mr. GRITMAN, "An Act providing for the recording of vendue lists, inventories and appraisements, by the register of wills, in and for the county of Luzerne."

Also, "An Act to incorporate the Luzerne powder company."

Mr. PALM, "An Act to abolish the office of sealer of weights and measures in Schuylkill county." (Referred to Committee of Ways and Means.)

Mr. WALKER, "An Act to change the place of holding elections in Southampton township, Somerset county;" and moved that the rule be suspended, and the House proceed to the consideration of the same; which was not agreed to; so the bill was referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Mr. KENLAGY, "A joint resolution relative to the final report of the geological survey of the State;" and moved that the House proceed to the consideration of the same.

Mr. CHASE moved to refer to a committee. (Was referred to the Committee on Ways and Means.)

Mr. PATTERSON moved that the rules be suspended, and that the House proceed to the consideration of the joint resolution of the gentleman from Tioga, (Mr. WILISTON.)

The joint resolution was then read, as follows:

Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, That the contract made at the last session of the Legislature, with R. J. Haldeman, to print a Daily Record for the use of the members, is hereby revoked and declared at an end.

Mr. WILISTON said that he had not moved for any suspension of the rules, and should like to know why the gentleman from Juniata thus took charge of his bill, and whether such a proceeding was parliamentary.

The Chairman decided that the resolution of Mr. PATTERSON was in order.

Mr. WILISTON. It would give me satisfaction to know why the gentleman thus takes charge of my resolution.

Mr. PATTERSON. The resolution, I believe, belongs to the House.

The Chairman. The Chair has so decided.

Mr. GRITMAN rose to a privileged question. As chairman of the committee appointed by the House to investigate the contested election case of the Third representative district, he was instructed to offer the following resolution:

Resolved, That the Senate committee appointed to investigate the contested seat of the Third representative district be, and are hereby authorized to employ a clerk.

The resolution was adopted.

The question being taken on the motion to proceed to a consideration of the joint resolution of Mr. WILLISTON, it was decided in the negative.

Mr. LAWRENCE, (Washington,) read in his place and presented to the Chair, "An Act for the relief of certain tax collectors in Washington county." (Referred to the Judiciary.)

Mr. SMITH, (Berks,) "An Act to incorporate the Union cemetery association of Womelsdorf, Berks county."

Also, "An Act to incorporate the Fairview cemetery association of Porkso." (Both referred to the Committee on Corporations.)

Mr. THOMPSON, "An Act concerning the sale of canals, railroads, turnpike and plank roads."

Mr. BARLOW, "An Act authorizing the appointment of commissioners to run the boundary lines between the counties of Centre and Clinton, and Union and Centre." (Referred to Committee on New Counties and County Seats.)

Mr. SHAFFER, "A supplement to the act approved April 3d, 1851, entitled 'An Act to regulate boroughs, so far as relates to the borough of Phoenixville.'" (Referred to Committee on Corporations.)

Mr. MILLER, "An Act authorizing the commutation of the death penalty in certain cases." (Referred to Committee on Judiciary.)

Mr. WILCOX, "An Act erecting parts of Clearfield, Cambria, Indiana and Jefferson into a new county, to be called Pine." (Referred to Committee on New Counties and County Seats.)

Mr. LAIRD, "An Act relative to foreign insurance companies in the county of Erie." (Referred to Committee on Judiciary.)

Mr. NILL, "An Act relating to the collection of taxes in the several counties of the State." (Referred to the Committee on Judiciary.)

Mr. ELLMAKER, "A further supplement to an act incorporating the borough of Marietta, approved March 9, 1843."

Mr. PRICE, "An Act regulating the fees of the aldermen, justices of the peace and constables, relative to poor and indigent persons applying or being sent to the hospital or house of employment in Lancaster county." (Referred to Committee on Judiciary.)

Mr. BRYSON, "An Act to prevent the destruction of fish in this Commonwealth." (Referred to Committee on Judiciary.)

Mr. GOOD, "An Act to incorporate the Iron-ton railroad and mining company of Lehigh county." (Referred to Committee on Ways and Means.)

Also, "An Act to incorporate the Allen insurance company of Lehigh county." (Referred to Committee on Corporations.)

Mr. KETCHUM, "An Act relating to sheriff's and prothonotary's costs in Luzerne county." (Referred to Committee on Judiciary.)

Mr. GOEPP, "An Act to annul the marriage contract between J. B. Emery and Elmira his wife." (Referred to Committee on Divorces.)

Also, "An Act for the relief of Catharine Keller, widow of Conrad Keller, a Revolutionary soldier."

Mr. McCLURE, "An Act relating to marriages." (Referred to Committee on Judiciary.)

Mr. GRATZ, a joint resolution calling upon the State Librarian to tender the thanks of this Legislature to Mr. Hachett, of Paris, France, for his donation to the Pennsylvania library.

On motion of Mr. GRATZ, the rule being in this case dispensed with, said resolution was taken up, and passed finally.

CONSIDERATION OF VETO MESSAGES.

On motion of Mr. CHASE, the House proceeded to the consideration of the veto messages, recently returned to the House.

The following vetos were then taken up:

EXECUTIVE CHAMBER,
Harrisburg, Jan. 6, 1859.

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

GENTLEMEN:—On the 21st day of April last, which was within ten days of the adjournment of the last General Assembly, a bill was presented for my approval, entitled "An act to change the venue in the case of the Commonwealth vs. Anna Maria Veitengruber."

My objection to this bill is, that it proposes to transfer a trial upon an indictment for murder, now pending in the court of oyer and terminer of Sullivan county, to the court of oyer and terminer of Lycoming county, without making any provision for the payment of the costs and expenses of the trial. These belong, of right to the county where the offence was committed, and ought not to be thrown on another county. For this reason I cannot approve the bill, and it is therefore, herewith returned to the House of Representatives, where it originated, for re-consideration.

WM. F. PACKER.

Agreeably to the provision of the constitution the yeas and nays were then called.

Aud on the question, Shall said bill pass, notwithstanding the objections of the Governor? it was determined in the negative by the following vote:

YEAS—None.

NAYS—Messrs. Abbott, Acker, Balliet, Barnes, Bayard, Bertolet, Boyer, (Clearfield,) Boyer, (Schuylkill,) Brodhead, Bryson, Burley, Campbell, Chase, Church, Custer, Dismout, Dodds, Durbaraw, Eckman, Ellmaker, Evans, Fearon, Fisher, Fleming, Foster, Galley, Glatz, Goepf, Good, Graham, Gratz, Gray, Green, Gritman, Hamersly, Harding, Hill, Hottenstine, Irish, Jackson, Keneagy, Ketchum, Kinney, Laird, Lawrence, (Washington,) Mann, Mehaffey, McClain, McClure, McCurdy, Neall, Nill, Oaks, Palm, Petterson, Ponnell, Pierce, Pinkerton, Porter, Price, Pugh, Quigley, Ramsdell, Rohrer, Rose, Shaffer, Sheppard, Shields, Smead, Smith, (Berks,) Smith, (Philadelphia,) Stephens, Stuart, Styer, Taylor, Thompson, Walborn, Walker, Warden, Witman, Wigton, Wilcox, Wiley, Williams, (Bedford,) Williams, (Bucks,) Williston, Wilson, Witherow, Wolf, Wood, Woodring, Zoller and Lawrence, Speaker—94.

The following veto came up in order

EXECUTIVE CHAMBER,
Harrisburg, Jan. 6, 1859.

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

GENTLEMEN:—The General Assembly at its last session, within ten days of the adjournment, presented for my approval a bill, entitled "An Act authorizing and requiring the supervisors of Corroll township, in the county of York, to grade a certain bill on the State road, in said township, leading from Harrisburg to Gettysburg, Adams county."

This bill provides, "that the supervisors of Corroll township, York county, be and are hereby authorized and required, within one year from the passage of this act, to employ a sufficient number of hands to dig down and grade, in a good and substantial manner, so as not to exceed an elevation of four degrees, a certain bill in Corroll township, York county, about three-fourths of a mile south of Dillsburg, on the State road leading from Harrisburg to Gettysburg."

I cannot approve of the bill, because it proposes to interfere with duties devolving exclusively upon the local officers of the township. It is impossible for the Legislature to go into an investigation and determine with accuracy what hills shall be graded, and how much money shall be expended by the supervisors of the various townships in the State; and if it were possible it is utterly impracticable and unnecessary; the law having wisely imposed those duties upon a much more appropriate tribunal. It is to be presumed that the supervisors of the township of Corroll will perform their duty, and grade such hills as require it, and if they fail to discharge the duties incumbent on their office, they are personally responsible to the public, and a summary remedy may be applied by the people at their annual township election.

There is no more sound and wholesome principle than that which allows each separate governmental organization, whether it be State, county or township, to regulate and manage its own affairs in its own way, subject only to the general law of the land.

Believing that the bill under consideration is wrong in principle, and calculated, if permitted to become a law, to establish a bad precedent, I am constrained to withhold from it the Executive approval. It is, therefore, herewith returned to the House of Representatives, where it originated, for re-consideration.

WM. F. PACKER.

On the question,

Shall the above bill become a law?

It was determined in the negative, as follows:

YEAS.—Messrs. Glatz, McClure, McDowell, Price and Wolf—5.

NAYS.—Messrs. Abbott, Acker, Balliet, Barnes, Bayard, Bayard, Bertolet, Boyer, (Clearfield,) Boyer, (Schuylkill,) Brodhead, Bryson, Burley, Campbell, Chase, Church, Custer, Dismout, Dodds, Durbaraw, Eckman, Ellmaker, Evans, Fearon, Fisher, Fleming, Foster, Galley, Goepf, Good, Graham, Gratz, Gray, Green, Gritman, Hamersly, Harding, Hill, Hottenstine, Irish, Jackson, Keneagy, Ketchum, Kinney, Laird, Lawrence, (Washington,) Mann, Mehaffey, McClain, McCurdy, Neall, Oaks, Palm, Patterson, Pennell, Pierce, Pinkerton, Porter, Quigley, Ramsdell, Rohrer, Rose, Rouse, Shaffer, Sheppard, Shields, Smead, Smith, (Berks,) Stephens, Stoneback, Stuart, Styer, Tyler, Thompson, Thorn, Walborn, Walker, Warden, Witman, Wilcox, Wiley, Williams, (Bedford,) Williams, (Bucks,) Williston, Wilson, Witherow, Wolf, Wood, Woodring, Zoller and Lawrence, Speaker—94.

So the bill was lost.

EXECUTIVE CHAMBER, }
Harrisburg, Jan. 6, 1859. }

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

GENTLEMEN:—On the day of the adjournment of the last General Assembly, a bill was presented to me for approval, entitled "An Act to encourage the manufacture of paper in this Commonwealth."

I cannot approve the bill,

First. Because provision is already made in the general manufacturing act for the incorporation of companies to manufacture paper;

Second. Because in the bill before me, the individual liability of the stockholders is much more limited than in the general law; and

Third. Because no provision is made for enforcing even the limited liability imposed by the bill.

For these reasons, the bill is herewith returned without the Executive approval, to the House of Representatives, where it originated, for re-consideration.

WM. F. PACKER.

A vote was then taken upon the above bill;

And on the question,

Shall the bill pass?

It was negatived, as follow:

YEA—Mr. Chase.

NAYS—Messrs. Abbott, Acker, Balliet, Barusley, Barlow, Bayard, Bertolet, Boyer, (Clearfield,) Boyer, (Schuylkill,) Brodhead, Bryson, Burley, Campbell, Church, Custer, Dismont, Dodds, Durbaraw, Eckman, Ellmaker, Evans, Fleming, Foster, Galley, Glaz, Geopp, Good, Graham, Gratz, Gray, Green, Gritman, Hamersly, Harding, Hill, Hottenstine, Irish, Jackson, Kenagy, Ketchum, Kinney, Laird, Lawrence, (Washington,) Mann, Mehaffey, M'Clain, M'Clure, M'Curdy, M'Dowell, Neall, Nill, Oaks, Palm, Patterson, Pennell, Peirce, Pinkerton, Porter, Price, Pugh, Quigley, Ramsdell, Rohrer, Rose, Rouse, Shaffer, Sheppard, Shields, Smead, Smith, (Berks,) Smith, (Philadelphia,) Stephens, Stoneback, Styer, Taylor, Thompson, Thorn, Walhorn, Walker, Warden, Witman, Wigton, Wilcox, Wiley, Williams, (Bedford,) Williams, (Bucks,) Wilson, Witherow, Woodring, Zoller and Lawrence, Speaker—91.

So the bill was lost.

EXECUTIVE CHAMBER, }
Harrisburg, Jan. 6, 1859. }

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

GENTLEMEN:—A bill, entitled "an Act for the erection of a school district out of parts of Lehman township, Pike county, and Middle Smithfield township, Monroe county, was presented for my approval within ten days of the adjournment of the last Legislature.

The title of the bill is explanatory of its object, which is the creation of an independent school district out of parts of two townships lying in adjoining counties. The bill is objectionable, because it is a departure from the general school system, destroying its uniformity, and calculated as a precedent to encourage similar applications from other quarters, and thereby rendering the whole system discordant and unintelligible to the officers whose duty it is to explain, expound and execute it.

The general plan is that each township, ward, or borough shall form a school district, with power conferred on the courts of quarter sessions to erect independent school districts upon the application of not less than twenty taxables of the township or townships out of which it is proposed to make the new district. No general provision has been made for erecting an independent district out of territory lying in more than one county, and it is obvious that such a district would not harmonize with the general system.

The 47th section of the school law requires the county commissioners to make a triennial return of the taxable inhabitants resident in each district, upon which the State appropriation is based. The assessment is made by the township assessors. This bill makes no provision for obtaining a return of the taxables of the district it proposes to create, and hence it would be difficult to ascertain its proportion of the State appropriation and the proper amount it would be entitled to receive from each township. The reason for the application for the new district is probably that the schools in the parts of the two townships proposed to be embraced in it would be better accommodated than they are by the present arrangement.

But this can be accomplished under the provisions of the general law, which authorizes the directors of adjoining districts to establish joint schools, and permit pupils from one district to attend the schools of an adjoining one, if more convenient.

I do not believe that good can come from special school laws. The present general law has been carefully matured, and seems to be well adapted to advance the interests and promote the prosperity of the great cause of universal education; and should therefore be adhered to, until time and experience prove that to change would be to improve it.

But whenever and wherever changes may be thought advisable, let the amendment be by general and not special laws.

Entertaining these views, I decline to sanction the bill under consideration, and in accordance with the requirements of the Constitution, herewith it return to the House of Representatives, where it originated, for re-consideration.

WM. F. PACKER.

A vote was then taken upon the above bill with the following result:

YEAS—Messrs. Brodhead, Campbell, and Stephens—3.

NAYS—Messrs. Abbott, Balliet, Barnslow, Barlow, Bayard, Bertolet, Boyer, (Clearfield,) Boyer, (Schuylkill,) Burley, Church, Custer, Dismont, Dodds, Durbaraw, Eckman, Ellmaker, Evans, Fearon, Fisher, Fleming, Foster, Galley, Geopp, Good, Graham, Gratz, Gray, Green, Gritman, Hamersly, Harding, Hill, Hottenstine, Irish, Jackson, Kenagy, Ketchum, Kinney, Laird, Lawrence, (Washington,) Mann, Mehaffey, M'Clain, M'Clure, M'Curdy, M'Dowell, Neall, Nill, Oaks, Palm, Patterson, Pennell, Peirce, Pinkerton, Porter, Price, Pugh, Quigley, Ramsdell, Rohrer, Rose, Rouse, Shaffer, Sheppard, Shields, Smead, Smith, (Berks,) Smith, (Philadelphia,) Stoneback, Stuart, Styer, Taylor, Thompson, Thorn, Walborn, Walker, Warden, Witman, Wigton, Wilcox, Wiley, Williams, (Bedford,) Williams, (Bucks,) Wilson, Witherow, Wood, Woodring, Zoller and Lawrence—Speaker—88.

So the bill fell.

EXECUTIVE CHAMBER, }
Harrisburg, Jan. 6, 1859. }

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

GENTLEMEN:—A bill was passed by both branches of the last Legislature, and presented for my approval within ten days of the adjournment, entitled "An Act to exempt certain school property from taxation."

The bill proposes to exempt from taxation a certain building erected by George Markle, in the village of Markleville, in the county of Perry, now occupied by the Markleville normal institute.

It is understood that the building is private property, and however commendable may be the public spirit and liberality of its proprietor, I can see no good reason for exempting it from taxation. In principle, I am satisfied that the exemption of any particular property from taxation is wrong. Taxation should be general, equal, and uniform. The more general the objects of taxation are, the more equal will be the distribution of the burdens of government, and the more cheerfully will they be borne by the people. To exempt particular property is to give an unfair advantage to its owner, and to make an invidious distinction between him and his neighbors. If frequently repeated in favor of individuals or classes, it would work intolerable mischief. I am constrained by an imperative sense of duty to decline approving of bills of this character.

The bill under consideration is therefore herewith returned to the House of Representatives, where it originated, for re-consideration.

W. F. PACKER.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass notwithstanding the objection of the Governor? the vote was as follows:

YEA—Mr. Sheppard—1.

NAYS—Messrs. Abbott, Acker, Balliet, Barlow, Bayard, Bertolet, Boyer, (Schuylkill,) Brodhead, Bryson, Burley, Campbell, Church, Custer, Dismont, Dodds, Durbaraw, Eckman, Ellmaker, Evans, Fearon, Fisher, Fleming, Foster, Galley, Glatz, Good, Gray, Green, Gritman, Hamersly, Hill, Hottenstine, Irish, Jackson, Kenagy, Ketchum, Kinney, Laird, Lawrence, (Washington,) Mann, Mehaffey, M'Clain, M'Clure, M'Dowell, Neall, Oaks, Palm, Patterson, Pennell, Peirce, Pinkerton, Porter, Price, Pugh, Quigley, Ramsdell, Rohrer, Rose, Rouse, Shaffer, Shields, Smead, Smith, (Berks,) Smith, (Philadelphia,) Stephens, Stoneback, Stuart, Styer, Taylor, Thompson, Thorn, Walker, Warden, Witman, Wigton, Wilcox, Wiley, Williams, (Bedford,) Williams, (Bucks,) Wilson, Witherow, Wolf, Wood, Woodring, Zoller and Lawrence, Speaker—86.

So the bill fell.

Mr. PATTERSON moved that the House proceed to the consideration of the bill just returned from the Senate, "An Act repealing an act changing the venues of a certain case from Northumberland to Union county."

Mr. HOTTENSTINE hoped that this bill would be referred to its appropriate committee. As a representative of Northumberland county, he was totally ignorant of the reasons why said act should be repealed, believing as he did, that the court of his county would do as ample justice as any other. He therefore trusted the bill would not pass without due consideration.

Said bill was then referred to the Committee on the Judiciary System.

Mr. GRITMAN offered a resolution that the bill and answer in the contested election case of D. R. M'CLAIN be printed for the use of the committee.

The SPEAKER laid before the House, a communication from the superintendent of the State Linnatic Hospital, inviting the Legislature to visit that institution.

On motion, the SPEAKER adjourned the House until to-morrow at 11 o'clock.

"An Act changing the place of holding the general and township elections in Highland township, Elk county."

"An Act to authorize the commissioners of Fayette county to borrow money."

BILLS IN PLACE.

Mr. WRIGHT asked leave to make a short statement. During the session of 1857, an act was passed to incorporate a company to construct a railroad in the counties of Philadelphia and Delaware. The company constructing the road have derived no income from it, but have incurred heavy liabilities, and are now considerably in debt. They are anxious that the Legislature shall grant them power to borrow money, and to make certain other provisions, for the extinguishment of their debt, as is not given them under the general railroad law. There are parties who are willing to take the stock of the road, under certain conditions, and they are anxious for this authority to borrow money, as contemplated by the bill, in order that they may finish the road, and properly equip it with cars, &c. He hoped that the bill, which he was about to read in his place and submit to the Senate, would pass without any interruption or delay.

Mr. WRIGHT presented a supplement to an act entitled "An Act to incorporate the Philadelphia and Darby railroad company," approved the 28th day of April, 1857.

Mr. RANDALL said he had been handed the bill just read, but he did not examine it carefully. He found, however, that it exempts the company from taxation, and makes a distinction in their favor, not granted by the general railroad law. He had no desire to impede its passage, but if this company were to be exempted, other bills might be passed in the same way.

Mr. WRIGHT explained that the company did not wish to be exempted from anything contained in the general railroad law, nor did any provision of the bill exempt them from taxation. They simply asked for authority to offer additional security for money which they were desirous of borrowing, in order to complete and equip the road.

Mr. BELL remarked that the road passed through a portion of his county, and he felt a desire to aid the company in its completion by any grant of legislation which was just and proper. He did not regard the bill as designing to exempt the company from any provision of the general railroad law, but as a simple act of justice, or rather for an act placing them in a fair way to do a simple act of justice.

Mr. MARSELIS wished to ask his colleague, (Mr. WRIGHT,) if the bonds to be issued by the company, were to be in the shape of chattle mortgages?

Mr. WRIGHT explained that there were to be no bonds issued; but the only thing asked for, was such authority as will enable the company to offer proper security for an amount of money sufficient to place the road in proper running order. The company was a poor one, and private property had, in many instances, been pledged for the payment of its debts. Pledges, to the amount of twenty thousand dollars, of private property, had already been made.

Mr. RANDALL added that the more he had gleaned of the bill as the discussion progressed, the more he was convinced that it contemplated a grant of power which should not be made. Of one thing he was certain—that it was an enlargement of corporate rights. He contended that the bill should go to committee in the regular way, for its investigation. By such a course, the interests of the company can suffer in no way, if the bill is right, while its hurried passage might entail injury upon the public; and he moved its reference to the committee.

Mr. WRIGHT was sorry his colleague had made the motion. The bill was simply one to enable the company to offer additional security, as well as additional inducement for the money desired for the completion and equipment of the road. The passage of this bill now, would enable the company to meet its debts, due on the 15th of this month; and if it was not passed, its notes might be protested, cutting serious injury to the road and ruin to the credit of the company. If the Senator could show him any reason, to convince him or the Senate, why the privilege asked for should not be granted, he would have nothing to say in its favor. He did not think there was anything wrong in granting the authority contemplated by the bill, or he should not have offered it or pressed its passage.

Mr. RANDALL wished to ask if increasing new bond-holders did not decrease the stock and impair the security of the bonds?

Mr. WRIGHT again explained that no bonds were to be issued by the company.

Mr. RANDALL had rested his motion to refer the bill to committee, simply upon the ground that such was the usual course of the Senate. It should go to committee; and it certainly could work no injury, for it must go to the House and take the ordinary course of legislation. If the notes of the company are liable to be protested, if this bill is not passed by the 15th of the present month, they will be protested anyhow; for but a few days intervene in which to afford the relief desired.

Mr. MARSELIS saw a necessity for the passage of the bill, that the bond-holders may have possession of the whole road, in order that they may be enabled to meet their debts, by securing money upon the additional security which the bill would enable them to offer.

On the motion to refer, the yeas and nays were called for, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Brewer, Coffey, Francis, Gazzam, Gregg, Harris, Parker, Penney, Randall, Schell, Scofield, Shaeffer, Schindel, Steele, Turney and Cresswell, Speaker—16.

NAYS—Messrs. Bell, Blood, Fetter, Keller, Marselis, Miller, Myer, Nunnemacher, Palmer, Rutherford, Thompson, Welsh, Wright and Yardley—14.

So the bill was referred.

Mr. BREWER presented "An Act relative to the banks of this Commonwealth."

Mr. RUTHERFORD presented "A supplement to the several acts relative to the liens of mechanics and material men."

Also, "An Act authorizing Asa Dimock, administrator of Layfayette G. Dimock, dec'd, to sell and convey certain real estate of said deceased."

Mr. RANDALL, "An Act to incorporate the Association for the construction of a statue of George Washington."

Also, "An Act to incorporate the Eighth and Ninth Street passenger railway of Philadelphia."

Also, "An Act to consolidate the stock of the Girard Bank of the city of Philadelphia."

Mr. MYER, "A supplement to an act in relation to the claim of Daniel A. Burdell, approved March 17, A. D. 1858."

Also, "Supplement to an act relative to the claim of Thomas Morely, approved March 17, 1858."

Mr. TURNEY, "An Act to incorporate the town of Jefferson, in the county of Cambria, into a borough, to be called the borough of Wilmore."

Also, a bill, entitled "An Act relative to the Hollidaysburg school district, in Blair county."

Mr. HARRIS, "A joint resolution relative to the revenue laws of the National Government."

Mr. MYER, "A bill for the better regulation of banking institutions in this Commonwealth."

ORIGINAL RESOLUTIONS.

Mr. SCHELL offered the following resolution: Resolved, That the Committee on Finance be instructed to inquire whether any authority exists for the use of the franking privilege by the members and officers of the Legislature, and if such authority does exist, to report to the Senate their opinion as to the propriety of repealing the same.

Pending the question,

Mr. SCHELL said he wished to say a few words upon the resolution. In submitting it to the Senate, he had two objects in view. The first was to ascertain whether any abuse did exist, as had been reported; and if so, by whom and in what manner. A second object was the abolition of the franking privilege, in order to protect the State from imposition, and, to save trouble to Senators.

Mr. HARRIS thought the franking privilege should be restricted, if not abolished. He had no doubt it was abused, and the resolution was one of inquiry, as to whether abuses did exist; and if so, where?

At the conclusion of Mr. HARRIS' remarks, a division of the Senate was called for, and the resolution lost.

Mr. SHAEFFER offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That the Sergeant-at-Arms be instructed to furnish the State Librarian with three copies of the Record daily, for the use of the Library.

Mr. BELL did not see the necessity of three copies of the Record. Was not one sufficient?

Mr. SHAEFFER explained that he had submitted the resolution at the request of the State Librarian. They were designed to be placed on file in the Library, where they would often be an object of interest, and afford information to the visitor, as well as others. The peculiar object he had in view, in securing three copies, was that in case one was destroyed, or lost, another might be preserved.

The resolution was agreed to.

The following resolution from the House, came up in regular order.

Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed to act in conjunction with a similar committee of the Senate, for the purpose of contracting for the publication of a Legislative Record containing full and accurate reports of the proceedings of both Houses of the Legislature. The contract to be submitted for the approval or rejection of the Legislature; and ordered, that Messrs. RAMSDALL, PATTERSON and WILCOX be the said committee.

Mr. WELSH, moved to amend by referring to a special committee of five.

Mr. BELL, suggested that the resolution should go to a special committee. It is a new subject, not contemplated at the beginning of the session, and therefore not specially provided for. There should be a special examination of the subject, and a special report made, as the standing committees are busily engaged with duties connected with the routine of regular business.

Mr. SCHOFIELD thought that the Senate could as well act upon the resolution to-day as at any other time. There was a contract in existence, under which the printing of the Record is now done, which, he understood, was to continue until a new one was made. So far as the Record was concerned in the Senate, he was well satisfied with the work. He had never seen better or fuller reports, and in all respects the reports were fuller and more accurate than at previous sessions. But the question now was, can the work be done better or cheaper? He understood that a proposition would be submitted to do the work at a lower rate than under the existing contract; and if it can be done at a lower rate, the Senate should take the proper steps to accomplish it.

Mr. SCHELL moved to amend the amendment, by striking out the words "special committee of five," and refer to the Committee on Public Printing; not agreed to.

The amendment of Mr. WELSH recurring,

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. WELSH and Mr. MILLER, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Bell, Brewer, Craig, Fetter, Keller, Marselis, Miller, Nunnemacher, Randall, Steele, Turney, Welsh, Wright and Cresswell, Speaker—14.

NAYS—Messrs. Baldwin, Coffey, Francis, Gazzam, Gregg, Harris, Myer, Palmer, Parker, Penney, Rutherford, Schell, Scofield, Shaeffer, Schindel, Thompson and Yardley—17.

So the question was determined in the negative.

The question recurring on the original motion; it was, on motion, referred to the Committee on Finance.

The bill to incorporate the Western market company, came up in regular order, and passed finally.

Mr. SCOFIELD asked that the Committee on Corporations be discharged from the further consideration of the bill authorizing the burgess of Erie city to act as mayor; withdrawn for the present.

Mr. BREWER called up the following resolution, offered by Mr. MILLER on Monday last, together with the amendment of Mr. BREWER, and the amendment to the amendment, offered by Mr. BELL:

Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, That David S. Spear be, and he is hereby appointed an additional assistant door-keeper to the Senate, for the present session.

To which resolution Mr. BREWER offered the following amendment: "that the name of David S. Spear be stricken out, and that of George J. Ripper inserted."

To which amendment Mr. BELL offered the following amendment: "that the name of Geo. S. Ripper be stricken out, and that of Isaac M'Clure inserted."

Mr. HARRIS desired to regard this question, as he did all others, and the first inquiry with him, in the discharge of his duty as a Senator, was whether an additional door-keeper was necessary? He was confident there was not. Last session there had been one too many appointed; and the object was to give place to persons hanging around the capitol. If, said he, the people could raise the veil which covers many of the transactions here, and see the profligacy which exists, they would spurn the actors whom they have sent here to subserve their interests. Unless a necessity could be shown to exist for an additional officer, he should vote against it.

Mr. BELL was not up to discuss the merits of the resolution, but to explain the object of his amendment. He wished to place his man upon an equality with the other two, as it was but fair that different sections should stand a fair chance. He asked the Senate to vote down the resolution, that the door-keeper may be elected in the usual way.

Mr. MILLER had one word to say in reply to the Senator from Butler. He disclaimed the imputation thrown out, that the resolution had been introduced for the purpose of giving place to hangers-on about the Senate. His resolution for the appointment of Mr. Spear was based upon his efficiency and obliging disposition in the discharge of his duties.

Mr. BREWER was not prepared for the appointment of an additional doorkeeper, merely because he had a man for whose election he was desirous. He based his advocacy of the resolution upon no such grounds. If the Senate should determine that an additional doorkeeper was not necessary, he should be content. If, however, the appointment was to be made, he wished to present his claims to the Senate. The question should be disposed of now. The old officers of the Senate who had been detained until to-day, had left, or were making preparations to leave; and if the service of any of them is desired, the question should at once be disposed of. He had nothing to say against Mr. Spear. He was a diligent and competent officer; but that was no argument why his district should remain unrepresented in the offices of the Senate. If it was to be ignored by Senators, he should like to know it. The Senator from Chester seemed to think that we are disposed to go into a fight directed against his man. He was not so uncharitable or unfair.—He did not come here begging for the selection of Mr. Ripper, or asking it as a charity. He demanded it as a right, and it was unjust to him and his district to slight its claims as they had been.

Mr. BELL made a motion indefinitely postponing the resolution as it now stands.

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. FRANCIS and Mr. WRIGHT, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Baldwin, Coffey, Francis, Harris, Keller, Myer, Nunnemacher, Palmer, Penney, Rutherford, Scofield, Shaeffer, Schindel, Wright and Yardley—15.

NAYS—Messrs. Bell, Blood, Brewer, Craig, Fetter, Gazzam, Marselis, Miller, Parker, Randall, Schell, Steele, Thompson, Turney, Welsh and Cresswell, Speaker—15.

So the question was determined in the negative.

The question on Mr. BELL'S amendment was put, and lost.

Mr. BELL moved to amend the amendment, by striking out all after the word "Resolved," and insert "that the Senate now proceed to the election of an additional Assistant Doorkeeper."

Mr. BREWER raised the question of order, whether after an indefinite postponement, the resolution could be entertained?

The SPEAKER decided that the resolution was in order.

After a running discussion of some length, embracing suggestions and plans arriving at the proper disposition of the question, participated in by Messrs. BELL, GAZZAM, HARRIS, RANDALL, SCHELL, PALMER and MILLER,

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. BELL and Mr. MILLER, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Bell, Blood, Brewer, Craig, Gazzam, Penney, Randall, Rutherford, Schell, Scofield, Shaeffer, Steele and Cresswell, Speaker—13.

NAYS—Messrs. Baldwin, Coffey, Fetter, Francis, Gregg, Harris, Keller, Marselis, Miller, Myer, Nunnemacher, Palmer, Parker, Schindel, Turney, Welsh, Wright and Yardley—18.

So the question was determined in the negative.

The amendment of Mr. BREWER recurring, The yeas and nays were required by Mr. BREWER and Mr. WELSH, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Brewer, Gregg, Myer, Penney, Randall, Schell, Shaeffer, Steele, Welsh and Cresswell, Speaker—10.

NAYS—Messrs. Baldwin, Bell, Blood, Coffey, Craig, Fetter, Francis, Gazzam, Harris, Keller, Marselis, Miller, Nunnemacher, Palmer, Parker, Rutherford, Turney, Wright and Yardley—19.

So the question was determined in the negative.

The original resolution recurring,

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. BELL and Mr. MILLER, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Blood, Craig, Gazzam, Miller, Palmer, Parker, Randall, Rutherford, Schell, Shaeffer, Turney and Cresswell, Speaker—12.

NAYS—Messrs. Baldwin, Bell, Brewer, Coffey, Fetter, Francis, Gregg, Harris, Keller, Marselis, Myer, Nunnemacher, Penney, Scofield, Schindel, Steele, Welsh, Wright and Yardley—19.

So the question was determined in the negative.

Mr. SCOFIELD renewed his motion for the discharge of the Committee on Corporations from the further consideration of the bill authorizing the burgess of Erie city to act as mayor. The Senate went into committee of the whole, (Mr. GREGG in the chair.)

Mr. SCHELL asked for an explanation of the bill.

Mr. SCOFIELD explained that the city of Erie had no mayor, and that the president of the common council had been acting in that capacity. They had discovered, however, that he had no authority to act as mayor, under the act of incorporation. Mr. FINNEY, who had charge of the bill, was detained from his seat by indisposition, and at his request he had called it up. This was the statement made to him by the Senator from Erie, and was all the knowledge he possessed with reference to the matter.

After a short time the committee rose, and reported the bill as committed; after which it passed on its several readings.

On motion of Mr. FETTER, the Senate adjourned.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

THURSDAY, Jan. 13, 1859.

The House met at the usual hour. SPEAKER in the Chair.

Prayer was offered by the Rev. Dr. BARTINE, of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

On motion of Mr. McCLURE, the reading of the Journal was dispensed with.

PETITIONS, &C., PRESENTED.

Mr. BRODHEAD presented a petition from Rachel Robinson, widow of an old soldier, asking for aid.

Mr. MILLER, one from citizens of Crawford county, for the passage of an act erecting a new county out of parts of Crawford, Warren and Venango counties.

Mr. LAWRENCE, of Washington, one from certain collectors of Washington county.

Also, two from citizens of Washington county, for the passage of an act creating a sub-school district in Carrol township, said county.

Mr. BALLIET, one from eight stockholders of the Susquehanna and Lehigh turnpike road company, to change the time for holding the annual election of said company.

Mr. GOEPP, two petitions from citizens of Northampton county, for the passage of an act to change the location of the county seat.

Also, one from Mrs. A. R. Emery, for the passage of an act divorcing her from her husband.

Mr. McDOWELL presented the petition of numerous citizens of Plum township, Allegheny county, and Franklin township, Westmoreland county, praying for the establishment of a new school district out of parts of said townships.

Mr. SMITH, (Berks,) one from citizens of Berks county, for the incorporation of the Union cemetery association of Womelsdorf, Berks county.

Mr. BURLEY, one from citizens of Antes township, Blair county, asking a repeal of the law in said township, passed the 20th day of February, 1857, for the protection of sheep and taxing dogs in said county.

Mr. QUIGLEY offered the following:

Whereas, It is alleged that Cornelius A. Walborn and Joseph M. Church, members elect to this House, are not constitutionally eligible to seats as members thereof, by reason that they have not resided in the respective districts which they claim to represent the requisite period of time prescribed in the second section of the first article of the Constitution of the State of Pennsylvania:

And whereas, Each House is by said Constitution made the judge of the qualifications of its members, subject to the qualifications therein prescribed; therefore

Resolved, That a committee of five be appointed to inquire into the right of the said C. A. Walborn and Joseph M. Church to set as members of this House, and that said committee shall have power to send for persons and papers.

The SPEAKER decided the resolution to be informal, inasmuch as the law prescribed a mode for trying the claims of contestants.

Mr. CHURCH asked leave to make a statement. Leave being given, he spoke as follows:

Mr. SPEAKER—This matter has been held over my head ever since I have been in Harrisburg. It has been placed before me at least once in every hour from daybreak to sundown, and I have made it a point to treat it with perfect indifference. I am glad to see that the House is disposed, or would be disposed, if a chance was given, to act in the same manner. I assure you that I would be the last man in the world to come forward and assume a seat in this body, without I was justly entitled to it; and I am proud to say now, that I came here with the sanction of one of the wealthiest and most important constituencies of the Commonwealth, and with a large majority of votes in my favor. Having been intrusted with legislative powers, it shall be my aim to do justice to those whom I have the honor to represent. The victory which I gained was not an easy one; for it was in a contest with a most vile and dirty opposition. The circumstances under which I am placed, force me to say this, and in the same connect on, I may state that the apportionment bill which was passed last session was a disgrace to any legislative body—a blot upon the statute book, and in fact the most loose and unstatesmanlike production which has ever emanated from these Halls. Why, sir, in accordance with the provisions of that bill, the district which I represent actually includes a precinct which is also in an adjoining district, and which rightly belongs to that district. In other parts of the city the same absurdities are to be found.

My opponents allege that I am ineligible to a seat on account of not having resided in the district from which I have been elected for one year preceding the election. If I am not eligible, then no member from Philadelphia is entitled to a seat in this House. The apportionment act was passed in April, and the election took place in October, thus leaving an interval of only six months. Now, there is an article in the Constitution of the Commonwealth which meets this case. It refers to justices of the peace and aldermen. The law requires them to live for one year preceding their election in the county, but if during that time a new county is made, then the law requires them to have resided in the territory out of which the new county is formed. I have been a citizen of Philadelphia for twelve years, and therefore was fully qualified.

I, sir, was a candidate for the Legislature before the gentleman who appears here to contest my seat, and who was my opponent in the late election, had left his native bogs in Ireland. In conclusion, let me again say, that I am proud to stand here and represent an enlightened constituency, and that it shall ever be my aim to do so in a worthy manner. I could say much of a personal nature concerning my opponent, but out of courtesy to the House, I will here close.

Mr. WALKER, "An Act to change the place for holding elections in Southampton township, Somerset county;" and, on his motion, the rule being in this case dispensed with, said bill was taken up and passed finally.

Mr. ROUSE, "An Act relative to navigation in Tionesta creek." (Referred to Committee on Inland Navigation.)

Mr. LAWRENCE, of Washington, "An Act erecting parts of Carroll township, Washington county, into a sub-school district." (Referred to Committee on Education.)

Mr. PRICE moved that the Committee on Railroads be discharged from the further consideration of the act, entitled "An Act extending the time for the commencing the Columbia and Octorara railroad beyond the time allowed by its act of incorporation and supplements thereto," and that then he would move that the House go into the consideration of the bill.

Mr. PRICE thought it necessary to ask the indulgence of the House to be allowed to explain the reasons why he desired the bill to pass immediately, which was, that about twenty thousand dollars of the stock now subscribed would be lost, unless legislative action be had immediately on the bill, in consequence of the statute of limitation intervening and cutting out many of the amounts now subscribed.

He therefore moved that the rule be suspended and the House proceed to the consideration of said bill; which was agreed to; and the bill passed finally; and ordered, that the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

LEGISLATIVE RECORD.

On motion of Mr. WILLISTON, the House next proceeded to the consideration of a joint resolution submitted by him yesterday, relative to the contract with R. J. Haldeman for the publication of the Record.

Mr. WILLISTON said that according to his understanding of the terms of the contract entered into last session for the publication of the Record with Mr. R. J. Haldeman, that contract expired at the end of the session in which it was made, and it had not been contemplated to continue it during this term.

Mr. SMITH, (Berks.) If the contract was read, it might throw some light upon the subject.

Mr. NILL said that by a resolution of the last Legislature, the printing of the Record was to be performed by R. J. Haldeman until otherwise ordered, or a new contract was made. It was evidently unfair and unjust to pass a resolution of this nature without first giving due notice to the contractor, who at present was not represented. He would therefore move that the further consideration of the matter be postponed for the present.

Mr. WILLISTON read a portion of the contract with R. J. Haldeman.

Mr. GOEPP said that he was able to furnish the whole of the act of the Legislature on the subject; which reads thus:

COPY OF CONTRACT.

CONTRACT made and executed this eleventh day of January, A. D. one thousand eight hundred and fifty-eight, between the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, by a joint Committee of the two Houses of the General Assembly thereof, under a resolution of said Houses, of the one part, and Richard J. Haldeman, of Harrisburg, publisher, of the other part. Said Haldeman agrees to publish a record of the proceedings of the two Houses during the present Session, including notices of the presentation and disposition of memorials, petitions and remonstrances; the introduction, reference and action upon bills and resolutions; sketches of debate; the yeas and nays upon important questions, and generally such particulars as shall fairly exhibit the action of the two Houses, and it shall also contain such reports, bills, and other documents, as may be ordered to be inserted therein by either House, and such laws of a public and general nature as may be furnished by the Secretary of the Commonwealth; the said publication to be styled "Legislative Record," to be under the supervision of the Superintendent of Public Printing, or such other officer as the two Houses may appoint, and to be issued under the following conditions and regulations, viz:

First. The said Record to be printed on a good quality of white printing paper, upon brevier type, to consist of not less than four pages to each number, the pages to be of the same form and size as those of the Record of last session.

Second. Three thousand copies of each number to be printed, one thousand thereof to be delivered to the Sergeant-at-Arms of the Senate, and two thousand to the Sergeant-at-Arms of the House. The said Record to be published daily (except Sunday) whenever sufficient matter is on hand to fill four pages.

Third. The said Haldeman to procure accurate reports of proceedings for said Record at his own proper expense, and faithfully conduct and execute the said publication, and perform all the duties and obligations herein assumed, without other compensation or allowance than that hereinafter expressed.

Fourth. Whenever practicable, the proceedings of the two Houses are to appear on the day following that on which they occur, and numbers of said Record are to be furnished as aforesaid, containing the proceedings from the commencement of the session, in the same quantity and of the same general character as future issues.

Fifth. It is expressly stipulated that no matter shall be republished without the assent or direction of one of the Houses, greater in amount than one column, where the same may be necessary to fill up the last page of a number in default of other matter.

Sixth. Two good securities shall be furnished by the said Haldeman, who shall execute, in connection with him, a bond in the penal sum of four thousand dollars, conditioned for the faithful performance by him of this agreement, and all parts thereof, to be by him kept and performed.

In consideration whereof, there shall be paid by the Commonwealth, to the said Haldeman, the sum of seven dollars for each full page of every issue of the aforesaid Record; so much of said compensation as shall have accrued on the first day of March next shall then be paid to the said Haldeman.

This agreement is made subject to the approval and confirmation of the two Houses respectively.

In witness whereof, the said committee, and the said party of the second part, have hereto subscribed their hands, at Harrisburg, this 11th day of January, A. D. 1858:

C. R. Buckalew,	} Of the Senate.
John Cresswell,
D. A. Finney,
Jno. K. Calhoun,	} Of the House,
A. K. McClure,
Peter Pat.
R. J. Haldeman.

According to the terms of this, the contract was to continue in force during this session, or until a new contract should be made. But the speaker had heard no valid reason assigned why the present Record should be abolished. He had heard no statement that a better or cheaper one could be procured, or that another contract could be made with advantage, if the one in existence was abolished. Under these circumstances, it was certainly advisable to let the matter rest. The joint action of the Senate and House could alone annul the compact.

Mr. WILLISTON said that there were many objections to the Record. It was worse than nothing, and was a false Record. During one of the most exciting questions of last winter the vote of the SPEAKER of the House had been misplaced, and the statements were often garbled. If a better one could not be procured, the speaker was in favor of the total abolition of the Record, and if any one was to be printed, he desired one that would contain the full and entire proceedings of the House.

Mr. FOSTER, feeling himself experienced in the duties of both publisher and reporter, was compelled to disagree with the gentleman from Tioga (Mr. WILLISTON) in regard to the accuracy of the Legislative Record of last session. The reports of proceedings which had appeared were as accurate as any reports ever obtained, except with the assistance of stenographers or phonographers. It was true that an occasional error had been made, and an occasional vote misplaced, but these things it was utterly impossible to avoid.

The Record of last session, the speaker said, had cost the State $3,976 00, and the Record of the previous year had cost $5,684. The one issued last year was evidently the best and cheapest ever laid before the House, and with this in view, Mr. FOSTER declared that he could not, and would not, vote for any obrogation of the present contract.

Mr. MILLER disagreed with the gentleman from Tioga, (Mr. WILLISTON,) who had said that the Record was "worse than nothing." It was certainly better than none at all. For his part, however, he was disposed to allow the subject to lie over until the committee, which had already been appointed in the matter, should report to the House. If they should propose another and more advantageous contract, then the present one might be annulled. But to leave the House without any Record at all of its proceedings, would not be right.

Mr. ROSE agreed with the gentlemen from Allegheny and Crawford counties, (Messrs. FOSTER and MILLER,) in the postponement of the subject for the present. It might not be possible to negotiate with other parties for the publication as cheap as at present, and it would be premature to annul the contract, until some knowledge was obtained as to the course to adopt in the future. Some errors had occurred last session, but the Record this winter, the speaker had observed, was mainly full and correct, and was much better than during last term. He doubted if a better one could be obtained.

LEGISLATIVE RECORD.

PUBLISHED BY AUTHORITY OF THE LEGISLATURE OF PENNSYLVANIA.

FOR THE SESSION OF 1859.

No. 9.

Mr. THORN said that he should vote for the resolution of the gentleman from Franklin, (Mr. NILL,) to postpone. But when the matter finally came up for adjustment, he should vote for a new contract, even if it be made with the same party. He should do this, because he doubted the power of one Legislature to bind a succeeding one by its acts, or to entail a contract upon another. Heretofore it had been left to each Legislature to determine its own publisher, and the action of last winter seemed to be without precedent.

If the resolution of Mr. WILLISTON should pass, the House would be left without any Record at all, and many of his constituents, the speaker declared, took pleasure in reading the proceedings of the House, and the action of their Representatives. If, however, it was possible or proper to annul the contract to-day, and go on without any Record, the speaker would vote for the adoption of such a course, but he did not want to be left without any Record. He should therefore agree with Mr. NILL to postpone.

Mr. PATTERSON desired to explain one point in the case. It was that the committee which had been appointed by the House, had no power to act, without the concurrence of a similar committee of the Senate.

Mr. CHURCH was happy to state that the reports which had appeared in the Record this winter had been excellent. In what he was about to say, he intended no reflection upon the reporters, to whom he only desired to allude in a complimentary manner. But he was ready to make a new contract, because he denied the right of one Legislature to bind a succeeding one. It would be very well to wait for the committee to report, but if that committee were not authorized to act, what would their report avail? The speaker was, under these circumstances, in favor of immediate action. While saying this, however, he would freely confess that he was satisfied with the present reports, which were very correct and proper, and than which, it was likely better would not be obtained.

Mr. RAMSDALL said that he was not disposed to join in any tirade against the present Record, or its publisher. Although it was, perhaps, inaccurate and badly printed, yet there was a stronger ground upon which he favored the making of a new contract. This was on the score of economy. He had inquired into the cost of printing a good Record, and found that it could be done at about one-third of the expense of the present. The existing price was exorbitant.

Mr. NEALL favored a postponement to await the committee report. He knew nothing of printing and reporting, and would, in regard to these, rely upon statements already made. But $7 per page was certainly an exorbitant price. He hoped that the resolution to postpone would pass, and that it would pass unanimously.

Mr. WILLISTON said that as he believed he had a right to close the debate, he would close it at this point.

Mr. CHASE did not desire especially to say anything as to the character of the Record, which last session was creditable, yet he denied the right of the Legislature of last winter to entail the contract upon this House. Mr. PATTERSON had said that a committee of the Senate would have to be appointed, to act in conjunction with that of the House. Now it was apparent that the Senate had no disposition to interfere with the matter, and the question therefore naturally recurred, whether it would not be better to proceed at once, than to allow a postponement, which would necessarily be indefinite. Would it not be well for the House to express its sentiments now, in favor of abrogating the existing contract?

Mr. ROSE stated that the gentleman from Susquehanna, (Mr. CHASE,) seemed to be laboring under a misapprehension. The speaker did not think that the last Legislature had entailed any contract upon this one. It was true that they had provided for the continued publication of the Record, but they had also left it free with both Houses to annul the agreement, by a joint resolution. It was, therefore, optional with the Houses to annul.

Pending the further consideration of the above resolution, the hour of twelve having arrived, the SPEAKER announced, that agreeably to order, the House would now proceed to draw a committee to investigate the contested election case of Oliver Evans, from the Thirteenth representative district of Philadelphia.

The Clerk called the roll of the members, when the following gentleman answered to their names:

Messrs. Abbott, Acker, Balliet, Barnsley, Barlow, Bayard, Bertolet, Boyer, (Clearfield,) Boyer, (Schuylkill,) Brodhead, Bryson, Burley, Campbell, Chase, Church, Custer, Dismont, Dodds, Durbaraw, Eckman, Ellmaker, Evans, Fearon, Fisher, Fleming, Foster, Galley, Glatz, Goepf, Good, Graham, Gratz, Gray, Green, Grisman, Hamersly, Harding, Hill, Hottentine, Irish, Jackson, Keneagy, Ketchum, Kinney, Laird, Lawrence, (Washington,) Mann, Mehaffey, McClain, McClure, McCurdy, Neall, Nill, Oaks, Palm, Patterson, Pennell, Pierce, Pinkerton, Porter, Price, Pugh, Ramsdell, Rohrer, Rose, Rouse, Shaffer, Sheppard, Shields, Smead, Smith, (Berks,) Smith, (Philadelphia,) Stephens, Stoneback, Stuart, Styer, Taylor, Thompson, Thorn, Wagoner, Walborn, Walker, Warden, Witman, Wigton, Wilcox, Wiley, Williams, (Bedford,) Williams, (Bucks,) Williston, Wilson, Withrow, Wolf, Wood, Woodring, Zoller and Lawrence, Speaker.

Absentees—Messrs. McDowell, Miller and Quigley.

Messrs. MCCLURE, TAYLOR and WILLISTON appeared as counsel for contestant, Mr. PROUDFOOT.

Messrs. GOEPP and GRITMAN appeared as counsel for the sitting member, Mr. PORTER.

The House then proceeded in the usual way to draw a committee. The following gentlemen were chosen said committee:

Messrs. LAIRD, CAMPBELL, GRAHAM, CHASE, MEHAFFEY, HILL, McCURDY, KINNEY and KETCHUM, who appeared before the SPEAKER'S desk and were severally qualified.

Mr. GRITMAN rose to a privileged question. As chairman of the committee on the contested election of the Third representative district, he presented a petition signed by all the members of the committee on Dr. MCCLAIN'S contested case, accompanied with a resolution that F. GEUR, Assistant Sergeant-at-Arms, be detailed to attend to and execute all processes, if required by the committee.

Resolution was read the second time.

And on the question,

Shall the same pass?

It was determined in the negative.

On motion of Mr. THORN, it was ordered that five hundred copies of the bill relative to insurance companies and other associations in the counties of Philadelphia and Allegheny, be printed.

Mr. GRITMAN rose and said it was necessary for him to report that Mr. MCCLURE was absent from the meeting of the committee on the contested election case of the Third representative district. Mr. GRITMAN then cited from the laws of the Commonwealth the duty of the Chair in such cases.

The SPEAKER called upon Mr. MCCLURE to explain.

Mr. MCCLURE did so by saying that his absence was absolutely necessary. That he intended no disrespect to the House or the committee by absenting himself from the meeting of the committee in question. Circumstances beyond his control made his absence unavoidable.

The Secretary of the Commonwealth being introduced, presented a message from the Governor, in writing; which was read by the Clerk.

Mr. LAIRD moved that the committee just drawn to investigate the contested case of T. H. PORTER, meet in the Library room to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock; which was agreed to.

The hour of one having arrived, the SPEAKER adjourned the House until to-morrow morning at 11 o'clock.

HARRISBURG, January 14, 1859.

To the Speaker and Members of the Senate of Pennsylvania:

GENTLEMEN:—We propose to publish a Daily Legislative Record, containing full and accurate reports of the proceedings of both Houses of the Legislature at twenty per cent. less than now paid to R. J. Haldeman, or at the rate of five dollars and sixty cents for each page, (the present price paid being seven dollars per page.)

For the faithful performance of the above proposition, we agree to enter into bonds with the Commonwealth in the penal sum of five thousand dollars, with good and sufficient sureties; and are furthermore willing to enter into articles of agreement under such restrictions as the Committee on Printing, or any other committee designated, may impose upon us. If our proposition should be accepted by the Senate, we stand prepared to furnish the first number of the Record within ten hours after the proposition shall have been accepted.

ORIGINAL RESOLUTIONS

Mr. BELL offered the following resolution:

Resolved, As the sense of the Senate, that each branch of the General Assembly possesses the right to select and appoint its own officers without the assent or approbation of the other, and that neither House can rightly refuse to provide by law for the reasonable compensation of officers re-elected or appointed.

Referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Mr. TURNEY offered the following preamble and resolution:

WHEREAS, It is alleged by one of the papers at Harrisburg, that the franking privilege has been abused by the Clerk of the Senate and the House of Representatives during the recess of the Legislature; therefore,

Resolved, That the Committee on Accounts be, and they are hereby required, to investigate said charge, and report the facts to this Senate. Which was adopted.

Mr. SCHELL offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That the Senate will on Monday next, the 17th inst., at 12 o'clock, M., proceed to the Hall of the House of Representatives, for the purpose of electing a State Treasurer, and that a Teller be appointed by the SPEAKER, to officiate on the part of the Senate, and that the Clerk inform the House of Representatives of the same, together with a list of the nominations that may be made by the Senate.

Which resolution was adopted, and Mr. SCHELL appointed Teller by the SPEAKER, on the part of the Senate.

Mr. SCHELL asked to be excused, which was not granted.

Mr. MILLER offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That the Governor is hereby requested to inform the Senate, under the act for the sale of the public works to the Sunbury and Erie railroad company, what sum was offered for the Delaware division of said works, by responsible persons; who the parties were; how much the sum offered by said parties exceeded that actually received for the said division from the Delaware division company; within what time after the passage of said act the entire public works of the Commonwealth were sold; and what sum of money the said Sunbury and Erie railroad company received for negotiating a sale to third parties.

Mr. MYER moved to postpone the further consideration of the resolution.

Mr. MILLER asked for information, whether the resolution lays over, or could be considered now? He was under the apprehension that it did not necessarily lay over, unless submitted in the shape of a joint resolution.

Mr. RANDALL did not know what the rule was, but he thought the resolution might be taken up and disposed of now, if it is to be disposed of at all.

Mr. MILLER was perfectly willing that the resolution should lie over.

On motion, the thirty-second rule was suspended.

Pending which, the resolution was laid over.

On motion of Mr. WRIGHT, the nominations now close. Agreed to.

Mr. BREWER made a motion, that when the Senate adjourns to-day, it adjourns to meet on Monday next at 11 o'clock.

Mr. HARRIS wished to be furnished with some reason, by the Senator from Franklin, for this contemplated adjournment. He considered the adjournment from to-day, until Monday, as an unnecessary waste of time, which their constituents would not justify them in.

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. HARRIS and Mr. BREWER, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Bell, Brewer, Craig, Gazzam, Marselis, Miller, Myer, Nunemacher, Palmer, Parker, Shaeffer, Schindel, Steele and Yardley—14.

Mr. RANDALL moved a re-consideration, on which

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. HARRIS and Mr. RANDALL, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Baldwin, Bell, Blood, Brewer, Craig, Gazzam, Marselis, Miller, Myer, Nunemacher, Palmer, Penney, Randall, Rutherford, Shaeffer, Schindel, Steele, Turney and Yardley—20.

NAYS—Messrs. Coffey, Fetter, Gregg, Harris,

Schell, Scofield, Thompson, Welsh, Wright and Cresswell, Speaker—10.

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. HARRIS moved to postpone; which motion was lost.

The question recurring on the original motion,

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. RANDALL and Mr. HARRIS, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Bell, Blood, Brewer, Craig, Gazzam, Marselis, Miller, Myer, Palmer, Parker, Randall, Rutherford, Shaeffer, Schindel, Steele, Turney and Yardley—17.

NAYS—Messrs. Baldwin, Coffey, Fetter, Francis, Gregg, Harris, Nunemacher, Penney, Schell, Scofield, Thompson, Welsh, Wright and Cresswell, Speaker—14.

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. TURNEY, chairman of the Committee on Finance, reported the House bill in relation to the purchase of Purdon's Digest and Sutherland's Manual, for the use of the members.

Mr. TURNEY moved to amend by striking out "Sutherland's Manual," which was agreed to.

Mr. RUTHERFORD moved to amend further by adding McKinney's Tax Laws; which was not agreed to.

Mr. MILLER asked for information with reference to the price of Sutherland's Manual and that of Zeigler's.

Mr. TURNEY remarked that Sutherland's Manual was one dollar and twenty-five cents, and the cost of Zeigler's one dollar.

Mr. SCOFIELD remarked that the Senate had already ordered Zeigler's Manual. It was printed at our expense, and was ours. The copyright at present belonged to the State; whereas Sutherland owned his copyright, and if the Senate ordered any copies of the work, the State would have to pay for it.

Mr. TURNEY moved to amend the title by striking out "Sutherland's Manual," and inserting "Zeigler's Manual."

The bill as amended finally passed.

The following message from the Governor was received and read:

EXECUTIVE CHAMBER,
Harrisburg, Jan. 14, 1859. }

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

GENTLEMEN—I have approved and signed the following acts of the General Assembly, viz:

On the 13th inst., "An Act to authorize the Commissioners of Fayette county to borrow money."

"An Act changing the place of holding the general and township elections in Highland township, Elk county."

"An Act to fix the place of holding elections in Orville township, in Bradford county."

W. F. PACKER.

Mr. YARDLEY moved that the Senate proceed to the consideration of House bill, No. 39, being a supplement to the act incorporating the Spinnerstown and Goshenhoppen turnpike company; which was agreed to.

On motion, the Senate went into Committee of the whole, Mr. MARSELIS in the Chair.

After a short time the committee arose and reported the bill, as committed, after which it passed its several readings, and was sent to the House for concurrence.

On motion of Mr. SCOFIELD, the Senate adjourned.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

FRIDAY, Jan. 14, 1859.

The House met at the usual hour, the SPEAKER in the chair.

Prayer was offered by Rev. Mr. Castleman, of the Episcopal church.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of yesterday.

Mr. SMITH, (Philadelphia,) moved that the reading of the same be dispensed with.

Mr. THORN opposed the motion; which was then withdrawn by Mr. SMITH.

Mr. LAWRENCE, (Washington,) moved that the reading of so much of the minutes as relates to petitions be dispensed with; which was agreed to.

The Clerk then read the Journal, in which occurred a reprimand by the SPEAKER to Mr. McCLURE, who was necessarily absent from the meeting of the committee to investigate the right of D. R. McCLAIN to a seat in this House.

Mr. THORN moved that a special committee of five be appointed, to whom that portion of the Journal referring to the reprimand to Mr. McCLURE should be referred for correction.

In explanation, Mr. THORN said that it must be obvious to all that the Journal of the House in the matter alluded to was not correct. No such things had taken place as were asserted.—The speaker was not disposed to adopt false statements. Although slight at present, and of apparently little consequence, the affair ten years hence might assume a serious aspect.—The appointment of a committee of five had seemed to be the only accessible means by which the desired end could be attained, and either by the adoption of this course, or some other, the correction should be made.

Mr. GRITMAN offered an amendment, to the effect that so much of the Journal as refers to the proceedings of the reprimand be expunged.

Mr. THORN believed that they could not be expunged, if a single person in the House objected. He desired to know whether, if the resolution as amended should pass, it would go upon record?

The SPEAKER. It will.

Mr. THORN. That is what we desire to avoid, if possible, and would prefer to come to an amicable adjustment in some other manner. I hope that the matter will be referred to the committee, and that the gentleman will withdraw his amendment.

Mr. GRITMAN. If the gentleman will propose any better plan, I will cheerfully withdraw my amendment.

Mr. CHURCH said that he had considered the whole matter as a joke, and had not expected it to be entered upon the Journal as serious. If it was allowed to remain, however, it might hereafter be considered as a reflection upon the honorable gentleman, and this should not be allowed. He earnestly desired to get rid of it, and believed and hoped that by the unanimous consent of the House, it could be expunged from the minutes and forgotten. It might, however, be a useful lesson to the members in future, to conduct themselves in a more statesmanlike manner.

Mr. LAWRENCE, (Washington,) desired to make a suggestion. He believed that it was in the power of the SPEAKER to correct the Journal. The reprimand had evidently been a mere matter of sport, and the SPEAKER, he hoped, would erase the proceedings at once.

Mr. WILCOX concurred with Mr. LAWRENCE relative to the power of the SPEAKER, and the course which he should adopt.

Mr. KETCHUM said that when the reprimand had taken place, he had been disposed to consider it in the light of a joke, which one friend might indulge in with another. Entertaining this view, he had rather encouraged it, but without supposing for a moment that it would assume the serious aspect which it had taken. One thing however, was evident, and that was there was no better way to increase its importance, than to refer to a special committee. It would then become a subject for grave deliberation. He hoped that Mr. THORN would withdraw his motion, and that the matter would be at once expunged from the Journal. This course was due to the House; to the gentleman from Franklin, (Mr. McCLURE,) and to the gentleman from Luzerne, (Mr. GRITMAN.) If a committee should be chosen, the fact, together with their discussion, would go abroad throughout the State, and the people seeing it recorded, and not knowing the circumstances, would attach undue importance to a trivial occurrence. The speaker would beg, nay implore the House to proceed at once, and expunge the proceedings.

The SPEAKER stated that on reference to a decision of 1833, he found that he had no authority to expunge.

Mr. THORN said that the passage of any motion to expunge from the Journal part of the proceedings of the House, afforded a dangerous precedent. The record was incorrect, and the question therefore was not one of expunging, but of correction; and a correction too of what must be a manifest error to every body. It was proper to state that a new difficulty might arise, from the fact that it would be necessary to again report Mr. McCLURE for absence from the committee yesterday.

A published record carried the proceedings of the House to every part of the State, and would be preserved for years. Who could say but that ten years hence, the matter would be seized upon by some scribbler for political fame, and used to the detriment of the member from Franklin. It was impossible to expunge or deface the record, and the evil must be remedied in another way. It would never do for an arbitrary majority to have the power to wipe out the proceedings, for the precedent would be too dangerous.

Mr. THORN expressed a willingness to modify his motion, so as to refer the Journal to the SPEAKER and Clerk for correction.

Mr. NILL favored the views of Mr. THORN, and hoped to see the matter in question properly taken from the Journal. He was willing to adopt the course which would be most advantageous to the parties concerned, and the proposal of Mr. THORN seemed to be satisfactory, viz: to refer to the SPEAKER and Clerk.

Mr. LAWRENCE, (Washington,) moved, as an amendment to the amendment of Mr. GRITMAN, that the Journal be referred to the SPEAKER and Clerk for correction; which was adopted, and the matter was thus finally disposed of.

ORIGINAL RESOLUTION.

Mr. WILLIAMS, (Bucks,) submitted a resolution that when the House adjourn, it will adjourn to meet again to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock, and that that be the standing hour for meeting until otherwise ordered.

The House refused to pass to the second reading of the same.

Mr. GLATZ offered a resolution, that when this House adjourn, it do so to meet again next Monday at 11 o'clock, A. M.

Mr. WILLIAMS, (Bucks,) said this really appeared as if the House was not disposed to do anything for all time to come. He would chronicle the fact for the information of the members that there was a bill pending to reduce the salary of the Representatives to five hundred dollars, and if they had anything to do, they had better do it quickly. The bare idea of adjourning over till Monday was an absurd one. The House met every day at 11 o'clock, consumed two hours with the debate of vexed questions, and adjourned. If there was anything to do, why not do it? If there was nothing to do, why then pass the five hundred dollar bill and go home.

Mr. HAMERSLY wished this resolution to be postponed, for when it came up in due time, he designed making a motion to reduce the pay of members far below what the gentleman from Bucks, (Mr. WILLIAMS) contemplates. It would then be seen who would be the most economical.

The question recurring,

Shall said resolution be read the second time?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. WILLIAMS and Mr. HAMERSLY, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Abbott, Balliet, Bertolet, Boyer, (Clearfield,) Brodhead, Burley, Custer, Ellmaker, Evans, Galley, Glatz, Gray, Green, Gritman, Harding, Keueagy, Ketchum, Kinney, McClain, Neall, Nill, Pierce, Porter, Price, Rohrer, Sheppard, Smead, Smith, (Berks,) Smith, (Philadelphia,) Stephens, Styer, Walhorn and Wood—33.

NAYS—Messrs. Acker, Barnsley, Barlow, Bayard, Boyer, (Schuylkill,) Bryson, Campbell, Chase, Church, Dismont, Dodds, Durbaraw, Eckmau, Fearon, Fisher, Fleming, Foster, Goepp, Graham, Gratz, Hamersly, Hill, Hottenstine, Irish, Jackson, Laird, Lawrence, (Washington,) Mann, Mehaffey, McClure, McCurdy, McDowell, Miller, Oaks, Palm, Patterson, Pennell, Pinkerton, Pugh, Quigley, Ramsdell, Rose, Rouse, Shaffer, Shields, Stoneback, Stuart, Taylor, Thompson, Wagonseller, Walker, Warden, Wigton, Wilcox, Wiley, Williams, (Bedford,) Williams, (Bucks,) Williston, Wilson, Witherow, Wolf, Woodring, Zoller and Lawrence, Speaker—63.

So the question was determined in the negative.

Mr. SMITH, (Berks,) offered a resolution that the act introduced by the gentleman from Bucks, (Mr. WILLIAMS,) for the repeal of so much of the act of 21st April, 1858, as related to the salaries of members of the Legislature, be the first thing in order after the regular orders of the day.

Mr. McCLURE asked leave to make a statement. It would be impossible to consider that bill to day, inasmuch as a special committee was to be appointed at 12 o'clock.

Mr. THORN advocated its immediate consideration.

Mr. WILLISTON should like to have it taken up at as early a day as possible.

Mr. SMITH, in response to an intimation that he had submitted the resolution as a matter of form, merely to satisfy his constituents, said that he had offered it with the most unaffected sincerity. He did not admit the right of Mr. THORN or any member to impute to him improper motives. If it was impossible to proceed to the consideration of the bill to day, then he would modify the resolution so as to consider it at the earliest possible day. While he desired to conform to the well known wishes of his constituents upon this question, he was at the same time actuated by higher considerations of public duty, in supporting the bill proposed to be considered. A further increase of compensation, as proposed by the gentleman from Philadelphia, would doubtless be but just to the pre-eminent deservings of that gentleman; ordinary men do not estimate themselves so highly, and will acquiesce in the reduction of the present salary as provided for in the act of the gentleman from Bucks. The subject would probably provoke much discussion, into which it would now be premature to enter.

The SPEAKER here stated that as the resolution was not the property of the House, it was not debatable.

Mr. HAMERSLY inquired whether the bill had not been already referred to a select committee. If so, then a motion would have to be made that said committee be discharged from the further consideration of the bill, prior to before proceeding any farther.

The SPEAKER replied that the bill had not been so referred.

Mr. HAMERSLY then added that the question was wholly out of order.

The SPEAKER decided it not in order—it was not the function of the Chair, however, to determine whether the resolution will accomplish the desired object or not.

The question recurring,

Will the House proceed to the second reading and consideration of said resolution?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. SMITH, (Berks) and Mr. STEPHENS, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Acker, Barnsley, Barlow-Bertolet, Boyer, (Clearfield,) Brodhead, Bryson, Burley, Custer, Dismont, Durbaraw, Eckman, Fearon, Galley, Glatz, Goepf, Graham, Gray, Gritman, Hill, Hottenstine, Jackson, Keneagy, Kinney, M'Curdy, Oaks, Patterson, Pennell, Porter, Rohrer, Shaffer, Shields, Smith, (Berks,) Smith, (Philadelphia,) Stephens, Stoneback, Stuart, Taylor, Thompson, Wagonseller, Walker, Warden, Williams, (Bedford,) Williams, (Bucks,) Wilson, Wolf, Woodring and Zoller—48.

NAYS—Messrs. Abbott, Balliet, Bayard, Boyer, (Clearfield,) Campbell, Chase, Church, Dodds, Ellmaker, Evans, Fisher, Fleming, Gratz, Hamersly, Harding, Irish, Ketchum, Laird, Lawrence, (Washington,) Mann, Mahaffey, M'Clain, M'Clure, M'Dowell, Miller, Neall, Palm, Peirce, Pinkerton, Price, Pugh, Ramsdell, Rose, Rouse, Sheppard, Smead, Styer, Thorn, Walborn, Wigton, Wilcox, Wiley, Williston, Wood and Lawrence, Speaker—46.

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

SELECTION OF A COMMITTEE.

Pending the further consideration of the above,

The hour of twelve having arrived, the House, agreeably to order, proceeded to the selection of a committee to investigate the right of OLIVER EVANS to a seat in this House.

The Clerk called the roll of the members, when the following gentlemen answered to their names:

Messrs. Abbott, Acker, Balliet, Barnsley, Barlow, Bayard, Bertolet, Boyer, (Clearfield) Boyer, (Schuylkill,) Brodhead, Bryson, Burley, Campbell, Chase, Church, Custer, Dismont, Dodds, Durbaraw, Eckman, Ellmaker, Evans, Fearon, Fisher, Fleming, Foster, Galley, Goepf, Graham, Gratz, Gray, Green, Gritman, Hamersly, Hill, Hottenstine, Jackson, Keneagy, Ketchum, Kinney, Laird, Lawrence, (Washington,) Mann, Mahaffey, M'Clain, M'Clure, M'Curdy, Miller, Neall, Oaks, Palm, Pennell, Peirce, Pinkerton, Porter, Price, Pugh, Ramsdell, Rose, Rouse, Shaffer, Sheppard, Shields, Smead, Smith, (Berks,) Smith, (Philadelphia,) Stephens, Stoneback, Stuart, Styer, Taylor, Thompson, Thorn, Wagonseller, Walker, Warden, Wigton, Wilcox, Wiley, Williams, (Bucks,) Williams, (Bedford,) Williston, Wilson, Witherow, Wolf, Wood, Woodring, Zoller and Lawrence, Speaker—93.

Mr. HAMERSLY appeared as temporary counsel on behalf of the contestant, and Messrs. GOEPP and GRITMAN officiated on behalf of the sitting member, Mr. EVANS.

Messrs. BAYARD and BRODHEAD were appointed tellers on the part of the House.

A committee was then chosen after the usual manner, consisting of the following named gentlemen, who were duly sworn:

Messrs. ACKER, WILSON, FISHER, FOSTER, THOMPSON, THORN, ROSE, SMITH, (Berks,) and MILLER.

On motion of Mr. HAMERSLY, said committee was directed to meet in the east committee room to-morrow at 9 o'clock.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES ON CONTESTED ELECTION CASES.

Mr. GRITMAN rose to a privileged question. As chairman of the committee in the case of D. R. M'CLAIN, he was instructed to report the absence of Mr. A. K. M'CLURE from the meeting of said committee.

The SPEAKER asked Mr. M'CLURE, whether he had a satisfactory excuse to make, for his non-attendance.

Mr. M'CLURE rose and presented to the Chair the following, which was read by the Clerk:

ANSWER OF A. K. M'CLURE,

Who was reported to the House for non-attendance upon the select committee to try the contested election from the Third representative district of Philadelphia.

I have failed to attend the several meetings of the committee because other engagements rendered it impossible for me to do so. I was selected one of the counsel for another contestant, (Mr. PROUDFOOT, of Cambria,) before the committee, of which I am a member, was drawn; and at the time of the drawing I rose in my place in the House and asked to be excused from serving, because I was counsel in another case that would be in course of investigation at the same time, and, also, because I must necessarily be absent the whole of next week. The Chair decided me out of order, on the ground that no member could be excused from serving unless challenged. I immediately called upon the counsel for the defendant, and asked him to challenge me. He refused to do so, and stated that if I could not attend all the sessions of the committee, I could examine the testimony taken and join in the report.

The first meeting of the committee was held on Tuesday evening. I spent that evening in consultation with the contestant from Cambria and the associate counsel. But two days more remained in which his petition could be presented or amended, and the case admitted of no delay. Hence my failure to attend the first two meetings of the committee, and the same reason detained me on Thursday.

On Thursday, the chairman of the committee (Mr. GRITMAN) reported me to the House for non-attendance, as was his duty, in accordance with the one hundred and sixty-second section of the act relating to elections. I was called upon to account for my absence, and answered, in effect, if not substantially, as follows: "I was absent from the committee because other engagements rendered it necessary for me to be absent, and it is impossible for me to be in two places at one time. In failing to attend, I certainly meant no disrespect to either the House or the committee."

The SPEAKER replied: "The gentleman from Franklin will come forward and receive a reprimand." I obeyed the mandate of the Chair; and when I presented myself at the bar of the House, the SPEAKER said: "The gentleman from Franklin will be kind enough to consider himself reprimanded."

The spirit in which it was done and regarded by the House, made it a matter of little moment; but the fact that it has been made a matter of record, and found its way into the public prints, compel me, in justice to myself, to state the facts, and make them of record also.

My presence is not indispensable on the committee, nor has its business been retarded at all by my absence. Seven of the nine constitute a quorum, and the Chair erred in the conviction that the failure of one member to attend must dissolve the committee. Two may be absent all the time, and different members each time, and yet the proceedings have all the formality of law.

I have in no respect neglected to discharge my duty. My absence has been unavoidable, for the reasons stated, and it is impossible for me to meet at all within the next ten days. I insist, therefore, that I shall be excused from time to time, as required by the law, "when satisfactory reasons" are given, until it is in my power to attend.

Respectfully submitted,

January 14, 1859. A. K. M'CLURE.

Mr. GRITMAN moved that the statement just read be deemed as sufficient.

Mr. M'CLURE asked whether for the alleged offence, committed yesterday and to-day, his statement would be deemed satisfactory.

Mr. GRITMAN replied that he intended the motion to cover both cases.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion of Mr. GRITMAN?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. M'CLURE and Mr. THORN, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Abbott, Acker, Balliet, Barnsley, Barlow, Bayard, Bertolet, Boyer, (Clearfield) Boyer, (Schuylkill,) Brodhead, Bryson, Burley, Campbell, Chase, Church, Custer, Dismont, Dodds, Durbaraw, Eckman, Ellmaker, Evans, Fearon, Fisher, Fleming, Foster, Galley, Glatz, Goepf, Graham, Gratz, Gray, Green, Gritman, Hamersly, Harding, Hill, Hottenstine, Irish, Jackson, Keneagy, Ketchum, Kinney, Laird, Lawrence, (Washington,) Mann, Mahaffey, M'Clain, M'Curdy, McDowell, Miller, Neall, Oaks, Palm, Patterson, Pennell, Pierce, Pinkerton, Porter, Price, Pugh, Ramsdell, Rohrer, Rose, Rouse, Shaffer, Sheppard, Shields, Smead, Smith, (Berks,) Smith, (Philadelphia,) Stephens, Stoneback, Stuart, Styer, Taylor, Thompson, Thorn, Wagonseller, Walborn, Walker, Warden, Wigton, Wilcox, Wiley, Williams, (Bedford,) Williams, (Bucks,) Williston, Wilson, Witherow, Wolf, Wood, Woodring, Zoller and Lawrence, Speaker—91.

NAYS—None.

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. M'CLURE demanded that the explanation be put upon the record.

On motion of Mr. Laird, it was ordered that 100 copies of the bill and answer on the contested election case of Mr. PORTER, of Cambria county, be printed for the use of the members of the committee, and that the services of a clerk be secured for the same.

ORIGINAL RESOLUTION.

Mr. M'CLURE submitted a resolution that the House, in conjunction with the Senate, on next Monday at 12 o'clock, M., proceed to the election of a State Treasurer, according to law—that general nominations for that office be made to-day—that a teller be appointed on the part of the House—and that the Clerk of the House be requested to inform the Senate of the same; which was adopted.

Mr. STEPHENS nominated Mr. E. W. Hamlin.

Mr. JACKSON nominated Mr. Smith, (Berks.)

Mr. GRAY nominated Mr. Jno. Phalon.

Mr. MILLER nominated Mr. Price.

Mr. LAWRENCE (Washington) nominated Mr. William H. Keim, (Berks,) but withdrew it.

Mr. SMITH, (Berks,) here stated that as he did not wish to embarrass the Democratic caucus, he would most respectfully withdraw his name.

Mr. PRICE withdrew his name.

On motion of Mr. GLATZ, the nominations were here closed.

Mr. FOSTER was appointed Teller on the part of the House.

The Deputy Secretary of the Commonwealth being announced, presented a message from the Governor in writing, which was read: as follows:

EXECUTIVE CHAMBER, }
Harrisburg, Jan. 14, 1859. }

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

GENTLEMAN:—I have approved and signed the following acts of the General Assembly:

An Act to authorize the commissioners of Fayette county to borrow money.

An Act changing the place of holding elections in Highland township, Elk county.

WM. F. PACKER.

On motion, the SPEAKER adjourned the House until to-morrow morning at 11 o'clock.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

SATURDAY, Jan. 15, 1859.

The House met at the usual hour. The SPEAKER in the chair.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of yesterday; when,

On motion of Mr. WOLBORN, the further reading of the same was dispensed with.

The SPEAKER then directed the Clerk to read that part of the Journal referring to Mr. M'CLURE, of Franklin; which was read and approved.

VETO MESSAGE.

The House proceeded to the consideration of the following veto message:

EXECUTIVE CHAMBER, }
Harrisburg, Jan. 6, 1859. }

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

GENTLEMEN:—On the last day of the legislative session of 1858, a bill was presented for my approval, entitled "An Act further to provide for the incorporation and regulation of insurance companies within this Commonwealth."

I have examined the bill before me, which is very voluminous, with great care, and have devoted much time and attention to its consideration. Finding many of its provisions wise, and well calculated to exercise a beneficial influence over the management of the various insurance companies of the State, and recognizing the great necessity for legislation on the subject, it is with regret I announce to the General Assembly that I found the bill in some of its terms and details so extremely objectionable that in my judgment it ought not to become a law.

The first section of the bill makes it the duty of the judges of the district courts in the cities of Philadelphia and Pittsburg, annually to appoint three commissioners, who shall, in each year examine the statements made by the insurance companies in their respective cities, and in the county of Allegheny, and when the commissioners are satisfied that any such company is possessed of the amount of capital named in the section, the commissioners shall certify to the fact, and upon obtaining said certificate, the company may lawfully transact the business of an insurance company, subject to the annual renewal of the certificate. But in the event that the commissioners shall find upon examination that the company or association is insolvent, or without the capital required by the act, they are directed to report the fact to the proper court of the county, which court is required to issue an injunction, to restrain the company or association from transacting the business of insurance. And, if the insolvency reported by the commissioners shall appear to be correct, the court is to appoint a receiver to wind up the affairs of the company, and distribute its assets, after the payment of expenses, ratably among the creditors of the company. The section also requires the insurance companies of the city of Philadelphia to provide an office for the commissioners, in which a record of their proceedings is to be kept.

The power of the Legislature to appoint a commissioner to inquire into the condition of insurance companies, and to authorize judicial proceedings in case of such as are believed to be insolvent, is unquestionable, and the exercise of such a power would probably be highly beneficial to the interests of the public; but this section requires every solvent company to obtain annually a certificate in the nature of a license to transact business, and this applies to all companies now existing, as well as to those which may hereafter be incorporated. It is questionable whether such a restriction or condition can be imposed upon the legitimate exercise of powers already granted. The various acts incorporating insurance companies, give the right to commence and continue the business of insurance on certain terms therein specified. This bill proposes to alter these terms by imposing others which may interrupt their business, though they may be perfectly solvent and even prosperous, and it also subjects them to other than judicial control; and finally, it deprives them of an appeal to the supreme court of the State, as by the nineteenth section the decision of the district court is made final and conclusive.

The section is, moreover, incongruous and imperfect; for, while it requires the commissioners to report to the court such companies as are found to be insolvent, or without the requisite capital, it only authorizes proceedings against such as are reported to be insolvent, making no disposition whatever of such as are solvent, but without the required capital.

The second section makes the refusal or neglect of any company to comply with the conditions of the first section, cause of forfeiture of the charter, and imposes upon the president and secretary, upon conviction thereof, a fine of five hundred dollars. It is difficult to perceive why the president and secretary should be liable to conviction and punishment for the neglect or refusal of the company, acting through its board of managers, to comply with the requirements of the section.

Under the fourteenth section of the bill, mutual insurance companies now incorporated and located in the cities of Philadelphia, Pittsburg, or Allegheny, or having agencies therein, as well as all such companies hereafter to be incorporated, wherever located, are forbidden from issuing any policy of insurance until they have a subscription list of persons desiring to become insured members, whose premiums shall amount in the aggregate to fifty thousand dollars; such companies are also required to confine their risks to the counties in which they may be severally located, and the adjoining counties; and are enjoined from issuing any policy until notice of the form thereof shall be published in one or more newspapers of the county where such company shall be located.

These provisions, in my opinion, are unnecessarily stringent and severe upon mutual insurance companies. Some of the most substantial and reliable companies in this Commonwealth are based upon the plan of mutual liability, with premium notes assessable for losses; their insurances extending to every city and county in the State, amounting in the aggregate to many millions of dollars, and as well secured as they can possibly be by any joint stock company. Why should such companies, so organized, and which make no dividends of profits, whether located in the cities of Philadelphia or Pittsburg, or Allegheny, or elsewhere, be confined in their risks to the county in which the particular company may be located and the counties adjoining thereto, while joint stock companies, that are the subject of speculation, and that declare large profits, are given a charter extensive as the State? I have looked in vain for a sufficient reason for making this distinction. Common justice requires that all shall be placed by law on an equal footing, and that none shall be favored or proscribed; then if either system prove unworthy of confidence, let it be condemned; and instead of limiting its operations to a single county or neighborhood, let it be entirely abrogated. Besides, the provision under consideration directly interferes with the power and privileges already solemnly granted by charter to mutual insurance companies, to extend their business throughout the Commonwealth.

Again, would not the provision which requires premium notes to the amount of at least fifty thousand dollars before a policy can be issued, prevent any company from going into operation on the mutual principle, at least in the interior of the State? If two and a half per cent. be taken as an average rate of insurance, it would require property offered to be insured amounting to two millions of dollars to produce the required fifty thousand dollars of premium notes; and when it is recollected that no insurance could be effected outside of the county where the company may be located, and those immediately adjoining it, it is obvious that in many sections of the State it would be nearly or quite impossible to obtain the amount of applications thus required.

The eighteenth section is also objectionable. It provides "that the insurance companies and insurance associations respectively, of the city of Philadelphia and of the city of Pittsburg, insuring property against loss by fire, shall, after obtaining the certificate required by this act, appoint one delegate each to meet in convention in the city of Philadelphia, on the last Tuesday of September next, and adopt such uniform fire policy or policies as such convention shall deem necessary and proper, copies of which shall be filed with the insurance commissioners in said cities, and also with the Auditor General immediately after their adoption, and published by the said companies in each of said cities for at least one week in two daily newspapers having the largest bona fide circulation therein; and such policies shall, on and after the first day of December next, become of general use; and it shall not be lawful for any insurance company incorporated by or doing business within this Commonwealth, thereafter to issue any policy of insurance against loss by fire in the city of Philadelphia, or county of Allegheny, other than in the form of the policies so agreed upon and adopted; and any company or the agent of any company issuing any policy in violation of this section, shall forfeit and pay the amount of insurance specified in any such policy to the party so insured: Provided, That this section shall not apply to companies exclusively mutual."

This section deprives the companies therein named of the power of making contracts of insurance on such conditions and terms as may be agreed to by both parties. Whatever the nature of the property, or of the risk, or wherever it may be situated, and whether the contract be made through an agent or by an immediate officer of the company, no form can be used, under a heavy penalty, except the one agreed upon in convention.

The right or liberty to settle the terms and conditions and form of the contract, is necessarily included in the general grant of power to make insurance without express words, and it is also given expressly in very many charters.—The conditions, limitations, modifications, covenants and warranties in policies of insurance, are as various as the risks, and heretofore the parties to the contract were at liberty to make their own bargain. But this section requires the companies to agree through delegates to a common form, or forms, which shall be used in every case. Even in the conveyance of real estate this is not practicable; but in matters of contract, which relates to an infinite variety of risks and contingencies, it is, in my opinion, impossible. It is the policy of our law to leave all who are competent to contract free to agree for themselves, stipulating, however, for things lawful, and observing good faith, and, to my mind, the attempt to produce uniformity in contracts of insurance is such a departure from that policy, confirmed as it is by the experience of ages, as to render the experiment neither practicable nor desirable. It is quite impossible to foresee what special conditions it may be necessary to introduce into a policy, and it is unwise to place it out of the power of the parties to provide for such contingencies. The result of the adoption of this provision would undoubtedly be that no prudent company would take any risk that was not sufficiently provided for by the contract settled by the convention; and consequently parties wanting special risks insured would be compelled to go out of the State to get their insurance.

It will afford me great pleasure to co-operate with the General Assembly in providing additional checks, and making other salutary regulations for the government of insurance companies, so as effectually to protect the public against the impositions and fraudulent practices of dishonest institutions. But for the reasons already assigned, I cannot approve of this bill. It is, therefore, herewith returned to the House of Representatives, where it originated, for reconsideration. WM. F. PACKER.

In obedience to the provisions of the Constitution, a vote was then taken.

On the question,

Shall the above bill become a law notwithstanding the objection of the Governor? the yeas and nays were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Church, Foster, Neall and Rohrer—4.

NAYS—Messrs. Abbott, Acker, Balliet, Barnsley, Barlow, Bayard, Bertolet, Boyer, (Clearfield,) Boyer, (Schuylkill,) Brodhead, Bryson, Burley, Campbell, Chase, Custer, Dismont, Dodds, Durbaraw, Eckman, Ellmaker, Fearon, Fisher, Fleming, Galley, Glatz, Goepf, Graham, Gray, Green, Hamersly, Harding, Hill, Hottenstine, Irish, Jackson, Keneagy, Ketchum, Kinney, Laird, Lawrence, (Washington,) Mann, Mehaffey, M'Clure, M'Curdy, M'Dowell, Miller, Oaks, Palm, Patterson, Pennell, Peirce, Pinkerton, Porter, Price, Pugh, Ramsdell, Rose, Rouse, Shaffer, Shields, Smead, Smith, (Berks,) Stephens, Stoneback, Stuart, Taylor, Thompson, Thorn, Wagon seller, Walborn, Walker, Warden, Witman, Wigton, Wilcox, Wiley, Williams, (Bedford,) Williams, (Bucks,) Williston, Wilson, Witherow, Wolf, Woodring, Zoller and Lawrence, Speaker—85.

So the question was determined in the negative.

The House next proceeded to the consideration of the following:

EXECUTIVE CHAMBER, }
Harrisburg, Jan. 6, 1859. }

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

GENTLEMEN:—I herewith return to the House of Representatives, where it originated, a bill presented for my approval on the 21st day of April last, entitled "An Act to authorize Isaac M. Pennock, trustee, to appropriate certain portion of a trust fund to the payment of debts due for the support of the cestui que trusts."

The first and only section of this bill provides that Isaac M. Pennock, trustee of Mary A. Woods and children, be authorized and empowered, and is hereby authorized and empowered, to appropriate two thousand dollars of the trust estate in his hands for the payment of debts due for the support and maintenance of the cestui que trusts: Provided however, That the same be done under the order and subject to the control of the orphans' court of the proper county, and that the amount so appropriated and used shall be accounted for under the laws of this Commonwealth relating to such matters.

My objection to this bill is that it is a legislative appropriation of money received by a trustee under a power which specifies the objects of the trust and directs the application of the trust fund. If the proposed legislation is in accordance with the provisions contained in the deed of trust, it is unnecessary. If it is in contravention of the trust, it is the exercise of a doubtful power, and therefore clearly wrong. He who conveys property to another in trust for private purposes, has the undoubted right to direct the application of the trust fund; and so long as such direction is not forbidden by the law of the land, it should be scrupulously followed. Any interference with such direction, even by the constituted authorities of the State, would be an infringement of private rights, and ought to be carefully avoided.

Entertaining these views, I cannot approve the bill under consideration.

WM. F. PACKER.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass notwithstanding the objections of the Governor? the yeas and nays were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Mr. Bayard—1.

NAYS—Messrs. Abbott, Acker, Balliet, Barnsley, Barlow, Bertolet, Boyer, (Clearfield,) Boyer, (Schuylkill,) Brodhead, Bryson, Burley, Campbell, Chase, Church, Custer, Dismont, Dodds, Durbaraw, Eckman, Ellmaker, Fearon, Fisher, Fleming, Foster, Galley, Glatz, Goepf, Graham, Gray, Green, Gritman, Hamersly, Harding, Hill, Hottenstine, Irish, Jackson, Keneagy, Ketchum, Kinney, Laird, Lawrence, (Washington,) Mann, Mehaffey, M'Clure, M'Curdy, M'Dowell, Miller, Neall, Oaks, Palm, Patterson, Pennell, Peirce, Pinkerton, Porter, Price, Pugh, Ramsdell, Rohrer, Rose, Rouse, Shaffer, Sheppard, Shields, Smead, Smith, (Berks,) Stephens, Stoneback, Stuart, Taylor, Thompson, Thorn, Wagon seller, Walborn, Walker, Warden, Whitman, Wigton, Wilcox, Wiley, Williams, (Bedford,) Williams, (Bucks,) Wilson, Witherow, Wolf, Woodring, Zoller and Lawrence, Speaker—90.

So the question was determined in the negative.

The House then took up the following:

EXECUTIVE CHAMBER, }
Harrisburg, Jan. 6, 1859. }

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

GENTLEMEN:—On the 21st day of April last, the General Assembly presented for my approval a bill, entitled "An Act to quiet titles under wills executed in other States;" and as the Legislature, by its final adjournment, prevented its return at that session, I herewith send it back, with my objections, to the House of Representatives, in which it originated, for re-consideration.

This bill provides that, in all cases in which the owner of lands within this Commonwealth, residing at the time of his demise in any other of the United States, shall have devised his said lands in this State, by last will and testament, executed and proved in accordance with the requirements of the laws of the State where he executed the same, and the devisee or devisees, his or their heirs or assigns, shall have held and paid taxes on said lands, for twenty years or upwards, the title shall be deemed as good and valid as if said last will and testament had been executed and proved within this State, and in conformity with the laws of this Commonwealth.

I cannot approve of this bill, because it proposes by retro-active legislation to declare titles to land good, which would be clearly bad without such legislation. It is a well settled rule of law, and a rule of property, as well as of law, that wills by which real estate is devised must be executed and proved according to the law of the place where the land lies. It is also well settled that mere payment of taxes will not of itself give title to real estate. A legislative declaration, therefore, that a will not executed according to the laws of this State, accompanied by payment of taxes for twenty years, conveys a good title to land, is contrary to the existing law, and it is highly probable that such a declaration would be inoperative so far as regards rights already vested. I question the power of the Legislature to make one man's title good, and consequently destroy the title of another, by such legislation. Wills not proved and executed according to the laws of this State, are, as to land within this Commonwealth, no wills at all; and upon the death of the owner of such land the title descends to his heirs at law. Now to declare that land so situated, shall pass by will and not by descent, savors more of a judicial decree than of a legislative enactment. Similar legislation has heretofore been declared, by the highest judicial tribunal in this Commonwealth, to be unconstitutional and void, and it is not likely that the present attempt to make a good title out of a bad one, would be successful. At all events, I feel that I am in the performance of a plain duty, in refusing to give the bill under consideration, my official sanction.

WM. F. PACKER.

Mr. WILLISTON said that he did not know whose bill this was, or who it would affect, but he could not agree with the Governor in the views which had induced the veto message. He could see no valid objection to the bill, and hoped that the veto would fall. If a man had a right to dispose of his property as he pleased, he should not be debarred from doing so by any technical objection.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass, notwithstanding the objections of the Governor? the yeas and nays were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Acker, Balliet, Graham, Mann, M'Clure, Neall, Pinkerton, Price, Rouse, Witman and Williston—11.

NAYS—Messrs. Abbott, Barnsley, Barlow, Bayard, Bertolet, Boyer, (Clearfield,) Boyer, (Schuylkill,) Brodhead, Bryson, Burley, Campbell, Chase, Church, Custer, Dismant, Dodds, Durbaraw, Eckman, Ellmaker, Fearon, Fleming, Foster, Galley, Glatz, Goepf, Gray, Green, Gritman, Hamersly, Harding, Hill, Hottenstine, Irish, Jackson, Keneagy, Ketchum, Kinney, Lawrence, (Washington,) Mehaffey, M'Curdy, M'Dowell, Miller, Oaks, Palm, Patterson, Peirce, Porter, Pugh, Ramsdell, Rohrer, Rose, Shaffer, Shields, Smead, Smith, (Berks,) Stephens, Stoneback, Stuart, Taylor, Thompson, Thorn, Wagon seller, Walborn, Walker, Warden, Wigton, Wilcox, Wiley, Williams, (Bedford,) Williams, (Bucks,) Wilson, Witherow, Wolf, Woodring, Zoller and Lawrence, Speaker—76.

So the question was determined in the negative.

Mr. FOSTER, as chairman of a select committee, in accordance with the 139th section of the act relating to elections, approved July 2, 1839, respectfully reported that Mr. ROSE had neglected to attend the meeting of the committee on the contested seat of Mr. EVANS, of the Thirteenth representative district of Philadelphia.

Mr. ROSE said that the only excuse which he had to offer, was that he had been mistaken as to the time of meeting of the committee in question. He had been on another committee which met at 10½ o'clock, and had been in error as to the hour designated for the assembling of the first. He hoped that the House would consider this as a sufficient excuse, inasmuch as this was the first time which he had yet been absent from a committee meeting.

Mr. THORN moved that the House consider the excuse as satisfactory; which was agreed to.

ORIGINAL RESOLUTIONS.

Mr. CHASE offered a resolution calling upon the different heads of departments of the Commonwealth, to furnish the House with a statement of the estimated contingent expenses of their respective departments in detail; which was adopted.

Mr. FOSTER, as chairman of the committee to investigate the contested seat of Oliver Evans of the Thirteenth representative district, offered a resolution that the committee be authorized to employ a clerk, and to have the bill and answer printed; which was read, considered and adopted.

Mr. THORN asked leave to make a statement; leave was given.

Whereupon Mr. THORN said that the late Clerk of the House, who, in common with the other members the speaker held in high esteem, had requested the presentation of the following preamble and resolution. He asked permission of the House to offer them. The House consenting, he read the following:

WHEREAS, It is alleged by one of the papers of Harrisburg, that the franking privilege has been abused by the Clerks of the Senate and House of Representatives, during the recess of the Legislature; therefore,

Resolved, That the Committee on Accounts be, and are hereby instructed, to investigate the said charge, and report the facts to the House.

Mr. THORN stated that he knew nothing of the matter personally, not having even seen the article in the newspaper. He only desired that justice might be done to the parties interested.

Mr. WILLISTON said that recently a decision had been made in the House, that reports which were not based upon better authority than the newspapers, were not to be considered by committees. Out of regard, however, for the Clerk of the late House, the speaker would not oppose this motion, although the precedent was a bad one.

Mr. KETCHUM said that the case referred to by Mr. WILLISTON, was essentially different from the one at present before the House. In the former instance, the question had affected a corporation, (a body which proverbially had no soul,) but now, it was a question affecting a private individual, a regard for whose rights and feelings should provoke a full investigation. He hoped that the resolution would pass.

Mr. WILLISTON did not wish to be misunderstood. He would make no opposition to the passage of this particular resolution.

The question being taken, the resolution was adopted.

Mr. CHURCH asked permission of the House to make a statement, and would first request the reading of an article from a Harrisburg newspaper of the morning. Leave being given, the Clerk read the following:

"TROUBLE IN HIGH LIFE—A LEGISLATOR COWHIDED.—Yesterday afternoon, soon after the adjournment of the House, the neighborhood of State and Second streets was the scene of quite an animated encounter between two gentlemen from Philadelphia—the one holding a seat as Representative, and the other as contestant.—The difficulty grew out of some remarks made by Col. Church, the holding member, whilst the question of his right to a seat was under consideration in the House. Donovan struck Church several blows, broke his cane over his head, and drew his cowhide, with which he dealt a number of severe blows. The parties were separated by some gentlemen, who chanced to be present, and the unfortunate affair was prevented from leading to more serious consequences. Col. Church, we understand, has several cuts and bruises across his head and face, although not seriously injured. These are the facts, as well as we have been able to glean them."

Mr. CHURCH desired to say in regard to this matter a few words. It was his duty to do so, for the article in question contained a reflection upon the House, through one of its members. That member was himself, and his actions were the property of the House. Whatever he might do in the streets of Harrisburg he felt himself responsible for to his fellow members.

The statement in the paper was incorrect, perhaps not intentionally so, but through ignorance. The speaker had had no contest with any party, and as long as he was a representative, would have none, either in the streets of Harrisburg or elsewhere. He owed a duty to his honorable constituents, and would endeavor to maintain it in a worthy manner.

Mr. ELLMAKER offered a resolution that C. M. Donovan be expelled from the floor of the House for the remainder of the session on account of a "most brutal and cowardly assault" upon Mr. CHURCH.

Mr. SMITH (Berks) desired to know whether the object contemplated by the resolution did not transcend the power of the Legislature.

The CHAIRMAN. The resolution is in order.

Mr. SMITH, (Berks,) said that he still thought that the House had no authority in this matter, and should feel it his duty to vote against this.

Mr. THORN also said that from a sense of duty he should feel obliged to vote against the resolution. Whatever event may have occurred in the streets, was to come before the consideration of a court of justice, and he doubted the power of the House to pass the resolution at this time.

Mr. HARDING said that whatever reparation was due to his colleague from Philadelphia, should come from the floor of the House of which he was a member.

The resolution was adopted.

Mr. HAMERSLY asked and obtained leave of absence for Messrs. WOOD and GRATZ, members from Philadelphia, for a few days from to-day.

Mr. ELLMAKER asked and obtained leave of absence for Mr. MCCLURE.

Mr. KINNEY asked and obtained leave of absence for Mr. SMEAD.

Mr. ZOLLER offered a resolution, that the Clerk be requested to furnish the House on Monday next the estimated cost of the calling of the yeas and nays on all the unimportant questions under consideration—the waste of time in fruitless discussion—the cost of printing yeas and nays in the Journal, &c.

The House refused to proceed to the second reading of said resolution.

Mr. GOEPP asked and obtained leave of absence for Mr. SMITH, (Berks,) for a few days from to-day.

Mr. CHASE asked and obtained leave of absence for Mr. NILL, for a few days from to-day.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

Mr. WILCOX, (Ways and Means,) with amendment, "An Act relative to the final report of the geological survey of the State."

Mr. CHASE, (same,) "A resolution relative to fitting up the hall of the House, originating in committee."

On his motion, said committee was discharged from the further consideration of the act for the relief of Catharine Keller.

The act was referred to the Committee on Pensions and Gratuities.

Also, (same,) "An Act to change the place for holding elections, in Riley township, Schuylkill county, with a negative recommendation."

"An Act to change the place for holding elections in Highland township, Elk county."

"An Act to change the place for holding elections in Orwell township, Bradford county."

Mr. LAWRENCE, (Washington,) chairman of select committee to which was referred the Governor's message, made report, that they have performed that duty, and suggest that that portion of the message which refers to finance, be referred to the Committee on Ways and Means; that which refers to education, to the committee on Education; that which refers to currency, to the Committee on Banks; that which refers to the militia, to the Committee on the Militia System; and that which refers to the Library, to the Committee on Library.

BILLS IN PLACE.

Mr. McDOWELL read in his place and presented to the Chair, "A further supplement to the act passed April 3, 1851, regulating boroughs." (Referred to the Committee on Corporations.)

Mr. FOSTER, "An Act relating to costs in certain cases." (Referred to the Committee on Judiciary.)

Also, "A supplement to an act relating to the city of Pittsburg, approved April 22, 1858." (Referred to the Committee on Corporations.)

Mr. SMITH, (Berks,) "An Act repealing an act regulating the militia of Pennsylvania, approved April 21, 1858."

Mr. BERTOLET, "Supplement to an act to protect the public in the full benefit and enjoyment of the works constructed for the purposes of inland navigation. Approved April 10, 1826." (Referred to the Committee on Canals and Inland Navigation.)

Mr. DODDS, "An Act to allow the taxable inhabitants of Butler to pay their street tax in work on the street." (Referred to the Committee on Judiciary.)

Mr. BARLOW, "A further supplement to an act incorporating the Tyrone and Lock Haven railroad company," and moved that the rules be suspended and the House proceed to the consideration of the same; which was agreed to.

Mr. BARLOW, in offering the bill, made the following remarks:

The Tyrone and Lock Haven railroad is fifty-four miles long, and the contractors are bound to have the entire line ready for the superstructure on 1st of May next. Forty miles are now graded, and the president, in his annual report, on Monday last, states that the road is without any debt. An amount sufficient to make the entire line ready for the superstructure, has been subscribed in the vicinity of the road. The iron has been contracted for at the Cambria iron works, Johnstown, Pennsylvania, and the delivery is to commence on the 1st of May. The money to pay for the iron must be obtained on the bonds. The law now authorizes the issue of $300,000, but this is probably insufficient to iron it, put up the building and put on the rolling stock. They now desire us to allow them to issue bonds to the amount of $500,000. They have the plate to strike the bonds in the hands of the engraver, and the execution is now stopped until the amount is determined. The negotiation of the bonds is also in course of progress, and the agent is expected to start on the last day of this month for Europe. If this bill takes its usual course through the House and Senate, the bonds cannot be got ready against the first of the next month. I therefore move for the suspension of the rules.

Mr. GOEPP desired to know whether the act contained a provision stating the minimum sum for which bonds might be issued? It was customary to introduce this limitation.

Mr. BARLOW said that they did not wish them issued for less than $100.

Mr. GOEPP said that if there was no provision to that effect there should be one, inasmuch as the matter should not be left optional with the company. He would move an amendment to the resolution, which was to add the words, "provided that no bond shall be issued for less than $100."

Mr. SMITH, (Berks,) moved to amend the amendment by inserting $1000 instead of $100.

Mr. BARLOW desired to make an additional amendment, fixing the sum at $500, but was ruled out of order.

Mr. GRITMAN hoped that the amendment of Mr. SMITH, (Berks,) would not pass. He was not aware that any railroad bill had received the sanction of the House, which provided that bonds should not be issued for less than $1000. The sum was too large. It might not suit the views of the parties, and he was rather disposed to think that it was not courteous to take the matter thus out of the hands of the original mover.

Mr. SMITH, (Berks,) said that he did not know that he had committed a discourteous act, by simply proposing an amendment to a bill which was up for the consideration of the House. He had spoken from a stern sense of duty, and had always been so much opposed to the issue of bonds, that even if his amendment was accepted, he would vote against the bill.

The amendment to the amendment was lost.

The question then recurred upon the amendment of Mr. BARLOW, fixing the amount at $500. This was adopted.

Mr. FOSTER understood the bill to provide for a mortgage on the personal property of the company; in other words, a chattel mortgage.—On some of the Western roads, mortgages of this kind had been productive of trouble, inasmuch as employees of companies had found it impossible to recover debts from their existence.

Mr. NEALL moved that the further consideration of the subject be postponed for the present. He saw many empty seats in the House, and had no inclination to hurry through a bill for $500,000, which was a vast amount of money. He had deemed it very inexpedient, in the first place, to proceed to the consideration of the bill by suspending the rules, and now should earnestly advocate a postponement, even if the agent of the company was obliged to leave for Europe in a short time.

Mr. BARLOW stated that he did not urge the final passage of the bill, but only its second reading.

The bill was postponed.

Mr. FLEMING, "An Act for the relief of Jane Pierce, daughter of an old soldier." (Referred to Committee on Pensions and Gratifications.)

Mr. PENNELL, "A supplement to an act to alter and amend an act to erect the town of Chester and its vicinity into a borough, and for other purposes therein mentioned." (Referred to Committee on Corporations.)

Mr. WILCOX, "An Act relative to the sale of unseated lands in the county of Elk."

On his motion, the rule being in this case dispensed with, said bill was taken up.

Mr. GRITMAN wanted an explanation.

Mr. WILCOX said that if the bill did not pass at once, the commissioners of Elk county would lose the taxes on unseated lands for last year.

The bill was then read the second and third time, and passed finally.

Mr. BOYER, (Clearfield,) "An Act declaring Napp's Creek, in McKean county, a public highway." (Referred to Committee on Roads and Bridges.)

Mr. WALBORN, "An Act to incorporate the Twelfth and Thirteenth Street passenger railway company of Philadelphia." (Referred to Committee on Railroads.)

Mr. NEALL, "A supplement to an act relative to the license of mechanics and material men." (Referred to the Committee on Judiciary.)

Mr. ABBOTT, "An Act to incorporate the Ridge Avenue and the Manayunk passenger railway company of Philadelphia." (Referred to Committee on Railroads.)

Mr. CHASE, "An Act to repeal an act regulating the rate of interest, approved May 28th, 1858, and to increase the rate of interest to 7 per cent." (Referred to the Committee on Judiciary.)

Mr. LAWRENCE, (Washington,) "An Act to incorporate the Presbyterian church of Harrisburg." (Referred to Committee on Corporations.)

Mr. SMITH, (Berks,) "A supplement to an act for the better protection of game and insectivorous birds, approved April 21, 1858." (Referred to the Committee on Judiciary.)

Mr. PRICE, "An Act to authorize the registration of all inventories exhibited at the register's office of Lancaster county." (Referred to the Committee on Judiciary.)

Also, "An Act to increase the salaries of prison inspectors, in Lancaster county." (Referred to Committee on Judiciary.)

Mr. GRITMAN, "A supplement to an act to improve the navigation in the Lackawanna river." (Referred to Committee on Corporations.)

Mr. MEHAFFEY, "An Act to authorize certified copies of records of insurance companies, to be admitted as evidence." (Referred to Committee on Judiciary.)

Mr. OAKS, "An Act for the relief of Isaac Gulick, collector of military taxes, in Moutour county, for the year 1857." (Referred to Committee on Judiciary.)

Mr. GOEPP, "An Act to extend to the county of Northampton the provisions of the act, approved May 7, 1857, to increase the pay of jurors and witnesses in certain counties." (Referred to Committee on Judiciary.)

Also, "An Act to authorize the several judges of the court of common pleas of Pennsylvania, to reserve point in law, and to order judgments of non-suit." (Referred to Committee on Judiciary.)

Mr. MILLER called up the resolution submitted by him a few days since, providing for the employment of a stenographer to report the debates of the House.

The House refused to pass to a second reading of the same.

Mr. CHASE moved that the House proceed to the consideration of the resolution, just reported by him, in relation to the fitting up of the Hall of the House; which was agreed to.

The resolution, which provides for the payment of the curtains, &c., which decorate the Hall, was then read.

Mr. WILLISTON wished to know what the amount named in the resolution was for.

Mr. CHASE said that he had the evidence of the indebtedness in his hand, and was prepared to show the different items of the bill. The Committee of Ways and Means, who had charge of the subject, had expressed themselves satisfied that the work had been performed with the greatest regard for economy, utility and good taste.

Mr. ROSE believed that the gentleman from Tioga, (Mr. WILLISTON,) was fond of gingerbread, and hoped that he would not oppose the passage of the bill paying for the gingerbread work around the House.

Mr. WILLISTON had made the inquiry in good faith. The painting of the House had been paid for last session, and he desired to know whether the additional expense was solely for curtains.

Mr. WILLISTON moved to postpone for the present; not agreed to.

Mr. WILLISTON then renewed his question, as to whether the $3,800 was for the curtains alone.

Mr. CHASE said that it was.

Mr. ROSE. Are the cages included?

Mr. CHASE. They are.

Mr. WILLISTON said that the sum was extraordinary, and called for the yeas and nays upon the resolution.

Mr. CHASE wished to state before the vote was taken that economy had been consulted.—Heretofore the House had been supplied with cotton curtains which were necessarily taken down to be cleaned every year at an expense of several hundred dollars. The ones at present in use were costly but durable, and would not have to be taken down.

Said resolution was then read.

And on the question,

Will the House proceed to the second reading and consideration of the same?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. WILLISTON and Mr. WILCOX, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Abbott, Acker, Balliet, Barnsley, Barlow, Bertolet, Boyer, (Clearfield,) Boyer, (Schuylkill,) Brodhead, Campbell, Chase, Church, Custer, Dodds, Durbaraw, Eckman, Fearon, Fleming, Foster, Galley, Goepp, Graham, Gray, Gritman, Hill, Hottenstine, Irish, Jackson, Ketchum, Laird, Lawrence, (Washington,) Mann, MehaFFEY, McDowell, Miller, Neall, Oaks, Patterson, Pennell, Pinkerton, Price, Pugh, Rohrer, Rouse, Sbafer, Shields, Smith, (Berks,) Stephens, Stoneback, Taylor, Thompson, Wagonseller, Warden, Wigton, Wilcox, Williams, (Bucks,) Wilson, Withrow, Woodring, Zoller and Lawrence, Speaker—61.

NAYS—Messrs. Bayard, Burley, Dismant, Palm, Smead, Walker, Witman, Williams, (Bedford,) Williston and Wolf—10.

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

The resolution was then read the second time, and passed finally.

On motion of Mr. WILCOX, the SPEAKER adjourned the House until next Monday morning at 11 o'clock, A. M.

On motion of Mr. GAZZAM, the Senate proceeded to its consideration.

Mr. SCOFIELD remarked that, by the act of 1846, which provided for just such associations. All such charters should be sent to the courts; and if the Senate commences, so early in the session, in the grant of the privileges asked for by this bill, we shall have, at the expiration of our work here, a voluminous pamphlet containing them. There was nothing, he thought, to take it out of the ordinary course of such grants, and he was desirous that it should be referred to the courts, in the usual manner.

Mr. GAZZAM explained that this was not such a charter as courts can grant, with the reasons why he wished the Senate to pass the bill.

And on the question of reading the bill by its title, it was decided in the negative.

A message from the Governor was received and read, as follows :

ORIGINAL RESOLUTIONS.

Mr. COFFEY offered a resolution, calling for information as to the service of how many clerks can be dispensed with in the Auditor General's office, since the abolition of the Canal Board. This resolution lies over under the rule.

Mr. TURNEY offered a resolution appointing Tuesdays and Fridays for the presentation of petitions; which was agreed to.

ORDERS OF THE DAY.

The resolution presented by Mr. MILLER, on Friday, was then taken up, as follows:

Resolved, That the Governor is hereby requested to inform the Senate, under the act for the sale of the public works to the Sunbury and Erie railroad company, what sum was offered for the Delaware division of said works, by responsible persons; who the parties were; how much the sum offered by said parties exceeded that actually received for the said division from the Delaware division company; within what time after the passage of said act the entire public works of the Commonwealth were sold, and what sum of money the said Sunbury and Erie railroad company received for negotiating a sale to third parties.

The Senator from Washington having spoken twice, on motion of Mr. BELL, leave was given him to continue his remarks.

Mr. MILLER stated that he offered the resolution for the sole purpose of obtaining information. It was an important question, and it was necessary that the people should be furnished with the means of arriving at a fair history of the whole transaction. There should be no concealment of facts, and they had a right to call upon those who are prepared to furnish them, for information in reference to the matter. He had discovered, from the annual message of the Governor, that after the contract for the sale of the Delaware Division had been entered into, and after the consent of the Executive had been verbally given, and $75,000 of the purchase money had been paid by the purchasers, that a higher price had been offered, by responsible persons, for the canal, than it had been sold for. It had been alleged that the State was imbecile, and not competent for the management of the public works, and that it was important to employ an agent or agents for their disposal. It was but reasonable to expect, that under the provisions of the bill for the sale of the public works, that the highest prices possible would be obtained; and if the Commonwealth has suffered a loss—it may be of two millions of dollars—it is important that the people should know where the blame should be charged. If the works had not brought the highest price which would have been paid for them, some explanation of the reason for it was demanded. He desired to know, and the people of the State desired to know, whether the doors had been thrown open to fair and honorable competition. It was important, as a basis for the future, that we should be advised as to the whole transaction, and particularly whether any loss has been sustained by the State, through the neglect of its agents, in the transfer of the public works.

Mr. RANDALL was willing to co-operate with the Senator from Washington in any effort to arrive at correct information with reference to the sale of the public works. As to the benefits accruing to the State from their sale, there was but one opinion. There had been a unanimous response to it upon the part of the people, and the press of the State, with singular unanimity, had endorsed the policy of the transfer. There could be no doubt of the fact that the public works had been an incumbrance to the State; for, within the last seven years, the Commonwealth had sustained a loss of some five millions of dollars by their management. So deeply was he impressed with the imporance of this transfer, that he would have cheerfully voted for a grant of them to the city of Philadelphia, as trustee or agent, for the completion of the Sunbury and Erie road.

Mr. MILLER only wished to know whether the agents of the Commonwealth, in the sale of the public works, had carried out fully the views and interests of the State. The value of the public works for the last ten years, according to the Auditor General's report, for the last session, was $9,054,157 20, and paid a revenue into the treasury of five per cent. on that amount. The works were sold to the Sunbury and Erie railroad company for $3,500,00, upon which the State is to receive five per cent. Of the $375,000 over this amount for which the works were sold by the Sunbury and Erie railroad company, the State only receives $281,250, the company receiving for their services in negotiating the sale $93,750. This large sum goes into the pockets of the agents, instead of those of the people, or into the public coffers. Besides this, the message of the Executive develops the fact that the public works would have brought, perhaps, half a million of dollars more than they did under the Sunbury and Erie bill. The Commonwealth should have taken better care of her interests. She had been defrauded in the transfer of the works, and the people had a right to demand the reason why they had not been sold for the highest price which they would have brought, and to whom the failure to do so should be charged. He was determined himself, and the people were determined, to know, who is responsible for the loss of half a million of dollars to the State. The works had not brought by some two or three hundred thousand dollars of what they were worth; and he could not congratulate the people upon a sale which has taken out of their pockets half a million of dollars, instead of putting that amount into them.

Mr. RANDALL, as a merchant, had always been taught to calculate the value of any article by what it will bring, and he presumed the Senator from Washington, as a lawyer, had received the same lesson. Now what position does the Commonwealth occupy. She has been made the recipient of $360,000 from the sale of the works, besides deriving a benefit from it of over $600,000. According to the published statements, there had been derived, from various sources, $380,000. The appropriations towards sustaining them was $480,000, which, with a claim against them of $60,000, made a loss to the State of $160,000. The income from the sale was $170,000, and the interest upon the principal of the sum for which they sold was $281,250, making a benefit to the State of $611,250, instead of a loss, for the last seven years, of five millions of dollars. The people of the Commonwealth would have reason to cherish the era at which the State was freed from the bleeding process to which she had been so long subjected in the management of these works; and it was idle for any man to undertake to say that their sale was not a blessing.

Mr. MILLER did not wish to prolong the discussion upon this question. He knew it was distasteful to many gentlemen; but in order to sustain himself, he wished to call the attention of the Senate to the facts set forth in the report of the Auditor-General, in reference to the matter. He reiterated the facts previously alluded to by him, and alleged that the works were worth more than the sum for which they had been sold. No amount of sophistry could induce the people to believe otherwise, and had they been put up at public sale, there would have been realized a much larger sum.

Mr. RANDALL was compelled to join issue with the Senator from Washington as to the value of these works. The sale of them was the best policy for the State which could have been adopted; and had they been sold in 1850, the State would have been the recipient of a large sum of interest upon the price which they would have brought, instead of sustaining a loss of some seven millions of dollars. As to the canals, who ever dreamed of keeping the branches? Under the terms of the bill, they were sold at their value.

Mr. MILLER referred to the language of the Governor, in his recent message, which he read, as follows:

"After the contract for the sale of the Delaware division had been entered into, and my consent had been verbally given, and seventy-five thousand dollars of the purchase money had been actually paid by the purchasers, upon the faith of the contract, and my assent thereto, I was informed that a higher price had been offered by responsible persons, for the canal."

Mr. RANDALL remarked that the Senator from Washington only read half of the paragraph. There follows the language, that, "under the circumstances, my opinion was that the offer came too late; and as the railroad company considered itself bound to consummate the agreement by a delivery of the deed and possession of the property to the first purchasers, I could not, in good faith, withhold my assent." The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania had passed a law, years ago, that the North Branch canal should be given away, if any party would take it and finish the upper portion, but no one was found willing to accept of it upon those conditions. He had received the individual endorsement of his constituency, without regard to party, for the course which he had pursued in the transfer, and he felt authorized in saying what he had upon the subject.

Messrs. HAMERSLY and WILCOX, a committee from the House of Representatives being introduced, informed the Senate that the Hall of the House of Representatives was ready for the reception of the Senate, for the purpose of electing a State Treasurer for the current year.

Whereupon, the Senate proceeded to the Hall of the House of Representatives.

After some time, the Senate having returned to their Chamber, Mr. SCHELL, the Teller appointed on the part of the Senate to officiate at the election of State Treasurer, made a report; which was read, as follows, viz:

That the Convention, consisting of the SPEAKER and members of the Senate and SPEAKER of the House of Representatives, met in the Hall of the House of Representatives, at 12 o'clock, this day, (the SPEAKER of the Senate presiding,) and proceeded to the election of a State Treasurer, and the vote being taken, was as follows, viz:

[For vote see House proceedings.]

Whereupon, the President of the Convention announced to the members of both Houses that Eli Slifer, having received a majority of all the votes given, is declared to be duly elected State Treasurer for one year, from the first Monday in May next.

Four certificates of the result were accordingly signed by the President and Tellers, one of which was handed to the Clerk of the House of Representatives, to be filed in his office, and the other three to the Clerk of the Senate—one to be filed in his office, one to be handed to the Treasurer elect, and the other to be delivered to the Governor.

The resolution of Mr. MILLER then passed.

BILLS CONSIDERED.

On motion of Mr. GREGG, the Senate proceeded to the consideration of a bill, entitled "A supplement to an act to incorporate the Williams port water company."

The Senate resolved itself into a committee of the whole, (Mr. MYER in the Chair.) After sometime the committee rose, and the chairman reported the same as committed.

The bill finally passed, and was sent to the House for concurrence.

Mr. RANDALL moved to take up a bill, entitled "An Act to incorporate an Association for the construction of a statue of George Washington," which was agreed to.

The Senate resolved itself into a committee of the whole, (Mr. RANDALL in the Chair.)—After some time, the chairman reported the same as committed.

The Senate then proceeded to a second reading; when

Mr. WRIGHT offered the following proviso; which was agreed to.

"Provided, That the moneys collected in the manner set forth in this act, shall be applied to the object set forth in the first section thereof, and none other, under a penalty of a forfeiture of the charter of the company."

The bill, as amended, finally passed.

Mr. BLOOD moved that the Judiciary Committee be discharged from the further consideration of a bill relative to the collection of certain taxes on unseated lands in Elk county, and that the Senate proceed to its consideration.

Mr. COFFEY hoped the Judiciary Committee would not be discharged. Before this bill receives the consideration of the Senate, it should be properly investigated by the committee.

Mr. SCHELL explained the bill, and Mr. COFFEY withdrew his objections.

Mr. BELL objected to the discharge of the committee. The Senate was called upon hastily to pass a bill without being aware of its effect. It was what was called a local bill, but it may involve a principle of much importance. They were not prepared to say what may be its operations, and hasty legislation on this or any other matter should not be allowed.

Mr. SCOFIELD rose in explanation of the bill. A bill was passed in 1856, requiring assessors and collectors of road and school taxes to make their returns on or before the first day of January in each and every year, and last session a bill was passed further extending the time; and he was desirous that this bill should go to the committee in order to afford an opportunity for seeing whether that law was not applicable to the present case.

Mr. BELL remarked that the statement of the Senator from Warren showed a further necessity for sending the bill to the committee, and he hoped the reference would be made.

The motion was agreed to.

The Senate went into committee of the whole on the bill, (Mr. RUTHERFORD in the Chair.)

Mr. BELL moved that the committee rise and report progress; not agreed to.

The Chairman reported the bill as committed.

Mr. BELL moved that it be re-committed to the Judiciary Committee; which was not agreed to.

Mr. BLOOD asked to have a communication read; which was granted.

The question recurring on the passage of the bill, it was decided in the affirmative.

The hour of one having arrived, the SPEAKER adjourned the Senate until to-morrow morning, at eleven o'clock.

Mr. RAMSDELL, two petitions, numerous signed by citizens of Venango county, praying for the repeal of the special road laws in said county.

ORIGINAL RESOLUTIONS.

Mr. HAMERSLY moved, by resolution, that a committee of two be appointed to wait upon and introduce to the House the SPEAKER and members of the Senate, at 12 o'clock M. to-day, for the purpose of proceeding to the election of a State Treasurer for the ensuing year; which was adopted.

The SPEAKER appointed Messrs. HAMERSLY and WILCOX said committee.

Mr. THORN asked leave at this time to make a statement.

Leave being given, he stated that he had offered a resolution, a few days since, that a number of extra copies of the insurance bill should be printed. This action had been intended more particularly to benefit the Philadelphia and Pittsburg members, who were interested in the subject. He had desired fifty or one hundred copies for himself, but had only in the distribution received four. He would now move that an additional number be printed for the use of the Allegheny and Philadelphia members, say two hundred additional copies.

Mr. WILLISTON said that he did not see the necessity for this, inasmuch as the country members would, no doubt, give up those which they had received for the use of the city representatives.

Mr. BARLOW agreed with Mr. WILLISTON.

Mr. THORN said that under these circumstances, as the desired object was accomplished, he would withdraw his motion.

Mr. WALBORN asked leave to make a statement. Leave being given, he said that he had found difficulty in procuring copies of all the documents which were brought into the House for distribution. He desired to know how the evil could be remedied.

The SPEAKER. It is the duty of the member to report the delinquency of any officer to the chair.

Mr. CHASE submitted a resolution that the report of the commissioners appointed by the last Legislature to investigate the condition of certain banks be printed in the Daily Record; which was twice read and adopted.

ELECTION OF STATE TREASURER.

The hour of 12 having arrived, the SPEAKER and members of the Senate were introduced into the hall of the House.

The convention was called to order by the SPEAKER of the Senate, Mr. JNO. CRESSWELL, Jr.

Mr. FOSTER was appointed Teller on the part of the House, and Mr. W. P. SCHELL on the part of the Senate.

The convention then proceeded, according to law, to vote for a State Treasurer, with the following result:

Messrs. Baldwin, Coffey, Francis, Gazzam, Gregg, Harris, Myer, Palmer, Parker, Penney, Rutherford, Scofield, Shaeffer, Thompson and Yardley—15, of the Senate; and Messrs. Abbott, Acker, Balliett, Barnsley, Barlow, Bayard, Boyer, (Schuylkill,) Bryson, Burley, Campbell, Chase, Church, Dodds, Durboraw, Eckman, Ellmaker, Fearon, Fisher, Foster, Graham, Gratz, Green, Hammersly, Harding, Irish, Keneagy, Ketchum, Kinney, Lawrence, (Washington,) Mann, Mehaffey, M'Curdy, M'Dowell, Miller, Neall, Patterson, Pennell, Peirce, Pinkerton, Price, Pugh, Ramsdell, Rose, Rouse, Shafer, Sheppard, Smead, Styer, Taylor, Thompson, Thorn, Wagonseller, Walborn, Walker, Whitman, Wigton, Wiley, Williams, (Bedford,) Williams, (Bucks,) Williston, Wilson, Witherow, Wood, Zoller and Lawrence, Speaker—65, of the House of Representatives, voted for ELI SLIFER.

Messrs. Bell, Blood, Craig, Fetter, Marselis, Miller, Nunnemacher, Randall, Schell, Steele, Turney, Welsh, Wright and Cresswell, Speaker—14, of the Senate; and Messrs. Bertolet, Boyer, (Clearfield,) Brodhead, Custer, Dismant, Evans, Fleming, Galley, Goep, Gray, Gritman, Hill, Hottenstine, Jackson, Laird, M'Clain, Oaks, Porter, Quigley, Rohrer, Shields, Smith, (Philadelphia,) Stephens, Stoneback, Stuart, Warden, Wilcox, Wolf and Woodring—29, of the House of Representatives, voted for H. S. MACRAW.

Mr. Slifer having received the highest number of votes cast, was declared duly elected State Treasurer from the first Monday of May, 1859, to the first Monday of May, 1860.

On motion of Mr. WRIGHT, the convention adjourned, and the Senators retired from the hall.

BILLS ON SECOND READING.

Agreeably to order, the House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of the joint resolution introduced by Mr. WILLISTON, relative to the contract entered into with Mr. R. J. Haldeman for the publication of a daily Legislative Record.

The question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion of Mr. NILL to postpone the further consideration of the same for the present,

Mr. THORN. I should like to have the resolution read before the vote is taken.

The Clerk then read the resolution, which declared the contract with R. J. Haldeman for printing the Record at an end.

Mr. ABBOTT said that from remarks previously offered in the House, he had been under the impression that the contract made by the State Legislature with R. J. Haldeman for the printing of the Record was binding upon this Legislature. Upon investigation, however, he had discovered that the contract was only for last session. It was then clearly his opinion, that the publication of the Record since the first meeting of the House, had been without authority.

Mr. ROSE inquired whether the gentleman had read the act of assembly in reference to the subject.

Mr. ABBOTT. I have not.

Mr. ROSE. I think that if the gentleman reads the act in question, he will find himself mistaken, and will discover that the printing of the Record was to be continued by the contractor "until otherwise ordered."

Mr. ABBOTT. The affair would then most certainly assume a different aspect.

Mr. GRITMAN said that he did not rise to advocate either the continuance of the present contract or its annulling. If it was true, as gentlemen had alleged, that the Record could be printed at a cheaper rate, he should favor such a change as would be most conducive to the interests of the State. But his object now was to urge a postponement of the matter, and his reason for this was that when a law was standing upon the statute books, (as the one for the publication of the Record now was,) it was improper to abrogate it by a resolution in the form of the one proposed. The consideration of the subject had been referred to a committee, who had not yet reported. It was only just and right that the report of the committee should be entered upon the Journal of the House.

The SPEAKER. The committee has been discharged.

Mr. GRITMAN said that if such was the case, he should be pleased to learn by what authority it had been done. He had been in his seat regularly, and had heard no report offered, or had not seen any committee discharged. It would be satisfactory to hear that portion of the Journal read relating to the proceeding.

Mr. RAMSDELL rose to explain. He feared that there was some misapprehension on the part of the House in regard to the circumstances of the case. The Senate had failed to appoint a committee to confer with the one chosen by the House, and had referred the matter to their Finance Committee, which would meet on Wednesday next.

Mr. GRITMAN thought that the SPEAKER was laboring under a misapprehension. It was improper in his opinion for the House to proceed to the consideration of the subject, while it was properly in the hands of a committee. It was due to them that their report should be first received, and particularly so at this juncture, when it had been stated by one of their number, that a meeting would be held on Wednesday next.

Mr. WILCOX reiterated the assertion that an early meeting would take place.

Mr. GOEPP desired to set the member from Philadelphia, (Mr. ABBOTT,) right upon the matter. It was true that the contract which was made last winter with R. J. Haldeman was only for the single session, but the act of Assembly, which had received the concurrence of both the House and Senate, had provided for the continuance of the Record under the same terms this session, until otherwise ordered by both branches of the Legislature. The gentleman from Philadelphia, (Mr. ABBOTT,) under these circumstances, had evidently been mistaken, when he had said that the publication, since the first meeting of the House, had been without authority. The speaker coincided with Mr. GRITMAN, that it would be better to let the committee have charge of the subject, and let them ascertain, if so disposed, the cost of a new contract and other minutiae. He should favor a postponement.

Mr. WILLIAMS, (Bucks,) said that the matter had been postponed long enough already, and it was very evident that the committee had no desire to hurry. Seventeen days had elapsed since the beginning of the session, and nothing had been done. He should not now therefore favor a postponement, but would vote for having the affair directly disposed of. There were indications that the Record could be printed at a much cheaper rate than at present. If the motion to postpone was insisted on, he would call the yeas and nays.

Mr. ABBOTT, after he had thus been made acquainted with the circumstances, expressed a willingness to postpone and await the report of the committee.

Mr. CHURCH said that if any assurance had been given that the committee intended to report, he should not be opposed to waiting for them, but he was under the impression that the committee did not intend to report. Considering the matter exclusive of all partizan feeling, he believed that it was his duty to get the printing done at as little expense to the State as possible. Although entertaining a high respect for the Legislature of last session, he was not prepared or disposed to abide by any contract which they had entailed. The House had a right to make its own contracts each session, and in order that it might have an opportunity to do so now, he would vote for immediate action. As the gentleman from Bucks, (Mr. WILLIAMS,) had said, seventeen days had passed during which this matter had been undecided, and now it was time for action.

Mr. ROSE desired the members to think for a moment of the result of an immediate abrogation of the contract by both the House and Senate. There would be no Record, and perhaps days and weeks would be allowed to elapse before a new contract could be entered into. The proper course to pursue was to let the committee ascertain the terms and preliminaries of a new engagement before a stop was put to the publication of the present Record. It was almost absurd to ignore the existing contract without due reference to the future.

Mr. WILLISTON said that it was the right of each Legislature to make its own contracts, and provide for its own requirements. The contract of last winter had been made expressly for that session, but some little bill had been inserted somewhere, containing a provision for its continuance. His views upon the Record question were very well known. He was opposed to any publication of the kind, without it contained full and accurate accounts of the proceedings of the House. The final decision of the matter had been long enough postponed.

Mr. THOMPSON said that he should vote against the motion to postpone, and should favor immediate action, inasmuch as he believed that an effort was being made to impose an act of the last Legislature upon this one. He denied the right of one body thus to bind another, and even if the right would have to be admitted, he should deny the expediency or propriety of any such action. A new contract most undoubtedly should be made, even if the publisher was the same as at present, provided his terms were the cheapest. He was not prepared to speak as to the correctness of the Record, or its economy, but based his opposition on the ground already stated, viz: That one Legislature had no right to entail a contract upon another. There was, however, another important point to be considered. Bonds had been given for the faithful performance of the contract during last session—but now these bonds, the speaker understood, were null.—In the act of Assembly there was nothing to bind the contractor, and the Legislature had no adequate security that he would faithfully fulfil his duty. There was no responsible party to look to. For these, and other reasons, the speaker should vote against the postponement.

Mr. CHURCH, in reply to Mr. ROSE, (that if the present contract was abolished there would be no Record,) said that there would be no difficulty in this respect. Several parties were ready to embrace any suitable offer which might be made by the Legislature. He advocated immediate action.

Mr. GRITMAN said that gentlemen were evidently traveling far away from the consideration of the matter at issue. In one respect the speaker agreed with the rest of the members, and that was in obtaining as cheap a Record as possible. That, however, was not at present the question. The affair was now in the hands of the committee for disposal, and the chairman had said that a meeting would be held on Wednesday next. Yet in the face of this the House was going to take up and dispose of the Record without any reference to the joint action or report of the committee. If the Record could be printed cheaper and better, he did not care how soon the contract was abrogated.—But after a committee had been chosen (and that too with a chairman who, it was to be supposed, was as anxious as any man in the House to revoke the contract,) it was highly improper to take it out of their hands in the manner proposed.

Mr. ROSE was not quite so liberal in his views as some of the other members. If it was possible to give the contract for printing the Record to a Republican, at as cheap a rate as to a member of the opposite party, he would prefer to give it to the Republican. It had been alleged that the Legislature of last year had entailed a contract upon this one, but this the speaker for the second time denied. If the contract had been irrevocable by this Legislature, then it would have been entailed in the fullest sense of the term, and would, moreover, have been unconstitutional. But it was of such a character that it was optional with both Houses by joint action to revoke it. The question had been asked why the clause to continue the publication had been put in the act of last winter. The reason was simply that difficulty might be avoided at the beginning of this session. In the early part of last session (no provision having been previously made) the House was left without any Record. The constituents of the speaker had complained at this. Editors had written to him about it, and at least a week had elapsed before any publication had been made. It was in view of these facts that the clause had been inserted in the act of Assembly.

The question being called for on the motion to postpone,

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. PATTERSON and Mr. WAGONSELLER, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Abbott, Bertollet, Boyer, (Clearfield,) Brodhead, Custer, Dismant, Evans, Fleming, Foster, Galley, Goepp, Gray, Green, Gritman, Harding, Hill, Hottenstine, Jackson, Kinney, Laird, Mann, McClain, Oaks, Porter, Quigley, Rohrer, Rose, Rouse, Shields, Smith, (Philadelphia,) Stephens, Stoneback, Stuart, Warden, Wilcox, Wolf and Woodring—37.

NAYS—Messrs. Acker, Balliet, Barnsley, Barlow, Bayard, Boyer, (Schuylkill,) Bryson, Burley, Campbell, Chase, Church, Dodds, Darboraw, Eckman, Ellmaker, Fearon, Fisber, Graham, Hamersly, Keneagy, Ketchum, Lawrence, (Washington,) Mehaffey, McCurdy, McDowell, Miller, Neall, Palm, Patterson, Pennell, Peirce, Pinkerton, Price, Pugh, Ramsdell, Shafer, Sheppard, Syer, Taylor, Thompson, Thorn, Wagonseller, Walborn, Walker, Whitman, Wigton, Wiley, Williams, (Bedford,) Williams, (Bucks,) Williston, Wilson, Witbrow, Wood, Zoller and Lawrence, Speaker—55.

So the question was determined in the negative.

Pending the question upon the adoption of the resolution:

Mr. FOSTER said that he trusted that the House would not now take action. All those present who had been members of the Legislature previous to last session could not fail to remember the difficulties which had arisen in regard to the Record, and would bear in mind how duplicate and defective copies had been issued. So far as the question of economy was concerned in the present contract, the speaker would say that he had instituted a comparison of the relative cost of the Records of 1856, 1857 and 1858, from which it was evident that a saving of some $1700 had been effected in the publication of the Record of last session. The statement was as follows:

Years.	Pages.	Cost.
1856.....	540	$3,780

The Record of 1858 had contained only twenty-one pages of what is termed by printers "dead matter," or matter which was used to fill up the page when the proceedings were not sufficiently lengthy. This had cost the State one hundred and forty-seven dollars. The Record of the year 1857 had contained five hundred and forty-one pages of this "dead matter," costing the State two thousand four hundred dollars.

If the design was to have a publication similar to that of 1857, the speaker would oppose it strenuously, and would vote for the continuance of the present contract, by which a Record was furnished with reports as correct as could possibly be taken, and at a reasonable price. Under the terms of the existing contract, it was possible, if the members became dissatisfied, to abrogate at once, but if a new agreement was made, it would have to be adhered to during the whole session, whether the execution of the matter was satisfactory or not.

Partizan allusions had been made in this contest. The speaker declared himself willing to do anything in the limits of reason for his friends and party, but did not believe that the publication of the Record, if it was placed in other hands than at present, would conduce, in any degree, to the prosperity or support of the Republicans.

The speaker continued further—alluded to the manner in which printing had been formerly given out, and concluded with re-iterating the assertion that any appeal to him as a partizan would be of no effect in regard to this matter.

Mr. ROHRER took the floor.

The hour of one having arrived, the SPEAKER adjourned the House until Tuesday morning, at 11 o'clock A. M.

REPORT

OF THE COMMISSIONERS APPOINTED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF 1858, TO INVESTIGATE THE CONDITION OF CERTAIN BANKS.

To His Excellency, William F. Packer, Governor of the State of Pennsylvania:

The committee appointed by a resolution of the House of Representatives on the twenty-second day of April, A. D. 1858, to investigate the manner of organization and the present condition of certain Banks of this Commonwealth therein named, respectfully submit the following report, viz:

From the mass of detail, in the form of parol evidence and exhibits, and extracts from the books, papers and documents of the several institutions, (all of which is submitted to your Excellency,) the following general facts are drawn. Effort has been made to condense as much as possible, in order to place within reach of the press generally, and through them, before the eyes of the people of the State at large, the substance of the investigation.

It will be remembered that these Banks were incorporated at the session of 1857, and hence, in their infancy, it could not reasonably be expected that they would display so gross corruption as that which has characterized so many of their aged relatives in our State. Yet the supposition was erroneous; for never, perhaps, in the history of financial institutions of this Commonwealth, was so comprehensive a scheme of plunder devised, and so nearly executed. To demonstrate this let facts be adduced.

Of these corporations, the Tioga County Bank exhibited the earliest evidences of vitality. Books were opened for subscription on the 22d day of June, A. D. 1857, from which time to August 6, 1857, stock was taken as follows, viz:

June 26, to August 6, 1857..... 168 shares.
August 6, 1857..... 1040 "

Omitting all irregularities in the subscription for the one hundred and sixty-eight shares, the validity of some of which is evidently questionable, from the fact that from its uncertainty, it would bind neither the principal nor the agent, we pass to the main body of the same, where we find it was done as follows:

Elizabeth Russell; taken by Wells D. Walbridge, attorney; residence, unknown; number of shares, 30.

Clara F. Griffin; taken by Wells D. Walbridge, attorney; residence, unknown; number of shares, 30.

Sarah E. McDonald; taken by Wells D. Walbridge, attorney; residence, unknown; number of shares, 30.

Sarah Crane; taken by Wells D. Walbridge, attorney; residence, unknown; number of shares, 30.

Mary E. Schwendeman; taken by Wells D. Walbridge, attorney; residence, unknown; number of shares, 30.

Cynthia L. Hote; taken by Wells D. Walbridge, attorney; residence, unknown; number of shares, 30.

Mrs. Margaret M. Griffith; taken by Wells D. Walbridge, attorney; residence, unknown; number of shares, 30.

Caroline S. Tabor; taken by Wells D. Walbridge, attorney; residence, unknown; number of shares, 150.

Lydia R. Walbridge; taken by Wells D. Walbridge, attorney; residence, unknown; number of shares, 80.

Wells D. Walbridge; taken by self; residence, Buffalo, New York; number of shares, 200.

Ed. S. Thayer; taken by self; residence, Buffalo, New York; number of shares 200.

J. Porter Brawley; taken by self; residence, Meadville, Pennsylvania; number of shares, 200.

Total number of shares, 1040.

Of which amount of 1040 shares subscribed upon same day, and first instalment paid in according to subscription book, no mention is made by letters patent of 150 shares taken in name of Caroline S. Tabor.

The letters patent, drawn undoubtedly from the returns of the commissioners, state that the number of shares taken was 1069; of this number, if twenty-five dollars per share was paid in, the amount would be $26,725.00 as the capital stock of the Bank. This amount is reduced somewhat probably owing to the expenses incident to organization.

At the time of the organization there was paid, according to the evidence of the cashier, who was one of the commissioners, by them to the Bank.....$27,310.00
Of this amount in coin was..... 22,000.00

Balance ..... 5,310.00
being in Bank notes of the State of Pennsylvania.

The cashier states the organization took place upon the 31st day of October, A. D. 1857. This was Saturday, when a board of directors was formed, but no election of officers held.—The books were opened by one of the Thayers, and the first four entries made in the discount book were made by them. These discounts amount to the sum of $20,155.00. The parties to whom the notes were thus discounted either reside in Buffalo, or their residence is unknown to the officers of the Bank. Subsequently officers of the Bank were elected, and Mr. E. P. Steers of Buffalo, New York, as teller, who states that upon taking charge of the funds of the Bank, there remained of the coin but $15,647.00, leaving a deficit of $6,373.00, which amount must have been drawn upon a discount or used in redeeming the notes paid out upon the discounts of the stockholders, which is but another name for the same thing.

The teller states that the whole amount of discounts at present is $54,034.55, of which $54,061.38 were foreign, or to parties outside this State, and but $14,973.17 to parties in this State.

A list of the leading discounts since the organization of the Bank is herewith submitted, viz:

Drawer, F. F. Neilson; residence, unknown; endorser, C. C. McDonald; residence, Buffalo, N. Y.; amount, $5000.00.

Drawer, M. Burton; residence, Sandusky; endorser, L. H. Pratt; residence, Buffalo; amount, $1,100.00.

Making a total of $89,066.38, of which amount the teller states, has been paid $35,155.00, leaving outstanding $53,911.38.

In this connection is submitted the ledger balance, as sworn to by the teller, up to June 24, 1858, showing the present condition of the affairs of the Bank, as the same appears upon the books, viz:

LIABILITIES.
Capital stock.....	$27,410 00
Bank notes.....	94,000 00
Profit and loss.....	2,249 42
Individual credit.....	3,935 54

	$128,520 26

The teller states that the item of office notes counted as assets of the Bank, are the bills of the Bank on hand, redeemed and otherwise. That he was heretofore a resident of Buffalo, is acquainted with Wells D. Walbridge, R. W. Russell, W. Meech, D. C. Boynton, the Thayers, Pratts and Gansons, but knows nothing about their means or ability; that Lydia R. Walbridge is the wife of Wells D. Walbridge; does not know H. Hitchcock, Margaret E. Carr, Harriet M. White, Martha E. Carson, Alice E. Ganson, Allison Ganson, Jennie A. Stebbens or Harriet Cook; that the Thayers and others at divers times have taken the bills of the Bank, and deposited in New York or elsewhere, an equal amount of specie or funds subject to the order of the Bank; that this has been done to the amount of rising of $26,000.00, which amount could not appear upon the discount book.

The president of the Bank, J. L. Baldwin, Esq., and the cashier, I. W. Guernsey, Esq., are gentlemen of integrity and respectability; persons highly esteemed by their neighbors and the citizens of their vicinity; but as none are exempt from the frailties of humanity, so they were strongly infected by the financial epidemic that broke out about that time; but for timely action, complete prostration would have ensued. They are now of opinion that they are slowly recovering, and anticipate a speedy convalescence. With complete restoration they hope for a good name, tarnished as slightly as possible, even though they should be shorn of a portion of their worldly goods. Of the nature and character of the business of the Bank they are ignorant. They know nothing of the residence, standing or ability of the outside stockholders or debtors of the Bank.

The cashier, being one of the commissioners, is aware of the fact, that W. D. Walbridge and two of the Thayers, paid upon the subscriptions for themselves, Lydia R. Walbridge, Elizabeth S. Russell, Clara F. Griffin, Sarah E. McDonald, Sarah Crane, Mary A. Schwenendenman, Cynthia L. Mote, Margaret M. Griffin, and J. Porter Brawley, and he knows of no money being taken from the Bank, except by a regular discount, or ordinary business transactions; that the plates of the Bank were ordered by Mr. Baldwin and Mr. Walbridge in August, 1857.

Your Excellency's attention is next directed to the result of the investigation of the Bank of Crawford County.

The first payment of subscription to the stock of this Bank is under date of August 26th, 1857, which is over two months prior to the organization of the Tioga County Bank, or to their business commencement in the shape of discounts, the earliest of which are under date of November 2d, 1857. Hence upon that day but twelve shares were taken, by divers persons in the county of Crawford, at which point progress was suspended until December 10, 1857, (at which time the foreign discounts of the Tioga County Bank amounted to the sum of over $20,000,) and at which time payments were made upon subscriptions as follow, viz:

C. J. Taylor; by whom taken, self; number of shares, 20.

G. F. King; by whom taken, C. J. Taylor, attorney in fact; number of shares, 20.

H. J. Taylor; by whom taken, C. J. Taylor, attorney, in fact; number of shares, 60.

John Marvin; by whom taken, C. J. Taylor, attorney in fact; number of shares, 20.

J. C. Boynton; by whom taken, Wells D. Walbridge, attorney in fact; number of shares, 50.

R. W. Russell; by whom taken, Wells D. Walbridge, attorney in fact; number of shares, 200.

L. H. Pratt; by whom taken, Wells D. Walbridge, attorney in fact; number of shares, 200.

E. S. Russell; by whom taken, Wells D. Walbridge, attorney in fact; number of shares, 100.

L. R. Walbridge; by whom taken, Wells D. Walbridge, attorney in fact; number of shares, 100.

M. Finney; by whom taken, Wells D. Walbridge, attorney in fact; number of shares, 60.

N. Thayer; by whom taken, Wells D. Walbridge, attorney in fact; number of shares, 80.

C. Hotchkiss; by whom taken, Wells D. Walbridge, attorney in fact; number of shares, 60.

W. G. Power; by whom taken, Wells D. Walbridge, attorney in fact; number of shares, 100.

Wells D. Walbridge; by whom taken, self; number of shares, 200.

Isabella H. Brawley; by whom taken, J. Porter Brawley, attorney in fact; number of shares, 100.

J. Porter Brawley; by whom taken, self; number of shares, 40.

Alex. Power; by whom taken, self; number of shares, 10.

C. S. Tabor; by whom taken, Wells D. Walbridge; number of shares, 100.

Thos. Vanhorn; by whom taken, self; number of shares, 2.

Add number taken first day, 12.

Whole number of shares returned, 1534; which is geographically distributed as follows: Crawford County, (undoubted,) 44 shares; Crawford County, (questionable,) 200 shares;

Warren County, 80; Buffalo, New York, or parts unknown, 1,210; total, 1,534.

From these shares, Mr. Walbridge, as one of the directors of the Bank, states, "that the board of directors received about $38,000, less charges and expenses, some $500 or $600. Of this amount there was paid in gold some $13,000 or $14,000, and in Tioga Bank notes perhaps some $8,000 or $10,000." It is an established fact that wholesale dealers scorn the detail, the minutiae, so characteristic of the retailer; hence it is strikingly observable in the evidence of Mr. Walbridge, with what a graceful indifference he annihilates numerical differences; a unit or two, though suffixed by several cyphers, and prefixed by the sign of dollars, are regarded as obdurate figures that ought to be subjugated by a literal prefix like the adjuncts "about," "some," "perhaps," &c.; for example: Amount paid in "about".....$38,000 00 Less expenses "some"..... 500 00 Amount in gold "some"..... 13,000 00 Amount in Tioga notes "perhaps".... 10,000 00

The "perhaps" in the last item was eminently safe, for Mr. William D. Tucker, in speaking of the amount of Tioga money paid in, said, "the one-half at least of the whole amount was in Tioga bills." And again, "that of the bills paid in, eighteen or twenty thousand dollars was in Tioga money." His attention was called to this point, from the fact, that the Tioga money was in packages, and the bills new and unused. It might be proper here to call attention to the fact, that at this time but $20,155 00 had been discounted by the Tioga Bank; an amount nearly equal to the amount paid in to the bank of Crawford County, in bills of the Tioga County Bank.

But little has been done in the transfer-book; a note might, however, be made of the fact, that W. G. Power transfers to Wells D. Walbridge, by Wells D. Walbridge, attorney, one hundred shares. C. Hotchkiss transfers to Lucius H. Pratt, by Wells D. Walbridge, attorney, one hundred shares; this is under date of Jan. 28, 1858.

The following is a statement of the condition of the affairs of Bank of Crawford County, as sworn to by Thomas Vanhorn, president, and A. C. Finney, cashier, up to June 15, A. D. 1858, viz:

Of the discounts since organization, Mr. Walbridge states the amount to be as follows, viz: Local $64,117 52. Foreign $63,800 00. Whole amount of discounts $127,917 52; of which amount, the first month's discounts were $38,210 48. He also further states, "that the money paid in was no immediately drawn out, and represented by worthless assets, but has been drawn out in the ordinary course of Bank business since;" since that he ordered the plates for the Bank of Crawford County, and in connection with the president, those for the Tioga County Bank; and that at that time no order was given for the plates for the Phoenixville or Octorara Banks. That he was one of the commissioners of three of the directors appointed to receive the money from the commissioners; that the money received he believed to be of solvent Banks, and that the same was put in circulation. It is worthy of mention at this time, that the form of return made by the commissioners, of the number of shares subscribed, kind and amount of money paid in as a requisite, precedent to obtaining letters patent, have some features in it that are rather original than otherwise; for after numerically describing the gross sum, they further state "that said amount has been paid in gold and the notes of solvent Banks of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, into the hands of the commissioners.

It has been found extremely difficult to obtain evidence except the books of and some of the officers connected with the several Banks.

H. L. Richmond, Esq., of Meadville, says, the general reputation of the Buffalo stockholders is, that they are not men of means, except Mr. Thayer. Of the domestic stockholders, that J. Porter Brawley, Esq., is reported to have considerable property, very considerably involved; that at the time of subscription to and payment of the stock, he (Richmond,) was endeavoring to collect, as an attorney, a claim against him; that the same is still in process of collection.

Items of this nature caused a classification of the number of shares of stock nominally appertaining to Crawford county.

The same gentleman says, "there is a bitter feeling against the Bank in this place, based upon the aversion of the people, to having the Bank in the hands of foreign capitalists."

A. B. Richmond, Esq., says, "it is hard to arrive at the general reputation of the Bank—that more speak in favor of than against it, and that a majority of the business men think the brokers are trying to break the Bank down."

J. R. Dick, Esq., says, "Mr. Walbridge informed him that he had friends who had means, who would make the Bank a good institution. From this he inferred that he, (Walbridge,) had not means himself—that Mr. Thayer has not, but Mr. Pratt has means. Mr. Russell, the teller, now resident of Meadville, formerly of Buffalo, has no means, that he is aware of; he judges that most of the discounts are made abroad, as he has received letters from St. Paul, and other places in the West, asking for information regarding the standing of the institution, and the ability of the stockholders to redeem their notes; that Mr. Brawley was embarrassed at the time the stock was taken, and that executions were issued against his property."

Against Thos. Vanhorn, Esq., president, and A. C. Finney, Esq., cashier, naught is alleged, except that they are, to a certain extent, the victims or dupes of the wily schemes of unscrupulous men. In their own vicinity, among those who know them best, they have a reputation for honesty and respectability.

The third institution, the affairs of which were investigated, was the Shamokin Bank.—Books of subscription to the capital stock were opened November 30th, 1857, from which time was subscribed as follows, viz:

	Shares.
November 30, 1857.....	19
December 1, 2, and 5, 1857.....	7
January 4, 1858.....	1424
	1450

Between the subscription books, however, and the return made by the commissioners, there is a slight discrepancy; for the return sets forth that persons subscribed as follows, viz:

	Shares.
Forty-six persons subscribed.....	70
Nathan Thayer.....do.....	200

Between the letters patent and the return of the commissioners comes another numerical misunderstanding, for the letters patent omit the 46 pioneers, with their 70 shares, and insert only the names of those who follow, with respectable figures attached to them, indicting those persons to the amount of 1520 shares. W. P. Withington, Esq., states that the discrepancy of 70 shares arises from persons not paying the second instalment, and the expenses attendant upon organization. If that be the case, and the last named sum be correct, then the Bank has a president who is not a stockholder, in which case the stock would be classified as follows, viz:

	Shares.
Shamokin, certain.....	000
Shamokin, doubtful.....	120
Buffalo and dependencies.....	1400
	1520

The same novel feature is exhibited by the returns of commissioners of the Shamokin Bank, as was originated by those of the Bank of Crawford County, for they return whole number of shares fifteen hundred and ninety; amount paid in, $38,350 00; and that the said amount has been paid in gold and the notes of solvent Banks of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania into the hands of the commissioners.

W. P. Withington, Esq., who was one of the commissioners, and acted as clerk and treasurer for them, states that of the money paid in, there was:

Gold, between 6 and 7, say.....	$7,000 00
Bills, balance.....	$1,350 00
	$88,350 00

That one of the Thayers paid for all the stock subscribed by persons who did not reside in Shamokin, and that Thayer paid no money, except the gold and notes of the Bank of Crawford County and Tioga County Bank. Assuming this to be correct, the amounts paid are as follows, viz:

Forty-six pioneers, paid.....	350 00
W. P. Withington, ".....	3,000 00
Thayer—notes Tioga and Crawford.....	28,000 00
	$38,350 00

The organization took place on the 23d day of January, 1858. The general business of the Bank has been small, but attention is directly absorbed by the following items in the discount book, viz:

Drawers, Underhill and Lockhart; endorers, J. W. Underhill and R. R. Underhill, of Indiana; amount, $1,015 50.

Drawers, J. Jackson, N. Y. city; endorers, J. W. Underhill and R. R. Underhill, of Indiana; amount, $8,000 00.

Drawers, J. Jackson, N. Y. city; endorser, J. W. Underhill, of Indiana; amount, $2,000.00. Total, $41,015.50.

Leaving these discounts until the evidence explains them, the statement of Robert Underhill, clerk and teller of the Bank, showing the present condition of the affairs of the same, is submitted.

To return to the discounts above set forth—Daniel A. Robinson, formerly of Buffalo, and now neting as cashier of this Bank, in his evidence, explains the transactions as follows, viz:

In the early part of Feb., 1858, (Bank organized January 23, 1858,) the money paid in as the capital stock of the Bank was discounted to J. R. Robinson, and handed over to him to the amount of thirty-six thousand dollars of the amount paid in by the Thayers, or those whom they represented.

Upon inquiry as to the manner in which this was accomplished, he vouchsafed the following description: About the time of the date of the note for $38,000, drawn by J. Jackson, and endorsed by R. R. Underhill and J. W. Underhill, the same was discounted and placed to the credit of J. W. Underhill; then J. W. Underhill gave to J. R. Robinson a check for the proceeds of the note, and the securities representing the capital stock of the Bank were handed over to J. R. Robinson in payment of the check, and the note for $38,000.00 was submitted for the capital stock of the Bank to that amount, which, with a large amount of collateral securities, were deposited with me.

The evidence of R. R. Underhill is given somewhat at length, being considered a historical sketch of the leading proceedings of the Bank. He is a Quaker, residing in Indianapolis, Indiana; was not an original stockholder preparatory to his connection with the Bank. He solves the Street difficulty thus: Zadoc Street is also a Quaker, residing in Salem, Columbiana county, Ohio, who was represented to Underhill to be a man of means—worth one hundred thousand dollars, and well acquainted with banking. He agreed to meet Underhill at Shamokin for the purpose of taking the balance of the stock. He came on, and declared himself satisfied, and agreed to pay forty thousand dollars in gold—twenty thousand of it in ten days. We (i. e., probably the Bank,) then agreed to give him twenty thousand dollars, with which he was to arrange a system of exchange of notes with Banks in Western Pennsylvania, instead of which he went to Philadelphia, and hypothecated two thousand dollars to a forwarding house there for his own use; and then went on his way home to Salem, paying his debts and buying grain for a mill which he had there. He continues—the ten days elapsed, and no gold being forthcoming, we became alarmed, and I went after him. Street said he had left the money in Philadelphia. We went with him there, where we obtained in all ten thousand dollars; in security for the balance, he gave Mr. Robinson, who was with me, packages said to represent money, until next day. Upon opening the packages, Mr. Robinson found them to contain worthless papers.

The cashier (Mr. Robinson) then started in search of Mr. Street, but he was missing. They got the assistance of the police, and arrested him just as he was leaving for the west. The next day, but one, the matter was arranged; in what manner is uncertain; as at one time he states by returning Shamokin bills... $1,200 00 Judgment notes..... 8,800 00

And again, the ten thousand dollars Street owes the Bank, is secured by notes payable at the Bank of North America, in Philadelphia, in Shamokin bills; and thus the operation closed.

The difficulty in which he was more directly interested in, was a complaint against the president, cashier, J. H. Underhill, J. Jackson, and himself, of conspiracy to defraud the bill holders of the Shamokin Bank, and it "arose," he says, "from the fact that before he had anything to do with the Bank, and while it was principally under the control of J. R. Robinson, there was deposited about two thousand dollars with the M'Kean County Bank, for the purpose of paying the first instalment of a subscription of stock by J. R. Robinson to the M'Kean County Bank, and which bills were to be returned to the Shamokin Bank by Robinson, and not put in circulation. How the money was obtained he knows not, but it was not upon a discount, as the money was to be returned to the Bank. He understood that this money was presented at the Bank for redemption, where information was had that it would be redeemed in Philadelphia, whither they were carried, and remained for four days unknown to him, and after his arrest, he redeemed them; that when we [i. e. himself, son and J. Jackson,] made the contract to purchase the Bank, he, [i. e. Robinson] stated that there were two thousand dollars in notes of the Shamokin Bank, with the M'Kean County Bank, which would be returned by him."

The stock which Robinson controlled and transferred to us, was in all about fifteen hundred shares. It was not all transferred in our names, but we are the parties in interest. We have had but one note discounted, which was for the $38,000 00. It is now due and is not paid, but I have endorsed for Underhill and Lockhart for $1,015 50, and my son for J. Jackson $2,000 00.

Being satisfied with the explanation of their present position, and find them at least the ostensible, if not the real owners of the Bank, an inquiry into their ability naturally suggested itself.

To this inquiry, Mr. Underhill responds as follows, not positively but equivocally.

Mr. Jackson is a man of means, and resides in New York city. The means of myself and son are as follows, viz:

ASSETS.

One town block in Indianapolis, Ind., worth from 30 to $35,000, say.....	$35,000 00
One eighty acre lot.....	8,000 00
One undivided interest in saw mill, in Dunn county, Wisconsin.....	12,000 00
	$55,000 00

LIABILITIES.

Lien on town block.....	$4,500 00
Do lot .....	3,500 00
Debt on mill .....	10,000 00
Security for son, judgments .....	4,000 00
Individual debts.....	1,600 00
Endorser .....	4,000 00
Individual debt for money used in Bank.....	8,000 00

$35,600 00

Leaving a balance in their favor of $19,400 00 in property, according to the estimate of Mr. Underhill. Inquiries, however, of officers and persons interested in the Bank, produce a different result. Leaving the assets as he placed them, information from Indianapolis, through an officer of the Bank, places the liens upon the block and lot at a different figure. In which case, the liabilities would be liens upon Block and lot, &c., at Indianapolis..... $27,000 00 Add other items as above set forth, 27,600 00

Which would leave a balance in his favor of $400 00.

Space will not allow more lengthened extracts from the voluminous evidence. It is, however, added, that of J. H. Zimmerman, the president, a large circle of friends and acquaintances, bear testimony to his public and private worth, but the then prevalent disease at Tioga, Centre and Meadville, seems to have completely overran the Shamokin Valley.

Next in order comes—

THE BANK OF PHOENIXVILLE.

Books for the subscription to the capital stock of this Bank were opened on the eleventh day of January, A. D. 1858, from which day until the sixth day of February, A. D. 1858, one hundred and eighty three shares were subscribed, on which day there was subscribed twelve hundred shares; since which time fifteen shares have been taken. Had an organization taken place under these circumstances, the stock would have stood,

Phoenixville and vicinity.....	198 shares.
Buffalo.....do.....	1200 "

This finishes the geographical panorama of the distribution of the stock of the several Banks. For the purposes of more clearly exemplifying the dexterity of these financial geniuses who subscribe so liberally, the following table is submitted showing the name of the party; by whom the stock was taken; the attorney; witness; amount originally named in the power of attorney, and the amount they were altered to while in Phoenixville.

LEGISLATIVE RECORD.

FOR THE SESSION OF 1859.

table it appears that the powers of attorney, as exhibited by the commissioners, authorized the attorneys to subscribe 500 shares; by alteration of the letters they actually subscribed for 1000 shares. A proceeding so unworthy as this is evidently repugnant to every sense of legal or moral honesty, and probably arose from suggestion of some of these parties, of the necessity of their controlling the Bank, as was their custom in case of the Banks before named.

N. M. Ellis, Esq., secretary of the commissioners, states that the powers of attorney were altered at the time of subscribing, by the individuals named as attorneys. This proceeding was objected to by some of the commissioners, alleging that it was illegal; when the attorney for the parties holding the letters of attorney pronounced it "all straight and legal," "no difficulty about it," &c. Comment upon the legal ability or honesty of the attorney or the agents of the parties is unnecessary. Upon each share of stock was paid in five dollars, which, upon one thousand shares subscribed by attorney, would be 1,000 ($5) $5,000. Two hundred shares in person, 200 ($5) $1,000; making total amount paid in $6,000, which was paid in the notes of the Tioga County Bank; this was Feb. 6th, 1858. Objection was raised by Mr. Ellis and others, that this was not the kind of money required by law. Upon assurances of the attorney, who was the active man and "the spokesman" of the party, the subscription and money was received, but the natural honesty of the commissioners at Phoenixville and other persons there, and at Philadelphia, was startled. Their fears soon ripened into suspicion, for we find that upon the 10th day of February, A. D. 1858, at a meeting of the board of commissioners, they adopted the following resolution: "That a committee of three be appointed to confer, &c., as to the character and responsibility in reference to Messrs. Charles E. Thayer and W. Meech, and the party they represent, and report as early as practicable." In the statement of the committee they say they proceeded to Philadelphia, and in an interview with James W. Milliken, Esq., to whom they were referred, Mr. Milliken, in answer to their inquiries, states that the parties were recommended to him by D. A. Finney, Esq., and that he has no knowledge of them, except what he obtained from Messrs. Pratt & Co., of Buffalo, N. Y., an extract of which is given, in which they say of their colleagues, that they are "correct, upright business men, and have been educated under similar influences," but as to their commercial standing, i. e., responsibility, they are unable to say what it may be at present; as they have made and lost a great deal of money, "as we understand." It is thought the latter phrase is correct; the balance would be a question of fact for a jury of the people at large to determine. It was further stated by Mr. Milliken that they, (Thayers) were stockholders in the Tioga County Bank, but did not wish to be known as such, until they had disposed of their interest in the same. The committee further state, that they cannot endorse their proceedings in relation to the Bank of Phoenixville; that public opinion is much against them, and that they recommend their withdrawal; and further, that they understand from Mr. Emory, broker, of Philadelphia, that the notes of the Tioga County Bank are entirely discredited and no sale in their report. They say that certain persons, said to be from Buffalo, N. Y., not citizens of this State, and to the commissioners totally unknown, subscribed an amount, therein named, of whom no satisfactory information as to their design or standing in the community where they are from can be obtained. That the first instalment was paid in Tioga County Bank notes; a new Bank, recently chartered, in bad repute, and owned, as they believe, by the parties therein named. That the Bank is controlled by strangers, would entirely destroy its usefulness to the community; therefore they offer the following resolutions:

That the resolution authorizing the subscription to the stock be rescinded;

That the special committee be authorized to employ counsel, to take such measures as will prevent the Bank from falling into the hands of irresponsible persons; and

That the treasurer be authorized to tender to the parties who subscribed sixty thousand dollars to the capital stock of our Bank, on the 6th inst., their funds, and request them to deliver up their certificates for cancellation; as it is the determination of the commissioners of the Bank of Phoenixville not to enter into banking with the said parties or their principals.

On the question, shall the report of the committee be adopted? the yeas were sixteen, nays none. So the report was unanimously adopted. This was upon the 15th day of February, A. D. 1858.

One of the resolutions adopted, authorized the committee to employ counsel, the result of which is before us in the shape of an opinion of Joseph J. Lewis, Esq., upon all the facts connected with the subscription to the stock of the Bank. The first points established are general, and apply equally to all other Banks, and are, that the subscriptions to the capital stock made by the powers of attorney, as herein before described, bind neither the principal nor the attorney; that it cannot be binding upon the principal. The words of Chancellor Kent, (2 vol., sec. 41. p., 631.) is given:

"The attorney," says he, "who executes a power, as by giving a deed, must do it in the name of his principal—for, if he executes it in his own name, though he describes himself to be agent or attorney of his principal, the deed is held to be void." A few words easily demonstrate the reason of the existence of this legal maxim. In the body of the instrument, the covenants are those of the principal, but are sealed with the seal of the attorney, in which case the attorney has not made a contract for himself or his principal, and no one named in it is bound by it: vide Hopkins vs. Mcshaffy, 11 S. & R., p. 128. To render the position of these letters still worse, no parol evidence can be adduced to cure the infirmity which an inspection of the deed discloses. Again, if the foregoing objections were waived, others equally strong arise. Two are general. The names of most of the stockholders which are subscribed by attorney, appear to be females. Were they femes covert or infants at the time the letters of attorney were executed? If they were either married women or minors, the subscriptions were made without authority, and are not obligatory. Finally, in ten of the letters of attorney the word 'forty' is erased, and the word 'eighty' written afterwards; in four, the word 'twenty' has been erased and the word 'forty' written afterwards. The evidence shows that these erasures were made at Phoenixville, by the attorneys, without the knowledge or assent of the principals, for matters apparent upon the face of these instruments. The policy of the law makes them not only voidable, but absolutely void.

M. T. McVeagh, Esq., of Phoenixville, says that he was one of the commissioners of the Bank of Phoenixville, and that soon after the subscriptions were made, we considered them bogus, and requested them to withdraw their subscriptions, which for some time they refused, until notice was given them of the effect of our legal advice, when they met us in Philadelphia. Their receipts and subscriptions were cancelled, and we paid them back the six thousand dollars, Tioga County Bank notes. And thus ended their connection with the Bank of Phoenixville.—With the evidence, is submitted copies of telegraphic despatches, letters, &c., from bankers in Erie, Albany, &c., setting forth in answer to inquiries from the commissioners, that the parties therein named are not responsible. The greater part of the stock being thus cancelled, no application has yet been made for letters patent.

Lastly on the list comes the

OCTORARA BANK.

Books for the subscription of the stock were opened, and up to June 23, 1858, two thousand and one shares had been taken; which amount appears in the letters patent. And twenty five dollars per share was paid in gold and silver and the notes of specie paying Banks of Pennsylvania; none of which were either of Tioga County Bank, Bank of Crawford County, or Shamokin Bank. Five dollars per share was paid at the time of making the subscription, and twenty dollars additional was paid on or before the 23d day of June, 1858; making $25 on each share of 2,001 shares; amounting to fifty thousand and twenty five dollars. And about twenty shares has since been taken, on which fifty per cent. was also paid. The whole of the stock was subscribed by persons who reside within fifteen miles of the location of the Bank; except about sixty shares, which were taken by parties who reside, one in Norristown, one in West Chester, Chester county, and in New Castle county, Delaware. A board of directors were elected on Saturday, the 10th day of July, 1858, of whom E. V. Dickly was elected president, and J. H. Cunningham, cashier. Of the two thousand and one shares, about seven hundred shares are owned by the directors. Up to July 16, 1858, the Bank had not commenced business.

It is due to the public, that mention should be made of the system of Bank note reporters, as at present practiced. Exhibit was made of letters, circulars, &c., from publishers of reporters to the Banks, requiring immediate correspondence, or a personal visit, to make "certain arrangements," or the alternative would produce disagreeable consequences. A satisfactory line or call, and all would be sunshine; with neglect or denial, comes the instant thunder of their indignation. Aside from their imperfect description of counterfeits, many of which never existed, their contents are hurtful; quotations that depend upon the amount paid, or deposits without interest, are not only unworthy of public confidence, but should be entirely disregarded.

It might be considered improper, even though we had time and space, to endeavor by argument to demonstrate the absolute necessity of a radical and entire change in our banking system, under the above state of facts. Is it not apparent to every citizen of this Commonwealth that it produces rottenness and corruption?—Susceptibility of misconstruction and evasion, it offers legalized inducements to dishonesty and fraud; framed with a view to the interest of the stockholder, the effect is to ignore the interest or existence of the bill holder; granting special privileges, it yet allows them to be abused, and public confidence to be destroyed, thus weakening every branch of the credit system. It is submitted that this is a public and grievous wrong, requiring a prompt remedy, for the common weal and the financial credit of the State.

The following facts are established by the evidence, or statutory enactments and the decisions thereon:

1st. The stock subscribed to these Banks by the powers of attorney is void; and hence, parties are not responsible for subscriptions.

2d. The returns made to obtain letters patent were not according to law, as section 5th of act of 16th April, 1850, provides that "the payment of the shares of the capital stock shall be made in gold and silver, or notes of specie paying Banks of this Commonwealth;" the returns state, "gold and the notes of solvent Banks of this Commonwealth."

3d. The act of October 16, 1857, was retrospective, not prospective, and did not embrace in its provisions Banks not yet organized.

4th. The withdrawal of the capital paid in by discounts or under any other name, either with or without the substitution of stock notes, is a violation or avoidance of the laws of this Commonwealth regulating Banks, that work a forfeiture of charter.

The committee, therefore, submit to your Excellency, the propriety of adopting means to remedy this great evil, either by legislative or Executive action. We subscribe ourselves,

Very respectfully, your obt<sup>s</sup> serv<sup>ts</sup>,
P. C. GRITMAN,
R. P. MILLER,

SENATE.

Mr. FINNEY presented the annual report of the Erie canal company.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

Mr. PENNEY (Estates and Escheats,) reported, with amendments, "An Act to empower the courts of common pleas of Union county to appoint a trustee to receive certain money from the executor of John Brown, dec'd."

Mr. WELSH, (select committee,) reported as follows:

The select committee of the Senate and House of Representatives, to whom was referred the subject of the Legislative Manual, compiled by Jacob Zeigler, Esq., late Chief Clerk of the House of Representatives, under a resolution of last session, beg leave to make the following report: That they have carefully examined the work alluded to, and take great pleasure in bearing testimony to the very able and satisfactory manner in which Mr. Zeigler has discharged the arduous duty assigned to him by the House, at the last session. The Manual which he has prepared contains a vast amount of valuable information, the result of long experience, and close observation and study, not easily attainable elsewhere, and happily adapted to facilitate members in the discharge of their legislative duties. To new members this Manual will be found particularly valuable; as a careful study of its contents will soon place them upon an equality with older and more experienced members.

The committee, therefore, agreed to report a joint resolution to compensate Mr. Zeigler for the labor performed by him, and which will be reported by the committee of the House of Representatives to that body.

BILLS IN PLACE.

Mr. PARKER read in his place and presented to the Chair, "An Act to modify the 1st section of an act widening Chatham street, in the city of Philadelphia, passed 26th day of April, 1858."

Also, "An Act to incorporate the Fairmount Park passenger railway company."

ORIGINAL RESOLUTIONS.

Mr. SCHELL offered the following resolution; which was read, as follows:

Resolved, That it be adopted, as the Thirty-seventh rule of the Senate, that no one be permitted to smoke within the hall of the Senate.

Mr. MILLER did not understand the resolution. It there was already, as he understood, a rule to the same purport, the adoption of this could have no effect.

The SPEAKER explained that there was, in the rules for the government of the House, such a resolution; but there was none in the Senate.

The said resolution was read a second time, and agreed to.

Mr. GREGG asked and obtained leave to withdraw certain papers relating to a bill, entitled "An Act for the laying out of a State road from Sproule's gap to McCall's mills."

ORDERS OF THE DAY.

Resolution, offered by Mr. COFFEY, calling for information as to the service of how many clerks can be dispensed with in the Auditor General's office, since the abolition of the Canal Board, was read a second time, and agreed to.

The bill entitled "An Act to incorporate the Preachers' aid society of the First Methodist Protestant church," was then considered on second reading.

Mr. MILLER offered an amendment striking out "six thousand," and inserting "five thousand."

Mr. MILLER remarked that in grants of this character, the Legislature should be governed by the prescribed rules. He was opposed to tying up large amounts of capital in dead hands. Five thousand dollars is an ample amount for any corporation of this kind, and the object of the general law was to prevent this very locking up of capital in dead hands, of which he had spoken. He was not opposed to granting to benevolent and religious societies, but he was desirous of keeping them, as well as others, within the prescribed rules. At the last session the rule was violated, by inserting in many cases, a small amount over that which was sufficient to take it out of the power of the courts. He thought it was establishing a bad precedent, and he hoped the amendment of the Senator from Allegheny would not be adopted.

Mr. GAZZAM explained that the object of the bill was to afford relief to the poor, old and infirm preachers of the Methodist Protestant church of the Pittsburgh conference, and he did not think the Senator from Washington so fastidious as to object. What denomination of Christians, he asked, had done more to bring sinners under the banner of Jesus, and to disseminate the principles of the Gospel, than they had done? They were the early pioneers in this work of preaching the christian religion in the west. They were not ambitious of worldly wealth, as their whole lives had exemplified, and had given up all else in the work of christianizing the people. Surely we may trust them, if we can trust any one, for there is no reason to suppose, for one moment, that they would abuse any privilege contemplated by the charter. The Senate should not refuse this denomination of christians a grant which had been frequently made to others, and he sincerely hoped, that, however the objections of the Senator from Washington might be urged as a matter of State policy, others would not view them in the same light.

Mr. GAZZAM offered an amendment to the amendment, by inserting "five hundred" after "five thousand," so as to read "five thousand and five hundred."

The amendment to the amendment was agreed to.

As also, the amendment and the section as thus amended.

The bill passed second and third readings.

Mr. RANDALL was granted leave to report, as chairman of the Committee on Railroads, as committed, "An Act to extend the time for commencing the Columbia and Octorara railroad."

Mr. BALDWIN moved its consideration.

The Senate resolved itself into committee of the whole. (Mr. SCHELL in the chair.)

The committee rose and the chairman reported the bill as committed.

On motion, the rule was dispensed with, and said bill was read a second and third time, and passed.

Mr. COFFEY, leave being given, read in his place and presented to the chair, "A supplement to an act incorporating the University of Kittanning, approved March 18, 1858."

On this bill the Senate went into committee of the whole. (Mr. SCOFIELD in the chair.) The chairman reported same as committed.

On motion, the rule was dispensed with, and said bill was read a second and third time, and passed.

Mr. GREGG moved that the Senate proceed to the consideration of a bill, entitled "An Act relative to the appointment of a trustee in Union county, for the estate of John Brown, deceased."

The Senate resolved itself into committee of the whole. (Mr. SHAFFER in the chair.)

After some time the committee rose, and the chairman reported the bill as committed.

The Clerk of the House being introduced, presented bills for concurrence.

On motion, the Senate adjourned until 11 o'clock to-morrow morning.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

TUESDAY, Jan. 18, 1859.

The House met at the usual hour, the SPEAKER in the chair.

Prayer was offered by the Rev. Mr. Gans, of the German Reformed Church, Harrisburg.

The Clerk then proceeded to read the Journal of yesterday; when

Mr. WALKER moved that the reading be dispensed with; and,

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion? it was determined in the negative.

The Clerk then finished the reading of the Journal.

The SPEAKER laid before the House a communication from the State Treasurer, transmitting a statement of the estimated contingent expenses of his department for the ensuing year.

Also, a communication from the Secretary of the Commonwealth, on the same subject. (Referred to the Committee on Ways and Means.)

SENATE AMENDMENTS.

To House resolution relative to the purchase of certain books for the use of the members and clerks—striking out Sutherland's Legislative Manual; were read and adopted.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

Mr. WILCOX asked and obtained leave of absence for his colleague, Mr. BOYER, of Clearfield, for a few days from to-day.

Mr. BURLEY asked and obtained leave of absence for Mr. WIGTON, for a few days from to-day.

PETITIONS, &c., WITHDRAWN.

Mr. LAWRENCE, (Washington,) asked and obtained leave to withdraw the documents relative to the claims of Burke and Gonder.

ORIGINAL RESOLUTION.

Mr. WILEY submitted the following resolution:

Resolved, That a committee of five be appointed, whose duty it shall be to furnish a full report to this House of all necessary information in relation to the policy of the State tax imposed upon domestic and foreign goods sold at auction by regularly licensed auctioneers, with a view to the consideration of the expediency or inexpediency of a modification or repeal of the laws imposing said duties upon said goods. Adopted.

The SPEAKER appointed Messrs. WILEY, ROHRER, FOSTER, LAIRD and KETCHUM, said committee.

Mr. THORN offered a resolution that the Clerk be directed to furnish for the use of the members of the railroad committee a map of the city of Philadelphia.

Mr. IRISH moved to amend the same by adding a map of the city of Pittsburg.

Mr. THORN accepted the amendment.

Mr. ROSE moved to amend so that each member of the House would be furnished with copies of the same.

Mr. THORN, in explanation, said that all of the members of the Railroad Committee were out from Philadelphia. A map was necessary to enable them to fully understand the subjects which were referred to them for consideration.

Mr. ROSE. I renew my motion to amend by making it read so as to procure a map for each member of the House. Every representative should have one. The reason why I advocate this course is because we all have to vote upon the matters reported by the Committee, and should all be conversant with the exact locality of the railroads in Pittsburg and Philadelphia. The members are just as much entitled to a map as the committeemen, and it is just as important for them to have them.

Mr. HAMERSLY said that he hoped the amendment would not prevail. The cost which would accrue would be upwards of $1000. There was no actual necessity for furnishing the members and probably not half of them would think the map worth carrying away. He hoped again that the amendment would not prevail. The amendment of Mr. ROSE was lost.

The question recurring upon the adoption of the resolution,

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. HAMERSLY and Mr. FOSTER, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Abbott, Acker, Burley, Campbell, Chase, Church, Ellmaker, Evans, Fearon, Fisher, Foster, Glutz, Goepf, Gratz, Hamersly, Harding, Irish, Laird, Maun, Mahaffey, McClain, McDowell, Miller, Neall, Patterson, Peirce, Porter, Price, Pugh, Quigley, Ramsdell, Rouse, Shaffer, Sheppard, Smith, (Philadelphia,) Styer, Thorn, Walborn, Warden, Whitman, Wilcox, Wiley, Williston, Wood and Lawrence, Speaker—45

NAYS—Messrs. Balliet, Barnsley, Barlow, Bayard, Bertolet, Boyer, (Schuylkill,) Brodhead, Bryson, Custer, Dismant, Dodds, Durbin, Eckman, Fleming, Galley, Graham, Green, Gritman, Hill, Hottenstine, Jackson, Keneagy, Ketchum, Kinney, Lawrence, (Washington,) McCurdy, Oaks, Palm, Pennell, Pinkerton, Rohrer, Rose, Shields, Stoneback, Stuart, Taylor, Thompson, Walker, Wigton, Williams, (Bedford,) Williams, (Bucks,) Wilson, Withrow, Wolf, Woodring and Zoller—46.

So the question was determined in the negative.

Mr. WALBORN asked leave to make a statement. Leave being given, he gave notice that at an early day he would introduce a bill for the construction of a passenger railroad, on Arch street, in Philadelphia.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

Mr. IRISH, (Judiciary,) reported as committed, the following:

The committee, on motion of Mr. IRISH, were discharged from the further consideration of the following:

"An Act to prevent the destruction of fish in this Commonwealth." (Referred to Committee on Agriculture.)

Also, "An Act to authorize the trustees of the Associate Reformed, now the United Presbyterian congregation of the city of Erie, to sell certain property and to remove the bodies and graves interred therein," and asked that it be referred to the Committee on Estates and Escheats; which was done.

Mr. THOMPSON, (same,) as committed, the following:

"An Act authorizing the qualified electors of Delaware county, at the general election in Oct., 1859, to elect certain officers in said county."

Also, "An Act to authorize the registration of all inventories in the register's office of Lancaster county."

Also, as committed, "An Act to extend to the county of Northampton the provisions of the act approved the 7th day of May, 1857, entitled 'An Act to increase the pay of jurors and witnesses in certain counties of this Commonwealth.'"

Also, with a negative recommendation, "An Act to authorize the commutation of the death penalty in certain cases."

Mr. GRITMAN, (same,) as committed, the following:

"An Act providing for the recording of venue lists, inventories and appraisements by the register of wills in and for the county of Luzerne."

"An Act empowering the judges of the mayor's court of the city of Carbondale to appoint an auditor for said court."

Also, with a negative recommendation, "A supplement to an act for the better preservation of game and insectivorous birds, passed 21st April, 1858."

Mr. CHASE, (same,) as committed, "An Act to provide for the erection of a house for the employment and support of the poor of the county of Susquehanna."

Also, the following, as committed:

"An Act for the relief of Isaac Gulick, a collector of military taxes in Montour county for the year 1857."

Also, "An Act relating to sheriff's and prothonotary's costs in Luzerne county."

Mr. GRATZ, (same,) as committed, "An Act supplementary to the second section of the act passed March 27, 1819."

Mr. HAMERSLY, chairman of the joint committee, to whom was referred resolution relative to Jacob Zeigler's Manual, made report; which was read, as follows:

The select committee of the Senate and House of Representatives, to whom was referred the subject of the Legislative Manual, compiled by Jacob Zeigler, Esq., Chief Clerk during the last session, beg leave to make the following report:

That they have carefully examined the work alluded to, and take great pleasure in bearing testimony to the very able and satisfactory manner in which Mr. Zeigler has discharged the arduous duty assigned to him by the House at the last session. The "Manual" which he has proposed, contains a vast amount of valuable information—the result of long experience and close observation and study—not easily attainable elsewhere, and happily adapted to facilitate members in the discharge of their legislative duties. To new members, this "Manual" will be found particularly valuable, as a careful study of its contents will soon place them upon equality with older and more experienced members.

The committee therefore offer the following joint resolution:

Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, That the State Treasurer be, and he is hereby authorized, to pay to Jacob Ziegler $1,000 for one thousand copies of the Legislative Manual, compiled by him under a resolution of the House of Representatives, adopted at the session of 1858; and that the said Jacob Ziegler be, and is hereby allowed to retain to his use the copyright of said work.

Which was read the second and third time, and passed finally.

TARIFF RESOLUTIONS.

Mr. LAWRENCE, chairman of the select committee to which was referred the resolutions recently introduced by him, made the following report:

WHEREAS, The experience of the past and present most fully demonstrate that it is a wise and beneficial policy of the General Government which dictates the imposition of duties on such products of foreign nations as come in such direct contact with those of our own country, as to injure and prostrate the trade on our own soil, and among our own citizens.

The artisans and laborers in many departments of trade are compelled to abandon their accustomed pursuits—especially do our own coal and iron interests suffer; therefore

Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, That our Senators in Congress be instructed, and our Representatives requested, to labor for the passage (at the present session) of such an act as will not only tend to increase the revenue by the imposition of duties, but afford ample encouragement to all the interests of the country, injured by the productions of the cheap labor of other nations; but more especially to urge an increase of duties on coal and iron, in which a portion of our own people are deeply interested.

Resolved, That the views of the President expressed in his late annual message in reference to the advantage of definite or specific duties over ad valorem duties, as more uniform, less liable to frauds, and affording the most certain and uniform amount of revenue, meet our hearty approbation.

Resolved, That the Governor be requested to forward to each of our Senators and Members of Congress a copy of the above preamble and resolutions, informing them of their adoption.

Signed by committee.

G. V. LAWRENCE,
P. C. GRITMAN,
GEO. W. WOOD,
JNO W ROHRER.
JNO J PATTERSON,
GEORGE WILEY,
W. P. WILCOX,

Mr. GOEPP trusted that the House would not suspend the rules, and proceed to the consideration of a resolution of such great importance on such short notice. He was disposed to doubt the propriety of passing resolutions of this kind at all, and in this instance the House had heard them read but once, and certainly had not given them due consideration.

The SPEAKER said that the motion to proceed to a second reading was not debatable.

On motion, the House then agreed to proceed to a second reading; whereupon,

Mr. GOEPP stated that he deeply regretted this decision. For once, he had not really had time to read and duly consider the resolutions, and he did not doubt but that this was the case with many other members. He was well aware that in the remarks which he was now about to make, he would be extremely liable to be misunderstood, but he deemed it necessary for his own satisfaction, and in support of his own convictions, to explain the reason why he could not vote for the resolutions. He should demand that this reason be placed upon the Journal.

His opposition, then, the speaker stated, arose not from any thing in the drawing up or subject matter of the resolutions, but simply from the fact that he was opposed to any interference by a State with a National Legislature. This was evidently contemplated by the resolutions, and would not only be a waste of time, but would exceed the authority of the State Assembly. It would be doing an injustice to the constituents of the representatives, who had been sent to Harrisburg to legislate, not for the country at large, but for the different counties of the Commonwealth; not for the nation, but for the State. It was likely to lead to differences between the members of Congress and of the Legislature, and was in fact totally wrong. The province of the two branches of government was well understood; the duties of the delegates at Washington were to represent their respective districts on all questions affecting the nation, while the powers of members of a State Assembly were limited to matters immediately within their own jurisdiction. Neither branch had any right to interfere with the other.

The subject, he said, he did not propose to discuss at any great length, being unprepared, but should insist upon the doctrine of non-interference by State Legislatures with National questions. Where would such a practice end? Already, besides the pending resolutions, two others had been prepared, one of them relative to a navy yard and one relative to the rates of postage. No doubt others would be pushed forward, and probably the long vexed and agitating slavery question would be broached in these halls, until at length the State Legislature of Pennsylvania would be resolved into a body having no duty except to instruct the members of both Houses at Washington. They were not sent to Harrisburg for any such purpose. The Federal Congressmen were directly responsible to the people, and the representatives who were before him had no duty except to represent the people of the State, on State issues. In regard to the tariff question, the citizens of the Republic had already spoken, and the voice of the Assembly of any one Commonwealth was not requisite to reiterate their views.

While thus being opposed to any resolutions of instruction to Congressmen, he was sorry that the tariff question had been the one on which he was obliged to express these sentiments, and for this purpose would greatly have preferred the navy-yard or post office rates. On either of these, he thought it probable that he should have received more unbiased attention. Yet if the doctrine was true in regard to one, it was equally so in regard to another, and the principle would remain unshaken, whatever might be the application.

There was no doubt but that resolutions of the same character of those proposed, had already been passed by legislatures, but the precedent was not binding.

If it was right to instruct Congressmen, and if the practice was to become common, the State Assembly would be little better than a caucus of instruction. Again he would repeat that the people of the Commonwealth contemplated no such object when they sent their representatives to Harrisburg.

The fact was indisputable that in many instances the matter had been carried to great lengths. In the South Carolina Legislature, a committee had been appointed expressly on Federal Relations. This bad example should prove instructive.

Again, he was forced to regret that the expression of his views had necessarily been upon a question of such importance as that of a regulation of the tariff—a question which elicited the attention of all partisans. But he could not refrain from speaking, for it was fraught with so much danger for a Legislature to attempt to instruct Congress, that a sense of duty had prevented him from remaining silent.

Continuing further in defence of the ground which he had assumed, he said that the Union was not merely a confederation of States, but of the people of the States; and it was to the people that Congressmen were liable, and not to the Legislatures. It would lead to wrong views and improper acts, for the Assemblies of the States to interfere with National questions. Holding this doctrine, he could not, and would not vote for the resolutions, and should claim the right to have his reasons for not doing so, entered upon the Journal of the House.

Mr. LAWRENCE, (Washington) said that he did not rise to enter into any discussion of the principle broached by the gentleman from Northampton. (Mr. GOEPP) At some other time he might be able and willing to combat the views which had been advanced, and he trusted would be fully prepared to meet them, but it was in the passage of the resolutions that he was now more immediately interested. He was glad to see that Mr. GOEPP had made no objection to either the subject matter or the drawing up of the resolutions. He was equally glad to find that no other voice had opposed them. He had no intention of discussing the tariff, inasmuch as he believed that all present were anxious to vote, and take effective action, and therefore would not attempt to make a speech for buncomb, or anything else. The abstract question might be settled some other time, but the vote was all that was required at present. The tariff question was likely to come before Congress either this week or in the early part of next, and it was advisable that the great matter at issue should be at once adjusted, without distinction of party. This had been done in committee, and concessions might be made on all sides. The resolutions expressed the sentiments of the people of the State, and the people were looking for some action on the part of their representatives. He knew this by correspondence from many counties, and knew that Congressmen were anxious to have an expression of opinion on the part of the Legislature. A vote should be taken before the adjournment, unless it was desired to engage in a protracted struggle.

Mr. GRITMAN said that the gentleman from Washington. (Mr. LAWRENCE,) need be under no apprehension of any protracted struggle. He agreed with him as far as related to the matter at issue, and as far as concerned the tenor and style of the resolutions. The only question which had been raised, was that relative to the doctrine of instruction. In all local questions he was opposed to the exercise of this right, but when the people of a whole State were concerned, it was but just and proper that their views should find expression, and reach the ears of the Federal Congressmen through the State Assembly.

The gentleman from Northampton had evidently misunderstood the terms of the resolutions. These were not that Congressmen should be instructed, but that the senators should be instructed, and the representatives requested to forward the object. Now who were the constituents of the Senators, if they were not the members of this Assembly? Was it not then the right and duty of the House to instruct those whom they had chosen, upon any question of general importance?

But the resolutions went further. They requested the Representatives to use their influence in favor of increased duties. There was nothing disrespectful or improper in this. No demand was made—no instruction was given, but simply the humble request that they might adopt such a course. The Assembly had no authority to say more, but in regard to the Senators it was justly entitled to give clear and succinct instructions.

There was nothing contained in the resolutions, he thought, at which any one could justly demur. Each side had made a sacrifice—in fact all had made sacrifices. The interests of the State had demanded it.

He was not fearful of the result, but hoped that the yeas and nays would be placed upon the record. That the resolutions would pass could not be questioned, for there seemed to be no dispute as to their propriety.

Mr. WILLISTON did not rise to disagree, but rather to suggest that the chairman of the committee which had the resolutions in charge, should reply to Mr. GOEPP, and thus meet all objections at the threshold. Mr. GOEPP had stated that the House was not authorized to pass such resolutions, and it would be well to discuss and decide this point. He was satisfied as to the matter in his own mind, but felt that it was the duty of the chairman of the committee in question, to meet and answer the arguments of the gentleman from Northampton (Mr. GOEPP.) He hoped that he would at once do so.

Mr. KETCHUM said that he did not propose to consume much time, but would try to fulfil what he considered a duty by combatting the views of Mr. GOEPP. He believed that the people of this Commonwealth, and of all others, had a right to instruct their Representatives in Congress, through any respectable medium, upon any matter in which they were generally interested, and he should never consent to ignore the will of the people by refusing to fulfil his part. As long as the members of the State Assembly were the representatives of the citizens, and so long as they were the constituents of the Senators at Washington, they stood in the position of mediums, and should so act. Mr. GOEPP had said that it would be highly improper for Congress to interfere with the affairs of the Legislature. It certainly would, and would be no less improper for the members of the Harrisburg House to interfere with their constituents. But reverse the case. Suppose that the State Assembly ignored the authority of those by whom they were chosen. They would then be in a similar position to the Senators, if they should ignore the resolutions adopted by their constituents.

Ours was a great and peculiar government. The machinery at Washington—the President, Senators and Members of the House—were under the control of the sovereign people. Who placed them there except the citizens of this republic, and to whom else were they responsible? They were not there to govern us, but as our agents, to carry out the will and wishes of the dumbest man. They were not there to command, but to follow such a course as might be determined by the voice and will of the people. As the gentleman from Luzerne (Mr. GRITMAN) had said, we have undoubtedly the right to instruct the Senators, for they are the creatures of this House—born here, sent from here with instructions—chosen here. And how? Why, by a reliance upon their pledges, and by an expression of a political belief. They were bound to sustain our principles, and moreover, they have a right to look to this House for encouragement and advice; for we are the mediums through whom the people communicate, and through whom they express their opinions.

The members of the lower House at Washington, he declared, were equally under obligations to the people to fulfil their wishes.

He desired to know whether it was not true that in each election district the people had expressed their sentiments relative to the tariff, and had instructed the majority of their members to vote for increased rates? Now it was argued that out of extreme delicacy these members must not dare to reiterate these views to the higher officers, but must altogether ignore the will of the people. He assumed the broad ground that he had a right to instruct Congressmen, and that when requested to do so by the people, as in the present instance, it was a neglect of duty to fail to urge the matter.

The question being called for,

Mr. LAIRD asked whether the question was on the preamble or on the first resolution?

The SPEAKER. On the first resolution.

Mr. LAIRD moved an amendment, viz: That in the first resolution all be stricken out after the word that, and that the resolution read thus:

Resolved, That the imposition of duties upon foreign importations, should be made with the object primarily of obtaining sufficient revenue for the economical administration of the general government, and in the arrangements of the details, and the mode of levying said duties, such reasonable and proper discriminations should be made, as will to the best advantage protect and encourage domestic manufactures, without inflicting injustice upon other great industrial interests of our country.

The question being taken on the amendment, it was lost.

The SPEAKER. The question recurs on the first resolution.

Mr. ABBOTT said that he should vote for the resolutions as they had been reported by the committee. He did not desire, however, to evince any particular partiality for the doctrine of instruction, which was liable to many objections. Some of these had been touched upon by the gentleman from Northampton, (Mr. GOEPP.) He was not disposed, however, to entertain these at present, inasmuch as he felt bound to sustain the resolutions for the subject matter therein contained, and because the method of communication between the people and Congressmen, through the State Assembly, was well recognized. With these few remarks, he hoped that he had set himself right in regard to the matter.

Mr. WILLISTON moved an amendment, which was that the words "and vote" should be inserted after the word "labor" in the first resolution.

He said that the resolutions were not strong enough, and that if the House had any right to instruct at all, they should do it in a forcible manner. He again said that he considered it the duty of the chairman of the committee which had reported the resolutions to rebut the arguments of Mr. GOEPP, and take up the gauntlet which had been thrown down.

Mr. LAWRENCE, (Washington,) stated that it was unfortunate that the resolution had not been referred to the gentleman from the North, (Mr. WILLISTON.) He had already said that he had no desire at present to enter into a discussion of the principle of instruction. If it was especially desired, however, he might do so. But if the gentleman from Tioga, (Mr. WILLISTON,) or the House, would postpone for a day, or a week, if they were not satisfied as to the right to instruct, or as to the language of the resolutions, or as to their tenor, he would propose that the whole subject be postponed until to-morrow morning. He would then willingly meet either the arguments of the gentleman from Northampton, (Mr. GOEPP,) or the perhaps, sarcasm of the member from Tioga, (Mr. WILLISTON.) He did not want to be charged by any man with having offered those resolutions for "bunkum." They had been prepared and submitted in good faith, and in preparing and presenting them, he had been instigated by members of Congress, and had personally considered that their presentation at this time was of no little moment. While he had no disposition to waste time in futile discussion, he was willing, nay, more than willing, to meet any opposition, and to-morrow morning would be prepared to discuss the subject in all its bearings. It had always been with him a favorite theme, and years ago he had fully considered it. The resolution had not been carelessly or thoughtlessly drawn up.

He would not permit, he said, any man to impugn his motives, or to intimate that he was either unwilling or unable to meet any arguments advanced upon this subject.

Mr. WILLISTON said that he was at a loss to understand the gentleman. If he had applied remarks previously made by the speaker, to himself, and considered that they were uttered in a spirit of unkindness, he was wrong. But he did think, and should re-iterate that opinion, that it was the duty of the chairman of any committee reporting a resolution, when that resolution was assailed, to step forward in its defence. All that he had said, had been in good faith.

Mr. GRITMAN hoped that Mr. WILLISTON would not insist upon his amendment. If the Senators were the servants of the House, they should receive from it the same dignified courtesy which a true gentleman pays to his servant. They should be addressed in a courteous manner, and not ordered "to vote." The resolution, as it stood, was sufficiently strong to accomplish the desired end, and indicated its meaning well enough by the word "instruct." To go beyond that point, would be to go too far, and he should be disposed to cavil, if the House would make the expression more forcible.

Mr. MILLER said that it would have afforded him much satisfaction to have had those resolutions printed, and laid on his desk, before they were called up for consideration.—Others might, perhaps, be ready to pass them, but he was not quite prepared, not because he had any amendment to offer, similar to the rather wild one of the gentleman from Tioga, (Mr. WILLISTON,) but because time was requisite for deliberation. It was well understood, by this time, he believed, that the House had a perfect right to pass the resolutions; but there was another point, and that was that he was opposed to a revenue tariff, and saw a little of that in them. In order to investigate this more fully, although he would have to vote for the resolutions, he would move a postponement until the day after to-morrow, and that the resolutions be printed for the use of the House.

Mr. LAWRENCE (Washington,) was afraid that if once postponed, the matter would not again have a chance to come before the House in proper form. Gentlemen were anxiously waiting for an expression of opinion on the part of the House, and there was no reason why it should not now be given, when the resolutions met the views of all those most interested.

Mr. MILLER again said that time would give an opportunity for due consideration.

Mr. HAMERSLY moved, as an amendment to the motion of Mr. MILLER to postpone, "and that the matter be made the special order of the day, for to-morrow."

Mr. THORN asked if it would not require a two-third vote to pass this?

The SPEAKER said that it would.

Mr. THORN. Then I hope that it will receive it.

The question being called on the amendment of Mr. HAMERSLY,

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. HAMERSLY and Mr. ROSE, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Abbott, Acker, Balliet, Barnsley, Bayard, Berolot, Boyer, (Schuylkill,) Brodhead, Bryson, Campbell, Cusler, Dismant, Foster, Galley, Glatz, Goepf, Gratz, Hamersly, Harding, Hill, Hottenstine, Irish, Jackson, Kenney, Kinney, Laird, McClain, Miller, Neall, Ramsdell, Rose, Stephens, Stoneback, Wilson, and Woodring—35.

NAYS—Messrs. Barlow, Burley, Chase, Church, Dolts, Durboraw, Eckman, Ellmaker, Evans, Fearon, Fleming, Graham, Green, Gritman, Ketchum, Lawrence (Washington), Mann, McHaffey, McCurdy, McDowell, Oaks, Paba, Patterson, Pennell, Peirce, Pinkerton, Porter, Price, Pugh, Quigley, Rohrer, Rouse, Shaeffer, Sheppard, Shields, Smith, (Philadelphia,) Stuart, Styer, Taylor, Thompson, Thorn, Walborn, Walker, Warden, Whitman, Wigton, Wilcox, Wiley, Williams, (Bucks,) Williston, Withrow, Wolf, Wood, Zoller and Lawrence, Speaker—55.

So the question was determined in the negative.

Mr. ABBOTT said that he was in favor of immediate action. The resolution would only be embarrassed if full scope was given to a debate on the doctrine of instruction. There could be no doubt but that Congress was amenable to the people, as much as the State Assembly. But there was another view. The right and duty to instruct was placed with the Legislators by the people, and they rely upon them to exercise the privilege. When they shall take direct measures to instruct Congressmen, without legislative intervention, it will be time enough to cease action.

Mr. THOMPSON said that he too should vote for immediate action. It was one of the highest duties of a legislator to instruct the members of Congress as to all measures which would conduce to the prosperity of the Commonwealth. While he had the highest opinion of the intelligence of the gentleman from Northampton, (Mr. GOEPP,) he must differ with him on this point. The Senators were only servants of the Assembly, and sent as such. They were bound to obey such instructions as should be given them by their constituents.

Mr. THOMPSON continued further, and strenuously urged the immediate passage of the resolutions.

The SPEAKER. The question is now on the motion to postpone.

Mr. GRITMAN. The amendment of Mr. WILLISTON has not yet been disposed of.

The amendment was lost.

The motion to postpone was lost.

Mr. RAMSDELL then moved, as an amendment to the first resolution, to strike out the words "a portion of our citizens are interested," and insert "all our citizens are interested." Mr. R. sustained his amendment with some remarks, stating that all the citizens of the Commonwealth were interested in the subject.

The amendment was lost.

The question then recurred upon the first resolution.

It was adopted.

On the second resolution.

It was adopted.

On the third resolution.

It was adopted.

On the preamble.

It was adopted.

It was agreed to transcribe for third reading, and the resolutions were read a third time by their title.

The question being then on the final passage,

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. SHEPPARD and Mr. M'DOWELL, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Abbott, Acker, Balliet, Barnsley, Barlow, Bayard, Bertolet, Boyer, (Schuylkill,) Brodhead, Bryson, Burley, Campbell, Chase, Church, Custer, Dismant, Dodds, Durboraw, Eckman, Ellmaker, Evans, Fearon, Fisher, Fleming, Foster, Galley, Glatz, Graham, Gratz, Green, Gritman, Hamersly, Harding, Hill, Hottenstine, Irish, Jackson, Keneagy, Ketchum, Kinney, Lawrence, (Washington,) Mann, Mehaffey, M'Clain, M'Curdy, M'Dowell, Miller, Neall, Oaks, Palm, Patterson, Pennell, Peirce, Pinkerton, Porter, Price, Pugh, Quigley, Ramsdell, Rohrer, Rose, Rouse, Shaffer, Sheppard, Shields, Smith, (Philadelphia,) Stephens, Stouchback, Stuart, Styer, Taylor, Thompson, Thorn, Walborn, Walker, Warden, Whitman, Wigton, Wilcox, Wiley, Williams, (Bucks,) Williston, Wilson, Withrow, Wolf, Wood, Woodring, Zeller and Lawrence, Speaker—91.

NAYS—Messrs. Goepf and Laird—2.

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

Before Mr. GOEPP recorded his vote on the above preamble and resolutions, he entered up on the Journal of the House the following:

Mr. SPEAKER—I desire to enter upon the Journal of the House, the reasons which influence me in giving the vote I shall give on these resolutions. They are as follows:

That I hold it to be inexpedient, impolitic and improper for a State Legislature to interfere, as a body, in any question of Federal or National legislation whatever, or to express any opinion, as an official body, in relation thereto; that the discussion of such questions in a State Legislature is a waste of the time and money of the people of the Commonwealth; that the passage of resolutions on such subjects is not within the duties which the State Legislature is elected to perform, and is unwise and undignified, because the State Legislature possesses no means of enforcing them; and that the introduction of such topics into a State Legislature results from erroneous views of the Constitution of the United States, and of the relation between the State and the Federal Union; and is calculated to further promote such erroneous views, and to give to subjects of Federal legislation, and the functions of the Federal Government, an undue importance and preponderance in the public mind, as compared with matters of State legislation.

For these reasons I vote "No," without expressing any opinion whatever as to the tariff question, the subject discussed in the resolutions.

M. GOEPP.

Messrs. GRITMAN and GLATZ severally entered upon the Journal the reasons which induced them to vote as they did upon the above question.

BILLS IN PLACE.

Mr. IRISH read in his place and presented to the Chair, "An Act to incorporate the Mercantile Library Hall company of the city of Pittsburg," and asked that it be referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Mr. THORN desired to know why the bill could not be referred to its appropriate committee—that of Corporations?

Mr. IRISH replied that it involved a question of taxation.

Mr. THORN thought that if this was so, then it ought to go to the Committee on Ways and Means. He moved, however, that it be transferred to the Committee on Corporations, where it properly belongs.

And on the question.

Will the House agree to the motion?

It was determined in the negative.

Said bill was then referred to the Committee on the Judiciary System.

Mr. FOSTER, "An Act relative to improvements in the city of Pittsburg;" and by his request, said bill was referred to the Committee on Corporations.

Mr. WILLIAMS, "A supplement to the act incorporating the Dark Hollow and New Hope cementery company. (Referred to Committee on Corporations.)"

Mr. KINNEY, "An Act repealing so much of the 40th section of the act of 21st April, 1858, as provides for the publication of a Daily Legislative Record by R. J. Haldeman; and on his motion, the rules being in this case dispensed with, the House proceeded to the consideration of the same.

The first section being before the House.

Mr. FOSTER stated that he was opposed to settling this matter until the report of the committee had been received. If the act was to pass, he did not believe that it would lead to the formation of any new contract, which would be as advantageous as the present one. He did not think that the printing of the Record could be done cheaper by any party, without reliance was placed upon fraudulent means of obtaining money from the State. That this course had already been pursued by a Harrisburg printer, he had ascertained by reference to the Auditor General's Report.

The hour of one having arrived, the SPEAKER adjourned the House until Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock.

REPORT

OF THE PROCEEDINGS OF THE MONUMENT COMMISSIONERS.

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

The committee, appointed under a resolution of the commissioners to "superintend the erection of a monument to the memory of citizens of Pennsylvania who were slain, or lost their lives in the war with Mexico," with instructions "to communicate the proceedings of the board to the next Legislature," submit the following report:

In pursuance of the duties conferred upon them, the committee will state that the Commissioners first met on the 13th day of May last, and organized by electing His Excellency, Wm. F. Packer, President, and Col. John W. Geary, Secretary and Treasurer. At that meeting, after consultation, the commissioners determined that six thousand dollars, the sum appropriated by the act of the Legislature, approved April 22d, 1858, was inadequate to erect a monument suitable for the purpose indicated. The board, however, desiring to be more thoroughly informed upon the subject of monuments, and the cost of their erection, passed the following resolutions, viz:

"Resolved, That this board will receive plans and specifications for 'the erection of a monument to the memory of citizens of Pennsylvania who were slain, or lost their lives in the late war with Mexico; to be erected on some suitable spot on the public grounds at Harrisburg, to be selected by the commissioners, and that a premium of two hundred dollars may be awarded for the plan which may be adopted. The cost of the monument not to exceed the sum of thirty thousand dollars. Plans, specifications, and estimates to be addressed to the Governor, at Harrisburg, on or before the first day of July next."

"Resolved, That sealed proposals will be received at the Executive Chamber, at Harrisburg, up to 12 o'clock, M. of the 4th day of August next, for the erection of a monument for the purposes above stated."

"Resolved, That the Secretary is hereby instructed to advertise for plans, proposals, &c.

In obedience to the above resolutions the Secretary by "Notice to Architects," dated "May 14th, 1858," advertised for plans, specifications and estimates.

On the first day of July the board again met, for the purpose of examining the various plans submitted to them, and of adopting one, which in their opinion, would be best adapted to the purpose for which the monument is intended. Some thirty plans and models, executed with much artistic skill, taste and science, were exhibited; most of which were highly creditable to those by whom they were presented. The accompanying estimates of the cost of erection varied from $30,000 to $125,000 respectively. Scarcely any architect seemed willing to risk his reputation by furnishing a plan for a suitable monument, with an estimate of cost less than the maximum fixed by the commissioners; and indeed very few would agree to bind themselves in written contract, or give responsible guarantors, to erect one at that price.

"On motion of Mr. Rippey it was,

Resolved, That a committee of five be appointed to ascertain at what price the monument designed by Henry E. Wrigley, Esq., can be erected; and that if said committee receive a proposal for the erection thereof at a price not exceeding thirty thousand dollars, with proper and sufficient securities and guarantees, the same be adopted. And if it cannot be erected at the price named, that we adopt the design of Messrs. Long & Powell, provided the price of the same, shall not exceed thirty thousand dollars, with like securities and guarantees."

"Messrs. Rippey, Geary, Anderson, Coulter and Waterbury, were appointed said committee."

That committee immediately proceeded to Philadelphia, and having carried out the instructions contained in the above resolution, reported a written guarantee from Messrs. Struthers & Son, (the firm with which the said H. E. Wrigley was connected,) that they would "erect a monument according to the design drawn and furnished by H. E. Wrigley for a price not to exceed thirty thousand dollars, in either of the following styles, viz: Of red or drab sandstone, of the height of one hundred feet; or of marble, with the base, buttresses and interior of dome of blue marble, and the residue of white marble, eighty feet in height, preserving the proportions in either case."

Proposals were then invited for the erection of a monument according to the Wrigley plan, to to be received and opened on the 4th day of August.

The commissioners met at the time appointed, but there being no quorum present, it was

Resolved, That the board adjourn, to meet again at 10 o'clock, A. M., on Wednesday the 18th instant."

Pursuant to the adjournment, the board met. Another plan was then presented by Mr. James G. Batterson, of Connecticut; who, by permission of the board, read a description of the plan he submitted, and gave such other information respecting it as was deemed necessary.

The board then proceeded to open the proposals received. They are as follow:

W. C. McFadden, on Wrigley's plan,	$29,357
Thos. Aldred, do. in marble,	57,500
Do. do. in sandstone,	28,750
W. C. Boyle, do.	25,765
John McFadden, do.	27,550
C. Eberly, do.	28,000
Saml. Holman, do. in marble,	30,000
Struthers & Son, do. do.	30,000
Saml. Holman, on Holman's plan,	19,000
B. C. Packen, on Woodbridge's plan,	28,000
B. C. Potts, on Trenton's plan,	20,000
J. G. Batterson, on Batterson's plan,
in Italian marble,	30,000

The following preamble and resolutions were then adopted:

"WHEREAS, Messrs. Struthers & Son are not the lowest bidders for the erection of the monument under the Wrigley plan; And whereas, They are the only parties with whom any interview was had upon the subject, by the committee appointed for the purpose: therefore,

Resolved, That the board deem it inexpedient to proceed to the erection of the monument, under the said plan, and therefore the bids this day opened and examined on said plan be, and the same are hereby rejected, and that the resolution passed at a meeting of July 1st, 1858, providing for the adoption of the Wrigley design be and the same is hereby rescinded.

Resolved, That we do hereby adopt the plan made by James G. Batterson, and that his proposition be submitted to the next Legislature, for such action as circumstances may require.

Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed by the President of the board to communicate the proceedings to the Legislature.

"Whereupon, John W. Geary, O. H. Rippey, and Gen. E. C. Williams were appointed said committee.

"The resignation of Col. James Page, as a member of the board, was read and accepted.

"The board then adjourned, to meet at the call of the President.

The plan of Mr. Batterson having been adopted, a verbal agreement was made between the commissioners and him, conditioned upon the Legislature appropriating the sum of $24,000, in addition to the $6,000 already named, for the erection of the monument.

The design and specifications of Mr. Batterson are herewith submitted to the Legislature.

Mr. Batterson offers the following named gentlemen as guarantors, to secure the faithful performance of his part of the contract, viz:

James L. Howard & Co., H. & W. Reney and Col. Samuel Colt, all of Hartford, Connecticut, and Edwin D. Morgan and George D. Morgan, of New York.

The commissioners, after full deliberation, were unanimously of the opinion that it was inexpedient and unwise to expend the meagre sum of six thousand dollars in the erection of a monument for the purpose above specified; and they were also of the opinion, that it was improper to authorize the expenditure of that sum in the commencement of one, which was to cost many thousands more, with an uncertain reliance upon future legislative appropriations for its completion. The latter course, in the opinion of the board, would not have been creditable either to those who lost their lives, or served in Mexico, to this great Commonwealth, or to those to whom the erection of the monument has been confided.

Our countrymen have at all times nobly confessed an exalted reverence for those, who, while living, have distinguished themselves on the battle-field; nor have they been unmindful of them when dead. Almost every State and city in the Union has its monuments, commemorative of the virtues and heroism of its citizens. Shall it be said that Pennsylvania is an exception? A State that has ever been prodigal of her millions in the development of her physical resources—in the construction of her public works—in the amelioration of the condition of the insane—and in the performance of every noble and disinterested act which philanthropy could suggest. Will she any longer continue to be forgetful of those of her sons whose sufferings and sacrifices for their country's honor can never be fully appreciated; whose nights were spent in sleepless vigilance, and days in toil and peril; who have offered ease, and health, and life, upon the altar of patriotism, and now refuse to grant a few thousand dollars sufficient for the erection of a monument which will be justly appreciative of their virtues, and suitably commemorative of their services? The committee cannot for one moment believe that she will. They believe that the same patriotism glows in the breasts of those who now represent her in the Executive and Legislative Halls, that did in those who represented her on the battle fields of Mexico, and that they will not hesitate to make the appropriation requested. The enlightened people of Pennsylvania, rising above selfish and partizan feelings, will sanction such expenditure for the erection of a suitable and honorable memento of the important services of those patriots, who, in sustaining their country's honor, lost their lives, either by the casualties of battle, or by diseases incident to extraordinary exposure in a tropical climate; whose remains are among strangers, in a foreign land, without a stone, however rude, by which their resting places are indicated, or may be distinguished from those of their fallen enemies.

It is hoped the amount asked for will not be considered large, for it seems small indeed, when compared with the cost of monuments elsewhere erected, and about to be erected, for similar purposes. The proposed monument in honor of the fifty-six signers of the Declaration of Independence, it is said, will cost one hundred and twenty five thousand dollars. It is but a very brief period since the announcement of the death of that gallant soldier, patriot and statesman, Major General Quitman, and yet the people of Mississippi have already made ample provision for the erection of a monument in just appreciation of his virtues.

Many hundreds of the flower of Pennsylvania's bravest sons;—a part of that long and sad catalogue of public benefactors who are neglected and forgotten, while our country is in the midst of a rich harvest of blessings, resulting from their services, lie in a foreign land, thus far totally neglected. Are they less worthy of commemoration?

The committee cannot make the request for the further appropriation of twenty-four thousand dollars, nor can they urge, at this time, the taking of so large a sum from the public treasury, without setting forth some further reasons, which, with those already stated, would, in their opinion, seem to justify such an expenditure.

Pennsylvania should never be forgetful of her past and present glory, nor should she cease to remember that she is truly "the land of the free and the home of the brave;" that very many honors are proudly borne upon her escutcheon, which were won, in part, by those whose life and death it is now desired suitably to commemorate.

No sooner was the Mexican war proclaimed, than the chivalric sons of Pennsylvania, prompted by that patriotism which withdrew them from their own avocations, with characteristic and generous emulation, rushed forward to offer their services to defend the honor of the nation. Two full regiments of volunteers, and one of regulars, were all that were accepted; but this did not satisfy the ardor of her people; not only regular regiments were filled up, but the ranks of the volunteer regiments of some of the neighboring States were swelled by Pennsylvanians.

The volunteer regiments went forth with swelling numbers, and high aspirations; and having nobly performed their duty, they returned—their ranks terribly seathed, reduced to less than one-half. How many firesides have been desolated—a father, son, or husband, has fallen in the battle-field, without the possibility of kindred shedding a tear at their graves? There is not a battle-ground of the Mexican war where the soil was not crimsoned with the blood of Pennsylvanians. The bodies of the slain, in many instances, were denied, by the inhabitants, even of the right of sepulture. The hostile feet of their "robber-bands" insultingly tread upon them, or whose nefarious hands dragged them from their graves, stripped them of their clothing, and left them as food for the jackal and other beasts of prey.

Pennsylvanians were at the battles of Palo Alto, Resaca de la Palma, Monterey and Buena Vista. The volunteer regiments underwent arduous duties, and rendered distinguished services at the reduction of Vera Cruz, and at the renowned victory of Cerro Gordo. They were faithful in the performance of every duty at La Roca, Huamantla, and Puebla, and in that series of victorious battles in the Valley of Mexico, which resulted in the capture of the famous "Halls of the Montezumas," they rendered services of the most gallant character. In garrison, on the tortuous and scorching march, as well as in battle, they conducted themselves with becoming fortitude and gallantry—officers and soldiers vied with each other in deeds of valor and heroism—to discriminate between them would be unjust; and it is not saying too much, that whilst their names, with their daring exploits, will occupy one of the brightest pages in their country's history, they will be proudly treasured in the memory of the American people. They bore the flag of our State in triumph over many a bloody field—across the miry swamps of Chalcutpec, and in that bold and impetuous attack it was placed in triumph there, before the surrender of that fortress; and leading thence along the causeway, under a murderous fire, through the fiercely-contested Garitade Belen, displayed Pennsylvania's proud banner in victory first, from the flagstaff of the once defiant Citadel of Mexico. From Pennsylvania, it is said, with regret, these noble and self-sacrificing services have, as yet, received no appropriate legislative recognition. At least such as their vast importance would seem, not only to justify, but absolutely to demand.

The soldier offers up his life a willing sacrifice for his country's honor, and it is practically said, that, though it may be sad, "it is sweet to die for one's country;" but when the soldier dies, sweeter still to him is the assurance that his countrymen will perpetuate his memory. Should war again unveil his unsightly front upon our laud, and our citizens be called to the defence of the country, what greater stimulus could be offered to their pride and patriotism, than to point them to the monumental evidence that their State has not forgotten its fallen sons, and they will enjoy the pleasing reflection, that when the sound of the conflict and the roar of the battle shall animate them no more, that they too will be duly honored by their native State, which they delighted to honor.

Such services as the committee have attempted briefly to describe, they believe it to be the bounden duty of Pennsylvania to reward and suitably to honor. An opportunity is now presented by which her representatives can, in part, do both; and render an act of respectful homage "to Pennsylvanians who were slain, or lost their lives in the Mexican war," who with such a record of toil, of patriotism, of courage, and of perseverance in the midst of the most depressing discouragements, have so largely participated in that series of brilliant victories, which have, and will forever, shed such unfading lustre upon American arms.

Respectfully submitted,

J. HN W. GEARY,
E. C. WILLIAMS,
O. H. RIPPEY.

DESCRIPTION OF MONUMENT.

The monument being commemorative of Pennsylvanians only, who lost their lives in the war with Mexico, I have endeavored to give it a local character, and yet to render it purely historical, telling its own story with such simplicity and certainty that it cannot fail to be intelligible to a discerning mind.

The main column is made to represent the trunk of the Mexican palm tree, and the capital its coronal of leaves. The prickly pear encircles the abacus, and the spaces between the leaves of the capital are filled up with the flowering cactus.

The application of the palm, in this instance, possesses not only a remarkable significance, but receives additional force and beauty, from the fact that its branches have in all ages of the world been regarded as the true symbols of victory, while its stately trunk and crown of evergreen foliage have alike been considered fit emblems of strength and gracefulness.

Four pedestals terminate the buttresses, which project alternately from the faces of an octagonal base, and support an equal number of allegorical statues, representing respectively—War and History, Peace and Plenty. War assumes a sitting posture, and is in the act of returning his sword to its scabbard, while in repose he relates his adventures to History, who, in listening attitude, holds the stylus and tablet upon which she is about to inscribe the record.

The corresponding statues, Peace and Plenty, are draped female figures, in like positions, and characterized by appropriate accessories. Peace is accompanied by her twin sister, Plenty.—War becomes their mutual guardian and protector, with History for his appropriate and necessary attendant.

The arms of Pennsylvania are sculptured in alto-relievo upon the plinth of the main column, bearing the motto—"Virtue, Liberty and Independence."

A colossal statue of Victory crowns the monument. Standing upon a three-quarter globe, she holds in her right hand a wreath of laurel; with her left, she gathers up the folds of our national flag, which she guards as the symbol of freedom and guerdon of victory.

The main die, together with its cornice and base, are octagonal—the different facades being reserved for inscriptions.

Between the statues of war and history, upon the base of the main pedestal, appears the dedicatory inscription:

The State of Pennsylvania, to her brave sons,
who lost their lives in the war with Mexico.

Upon the facades of the plinth, will appear, in raised letters, the names of the different engagements.

The monument is designed to be thirty feet square at the base, and seventy-five feet high. The material to be of best quality Italian marble, as per specification. Price, $30,000.

AN ACT relating to Evidence.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That no person offered as a witness in any action or judicial proceeding in any of the courts of this Commonwealth, shall be excluded by reason of his interest in the event of such action or proceeding; and a party to any action or judicial proceeding in any of the courts of this Commonwealth may be examined as a witness, but such examination shall not be had, nor shall any other person for whose immediate benefit the same is prosecuted or defended be so examined, unless the adverse party or person in interest is living, nor when the opposite party shall be the assignee, administrator, executor or legal representative of a deceased person, nor unless ten days' notice of such intended examination of the party or person interested, specifying the points upon which such party or person is intended to be examined shall be given in writing to the adverse party, except that in special proceedings of a summary nature such reasonable notice of such intended examination shall be given as shall be prescribed by the court or judge, and when notice of such intended examination shall be in an action or proceeding in which the opposite party shall reside, out of the jurisdiction of the court, such party may be examined by commission issued and executed, as now provided by law. And whenever a party or person in interest has been examined, under the provisions of this section, the other party or person in interest may offer himself as a witness in his own behalf, and shall be so received.

SECTION 2. That when an assignor of a thing in action or contract is examined as a witness, on behalf of any person deriving title through or from him, the adverse party may offer himself as a witness to the same matter, in his own behalf, and shall be so received, and to any matter that will discharge him from any liability, that the testimony of the assignor tends to render him liable for, but such assignor shall not be admitted to be examined in behalf of any person deriving title through or from him, against an assignee, or an executor, or an administrator, unless the other party to such contract, or thing, in action, whom the defendant or plaintiff represents is living, and his testimony can be procured for such examination, nor unless at ten days' notice of such intended examination of the assignor, specifying the points upon which he is intended to be examined, shall be given in writing to the adverse party.

SECTION 3. That a party to the record in any action, or judicial proceeding, or a person for whose immediate benefit such proceeding is prosecuted or defended, may be examined as if under cross-examination, at the instance of the adverse party, or any of them, and for that purpose may be compelled in the same manner, and subject to the same rules of examination as any other witness to testify, but the party calling for such examination shall not be excluded thereby, but may rebut it by his own testimony or other evidence.

SEC. 4. That such examination may be had before the trial of the cause at the option of the party claiming it before any judge of the proper court, or a commissioner, generally or specially appointed for the purpose, under a rule entered or a commission issued, as the case may require, with such notice to the party to be examined and to other adverse parties, as is now or may hereafter be prescribed by the rules of the proper court touching the taking of depositions, but the party to be examined shall not be compelled to attend in any other county than that of his residence, or where the said proceeding is pending.

SEC. 5. That a party in interest examined, as provided in the two foregoing sections, may testify in his own behalf, as to any matter pertinent in the issue, but if he testify to any new matter, not in answer to the inquiries propounded to him by the adverse party, or necessary to explain or qualify his answers thereto, or matter in discharge of himself, when his answers would otherwise charge him, such adverse party or his co-plaintiff, or defendant, may be examined as a witness in his or their own behalf, in respect to such new matter.

SEC. 6. That a party proposing to examine a party, adverse in interest, may have the same process and means of compelling attendance and response, as the law provides in the case of ordinary witnesses.

SEC. 7. That no person shall be excluded from testifying as a witness in any action or proceeding, in any court by reason of his having been convicted of a felony, and sentenced therefor, but evidence of the fact may be given to affect his credibility.

SEC. 8. That nothing contained in this act shall render any person who, in any criminal proceeding, is charged with the commission of any indictable offence, or any offence punishable on summary conviction, competent or compellable to give evidence, for or against himself or herself, or shall render any person compellable to answer any question tending to criminate himself or herself, or shall in any proceeding, whether civil or criminal, render any husband competent or compellable to give evidence, for or against his wife, or any wife competent or compellable to give evidence, for or against her husband.

January 19, 1859. }

Hon. JOHN CRESSWELL, Jr.,

Speaker of the Senate:

SIR:—In answer to the Senate's resolution of the 18th inst., I have to say that no reduction has been made in the number of clerks employed in this department "since the sale of the public works of the Commonwealth," for the reason that the increase of business in other branches of the labor of the office is amply sufficient, for the present, to require the service of the whole number employed.

Yours very respectfully,
JACOB FRY, Jr.,
Auditor General.

AND WHEREAS, Under these circumstances it is the paramount duty of legislators to adopt such measures as may tend to encourage and infuse confidence in the public mind, and especially among those engaged in manufacturing and commercial pursuits; therefore,

Be it resolved, That our Senators in Congress be instructed, and Representatives be requested, to advocate and support the immediate adoption of such a system of revenue policy, upon the basis of specific duties, as will, while yielding adequate support to the general government, at once, by affording sufficient incidental protection to the manufacturing interests of Pennsylvania, revive confidence, encourage trade, and further the development of the mining, manufacturing and agricultural resources of our Commonwealth.

Mr. MILLER moved that the resolutions be printed in the Daily Record; which was agreed to.

Mr. PENNEY read a bill, entitled "An Act relating to interest upon verdicts."

Mr. PARKER, "An Act relative to pawnbrokers in the city of Philadelphia."

ORIGINAL RESOLUTIONS.

Mr. TURNEY moved to proceed to the consideration of Senate bill, No. 31, "An Act to abolish the Canal Board;" which was agreed to.

On motion, the Senate resolved itself into committee of the whole, on this bill. (Mr. STEELE in the Chair.)

Mr. TURNEY moved to amend the first section by inserting the words "by them" after the word "decided," in the 13th line; also, in the same line, to strike out "forever barred," and insert in lieu thereof, "referred to the Auditor General for examination;" also, in the 15th line, to insert after the word "Legislature," the words "with the evidence;" and in the same line to insert, after the word "approval," the words "or rejection."

The Clerk of the House being introduced, presented bills and resolutions for concurrence.

Mr. BELL offered an amendment to the amendment, to insert after the word "examination" in the thirteenth line, the words "one year after."

Mr. SCOFIELD remarked, in discussing the amendment, that the Senator from Westmoreland had better have retained the original language of his bill. The proposed amendment was equivalent to saying that the claims against the Commonwealth shall live for ever, rather than there shall be any bar to them. If the Senator should live until he grows gray, and comes back here, he will find, that unless some step other than that contemplated by the amendment is taken, many of these claims will still be hanging over the State, and no nearer adjustment than they now are. Let us, he said, get rid of the claims and the Canal Board together, and avoid the ceaseless difficulties, which, otherwise, they will entail upon the State.

Mr. BELL agreed with the Senator in his views of the purport of the amendment. Some limitation should be made against these claims; but while we are taking steps to guard against frauds upon the treasury of the State, we should also take care that no injustice was done to claimants. A reasonable limitation should be fixed, within which, all demands growing out of the transactions of this department shall be adjusted; but he thought the tenth of February next, the time fixed in the bill for the abolition of the Board, would afford but little time for their proper examination. He therefore moved an amendment, giving to the Auditor General one year to make the necessary examination, and upon his report being rendered, a final liquidation of all the claims can be accomplished.

Mr. TURNEY desired to state that the original phraseology employed by him in framing the bill, met with his own approval; but he had a special object in proposing the amendment. He did not believe there were three honest claims against the Commonwealth, growing out of damages. He wished to prevent a recurrence of the schemes of speculations and frauds, which have so long been prevalent in that department of the State. Unless some course for their adjustment, similar to that contemplated by the section, were adopted, crowds of these claimants would throng the lobbies of the legislative chambers—members of the "third house," and others, with witnesses—overpowering the committees, and, in many instances, enforcing the allowance of claims which are unjust. There should stand between the Commonwealth and the claimants, some middle man, who will do justice to each party, and simplify the whole process for the liquidation of all that may be presented. After they have undergone the investigation of a responsible man, who will be furnished with the necessary data, they will again be subjected to the scrutiny of the Senate and House—of three distinct tribunals—all constituted with a view to their proper investigation and adjustment.

If the section stands as originally reported, it will be impossible for claimants to come here with their witnesses, to secure their allowance. This will be the case, particularly with those having small claims, and who reside at a distance from the seat of government.

Mr. SCHELL was opposed both to the amendment, and to the last five lines of the section. The Senate should be careful what they do in this matter. He understood that the responsibility of these claims had been thrown upon the canal company, in the purchase of the works; and if they are responsible, they should be made to pay them. The amendment will have the effect of releasing the company from their payment; for, upon certain contingencies, they are forever barred. What propriety was there in passing a law making the company responsible, and another act releasing them from that responsibility? Some legislation should provide for the liquidation of these claims; and he would state, as chairman, that the Committee on Finance had in course of preparation a bill covering all claims. He was desirous that the bill should now merely abolish the Board of Canal Commissioners, and he therefore moved to strike out the last five lines of the section: all after the word "same."

Mr. COFFEY observed that the Senator was inaccurate in his statement of facts with reference to the responsibility entailed upon the company by the bill. He agreed with the Senator from Chester that there should be some brief statute of limitation to cut off claims hereafter. He was not prepared to say that one year or six months should be the time specified, but there should be some limitation to them.

Mr. BELL remarked, that the bill gives until the tenth day of February for the presentation of the claims, and if they are not presented by that time, they are forever barred. The amendment strikes out this provision, and makes no limitation. He was in favor of allowing to those holding claims against the Commonwealth sufficient time in which to present them; and then to say to them, if you do not come in, the doors shall be barred against you. He thought there was a propriety in thus affording them a fair opportunity of being heard. At the expiration of one year all claims unadjusted could be presented to the Auditor General for his final report. If such a course were adopted, there could be no danger of further legislation upon the matter. It was due to justice, public and private, that the Legislature should fix some limit, and not cut off, abruptly, the alleged rights of citizens.

He had no personal interest or feeling in the matter. No claim, of even the smallest amount, that he was aware of, would be presented from the district he represented; and his advocacy of this opportunity for a proper investigation was based solely upon the principles of justice.

Mr. MARSELIS wished to understand the subject. He did not understand how the State can throw the responsibility of claims upon a third party, without the consent of claimants; nor could he see how the State could absolve herself from their payment. If there are claims existing against the State prior to the sale of the works, they are good, and the sooner they were disposed of the better. In any court of justice they could be recovered against the Commonwealth; and if she were mulcted in damages, she may call upon the Sunbury and Erie Company for the performance of any contract or responsibility which she had assumed.

Mr. FRANCIS felt considerable interest in this subject, not for himself, particularly, but for the persons he represents. The idea which would be gleaned from the discussion, was that all the claims preferred against the State were fraudulent, based upon neither justice nor right. He cordially agreed with the Senator from Chester, that those preferring claims should have a proper chance to present them. There were many of his constituents who have claims against the State, involving their whole pecuniary means, who have been knocking at the door for years, without receiving a penny. By this delay, many of them were sufferers, and some had even been reduced to the most straitened circumstances by this protracted neglect to investigate and liquidate them. He did not like the bar interposed by the bill against the adjustment of claims; the bars were raised too high for the poor claimant. They had not the means to come here, with their witnesses, for the purpose of securing their allowance, but relied simply upon the justice of them for a speedy liquidation. It was but right that we should give them a chance of being heard; and it was infinitely better, and more in keeping with the high character and dignity of the Commonwealth, that she should suffer a little wrong,—or indeed a great wrong—than inflict an injury upon the poor claimants who ask for justice at her hands.

Mr. FINNEY agreed more with the Senator from Bedford than any gentleman he had heard discuss this question. As to the character of the claims, they must stand solely upon their merits. If they are just, they will stand forever against the Commonwealth; for it is not with these, as in courts of justice, where circumstances defer for a long time the adjustment of claims. It is not against their merit, however, that they have been long delayed. But why legislate against an exigency which does not yet exist, and which we cannot now comprehend? He would propose an amendment, if there were not already so many amendments pending.

Mr. WRIGHT moved that the committee rise, report progress and ask leave to sit again; which was agreed to. The chairman so reported; and on the question, shall leave to sit again be given? it was decided in the negative.

Mr. TURNEY moved that the committee be discharged from the consideration of joint resolutions from the House relative to the tariff; and that the Senate proceed to their consideration. Agreed to.

WHEREAS, The experience of the past and present most fully demonstrate that it is a wise and beneficial policy of the General Government which dictates the imposition of duties on such products of foreign nations as come in such direct contact with those of our own country, as to injure and prostrate the trade on our own soil, and among our own citizens.

The artisans and laborers in many departments of trade are compelled to abandon their accustomed pursuits—especially do our own coal and iron interests suffer; therefore

Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, That our Senators in Congress be instructed, and our Representatives requested, to labor for the passage (at the present session) of such an act as will not only tend to increase the revenue by the imposition of duties, but afford ample encouragement to all the interests of the country, injured by the productions of the cheap labor of other nations; but more especially to urge an increase of duties on coal and iron, in which a portion of our own people are deeply interested.

Resolved, That the views of the President expressed in his late annual message in reference to the advantage of definite or specific duties over ad valorem duties, as more uniform, less liable to frauds, and affording the most certain and uniform amount of revenue, meet our hearty approbation.

Resolved, That the Governor be requested to forward to each of our Senators and Members of Congress a copy of the above preamble and resolutions, informing them of their adoption.

The Senate then resolved itself into committee of the whole. (Mr. TURNEY in the chair.)

Mr. BELL moved that the committee rise, report progress and ask leave to sit again.

Mr. BELL said it was obvious that the Senate was called upon to proceed with the consideration of this subject without knowing anything with reference to it. The resolution was an important one, demanding the deliberate consideration of the Senate; and yet it has never been printed and laid upon the desks of Senators for their investigation. As regarded himself, he had just heard the resolutions read for the first time, and had but little opportunity of judging what were the doctrines or principles evolved by them. He trusted the Senate would postpone their consideration until an opportunity had been afforded every Senator to understand their merits.

Mr. SHAEFFER trusted the Senate would not entertain the proposition of the Senator from Chester to postpone the consideration of the resolutions at this time. It was no fault of the Senate that he had not read the resolutions, but of the Senator himself. They had been discussed, ably and at length, in the other branch, and that discussion, as well as the resolutions themselves, had been made public, not only in the newspapers, but in the Legislative Record—thus affording to every Senator ample time and opportunity for a fair understanding of the principles enunciated by them. He hoped the Senate would proceed to their consideration and passage; for if the voice of the Senate is worth anything in the endorsement of the great principles contained in them, and the policy sought to be secured by their passage, it was important that that endorsement should be given now.—The Senate should not falter a moment in the performance of a duty, when the effects of its action may come home to the vast interests of the State, as well as to every individual citizen. He did not think any Senator, from whatever party, should hesitate to lend his sanction to the principle which they endorsed. The wording of the resolutions was not such as he should have chosen; yet, whilst he was not disposed to compliment the President for anything which he had done, he was not prepared to cavil at mere phraseology, where a principle of so much vital importance to the interests of this Commonwealth was at stake. He believed such an endorsement of the protective policy as was contemplated by the resolutions, should be given by the Legislature of Pennsylvania, and sent to our national representatives. He therefore hoped the proposition to postpone would not be entertained by the Senate.

Mr. WELSH was willing to meet the question now, since it was fairly before the Senate. He had no disposition to shirk the issue. The people of the State have important interests involved in the question, and there should be prompt action upon it. He should take the proper occasion, if necessary, to express his views fully and freely. Every Senator had been afforded an opportunity of reading the resolutions, and of understanding the object contemplated by them, and he was not prepared to second the proposition of the Senator from Chester to defer their consideration.

Mr. GAZZAM was glad to hear the Senator from York give utterance to his readiness to meet the question now, and he trusted the Senator from Chester would be equally disposed to proceed with the consideration of the resolutions. If any good was to be effected by their passage, it would be best attained by prompt action. We cannot tell, if the motion of the Senator from Chester prevails, at what time these resolutions may be considered.

Mr. BELL did not submit the proposition for a postponement of the matter, for the purpose of giving grievance to any gentleman. He was willing to meet the discussion whenever it comes before the Senate. The subject involves a vast and important question; and his motion was made with a view to the publication of the resolutions, so that Senators might see what these principles are.

He referred to the discussion of the matter in the House, and the position which had been taken by two gentlemen in opposition to the resolutions—not from any opposition of the principles of the resolutions, but upon the ground that the local legislation which is asked for, is a usurpation of the legislation of the National Congress. It may be, he remarked, that some Senators entertain the same views, and will vote against the resolutions.

Mr. HARRIS was glad that the Senator from York had manifested a readiness to go into a consideration of the resolutions at present. He thought the Senate was prepared to act upon the subject, and it was important that its action should be speedy. The national legislation was now half over for this session, and it was desirable that some measures should be adopted, before its adjournment, for the benefit of the vast interests of the State. He understood there was a committee here now, on their way to Washington City, for the purpose of urging upon Congress the passage of a law by which the great articles of Pennsylvania may receive a proper protection. That committee wished to bear with them the views of this Legislature, with the weight which such an expression as the resolutions contain; and he hoped the Senate would pass the resolutions now.

Mr. BELL withdrew his motion.

Mr. SCOFIELD did not see the propriety of the second resolution. Why should this Senate endorse the views of any man? If there is a propriety in it, why not endorse Packer? He could see no reason why, in giving expression to their views, they should adopt the language of any individual, however high in power or position. He recollected having read, a short time since, in a newspaper, an extract said to have been taken from a letter of Senator Bigler. Are we to infer that any body is "beginning to get weak in the knees" upon the tariff question? that they are wincing under Southern thunder? The Senate, he said, might as well endorse the views of any other man, as those of Buchanan; and he could not see why, in giving expressions to their views upon the policy announced by the resolutions, they should select the language of any man.

Mr. SCHELL asked the Senator from Warren, if he did not vote in favor of the resolution of the Senator from Indiana, at the last session, endorsing the Kansas policy of Governor Packard, in the language of his message?

Mr. SCOFIELD replied that he was not aware of any such vote.

Mr. SCHELL thought the Senate ought to pass the resolutions. He took the position of the Senator from Philadelphia, upon the resolution with reference to prayer. He had said if it could do no good, it could do no harm. In every speech which he made in the canvass, he had proclaimed the principles embodied in the resolutions, as the doctrines of the President, of which he had become duly advised whilst on a visit to Washington.

Mr. FINNEY inquired of the Senator, whether, whilst on his visit, he had had the honor to dine with the President?

Mr. SCHELL replied that he had not. The Representative from Berks had been honored with that privilege, but he was not so fortunate.

But, seriously, continued Mr. SCHELL, I am in favor of the speedy passage of the resolutions—the principles evolved by them meet my hearty approval. No gentleman could decline to vote in their favor, who had voted upon the Kansas resolutions, upon the ground alluded to by the Senator from Chester.

Mr. RANDALL did not consider that, in voting for the resolutions, he should be doing so with reference to any other question than that involved in them alone. The question of the tariff had nothing to do with the Kansas policy of the President. So far as he was concerned, he was opposed to the course which the Executive had seen proper to pursue—he considered the doctrine pernicious, and destructive of that party unity which had previously existed. The Senator from Crawford had asked the Senator from Bedford, whether he had dined with the President? He would, in turn, ask the gentleman if he had dined with the Governor lately?

Mr. PALMER desired a speedy consideration and passage of the resolutions, for two reasons:—they enunciated a true principle, and had received the endorsement of a co-ordinate branch of the Legislature. The people of Schuylkill county, whom he had the honor to represent, had as large a share of interest in the policy which they sought to inaugurate, as any other section of the State—probably greater; and that interest would demand of him that he should record his vote, at the earliest moment, in favor of that policy.

In voting for the resolutions, he said, he would record the first vote, either in or out of the Democratic party, for James Buchanan. But he was glad to know that some good can come out of Nazareth. The principles of the resolutions were good, no matter from whence they came, or who had proclaimed them. He deprecated delay upon this matter, and hoped the Senate would proceed with their consideration.

Mr. SCHELL rose in explanation of his question as to Mr. SCOFIELD'S vote. He had labored under a misapprehension, and now made the correction.

Mr. SCOFIELD, before the passage of the second resolution, wished to have it amended; and for fear there would be found enough of the king's friends to pass it, he would offer it now.

The amendment was in substance, as follows: That the sympathy of the Senate be extended to President Buchanan in his inability to influence all the members of his Cabinet to entertain sentiments similar to his own.

Mr. WRIGHT was sorry that the first obstacle to the passage of these resolutions should come from the Opposition. The doctrine which they enunciate was one which had been advocated by them, and the objections which were interposed upon mere partizan grounds, were not honorable to them. The Senate should act promptly in this matter. The people of the State were deeply interested in their speedy passage, and there could be no reason for delay. The policy of passing the resolutions under instruction was not under discussion—it was no time for hair splitting. He hoped the amendment would be voted down.

Mr. GAZZAM hoped the amendment would be withdrawn. Individually, he agreed with the Senator from Warren; but the tariff question was one of vast importance to Pennsylvania, and he wished to disembarass it of political aspects. The President had done, in his recommendations with reference to the protective policy of the country, what, as a Pennsylvanian, he should have done. We should approve of any views which are our own views, regardless of the source whence they come. The amendment of the Senator from Warren would have the tendency to make gentlemen of the opposite side feel a little sore, and to renew the political asperities which had existed in former times. The views expressed here, by the President, were no more his views than they were our views; and there was no more harm in expressing a coincidence of views with him, than in his expressing views similar to our's. The amendment could effect no good, and he hoped the Senator would withdraw it.

Mr. SCOFIELD declared he should be glad to accommodate the Senator from Philadelphia, but he must be a hard-hearted man, that he was unwilling to express a sympathy with the President. What, he asked, had become of his old friends—his old editor, and others? They had deserted him; and yet, the Senator from Philadelphia, who professes to be a friend, will not sustain him. Are the whole household going to desert him? If the Senate refuses to pass this resolution, there will be thirty-three men who say that, although approving of the President's individual views upon the tariff question, they are willing to put themselves on the record as saying that they do not sympathize with him in the fact that he has no control over his own cabinet.

Mr. WRIGHT did not wish to regard this question in any other light, than as it affects the wants and interests of Pennsylvania. He would hardly have thought of the President in connection with the subject, had not the Senator adverted to him.

Mr. WELSH said that the Senator from Warren intimated that there was a lack of disposition, on the part of the friends of the President, to sympathize with him. He was glad to see, if any of his friends were prepared to desert him, that some of his old friends were coming back to him. He recollected sitting side by side with the Senator from Warren, in State Convention, and voting with him for delegates to the Cincinnati National Convention to sustain James Buchanan. Since then the Senator had left him; but he was happy now to see, that whilst some of the friends of Mr. Buchanan were deserting him, old ones were coming back. With all respect for the views and character of the Senator from Warren, he would ask him to withdraw the amendment. What good, he asked, could be accomplished by it? As Senators, we are gathered together to legislate upon important interests to the Commonwealth, to protect her rights, and subserve those interests, by every fair and honorable means in our power.—There was a vital principle involved in these resolutions—vital to the industry, energy, and vast natural resources of the State; and when he came into the Senate chamber, this morning, from what he had heard of the views of Senators with reference to them, he did not for one moment suppose that any obstacle would be interposed to their passage.

The Senate had been told that it was of vast importance to the interests of Pennsylvania, that these resolutions should pass. If it is so, why not pass them, and lay aside all party feeling and prejudice, as became men imbued with a sense of the high responsibility which rests upon them? While voting upon this measure, if Senators cannot all heartily agree with the President, in his position upon other questions, they should regard, simply, the principle involved, and not come here with indecent personal and party flings. He did not, he said, stand here the defender of the President. A long life of usefulness to his country, both at home and abroad; the proud positions he had occupied; the measures of public interest and importance which he had originated and so ably advocated; the applause which had greeted him in the discharge of his high duties in the most critical and trying times—these were a sufficient defence against any indecent partizan flings which could be made against him. He did not rise, he continued, for the purpose of stirring up any political feeling. On the contrary, he offered the olive branch; and he but asked that we should be met by Senators of the Opposition in the same way—not with words which were intended to divide or embitter them in the work of striving to secure for the State that which her vital interests demand.

Mr. GAZZAM again urged the Senator from Warren to withdraw his amendment, and to suffer the resolutions to pass.

Mr. SCOFIELD remarked that he was a very amiable man—or at least strove to be—and he supposed he should have to accommodate the gentlemen, by yielding to their request. He accordingly withdrew the amendment.

Mr. MYER moved to strike out the words "a portion of," in the first resolution. He did not suppose the object was to benefit any particular portion, but all portions of the State.

The motion was not agreed to.

The Clerk of the House, being introduced, presented bills for concurrence.

The third section of the bill under consideration was read, and passed.

The committee then rose, and the chairman reported the same without amendment.

Mr. GREGG moved second reading; agreed to.

The resolution finally passed, the vote being as follows:

YEAS—Messrs. Baldwin, Bell, Coffey, Craig, Fetter, Finney, Francis, Gazzam, Gregg, Harris, Keller, Marselis, Miller, Myer, Nunne-macher, Palmer, Parker, Penney, Randall, Schell, Scofield, Shaeffer, Schindel, Steele, Thompson, Turney, Welsh, Wright, Yardley and Cresswell, Speaker—30.

NAYS—None.

BILLS IN PLACE.

On leave given, Mr. BELL read in his place and presented to the chair a bill, entitled "An Act to confirm a title to certain real estate of Arthur Howell, deceased."

Mr. MARSELIS, "An Act to incorporate the Fairmount and Arch Street passenger railway company."

PETITIONS AND MEMORIALS.

On leave given, Mr. FINNEY presented a petition relative to a change in collecting taxes in Crawford county.

Mr. SCHELL, a memorial from General Duff Green, and moved that it be printed in the Daily Record. Agreed to.

On motion of Mr. SHAFER, the Senate adjourned until 11 o'clock to-morrow morning.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

WEDNESDAY, Jan. 19, 1859.

The House met, and was called to order at the usual hour.

SPEAKER in the chair.

Proceedings were opened with prayer by the Rev. G. J. Martz.

The Journal of yesterday's proceedings was read.

Mr. WALBORN moved that the further reading of the same be dispensed with; which was not agreed to.

So the Clerk finished the reading of the Journal.

The SPEAKER appointed Messrs. WILEY, HAMERSLY, FOSTER, LAIRD and KETCHUM a committee on the resolution submitted by Mr. WILEY yesterday, relative to a modification or repeal of the laws imposing duties on domestic and foreign goods.

The SPEAKER laid before the House a statement of the Philadelphia, Germantown, and Norristown railroad company, for the fiscal year ending October 1, 1858.

ORIGINAL RESOLUTIONS.

Mr. HOTTENSTINE submitted the following:

Whereas, In part, the established custom of appropriating Purdon's Digest and extra Legislative Manuals, at the commencement of the session, and placing them in the possession of Members and Clerks (in the first instance by authority of a mere questionable and explicit resolution) is a highly reprehensible practice, tending to lead to liberality and extravagance, or inconsistency. If said custom is carried out consistently every officer and clerk of any department of the government, is equally and justly entitled to a proportionate share of the spoils. "And let us be just before we are liberal;" be it therefore

Resolved, That the State Librarian be and he is hereby authorized to perform the following in addition to his present duties. He shall take charge of and keep safely at the close of the present session of the Legislature, all the copies of Purdon's Digest and the extra Legislative Manuals, which are or shall be placed in the possession and use of the members and clerks of the Legislature, and shall deliver them for the use of the members of the next session of the Legislature, and so on indefinitely.

Mr. HOTTENSTINE entered the following upon the Journal as his reason for submitting the above.

I hold that I have no legal right to accept a copy of Purdon's Digest nor extra copies of Legislative Manuals, at the present time; having examined the Constitution, and formed an opinion relative to all appropriations. Being a new member and under the impression at the time the resolution was under consideration, (and am of that opinion yet,) that said resolution authorizing the Clerk to procure the Digests, &c., required the concurrence of both Houses, and the signature of the Governor before it could legally take effect. But having since been verified by placing Purdon's Digest into actual possession of the members, (in the first instance,) upon the mere authority of the resolution of this House. This morning, upon the authority of the concurrence of a resolution without the signature of the Governor, extra Legislative Manuals were tendered to the members. This being the fact, the members may upon the same principle, and with the same propriety, resolve and appropriate to themselves five hundred, as well as five dollars worth of books to each member. The amount will certainly not change the nature of the custom, and such antecedent appropriations, are, in my opinion, an indirect violation of the Constitution.

Article 1st Sec. 22d. No money shall be drawn from the Treasury but in consequence of law.

Sec. 24th. Every order, resolution or vote, to which the concurrence of both Houses may be necessary, shall be presented to the Governor, and before it shall take effect be approved by him. And I do assert that it is indispensably necessary in all cases to have the concurrence of both Houses, and the approval of the Governor, (in order to guard the Treasury properly.) And being thus impressed I cannot take those copies at the present time as my absolute property, not being yet legally entitled thereto. And if correct in this view, my resolution might have been carried out. And by so doing might have hereafter saved about two thousand dollars per year in one item, and abolish a custom, which in my opinion cannot constitutionally exist. I aimed at nothing in offering said resolution but a faithful discharge of my duties (as I believe,) in conformity with the oath I have taken.

BILLS CONSIDERED.

Mr. WALKER moved to suspend the rules and proceed to the consideration of Senate bill number 24, relative to the Bedford railroad, being a supplement to an act passed in 1858.

The rules were suspended, and the House dispensed with going into committee of the whole.

Mr. WALKER stated the reason which influenced him in urging the passage of the bill.—Surveys of the road had been made and the company was ready to give out contracts as soon as the Legislature took any definite action.

The bill was read the second time, considered and agreed to; and passed finally.

Mr. ABBOTT asked leave to make a statement. Leave being given, he said that he would solicit the House to take action on the bill supplementary to the act incorporating the Darby railroad company. He was confident that its provisions would meet the approbation of the members. The bill authorized the Darby railroad company to borrow any sum of money not exceeding $100,000 for the purpose of completing their road, and to issue bonds and mortgage, the bonds not to be less in amount than $100.

On motion of Mr. ABBOTT the House reconsidered the vote by which it had formerly refused to consider the bill.

The bill passed finally.

SENATE AMENDMENT

To House bill No. 3, entitled "An Act to authorize the court of common pleas of Union county to appoint a trustee to receive and apply certain money bequeathed by Jno. Brown, dec'd," was read.

On account of the absence of the gentleman who has the above bill in charge, Mr. THORN moved that the same be postponed for the present; which was agreed to.

RESOLUTION RE CONSIDERED

Mr. FOSTER moved that the House reconsider the vote and resolution by which it had declared that Mr. Donovan, of Philadelphia, should not be allowed to come upon the floor.

The motion was seconded by Mr. ROSE.

The SPEAKER. Is the House ready for the question?

Mr. ROSE said that he regretted being obliged to have anything to do with this unfortunate affair. He was allied by ties of friendship to both of the parties. For the member from Philadelphia, (Mr. CHURCH,) he entertained the highest respect; and as far as concerned Mr. Donovan, he was pleased to say that he had ever deported himself as a gentleman, and, as an old member of the House, had been so considered. But it was evident that he was a man of strong impulses, and, while under the influence of these, was apt to act without due reflection. This misfortune, not fault, demanded an exercise of charity, and this he hoped the House would not refuse.

As an additional reason for seconding the motion, Mr. ROSE stated that he had considered ed the passage of the original resolution, excluding Mr. Donovan from the floor, as an improper extension of power. It was without precedent, as gentlemen would find if they would examine the Journals of the House and Senate. It was extremely doubtful whether the Legislature had any right whatever to take cognizance of an act committed upon one of its members when in the public street, and even admitting that they had authority, the matter was of so delicate a nature that nothing should be done except upon extraordinary occasions. For these, and other reasons, it was to be hoped that the House would agree to re-consider the resolution.

Mr. STEVENS then took the floor, and spoke as follows:

MR. SPEAKER:—With a proper regard for the feelings of the members of this House, and with due respect for the honored member from the 6th district of the city of Philadelphia, (Mr. CHURCH) it is with reluctance that I arise to say a few words upon this motion, in order to correct what I conceive to be a biased judgment of the members, acting upon the impulse of the moment, without reflection. Sir, I would be false to my own feelings should I suffer the late action of the House to go by unheeded, without expressing my condemnation of the resolution, which deprives Captain Donovan, late member of this Legislature, of the privileges of this floor, which consigns him and his character to unmerited obloquy, by spreading broadcast throughout the length and breadth of this State two thousand copies of the Daily Record, bearing upon its pages the fiat of this House, that Captain Donovan is unworthy of the privileges granted to all ex-members. Thus a blot has been placed upon our fair Record which can only be erased by undoing what we have done amiss, for this House has no right to take cognizance of anything which transpires outside of its limits. When the resolution was offered, I would have rebuked the spirit of the storm, which dictated the action of this body, but I knew it was necessary that the storm should be lulled before justice could be done to the injured parties. The question here arises, what were the causes that produced this most unfortunate occurrence? It is well known to you, gentlemen, that Captain Donovan claimed a right to a seat as a member upon this floor, upon the allegation that his opponent did not live in the district for one year previous to his election, and was not therefore legally chosen. On this presumption Captain Donovan claimed a seat, and not a few of the members of this House thought that, if justice was done unto him, he would remain in our midst. But whether he had a right or not, I believe that Captain Donovan honestly thought that he was the member elect by law, and as such, a resolution was read in this body to investigate that right. The resolution being declared out of order by the Speaker, and leave being granted to the gentleman from Philadelphia (Mr. CHURCH) to say a few words, that gentleman took occasion to give vent to his feelings, and the words which he then uttered gave rise to the unfortunate collision between himself and Captain Donovan, and that breach of the courtesy of this House, which deprives Captain Donovan of the rights of this floor. Is it then to be wondered at, the course then pursued by Donovan? Cut off from all hope of gaining his seat, (the ten days having expired in which time he must commence his proceedings,) goaded on to madness by the intemperate speech of his opponent, in which he said it was but a few years since Donovan had left his native bogs in Ireland.—Inasmuch, as he, being a foreign-born and an Irishman, is unworthy to represent so wealthy and excellent a constituency as the Sixth district of the city of Philadelphia. Having asked him to take back his offensive expressions, and offer acknowledgments for his intemperate zeal, he is spurred from his presence as though he was unworthy of notice; and says as much by his actions, is thy opponent a dog, that he should listen to thy sayings, much less make an apology to a foreign-born! Captain Donovan would have been more than mortal, could he have stood all of this. While his feelings are thus wrought up to the highest degree of excitement, in a state of infatuation he rushes upon his opponent, and commits that breach of the peace which his heart would have recoiled from had reason had her sway. There is not a gentleman upon this floor who, were they placed in a similar position, but would have done the same thing or probably worse. For that act I blame him, for he deserves censure. But I can forgive him, for the motives which influenced him to action are beyond the control of human nature. But I cannot forgive the gentleman from Philadelphia without some apology upon his part. Had he treated Capt. D. like a man and his equal, and offered a suitable excuse for his actions, this occurrence would not have happened.

The blow which he struck was not only aimed at Mr. Donovan, but that party which I happen to be an humble member of. I would say to that gentleman, that as a party, we have always extended the hand of fellowship to the oppressed of the whole world. Whether they come from the Emerald Isle, or the Fatherland, or old England, or any part of the globe, when they have become adopted citizens, we recognize them as Americans, and are willing to extend to them all the rights and privileges of constitutional freedom. I would be unworthy of my constituents, of whom a large portion are adopted citizens, if I did not resent this insult to their manhood—of whose industry, virtue and intelligence I am proud of; and whose love for the institutions of this country glows as warm in their breasts as in those of any men born on the soil. I trust that the gentleman from Philadelphia will offer a suitable apology for his conduct, and that all of the members of this House will join in voting for the re-consideration, which will heal all the wounds which have been opened and blot from our record a stain upon its sacred pages.

Mr. IRISH desired to record his entire disapprobation of all acts of the kind alluded to, and should place a seal of condemnation upon the instigator in the present instance by voting against any re-consideration of the resolution.

Mr. GRITMAN hoped that the motion to reconsider would prevail, and would state his reasons. After due consideration he was inclined to believe that the House in passing the resolution had acted rather hastily, and had exercised at least a doubtful power. In cases of this character it was always advisable that the points should be well and distinctly understood, and that the merits of the opponents should be ascertained from a responsible source, before the Legislature suffered itself to be led into any expression of opinion. In this particular it would have been not only proper but just, to have gone beyond mere newspaper reports and flying rumors, and appointed a committee to investigate. Great caution should have been exercised, for it was a grave matter to debar even the meanest citizen from entering the halls of legislation of the Commonwealth. Some reason should have appeared upon record for the passage of a resolution like that relative to Donovan, so that the country at large might have been apprised of the motives of the House. But to have acted in the heat of the moment was certainly wrong, and to have acted, too, without any definite or responsible knowledge of the circumstances, was still worse. There was now no reason on record why Mr. Donovan was excluded—nothing in fact but the arbitrary decision of the House.

It was held, by Mr. GRITMAN, that Mr. Donovan had even a superior right to be upon the floor of the House to ordinary citizens, for he was an ex-member of the Legislature, and, as such, entitled to additional courtesy.

Reiterating the assertion that the House had acted hastily in the matter, and that some reason for their course should have appeared upon the Journal, Mr. GRITMAN said that if the resolution was re-considered, he should move the appointment of a committee to investigate the subject, or should even advocate that Mr. Donovan be heard before the House in his own defence. The offence, if it had been committed as alleged, was a very grave one; but nevertheless the alleged criminal had a right to be represented, and it was unfair and unjust for the House to adopt merely an ex parte statement.

There could be no doubt but that the House was really empowered to exclude any one from the floor, for it was the regulator of its own affairs, and was competent to make decisions in all matters concerning its own government.—But it was equally true that valid reasons should always be assigned for the adoption of such an extreme course.

Mr. Donovan, the speaker had understood, had expressed a wish to be heard in extenuation, and to make a statement to the House.—It was but right that he should have that privilege, and, in view of this, the speaker, although he had voted in favor of the resolution, should now vote for a re-consideration.

Mr. LAWRENCE, (Washington,) said that he too had voted for the passage of the resolution, not because he was acquainted with the parties, but because he considered that a disrespect had been committed to the House, and was desirous of exhibiting his condemnation thereof. Mr. Donovan, as a member had stated, had been a member of the House, but what of it? If he (Mr. LAWRENCE,) had been in the Legislature for ten years, and then had so forgotten himself and his dignity as to lie in wait in one of the highways of town, he would feel that any Legislature was right in excluding him from their hall forever after. He was glad to learn that the assault had been committed in the heat of passion, and was equally glad to know, as the gentleman from Luzerne (Mr. GRITMAN,) had said, that the alleged assailant was disposed to make an apology. But let him apologize to the one whom he had injured. The speaker bore no ill-will towards Mr. Donovan, but felt that the self-respect of the House demanded his exclusion from the floor.

He had this to say, however, that if any man would attack him, for words spoken in debate, he would take care to defend himself; ay, even though he was assailed with pistols, and canes, and whips.

A respect for the House ought to induce the members to allow the resolution to remain.—The plea of excitement, on the part of the gentleman from Philadelphia, (Mr. Donovan,) was scarcely admissible—for he had no right to be excited. He had no authority to call to account any member of this House, for words spoken upon the floor. The speaker had not a particle of ill-feeling against Mr. Donovan because he had been born in a foreign land.

Mr. ZOLLER gave notice that he should call for the yeas and nays.

Mr. FOSTER said that he would have hesitated to make the motion, had he imagined that this lengthened debate would have followed.—He was personally acquainted with both of the gentlemen who were connected with the unfortunate affair, and would state now that his sole object had been to give the one who was accused a hearing. Not that he justified any of his acts, or was prepared to espouse his cause, but simply that justice might be done, and that the axiom that "every man is innocent until proven guilty," might be illustrated. He denied, however, in reply to an intimation which had been made, that Mr. D. had been armed with deadly weapons.

Mr. LAWRENCE (Washington,) said that he may have been in error in saying that Mr. Donovan had pistols. Such was the rumor, and if it was incorrect, he could only offer an apology to Mr. D. and his friends. He had been misinformed.

Mr. FOSTER was authorized to deny most positively that the assailant had any fire-arms. But the House had not yet received any formal notice that an assault had been committed. If such was proven, he should vote for meting out justice to the party in error. But to proceed, as the House already had, to take action, after having only heard an ex parte statement, was altogether wrong.

Mr. ROSE had a few words to say in defence of his own course. He favored the appointment of a committee of investigation, in case the House should determine to re-consider the resolution. Should the report of that committee be against Mr. Donovan, he would unhesitatingly vote to exclude him from the floor, and should have nothing more to say, but the extreme injustice of accusing a man before he was allowed an opportunity of being heard could not fail to be apparent to all. The committee should be appointed.

Mr. KETCHUM said that he was opposed both to the appointment of a committee and to the House resolving itself into a court of quarter sessions oroyer and terminator to try this case. As individuals, the members had of course a right to some opinion, and he believed that there were few present who had not already formed their views.

If the fracas had occurred in the House, in disturbance of its peace, order and dignity, he would then have considered the assembly insulted, and the parties in the contest would have been amenable. It would then have been the duty of a committee to investigate, but take the case as it stood, and what were the facts?—A gentleman who is a member of the House meets another one who is not a member—report says that a collision takes place in the public street. He was not disposed to doubt that this was the fact, but was disposed to doubt the right of the House to take cognizance of the matter.

He had his own notions of this affair, and had condemned it from the first. He had no palliation to offer for Mr. Donovan, for no language which the gentleman from Philadelphia, (Mr. CHURCH,) could have uttered would have justified an assault upon him. Politics had nothing to do with the question. He would not insult the great Democratic party by supposing that they would ever countenance an act of the kind alleged. Neither did he believe that they had elected Mr. D., or would have elected him if they had supposed him liable to have committed such acts. Individually, the members were entitled to treat Mr. D. as suited their own inclinations, but the proposal to appoint a committee was altogether wrong. Suppose that they were chosen and made a report. What then? If Mr. Donovan was found guilty, what could the House do with him? The court of quarter sessions was established to take charge of cases of this character, and the Legislature had no earthly right to go out in the streets and find actions wherewith to deprive men of entering the House. If a committee was appointed, it would only be a useless waste of time and money. He was willing, however, to vote for a re-consideration.

Mr. RAMSDALL moved that the matter be postponed.

The motion was decided in the negative.

The SPEAKER. The question is now on re-considering the vote by which the resolution was adopted.

The yeas and nays were required by Mr.

WALBORN and Mr. BAYARD, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Abbott, Balliet, Bertolet, Brodhead, Custer, Dismant, Durboraw, Ellmaker, Fleming, Foster, Galley, Glatz, Goepp, Gritman, Harding, Hill, Hottenstine, Jackson, Ketchum, Kinney, Laird, M'Dowell, Pennell, Pierce, Porter, Price, Pugh, Quigley, Rose, Shaffer, Shields, Smith, (Philadelphia,) Stephens, Stoneback, Stuart, Thorn, Warden, Wilcox, Wolf and Woodring—40.

NAYS—Messrs. Acker, Barusley, Barlow, Bayard, Boyer, (Schuylkill,) Burley, Campbell, Chase, Dodds, Eckman, Fearon, Graham, Gratz, Green, Hamersly, Irish, Keneagy, Lawrence, (Washington,) Mann, Mehaffey, M'Curdy, Miller, Neall, Palm, Pinkerton, Ramsdell, Rohrer, Rouse, Sheppard, Styer, Taylor, Thompson, Walborn, Walker, Whitman, Wiley, Williams, (Bedford,) Williams, (Bucks,) Williston, Wilson, Withrow, Wood, Zoller and Lawrence, Speaker—44.

So the question was determined in the negative.

Mr. GOEPP stated that he had cast his vote in the affirmative, because he considered that the passage of the original resolution ought to have been preceded by an inquiry into the facts of the case.

Mr. ABBOTT voted "Yea," because other questions of the same kind might come up, under the same embarrassing circumstances.

Mr. KINNEY voted "Aye," solely because he was opposed to condemning any man without a hearing.

BILLS ON FINAL PASSAGE.

The joint resolution, declaring the contract with R. J. Haldeman, for the printing of the Legislative Record, at an end, came up on final passage.

The SPEAKER. Is the House ready for the question?

Mr. GOEPP said that he had yet to learn what good and sufficient reasons were advanced for the annulling of the present contract. He had listened attentively since the subject was first broached, and with the single exception of the gentleman from Tioga, (Mr. WILLISTON,) had not heard any one complain as to its character, or speak in condemnation of its reports. On the contrary, even gentlemen who were most anxious to have the publication change hands, had willingly admitted its accuracy and reliability, and had confessed that it was as able and perfect as could be desired or obtained for the price paid.

He had heard remarks, alleging that the Legislature of last winter had entailed a contract upon this one in the matter of the publication of the Record. Such assertions were utterly unfounded. The preceding Assembly had acted in a sensible manner. The members very properly taking every possible means to avoid the necessity of being without any Record at all, as had been the case in the early part of a previous session. The contract had not been made for the purpose of tying the hands of the House, but in order that they might reap benefit, and receive the Record from the present publisher until otherwise ordered by joint resolution. It was a work of time to make a contract, and it would be absurd to abrogate the existing agreement until due measures had been taken for the continuance of the publication. A committee would first have to be appointed, as in the case of all other business coming before the House—it would be necessary for them to examine into the proposals and make satisfactory reports to both branches of the Legislature.—All these things would require time, and while they were progressing, the people throughout the State, who looked to the Record for an accurate report of the proceedings of their Representatives, would be left in almost total ignorance.

The Legislature of last winter, Mr. GOEPP repeated, had not attempted to bind the present body. But if they had done so, what redress would there be? If they had thought proper to make a contract for the publication of the Record for the next ten years, how could their agreement have been repealed. It would have been binding. But they had no such intention. As a member of the Assembly which had framed the contract and act, he would state distinctly that the sole object of the clause continuing the Record during the present year, had been to avoid trouble. All the allegations against the Assembly of 1858 were unfounded.

It was a very unsatisfactory reason for a good contract to be repealed, simply because it had been made by a body not now in existence. But if it was repealed, would any good result follow? If gentlemen were dissatisfied with the present publication, why did they not state their reasons, and give particulars. As yet, however, no charges had been advanced, except by the gentleman from Tioga, (Mr. WILLISTON.)

An offer, it was said, had been made to print the Record at lower rates. It had been printed before at what purported to be "lower rates." In 1857 a contract had been made which was nominally more advantageous to the House. But how had that agreement been carried out. Why, he was informed by men conversant with the printing and publishing business, that unimportant and trivial bills were printed and reprinted in that Record, in many instances as many as twelve, fifteen, and perhaps even twenty times. These bills were of no possible service. They were put in type once by the contractor, and then allowed to remain, and be used as stated. And for every page which this "dead matter" had filled the State had paid the same price as for original composition. Now he would submit it to the members, whether it was better to pay $5 60 per page to have old bills printed over and over again, or to pay $7 per page, and have full and complete reports, which were original. It remained to be seen if the present contract was broken, whether an offer to print at similar "cheap rates" would again be made.

The whole subject, Mr. GOEPP said, must be referred to a committee. It would be impossible for the one hundred men in the House, and the thirty-three in the Senate, to enter into and discuss all of the details. A committee had already been appointed. Why then should any action be taken until their report was submitted? When they came forward and stated, as the result of their investigation, that the Record could be printed at a cheaper rate by responsible and honest men, it would be time enough for the House to pass a repealing law, but until then he submitted to the judgment of the House, whether it was not unwise to take decisive action merely in the vague hope that the matter might be more advantageously arranged. Nobody found fault with the Record but the gentleman from Tioga, and he would reiterate the assertion, that the reports were quite as accurate as any that have ever appeared, and, in fact, better.

If, however, it was possible to get another Record really as good as the present, and for a lower sum, a regard for the interests of the State would induce him to vote for the change, but until then he would deprecate the annulling of the agreement under which the paper was published.

No gentleman would have the hardihood to assert that the House had either the time or ability to go into the various details necessary for the completion of a new contract. All this would have to be attended to by a committee.—In conclusion, he would ask, what possible reason there was for not allowing the publication to continue as heretofore to the expressed satisfaction of almost every member of the House.

The SPEAKER. Is the House ready for the question on the adoption of the resolution?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr.

HARDING and Mr. JACKSON, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Abbott, Acker, Balliet, Barnsley, Barlow, Bayard, Boyer, (Schuylkill,) Bryson, Burley, Campbell, Chase, Dismant, Dodds, Durboraw, Eckman, Ellmaker, Fearon, Graham, Gratz, Green, Hamersly, Harding, Keneagy, Ketchum, Kinney, Lawrence, (Washington,) Mehaffey, M'Dowell, Miller, Neall, Pennell, Peirce, Pinkerton, Price, Ramsdell, Rouse, Shafer, Sheppard, Styer, Taylor, Thompson, Thorn, Walboru, Walker, Whitman, Wiley, Williams, (Bedford,) Williams, (Bucks,) Williston, Wilson, Withrow, Wood, Zoller and Lawrence, Speaker—57.

NAYS—Messrs. Bertolet, Brodhead, Custer, Evans, Fleming, Foster, Galley, Glatz, Goepp, Gritman, Hill, Hottenstine, Jackson, Laird, Mann, McClain, Porter, Pugh, Rohrer, Shields, Smith, (Philadelphia,) Stephens, Stoneback, Stuart, Warden, Wilcox, Wolf and Woodring—28.

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

The hour of adjourning arrived, the SPEAKER adjourned the House until Thursday at 11 o'clock, A. M.

MEMORIAL.

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

The undersigned respectfully submits the following memoranda, in explanation of the bill to incorporate the American improvement and loan company.

The American iron master cannot receive American railroad bonds in payment for iron, because there is not sufficient capital in the United States, seeking investment in such securities, to enable the manufacturer to convert them readily into money. The English iron master can receive such bonds in payment for iron, because he can sell them for money.

The purpose of the bill is to organize a company with sufficient capital, under the control of citizens of this State, who will make advances of money to railroad companies and to manufacturers and contractors, and thus protect their credit until their works shall be so far completed as to give value to their bonds, which may then be advantageously sold, in the European market, for money. The effect of such an arrangement would be to develop the manufacture of American iron, and so increase our home industry as in a few years to provide ample means to purchase and retain among ourselves such new bonds as will be put in the market, and to bring back a large part of those now held abroad.

It is estimated that railroad bonds now held in Europe—chiefly in England—amount to nearly or quite five hundred millions of dollars.—This fact is conclusive to show that our bonds may be sold abroad for money; and as the purpose of the bill is to organize a company to aid in selling such bonds for money, instead of giving them, as now, in exchange for foreign iron; and as in either case the sale will create a debt, it becomes important to show that whilst a persistence in the present system of importing foreign iron, purchased with our bonds, must overwhelm us with irretrievable ruin, the sale of our bonds for money, with which to pay for domestic iron, is the only means of relieving ourselves from our present financial embarrassments.

Mr. Cobb's report on the finances shows that the total coinage of gold and silver in the United States since 1793 to the 30th of September, 1857, inclusive, was.....$601,155,486.46 And that our exports of gold and silver from the 30th of September, 1821, to the 30th of September, 1857, was..... 505,724,278.00

Leaving a surplus of but..... $95,431,210.46

The most zealous advocates of free trade admit that commerce should be a reciprocal exchange of the surplus products of the labor of commercial nations. It has been urged that we must buy British manufactures, because if we do not, then England cannot buy our cotton.—If England cannot buy our cotton unless we buy her manufactures, then it follows that we cannot continue to buy her iron unless she receives the products of our labor in payment for it. To purchase her iron on credit, and pay for it in our bonds, is a palpable violation of the fundamental principles of trade. To sell our bonds for money and use the money to give profitable employment to labor, is a very different proposition.

Jacobs says, that the gold and silver constitutes but a very small part of the wealth of a prosperous nation—not more than one per cent.

Mr. Calhoun, in his speech on the re-charter of the Bank of the United States in 1834, said:

"If we take the aggregate property of a community, that which forms the currency constitutes in value, a very small proportion of the whole. What this proportion is in our country and other commercial and trading communities, is somewhat uncertain. I speak conjecturally in fixing it at one to twenty-five or thirty, though I presume this is not very far from the truth."

We thus see, that whilst Jacobs and Mr. Calhoun both agree in saying that the gold and silver constitute a very small part of the aggregate wealth of a prosperous commercial people, Mr. Calhoun lays it down as an axiom, that it requires four per cent. of the aggregate values of property to be in gold or silver, to aid in the transfer of the produce of the soil and of labor from the producer to the consumer. He illustrates this axiom by reference to the blood in the human body. A man in vigorous health has about twenty five pounds of blood. If a very small part be taken from him, he is prostrated, until by air and food he restores the quantity so as to enable the heart to perform its functions; so if we deprive the industrial system of any part of that four per cent. of the precious metals which are required for its vital action, that system sinks until the quantity of gold and silver is restored. For as money is the measure of the value, of property, and its relation to the aggregate is one twenty-fifth part, or four per cent., it follows that any operation of trade which diminishes the quantity of gold and silver below the relative proportion which it should bear to the aggregate values of property, must reduce the aggregate values in the same ratio, as such operation of trade may diminish the quantity of gold and silver. For example, if a railroad company buys foreign iron, and pays for it out of the currency, the effect will be to diminish the aggregate value of property twenty-five times the sum of the gold and silver paid for such iron; or, if A. buys foreign iron at forty dollars per ton, and pays for it out of the currency, the effect will be to diminish the aggregate values of property in the ratio of twenty five times forty, or one thousand dollars per ton, for every ton of iron so purchased and paid for out of the currency. A. gets the iron at forty dollars per ton, but the community suffers a depreciation in the aggregate values of their property, at the rate of one thousand dollars per ton. This is forcibly illustrated by an analysis of the financial crisis of 1857.

We have seen that Mr. Calhoun held that there should be at least four per cent. of gold and silver to maintain the aggregate value of property. It follows that, if from any cause, there is an extraordinary foreign demand for gold and silver, and our trade with foreign nations be so regulated that they can obtain gold and silver from us in less time and at less cost than it can be had elsewhere, then large exports of our gold and silver will be the inevitable consequence of such foreign demand.

We have seen that our entire cargo since 1793 to 30th Sept., 1857, was but.....$601,155,486 46

And that our exports from 30th Sept., 1821, to 30th Sept., 1857, were..... 505,724,276 00

The same report shows us that our exports of gold and silver for three years, ending 30th Sept., 1857, were..... 163,971,567 00

And that for six months in 1857 they were..... 69,849,132 00

Does any one ask what caused this extraordinary export of gold and silver? We find from

Mr. Cobb's report that our consumption of foreign imports, exclusive of Spain, were in seven years more than three hundred millions of dollars more than our domestic export, and that the value of our imports of iron and steel and the manufactures thereof, was in ten years nearly four hundred millions of dollars. If we assume that the interest on our debt held in England is but thirty millions of dollars and that our surplus imports are but thirty millions more, these two items create a balance against us of sixty millions of dollars per annum, which compounded at six per cent. per annum will create a charge against us, in less than thirty years, of more than six thousand millions of dollars, the interest on which will be more than three hundred and sixty millions of dollars per annum. Such are the results of a perseverance in our present system. You see and feel the pressure, and you memorialize Congress to modify the tariff; but no modification of the tariff will give you relief or secure the return of prosperity. You must co-operate. You must do your part, and aid in giving life to your industry.

Many believe that England can undersell us in the markets of the world because she pays less than we do for labor. With a population of twenty-one millions of people, or say four millions of laboring men, Great Britain has, in her machinery, a capacity of production equal to the labor of six hundred millions of men.—This machinery is the product of her cheap money. If we multiply this six hundred millions by five it will be seen that with a population of twenty one millions Great Britain has a capacity of production equal to a population of three thousand millions, which is more than the population of the whole world. It is apparent, therefore, that it is the labor of her machinery, and not the labor of her men, that enables Great Britain to command the markets of the world. And it is equally apparent that if we would compete with her at home, or elsewhere, we must profit by her experience, and cheapen the value of money and of credit. The purpose of the bill is to aid in doing this.

We have seen that it requires four per cent. of the aggregate values of property to be in gold and silver to maintain the value of property. It requires no argument to show that the value of credit depends upon the value of property, but to illustrate this, and to show how necessary it is to protect the value of credit, we refer to the official exchanges of the "Clearing House," in the city of New York, from which it appears that, although during the year preceding the panic, the average amount of specie held by the Banks of the city of New York was less than twenty millions, the exchanges were more than eight thousand millions of dollars, and that last year the average was nearly four hundred and fifty millions per month, and nearly eighteen millions per day. If such was the use of credit as between the Banks, what was the amount of credit used in the transactions of the Banks and the public, and in the transactions which were not carried into the Bank accounts?

We know that some believe the crisis was the necessary consequence of over-trading and reckless speculation; and that these were the result of an over issue of Bank credits. We have before us a statement which we believe to be authentic, showing that on the 29th Oct., 1856, the comparison of paper currency of England, France and the United States, was as follows:

It will thus be seen that our specie basis was 17 per cent., whilst that of England was but 10½ and that of Paris but 8½ per cent.

Does any one wish to know why it was that under such a statement the Banks of England and the Banks of France continued to pay specie when our Banks were compelled to suspend specie payment? We refer to another table, showing that the coinage of France was, in Gold.	Silver.

1849.....	27,100,000 francs.....	$206,500,000
1850.....	85,200,000 ".....	86,500,000

1854.....	526,500,000 ".....	2,100,000
1855.....	400,000,000 ".....	7,000,000

This table shows that France gradually, but rapidly substituted gold for silver. The reason of this was, that as England was compelled to bid a premium for silver, to meet her disbursements, caused by the wars in Russia, India, Persia and China, which caused the silver to flow from France to England, France gave a premium for gold, which caused the gold to flow from England into France. This enabled the Bank of France to maintain her line of discounts and circulation, and prevent a paralysis of French industry, which would have been the inevitable consequence of curtailing her discounts. Hence France, with a much greater use of credit, was enabled to prosecute the war in the Crimea, and pass through the crisis of 1857, which fell with its withering influence on us.

That the crisis of 1857 was not caused by an over issue of our Bank notes appears in this. The depreciation of Bank notes as compared with gold and silver was less than the depreciation in the value of all other property—for corn, wheat, land and all descriptions of property, could, at any time during the crisis, be purchased with Bank notes at less price than they could have been purchased before the Bank suspension with gold and silver. It is a fact notorious, that the Banks enlarged their discounts more than one hundred and thirty-seven millions in the fruitless effort to maintain the value of property, and thus prevent the crisis, and that the large export of specie and not the issue of Bank notes produced the crisis. It is well known that when money is scarce and interest high, it requires the best class of securities to obtain it, and hence, as next to Bank notes, good railroad bonds are the most available, large amounts of these bonds were forced upon the market at ruinous rates.

The public debt of the governments of Europe, for the greater part, bears but three per cent. interest, and those governments and their agents are interested in preventing an increase of this rate. If we can satisfy the European public that our railroad bonds are as safe an investment, many of the holders of the European three per cents will sell out and purchase our six per cents.; and it is therefore important that an agency, such as contemplated by the bill, shall unite European capitalists with an American board, whose character and management will be such as to inspire the greatest possible degree of confidence, as the effort will be to equalize the value of American and European securities, and by reducing the rate of interest, cheapen the value of money so as to approximate the rates paid in Europe. The bill therefore, upon its face, declares that the European shareholders shall not be responsible beyond the value of the capital they subscribe; and surely if they consent to place their money under the control of Pennsylvania directors to be advanced in aid of American enterprise, we should not prevent their doing so by the imposition of conditions which will excite their fears, by notifying them that we do not believe that we are worthy to be trusted. The purpose of the bill is to avail ourselves of the confidence and sympathy which many persons in Europe have in us and in our institutions, to obtain money from them at the lowest possible rate of interest, to be used by us for the promotion of our industry and the development of the mineral and other resources of this country.

FOR THE SESSION OF 1859.

No. 13.

Let it not be said that this bill will create a monopoly. If this company is well managed it will be a pioneer, and will induce others to get like charters, and the competition between rival companies will necessarily benefit the public; for the profits of such an agency will depend upon the business it may do, and this will depend upon their giving greater facilities and cheaper rates than can be had of others.— If they do better for the public than the present agencies, then they will do the business, because the public will be benefitted. If they do not, then they will not be employed, and no one will suffer by them.

We are indebted to the New York Times and the Courier and Enquirer for the tables giving the coinage of France, and the condition of the Banks in England and France. We presume that they are derived from official returns, and are reliable. They show conclusively that the demand for money, that is for gold and silver, in Europe, was to supply the means of carrying on the wars in Russia, Persia, India and China, and preceded the demand in the United States. Mr. Cobb's report shows that our Bank discounts in 1857, were .....$684,456,887 which in 1854, were but..... 557,389,779

Showing an increase of.....$137,067,108

Why did the Banks increase their discounts? We have seen that, owing to the extraordinary foreign demand, our exports of gold and silver were more than three hundred millions of dollars. This export of specie created an extraordinary demand for money, and the Banks enlarged their discounts in a fruitless effort to maintain the value of property. They failed, not because the actual value of property was less, but because the export of the precious metals had destroyed the exchangeable value of property, and thus rendered of no value that large volume of credit, indicated by the sum of the exchanges at the clearing house in New York, and which sum of credit, large as it is, is indispensable to the operations of the trade and industry of the United States.

We know that many believe that credit is for the rich and gold and silver for the poor man. Gold and silver are the life-blood, but credit is the bone and muscle of our industry. When money is plenty, and credit is good, the poor man can get constant employment, and a fair price for a fair day's work. Labor is the poor man's capital, and labor cannot get employment unless there be money to pay for it. He, therefore, who provides the means of paying for labor is the friend of the poor man, and he who makes war upon credit is his enemy.

We know that there is a vast reservoir of surplus capital in Europe; we know that by a proper organization we can obtain a part of that accumulated capital, at less price than we can get it at home. This bill is the result of many years reflection and experience, and is prepared in reference to the wants to be supplied, and the obstacles to be overcome. The purpose is to sell our railroad bonds for the highest price that can be obtained in the market where money can be had at the lowest rate, and to appropriate the money thus obtained so as to give employment to our own labor, and thus increase our wealth, and stimulate our industry to develop our own resources.

Does any one ask why the undersigned makes his application to the State of Pennsylvania? He replies that Pennsylvania is in advance of the other States in the manufacture of iron, and therefore demands an increased duty upon iron; that an increased duty will create an increased demand for iron, and to supply that increased demand, we must have an increased supply of money. The bill has been framed with a view to obtain that increased supply of money upon the best terms, as the undersigned believes, from the only source from whence it can be obtained. All of which is respectfully submitted by

DUFF GREEN.

Mr. WELSH, (Finance,) as committed, "A bill entitled 'A resolution relative to Zeigler's Manual;' which, on motion, the Senate proceeded to consider, having resolved itself into committee of the whole. (Mr. WRIGHT in the Chair.) After some time the committee rose, and the Chairman reported the same without amendment.

On motion, the Senate proceeded to the second reading of said resolution.

Mr. SCOFIELD rose to a question of inquiry. He wished to know whether the Senate had yet received the proportion of the one thousand copies of this work to which they are entitled? According to his poor figures, the Senate was entitled to one-fourth, about seven to each Senator. If the Senate paid for them, he was desirous that they should get them.

Mr. RANDALL wished to ask the Clerk, through the SPEAKER, whether the Senate was to pay for this number of copies before receiving them, or whether they had yet been furnished? He was satisfied that he had not had his share of the public documents. Last session he received more than he was entitled to, but this session the supply had fallen short. If the State pays for the printing of these documents, it is but right that they should obtain them.

Mr. BELL remarked that if Senators were entitled to more than the number of copies which had already been furnished them, he was desirous of securing them. One of the four which had been furnished him, he had given to a friend, and another some person had taken the privilege of carrying off.

Mr. HARRIS wished to know whether the sum named in the resolution was intended for the purchase of the one thousand copies of the Manual, or to compensate Mr. Zeigler for his labor in compiling it?

The SPEAKER explained that it was designed as a compensation for his labor in compiling the book.

The resolution finally passed.

BILLS IN PLACE.

Mr. SCOFIELD read in his place and presented to the chair, "An Act to enable the county of Warren to effect certain compromises."

It was moved and seconded that the Senate resolve itself into committee of the whole on this bill; which was agreed to. (Mr. WELSH in the chair.)

After some time the committee rose, and the chairman reported the bill as committed.

Mr. GAZZAM supposed that the bill was all right, but he wished to hear some explanation of it from the gentleman who presented it.

Mr. SCOFIELD explained that the county of Warren, some four years ago, subscribed four hundred thousand dollars to the Sunbury and Erie railroad. A party now propose to take this subscription off the hands of the county, and to pay it to the Sunbury and Erie company, at a reduction of twenty per cent. He thought it was a good speculation, and felt authorized to offer the bill empowering the county commissioners to enter into the arrangement.

The bill then passed second and third readings. The Clerk of the House being introduced presented bills for concurrence.

The Deputy Secretary of the Commonwealth presented two messages from the Governor; which were read, as follows:

EXECUTIVE CHAMBER,
Harrisburg, Jan. 20, 1859. }

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

GENTLEMEN:—I have this day transmitted to the House of Representatives for the use of the Legislature, the eighth annual report of the trustees of the State Lunatic Hospital, with the reports of the superintendent and treasurer to the trustees of said institution.

WM. F. PACKER.

EXECUTIVE CHAMBER,
Harrisburg, Jan. 20, 1859. }

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

GENTLEMEN:—I have approved and signed the following acts of the General Assembly, viz: On the 14th inst., "An Act to authorize the President of the select council of the city of Erie to act as mayor of said city."

On the 19th inst., "An Act relative to the sale of unseated lands in the county of Elk."

"Resolution relative to the purchase of Purdon's Digest."

W. F. PACKER.

On leave given, Mr. RUTHERFORD recorded his vote "Yea," on the tariff resolutions.

Mr. WRIGHT read in his place and presented to the Chair, a bill, entitled "An Act to incorporate the Cottage building association at Beverly."

Mr. PARKER, "An Act to incorporate the South City passenger railway company."

Mr. PALMER, "An Act to extend the charter of the Forest improvement company."

On leave given, Mr. PALMER presented a petition from citizens and lessees, praying for the extension of the charter of the Forest improvement company.

Mr. WRIGHT gave notice that he would hereafter object to the reading of petitions and other documents, out of the regular order of business. It required the unanimous consent of the Senate, and he was disposed to withhold his consent, because proceedings out of the regular course spoiled the Journals.

Mr. GREGG, "An Act relative to elections in Williamsport, Lycoming county."

Mr. RANDALL, "An Act to incorporate the Indian and Commercial company."

Mr. MILLER moved to re-commit a bill relative to hucksters in the counties of Lebanon and Berks.

A communication was received from the Canal Commissioners and read, as follows:

CANAL COMMISSIONERS' OFFICE,
Harrisburg, Jan. 19, 1859. }

HON. JOHN CRESSWELL, Jr.,

Speaker of the Senate:

SIR:—In pursuance of an act of the 6th of April, 1854, entitled "An Act to authorize the Canal Commissioners to assess the damages arising from the destruction of property on the public works,"

The Board submit the following report on the claim of Peter S. McCullough. On the 4th of October, 1853, a collision occurred between two trains on the Allegheny Portage railroad, by which a four section boat belonging to Mr. McCullough, was nearly destroyed. The third section of the boat, next to the bow, had its end and side knocked out, the bulkhead of the next section torn out, and the stern section shattered and broken. The boat was loaded with pig metal destined for Pittsburg, which had to be re-shipped by another conveyance. The collision occurred in consequence of the negligence of the agent of the Commonwealth having charge of the train. It appears that whilst making a change in the location of the road, at the point where the damage occurred, for the purpose of straightening a curve, the two tracks were brought so close together as not to permit the passage of trains going in opposite directions. It was the duty of the agent having charge of this train to have stopped at this point, and have permitted the train going eastward to pass. He neglected to do so, and the collision occurred from that neglect, for which he was discharged from the service of the Commonwealth. As the claim comes clearly within the provisions of the act before referred to, the Board have assessed the damage sustained at $365.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

GEO. SCOTT, President.

On leave given, Mr. RUTHERFORD withdrew certain papers and documents of Dr. Thomas Duncan, executor of Mrs. Rebecca Duncan and James McCoy, dec'd.

BILLS ON SECOND READING.

"An Act to abolish the office of Canal Commissioner."

Mr. BELL moved to amend in the thirteenth line by striking out the words "forever barred," and inserting in lieu thereof the following: "Referred to the Auditor General for examination and settlement, provided the same be presented one year after the passage of this act;" and in the fourteenth line, after the word "all," insert "such."

Mr. TURNEY offered an amendment to the amendment so as to make the first part of the first section read thus: "That from and after the passage of this act the office of Canal Commissioner of this Commonwealth be, and the same is hereby abolished, and the commissioners," &c.

Mr. TURNEY hoped the Senator from Chester would withdraw his amendment. He had ascertained, from the proceedings of the Canal Board, that they had realized all their forebodings of the effect of this proposed legislation upon claims. The Board, he had ascertained from a reliable source, had opened up, and were now examining claims that had been once rejected, and they were now sitting up in their room digging up rotten claims which had long been buried, as worthless and fraudulent. Pass the bill to day, and it will immediately receive the signature of the Governor, thus putting an end to the existence of a Board for which there was no longer a necessity, and the abolition of which was demanded alike by the people and the interests of the State.

Mr. BELL understood the object of the gentleman to be the immediate abolition of the Canal Board. This can be reached in another manner. If the Canal Commissioners were acting with impropriety—digging up old and rotten claims which had been long disposed of as unjust and rotten, they should be deprived of their power to act forth with. Yet, even if upon this just ground, the Board is abolished, it does not change the necessity of making provision for the payment of claims which may justly exist against the Commonwealth. He did not feel willing, however, without some other evidence than that which had been furnished by the Senator from Westmoreland, to believe that the Canal Commissioners have entered upon an examination of exploded or rotten claims. He knew at least one member of the board, and he could say that his character for integrity and a high sense of duty, was as fair as that of any gentleman.

Mr. TURNEY wished to explain, emphatically, that he had no reference to the member of the Board to whom the Senator from Chester had referred. If we had another like him in the Board, matters would be all right.

Mr. BELL resumed. If the Senator from Westmoreland had any positive knowledge that the Canal Commissioners were thus digging up rotten claims against the Commonwealth—for it was a grave charge—or that they had gone beyond the strict line of their duty in any other respect, he would willingly consent to a section for an immediate abolition of the Board. But this may be all mere rumor, founded upon the hearsay of a third party, unknown, and whose opportunity for obtaining information upon the matter, does not entitle it to credit. There should be some other evidence than the mere rumor, to warrant the precipitate action contemplated by the bill.

Mr. TURNEY replied, that if the Senator from Chester had any doubt as to the character of his authority, he would refer him to his friend Judge S. Rickard.

Mr. BELL said the authority was undoubted.

Mr. GREGG hoped Mr. BELL'S amendment would not prevail. It were much better to adopt the bill, as amended by the Senator from Westmoreland, immediately abolishing the Board; and to make future provision for the adjustment of claims. The proposition to refer them to the Auditor General for adjustment, was entailing upon him too much power and trouble.

Mr. BELL explained that his proposition did not invest the Auditor General with any power, save that of examining the claims against the State, and presenting them for the approval of the Legislature. He was willing that they should be referred to any other person. His aim was simply to secure for them a proper examination, before the Legislature was called upon to approve them.

Mr. RANDALL would vote against the amendment of the Senator from Chester. The step contemplated by it would be a dangerous one. We had been told yesterday, by the Senator from Westmoreland, that there were not a half dozen just claims against the Commonwealth, growing out of damages; and yet we now propose to open the door, and invite the introduction of claims which have been heretofore rejected.

Mr. SCOFIELD remarked that the usual practice with reference to claims had been to have them first come before the Legislature, and upon their justice being recognized, to go to the Canal Board for allowance. The Board, until a bill was passed authorizing it, had no power to allow claims. The amendment of the Senator from Chester not only proposes to change the ordinary tribunal, but enacts a general bill by which a tribunal is created and empowered to investigate and pass upon claims. We had heard of the last of the Tribunes, and the last of the Mohicans; and he had thought we were about bearing of the last of the Canal Board.—He found, however, from what he had heard to-day, that the writer of fiction, who is to write the history of that body, is not yet furnished with the facts for the task.

He did not believe all that was said against the Canal Board; as good men had been found in it as in any other public department. He was in favor of referring these claims to Mr. Wilson, the clerk of the Board, who had so long been connected with the department, that he was cognizant of the nature of every claim which had been presented before it. He had never heard the slightest whispering against his integrity; and although he had been about this Capitol for five winters, he did not know him, so quietly and attentively does he go about his business. He was in favor of transferring him to the Auditor General's department, with his great knowledge of facts and figures, thereby securing, as he believed, a vast saving of time and trouble to the Legislature, and money to the State.

Mr. BELL again urged upon the Senate the adoption of his amendment. As the bill now stands, it simply abolishes the Canal Board, without making any provision for the adjustment of claims. The Legislature should make some provision for the adjustment of claims which are known to be outstanding against the Commonwealth. It was the fashion to abuse the Canal Board, not only for something which they had done, but something which they might do in futuro. It was easy, too, to say that men vested with power are likely to use it. Yet, there had been no charge of mal practice against them; and he suggested to the gentleman who intimated the charge that they were engaged in digging up rotten claims, that they should give us some specific data. Justice also requires, that if they have accusations, they should point to some particular party, without indulging in a wholesale imputation upon the Board.

Mr. SCHELL wished to say one word. He should be constrained to vote against the amendment of the Senator from Chester, because it would throw open the door to claims that had already been rejected. With him there were two questions, one of which was the policy of abolishing the Canal Board, upon which we are all agreed; the other as to the mode of disposing of claims against the Commonwealth. Upon this we differ. He believed the proposition for their settlement, by the Senator from Chester, was crude and indigested, and involved a nice question, upon which the Senate is not now prepared to vote.

Mr. BELL, (by request,) withdrew his amendment, and the question being upon the amendment offered by Mr. TURNER, it was adopted.

Mr. BELL renewed his motion to amend.

And on the question,

Will the Senate so amend?

It was decided in the negative, and the first section as amended by Mr. TURNER, passed.

The second and third sections were read and adopted.

The fourth section being before the Senate, Mr. TURNER proposed to amend, by striking out the words "Canal Commissioners" and inserting in lieu thereof, "Auditor General;" which was agreed to.

And the section as amended passed.

Mr. RANDALL moved to amend the title, by adding "State Engineer;" agreed to.

The bill passed finally, as follows:

YEAS—Messrs. Baldwin, Bell, Coffey, Craig, Fetter, Finney, Francis, Gazzam, Gregg, Harris, Keller, Marselis, Miller, Nunnemacher, Palmer, Parker, Penney, Randall, Rutherford, Scbell, Shaeffer, Schindel, Steele, Thompson, Turney, Welsh, Wright, Yardley and Cresswell, Speaker—29.

NAYS—None.

BILLS CONSIDERED.

On motion of Mr. RANDALL, the Senate proceeded to consider Senate bill number 71, entitled "An Act to consolidate the stock of the Girard Bank in the city of Philadelphia."

The Senate resolved itself into committee of the whole on this bill. (Mr. BALDWIN in the chair.)

After which the chairman reported the same as committed, when it was read a second and third time, and finally passed.

Mr. GREGG wished an explanation of the bill; he did not understand its object or provisions.

Mr. RANDALL explained that, some time ago, the Girard Bank was unfortunate, when the stockholders rushed in, and reduced the stock from fifty to twelve dollars. Under the general banking law, all banks are compelled to have their stock at a par value of fifty dollars; and as the bank was chartered before the passage of the general law, the object of the bill was to authorize the bank to issue four shares of stock, instead of one. There was no objection, that he was aware of, to the bill, and he hoped it would be permitted to pass.

Mr. BELL moved that the Senate proceed to consider a bill, entitled "An Act providing for the refunding of certain taxes paid by the West Chester gas company;" which was agreed to.

The Senate went into committee of the whole. (Mr. COFFEY in the Chair.)

After some time the chairman reported the same as committed.

Mr. BELL explained the object of the bill to be, simply, to authorize the State Treasurer to pay back to the West Chester gas company certain taxes paid by them, which they were not entitled to pay. The sum involved is a small one; yet, under the decision of the supreme court, that gas companies are not taxable, the claim was a just one, and the company should be refunded the money.

Mr. SHAFFER had no wish to object to the passage of the bill; but there were gas companies in Lancaster and elsewhere which are similarly situated, and he was opposed to the local legislation which this bill would inaugurate for every company who chooses to ask it. He did not oppose this claim of the West Chester gas company, but he wished to have a general bill, so as to cover every similar case that may be presented. He therefore hoped it would be postponed.

Mr. BELL was surprised that the Senator should raise objections to so small a bill as the one under consideration. There was no reason why it should be postponed; and he asked that the Senator should extend the same courtesy that he would extend to him under similar circumstances. If his statement of facts with regard to the matter was correct, there could be no objection to the passage.

Mr. WRIGHT observed that although the facts may be correct, as stated by the Senator from Chester, he much doubted the propriety of the passage of the bill. The effect of it would be to open up the flood gates of corruption on the Commonwealth. A thousand cases were waiting now for the passage of just such a bill as this. If the parties were injured, the amount was but small; and he had no doubt, if the matter was fairly probed, it would be found that the company had, in some way, avoided paying taxes to a far greater amount than their claim here. He alluded to the disposition not only of companies, but individuals, to avoid the payment of taxes, and the many advantages which are taken. If this refunding of money were done at all, it should be by a general law.

Mr. GREGG was disposed to guard the treasury as closely as any other man, and he would not vote to take one dollar out of it that was not justly claimed. Yet he could see no reason why, if the West Chester gas company had paid tax which they had no right to pay, the money should not be refunded. The decision of the supreme court had established the principle that they were not justly taxable; and as there was nothing in the bill indicating dishonesty or roguery, it should receive the sanction of the Senate.

Mr. BELL rose to say that there was neither logic, honor, or honesty in the argument of the Senator from Philadelphia. What, he asked, does the Senator mean by saying that he is opposed to giving this company any advantage? He has no doubts as to the correctness of the facts stated, and yet, he says the passage of this bill will accord to it some advantage. Notwithstanding all the admitted facts, as to the justness of the demand, he says the State Treasurer should not refund the amount wrongfully paid, because some other company may come here with claims. This idea did not come from the Senator from Philadelphia, but from the Auditor General, who sits upon the lid of the treasury like a Cerberus.—There is a contagion in the office of the Auditor General, and any one who goes there is liable to the disease. The Senator from Philadelphia would say to this company, notwithstanding your admitted facts, you have no right to the money in our strong box. They did not come begging for it. They simply claimed it as justice—bare, bold justice—to the amount of forty-eight dollars. If the Senate saw proper to refuse it—for he was not interested in any way in it—they could solace themselves for their dishonesty by the fact that they had saved the State the tremendous sum of forty-eight dollars.

Mr. WRIGHT was pleased with the remarks of the Senator from Chester. There was wit and humor in them. He was not convinced, however, that he was right in his position. If he were entirely satisfied that this amount was justly due the company, he should vote for the bill. He was desirous of having the matter postponed, in order that he might have an opportunity of investigating its merits.

Mr. FINNEY remarked that the Senate had before it a case which had already been adjudicated, and what effect can a further investigation have here? The gas company on one side and the Commonwealth on the other; certain facts exist, and a decision of the supreme court declares that the amount paid by this company was not legally exacted. What good, then, can be done by a postponement? The company come here and ask that they may be refunded the sum of forty-eight dollars, illegally paid to the State, and which they could recover, if execution could be issued against the Commonwealth.

Mr. SCHELL moved to postpone the consideration of this bill for the present,

And on the question,

Will the Senate agree to postpone?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. SCHELL and Mr. BELL, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Fetter, Gazzam, Harris, Keller, Marselis, Parker, Schell, Shaffer, Schindel, Turney, Welsh and Wright—12.

NAYS—Messrs. Baldwin, Bell, Coffey, Finney, Francis, Gregg, Miller, Palmer, Penney, Randall, Rutherford, Steele, Thompson and Cresswell, Speaker—15.

So the question was determined in the negative.

Mr. SCHELL was unprepared to vote upon the bill, and it was but courtesy that the Senator should accede to his request, that it lay over. He wished to investigate the decision of the supreme court, upon which the bill was based, of which he had not yet had an opportunity.

Mr. GAZZAM thought the request of the Senator from Bedford was a reasonable one, and that the Senator from Chester, in the exercise of the usual courtesy, should grant it.

Mr. MARSELIS remarked, that although the amount proposed to be refunded by the bill was a small one, it may yet involve thousands and thousands of dollars. There were many companies in Philadelphia, which had invested vast sums in similar enterprises, to which we may be asked to make similar restitution. There was no telling where this matter might end, if we once opened the door for the admission of such claims.

Mr. BELL, under the circumstances, and at the request of Senators, would have no objection that the bill should lay over.

The Clerk of the House being introduced, presented Senate bills passed without amendment.

The SPEAKER read titles of bills from the House, and referred them to their respective committees, viz:

No. 15, "Resolution to dissolve the contract between the Commonwealth and R. J. Haldeman, for the publication of a Daily Legislative Record." (Referred to Committee on Finance.)

No. 56, "An Act to extend the width of Jones street, in the Ninth ward of the city of Philadelphia." (Referred to the Committee on Roads and Bridges.)

No. 78, "An Act to change the place of holding the elections in the township of Jenks, in the county of Forest." (Referred to the Committee on Election Districts.)

No. 79, "An Act to change the time of holding township elections in the county of Forest." (Referred to the Committee on Election Districts.)

No. 80, "An Act to charter the Delaware County association for insuring against horse stealing and detecting horse thieves." (Referred to the Committee on Corporations.)

Mr. TURNEY moved that the Committee be discharged from the consideration of House bills, Nos. 78 and 79, as above; that the Senate dispense with going into committee of the whole, and proceed to consider said bills; which was agreed to; and the bills finally passed.

On motion of Mr. WELSH, the Senate proceeded to consider "An Act relative to the estate of Arthur Howell, deceased," and dispensed with going into committee of the whole.

The bill passed.

The hour of one having arrived, the SPEAKER adjourned the Senate until 11 o'clock tomorrow morning.

ORIGINAL RESOLUTION.

Mr. WALBORN submitted the following:

Resolved, That a committee of five be appointed, to whom shall be referred so much of the Governor's message as relates to the erection of a suitable monument to the memory of those volunteers of this State who died in the Mexican war, in defence of their country; and that said committee be authorized to report by bill or otherwise.

Mr. CHASE said the resolution was a singular one, when it was considered that the House had standing committees to whom the subject might appropriately be referred. As far as the expenditure of money was concerned, the Committee on Ways Means should be consulted, and as far as the abstract question of construction was concerned, the Committee on the Militia System had jurisdiction.

Mr. ROSE moved a reference to the Committee on Ways and Means.

Mr. CHASE spoke further against the appointment of a special committee.

Mr. ROSE made some remarks.

Mr. NILL thought the resolution, as proposed, was unnecessary.

Mr. WALBORN spoke in favor of a reference to a special committee.

Mr. THORN hoped that the Committee on Ways and Means would not be burdened with it.

The motion of Mr. ROSE, to refer to the Committee on Ways and Means, finally prevailed.

Mr. PALM offered a resolution that hereafter this House meet on Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock, and adjourn at 5, and that that be the standing hour for meeting and adjourning on that day until otherwise ordered; which was read the second time.

Mr. WILCOX moved to amend the same by adding "and that hereafter the House meet every morning at 10 o'clock instead of 11 o'clock, as heretofore."

Mr. GOEPP opposed the amendment, on the ground that the different committees meet at that time.

Mr. WILCOX accordingly withdrew his amendment.

The question recurring,

Shall the original resolution pass?

On motion of Mr. WILSTON the further consideration of the same was postponed for the present.

Mr. BAYARD offered a resolution that House bill No 71, "An Act to change the name of the Pittsburgh fire life and marine insurance company be re-committed to the Committee on Corporations;" which was twice read and adopted.

Mr. GRATZ offered a resolution that copies of Ziegler's Legislative Manual be furnished to certain officers of the House; which was twice read and adopted.

Mr. PENNELL offered a resolution that 500 copies of the report of the Trustees of the Farmer's High School be printed for the use of the House; which was read the second time.

And on the question,

Shall the same pass?

Mr. FOSTER moved to amend the same by increasing the number to 2000 copies; which was agreed to.

And the resolution as amended was adopted.

Mr. HAMERSLY offered a resolution, that a committee of three be appointed to revise the rules of this House, and report what alterations, if any, are necessary; which was read the second time.

Mr. HAMERSLY stated that the object was to inquire whether there could not be some better method devised relative to bills on private calendar.

The resolution was then adopted.

Mr. SHIELDS asked and obtained leave of absence for Mr. ROHRER, for a few days from to-morrow.

BILLS ON SECOND READING.

The joint resolution introduced by the gentleman from Berks, (Mr. SMITH,) relative to the pay of members of the Legislature, came up in order.

On motion of Mr. THORN, said bill was postponed for the present, on account of the absence of that gentleman.

SENATE AMENDMENTS.

To the bill abolishing the Board of Canal Commissioners and State Engineer, were read.

And on motion of Mr. HAMERSLY, the further consideration of the bill was postponed for the present.

The bill of Mr. KINNEY, annulling the contract with R. J. Haldeman for the publication of the Daily Record (a joint resolution to the same effect having been passed on Wednesday,) came up for consideration.

Mr. ROHRER said that he really could not perceive the advantage to result from the passage of any act of this kind. If it was done on the ground that one Legislature had no authority to bind another, it was certainly wrong, not that he was prepared to deny the right of the House to make its own contracts, but he could not overlook the peculiar circumstances under which the publication had been ordered to be continued. But suppose that the act was passed, what would be the result? It would be necessary for the Senate to give its concurrence. Would it do so? Not at all; and the bill would be allowed to lie in that body for a long time to come. Meanwhile the House having discountenanced and refused to receive the publication, would be without any Record at all, and yet would have to pay for it; the Senate alone reaping the advantages.

This was a legal view of the case, and the House certainly had a right to act as proposed. It would not then become the duty of the contractor to force the paper upon the members against their inclination, but he would be justly entitled to go on printing, and draw the money therefor, at the end of the session. This state of things would evidently continue until adjournment, if not being probable that the Senate would take any action at all.

He would be perfectly willing, if a better contract could be made at a cheaper rate, to allow the publication to change hands, but justice compelled him to say that he believed that it was now obtained at as moderate a price as possible, and that a good Record could not be published for less. So far as accuracy and perfection was concerned, it would be impossible to improve it, without the employment of a stenographer at an enormous salary.

There was, he understood, but a single applicant for a new contract, and that person had once before had charge of the Record. He should not be willing to vote for any man who would publish and re-publish standing matter at $5.60 per page, and if the applicant was the same man who had once done this, he should refuse to countenance him, although he offered to carry on the paper for fifty dollars per year. Seven dollars a page was as cheap as it could be published, without recourse to outside means of obtaining money, and the present contractor could afford to do it well at that price, because he had the advantage of using the same "matter" for his regular daily paper.

Two points had then been elicited—first, that legally considered, the passage of the act would amount to nothing; and second, that the person who was an applicant was not the one who ought to have the contract. These things, he hoped the House would duly consider before taking action.

Mr. KINNEY said that he had introduced the bill because it had become evident that the Senate would do nothing in the matter. The House had appointed a committee to confer with a like body chosen by the Senate, and it had been stated on the floor, by the gentleman from Allegheny, (Mr. FOSTER,) that a meeting was to have taken place on Wednesday. Wednesday had passed and no report had been made, and the fact was palpable that it was the policy of the Senate to continue, from day to day, until the close of the session. The gentleman from Allegheny, (Mr. FOSTER,) had urged a postponement, when the subject was previously broached, in order to allow the committee an opportunity to fulfil their duty.

Mr. FOSTER desired to be heard in explanation. He had not stated positively that a meeting of the committee was to have taken place on Wednesday, but had only heard it so alleged.

Mr. KINNEY continued, and said that his only object was to set the House right. If a gentleman came forward and offered to print the Daily Record twenty per cent. cheaper than at present, it was his duty to consider the matter, and if proper security was offered, to embrace the proposition. Under these circumstances, the present contract should be annulled by the House, and even if this action would not entirely abrogate the contract, it would throw the entire responsibility of its continuance upon the Senate.

It had been alleged that the Record could not be published at a cheaper rate, without recourse was had to "stalings." He was assured by those conversant with the subject, and was convinced by his own knowledge of printing, that it could be done as well as at present for $5.60 per page. In the Telegraph were to be found full reports of the proceedings of the House, equal to those (with perhaps a few exceptions,) which were published in the Record. These reports were made for Mr. Bergner, by men paid by himself, and were verbatim. Now it was folly to say that it was worth seven dollars per page, to merely take these reports out of the Telegraph and put them in the Record, as could be done. In fact, he believed that it would be possible to have the Record published at half of the present rates, and still leave a margin for profit. He desired to throw the whole responsibility of paying a partizan press enormous prices, upon the Senate, and in making these remarks had been solely actuated by a sense of duty to his constituents and the public treasury.

Mr. FOSTER had heard it stated that proposals had been made by another person for the printing of the Record, at a reduction from present rates. Now he would ask the gentleman (Mr. KINNEY,) to suppose a case. If he had engaged a workman who was performing a stipulated duty, in a satisfactory manner, for a reasonable sum, would he discard him when another party came forward and offered to do it for less? and when the credentials which were presented by this party were not of a satisfactory character; in fact, were disreputable?—Now the Auditor General's report would show a series of bills which had been presented, not a very long time since, (in 1850,) for German printing, by the person who now, he understood, offered to contract for the Record. One of these bills consisted of 43 items—some 12 of which were worthy of notice.

Mr. HAMERSLY interrupted the speaker by rising to a point of order. He held that these statements could not now properly come before the House, as the debate was not upon accepting a contract with the person alluded to, but simply an annulling of the old agreement.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Allegheny (Mr. FOSTER,) will please confine himself, as far as possible, to the matter at issue.

Mr. FOSTER held that he had been in order. The gentleman from Bradford (Mr. KINNEY,) had broached the subject of a new contract, and by narrating the advantages of this had endeavored to influence the House to annul the existing one. The speaker certainly was justified in considering what might follow in case a new agreement was made as desired, and could only do this properly by reference to the past, which he had accordingly made.

He then read several items from the Auditor General's report, giving the sums set forth in the bills and claimed by the printer, and the amounts which had been allowed upon them by the Auditor General.

A bill for $125.00 had been cut down to $13.70.

A bill for $150 had been cut down to $5.18.

A bill for $125 had been cut down to $8.10.

A bill for $25 had been cut down to $1.87.

And in the aggregate, twelve bills amounting to $869.10 had been cut down to $81.97.

He said that if the gentleman who desired the contract, would give assurance to the House that he would allow his bill to be cut down in the same proportion as the above, he could have no particular objection to giving him the contract. A reduction of nearly ninety per cent. was considerable.

Mr. HAMERSLY said, in defence of the person who had presented the above bills, that there had been a difference of opinion in regard to the construction of law in the matter. Mr. Bergner had presented the bills to the Auditor General, and they had been razed by him, without any recourse being left open to Mr. B.

Mr. KINNEY was not aware that Mr. Bergner had ever attempted to swindle the State at all, as had been implied. But whether he had or not, was not now in question. The contract which was to be entered into, required security. Mr. B. had said that he would give good and sufficient bonds.

Mr. HARDING said that he had been requested to have a communication read, which Mr. B. had placed in his hands.

The statement was read. Its purport was, that having been unjustly assailed upon the floor of the House by Mr. FOSTER, the writer took this means of obtaining a hearing. He would present a certified copy of court proceedings, by which it would be perceived that two persons had been sentenced to the county jail, (for periods which were named,) for having committed slander in making allegations similar to those of Mr. FOSTER, of Allegheny.

The reading of the statement was interrupted by Mr. WILCOX, who objected.

The statement was withdrawn.

Mr. GRITMAN said that he did not rise to advocate either the repeal or continuance of the contract, but to protest against the manner in which the matter had been urged and insisted upon by the gentleman from Tioga (Mr. WILLISTON.) He held that it was in opposition to all precedent and to all rules of the House and Senate thus to proceed to the passage of an act before it had been duly reported upon by a joint committee. He would not complain if the majority should pass the bill, provided they exercised due formality and legality. A committee had been raised and authorized to make a report, and if the gentleman from Bradford (Mr. KINNEY) was so anxious to throw the entire responsibility upon the Senate, he need only wait until the committee should make such a report as would warrant action. He would call upon the committee to know why they had not done as the majority desired.

Mr. WILLISTON desired to know what was the question before the House, and being informed, that it was on the adoption of the bill of Mr. KINNEY, said that he had so thought until the gentleman from Luzerne (Mr. GRITMAN) had used his name in connection with it. He was opposed to the Record, because it was not full and accurate; and he did regard it as a piece of impertinence for the Assembly of last session to pass an act entailing the contract upon the House. They had no more right to do so than they had to appoint officers for this body. Self-respect should at once induce the abrogation of the contract.

Mr. HAMERSLY said that the clause had been created expressly in view of the present state of affairs, and for the purpose of impeding action. He was free to confess that he was a party man, and was in favor of taking the Record out of the hands of the enemies of the party and giving it to its friends.

Mr. RAMSDALL said that repeated allusions had been made to the committee. On behalf of that committee, he would repeat that the Senate had not appointed any similar body to confer with them. In the Senate, the matter of the Record had been referred to the Finance Committee, and they had refused, (and the speaker thought very properly,) to hold a conference. He was of opinion that the bonds which would be given by Mr. Bergner, would be ample security for his faithful performance of the contract, and believed, moreover, that the securities of Mr. Haldeman were not in force. In regard to "dead matter," this could be remedied by special provisions. As one of the minority in the House last winter, he had received no quarter, and now in carrying out the principle that "to the victors belong the spoils," he was disposed to give the Record to Mr. Bergner.

The question then being called on the adoption of the bill of Mr. KINNEY,

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. WILCOX and Mr. JACKSON, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS.—Messrs. Abbott, Acker, Balliet, Barnsley, Barlow, Bayard, Boyer, (Schnylkill,) Bryson, Burley, Campbell, Chase, Church, Dodds, Durboraw, Eckman, Ellmaker, Fearon, Fisher, Graham, Gratz, Green, Hamersly, Harding, Keneagy, Ketchum, Kinney, Lawrence, (Washington,) Mann, Mehaffey, M'Curdy, M'Dowell, Miller, Neall, Palm, Peirce, Pinkerton, Price, Pugh, Ramsdell, Rouse, Sheppard, Styer, Taylor, Thompson, Thorn, Walborn, Walker, Whitman, Wiley, Williams, (Bedford,) Williams, (Bucks,) Williston, Wilson, Witbrow, Wood, Zoller and Lawrence, Speaker—57.

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

The hour of one having arrived, the SPEAKER adjourned the House until Friday morning at 11 o'clock.

Before Mr. LAIRD voted on the tariff resolutions, he desired to have his reasons for voting entered on the Journal; which are as follows:

I desire in justice to myself, and in order to put myself right upon the record, to enter on the Journal of the House, the reasons which govern my vote on these resolutions.

I vote against the resolutions, not from motives of opposition to the spirit and sentiments expressed therein, for in the main, I approve them; but I oppose their passage because I cannot yield my assent, directly or indirectly, to the doctrine of instruction in the manner proposed by the resolutions. I do not think that the genius of our government is in consonance with this doctrine, thus attempted to be enforced.

I do not concede the right of the State Legislature to control the action of the Senators in Congress, upon subjects which come exclusively within the jurisdiction of the National Government.

I recognize, in its fullest extent and in all its legitimate results, the responsibility of the agents of the people to their principles—the servants to their masters—for in this view I regard the relations existing between the people and their representatives. But this accountability should be to the proper tribunal, to the people in their primary capacity as citizens of the United States, and not to their representatives in the State Legislature. The members of the State Legislature are elected for local and specific purposes, and I hold it to be unwise and impolitic for them to consume the time of their constituents, in the discussion of, and action upon, questions exclusively affecting our National Legislature.

The Senators in Congress are not, legitimately and properly considered, the representatives of the State Legislatures, although elected by those bodies.

Their power emanates from the people under the Constitution of the United States, and the State Legislature is only made the medium by that instrument for the election of United States Senators, and the mode by which they become invested with the powers, duties and obligations of representatives of the people.

Their powers and duties are defined by the Constitution, and have reference to their position as constituent members of the National Legislature.

I entertain the opinion, that the doctrine that the State Legislatures are the constituents of the Senators in Congress, to be politically erroneous, contrary to the theory of our government—one that results from a confusion of ideas in regard to the constitution of the body called the United States Senate; dangerous to be exercised; antagonistic to the genius and spirit of our institutions; and, if generally practiced, would ultimately result in the destruction of our system of government.

As an expression of individual sentiment, I would have yielded my support to the resolutions; but in the light of positive instructions, I cannot give my assent to the principle therein involved.

Entertaining sentiments of this kind, which I have imbibed from long and careful study of the peculiar nature of our institutions, I am compelled, by a sense of duty in obedience to my own views thus indicated, to vote against the resolutions.

ORIGINAL RESOLUTIONS.

Mr. KELLER offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed to investigate the condition of the Shamokin Bank."

On motion, the Senate proceeded to its consideration.

Mr. COFFEY, offered the following amendment:

Provided, The expenses of said investigation be paid by the bank.

Mr. GREGG wished to inquire whether a committee had not been appointed at the last session for the purpose of inquiring into the condition of banks? His apprehension was that such a committee had been appointed, and that investigations of the character had not been found very profitable to the Commonwealth. The Shamokin Bank, to investigate whose affairs this resolution proposes, he understood to be in a sinking condition, and if left alone, it would run down itself, without any investigation.

Mr. WRIGHT saw no objection to the appointment of a committee for the purpose specified. He thought it perfectly reasonable that the Bank should ask it at the hands of the Legislature for the purpose of setting its credit right before the public.

Mr. COFFEY supposed the investigation was right enough; but why should this particular bank be selected, while there were others, equally bogus, and whose credit had been equally impaired?

Mr. KELLER remarked that it was by request that he had submitted the resolution. The credit of the bank had suffered; but he understood that new officers had been recently elected, under whose management the bank confidently expected to raise that credit equal to any bank in the State. He was assured that the bank was safe and sound, and justice to the officers required that the Legislature should grant the examination desired. If the investigation proved the bank to be unsound, let it say so; but if, on the contrary, its affairs are found to be in a safe condition, it is but justice to those interested in its management, as well as the public, that it should be known.

Mr. PALMER understood that it was at the request of the officers of the bank themselves, that this resolution was offered. It was suggested in the Governor's message that the alleged condition of the bank demanded investigation; and it would be doing injustice to the officers to refuse it, and of affording them the opportunity of placing the institution and its affairs in a proper light before the public. He suggested, however, that the resolution should be in the form of a joint one.

Mr. RANDALL remarked that the best way for a bank to establish its credit, was by the payment of its debts in the usual way. If the State was to be made a white-washing machine—a cats paw, with which others may pull their chestnuts out of the fire let us know it. Other banks were in the same condition as the Shamokin bank, and we might as well include them all in the resolution and investigation. This was a novel proceeding; and denning it such, with all respect to the Senator from Snyder, he should vote against the resolution.

Mr. COFFEY said, as the investigation asked for, according to the Senator from Schuylkill, was desired by the officers of the bank, the expenses of the committee should be borne by the bank, and not by the State. If the State were to order an investigation, which was not at their instance or request, the expenses of the committee would be justly borne by the Commonwealth. He therefore offered an amendment, making the bank responsible for the expenses so incurred.

Mr. WRIGHT was opposed to the amendment of the Senator from Indiana. If the suggestions contained in the Governor's message have injured the bank, or are operating to its detriment, it was but just that an investigation should be ordered, particularly when desired by the parties themselves. Notwithstanding he believed a thorough investigation would be had, if a committee were appointed, he much doubted whether a bad state of things would be exhibited. He had but a poor opinion of bank reports, or the exhibits which were made. Many banks, up to the time of breaking, had been able to exhibit a clear statement, and he had but little faith in their figures. He had no thought that the Senator from Snyder had any other motive, in offering the resolution, than to discharge his duty and render what he conceives to be justice to the bank. He believed that the bank, however, had some object in view which does not appear upon the surface. He hoped, in the event of the passage of the resolution, that a thorough investigation would be made. The Shamokin Bank had an opportunity of establishing its credit abroad as well as at home. A number of the principal banks of the State have taken steps for establishing and maintaining their credit, by establishing a clearance house, where they act fairly with each other in the effort. The Shamokin Bank had not come up to its requirements, and had not kept its notes at par in the city of Philadelphia, or other cities.

Mr. COFFEY had no objection to the investigation of the affairs of any bank in Pennsylvania, but he was opposed to the Legislature establishing of a roving commission to make an examination of the affairs of banks, at the expense of the Commonwealth. Let the expense fall upon the parties desiring it. At best he had but little faith in the reports of these investigating committees; they were often white washing affairs, and if this examination is courted by the Bank of Shamokin, he was opposed to paying the expenses of the committee asked for by the resolution. The State had already been saddled with a bill of twenty-four hundred dollars for investigating the condition of several banks, and he was opposed to entailing upon it an additional expense when there was no reason requiring it. If the Bank was in a solvent condition and stands fair, the fact can be established without the aid of an examining committee. By making and keeping its money at par in different portions of the State, this could be easily accomplished. Confidence was a plant of but slow growth. It is necessary that they shall first secure confidence at home, when it will soon spread, gradually, until its reputation for soundness is established. This was the proper course for the Bank to relieve itself from the suspicion of unsoundness which attaches to it.

Mr. WELSH remarked that Senators seemed to labor under a misapprehension as to the circumstances which had originated the resolution for the appointment of a committee to investigate and report upon the condition of the Shamokin Bank. He had before him the message of the Governor, in which he says "in view of the facts reported by the Committee, in reference to the organization and subsequent management of the Tioga County Bank, the Crawford County Bank, and the Bank of Shamokin, I would recommend a careful inquiry into the present condition of these institutions, and if it shall be ascertained that the public is likely to suffer injury from the further existence of either, a certain and speedy remedy may be found in a legislative repeal of the rights and privileges granted by the acts of incorporation." The Bank has been driven to ask for this investigation, in accordance with the recommendation of the Executive, in order to establish its own credit; and under these circumstances it was not right that the expenses of the examination should be met by the Bank, but by the State.

Mr. MARSELIS remarked that the Senate was placed in an awkward position. He believed, with the Senator from York, that in view of the reference made to this institution by the Governor, which demanded some examination, that the State should pay the expenses. There was no other course to be pursued; and yet he believed the whole object of the investigation asked for, was to acquire character for the bank, whilst, if the Senate refused that investigation, that character is obtained by the very fact that there was a refusal. He saw no other course than to go for the investigation and to pay the expenses of the committee.

Mr. HARRIS could see no good to grow out of the investigation. The bank had already made a report of its affairs, and it was not to be supposed that the committee would have other facts or figures presented for their examination, than those contained in the same books. He believed with the Senator from Indiana, that if there has been an inquiry asked for by the bank officers, that the State should not be called upon to defray the expenses. The Governor, in his message, alludes to three banks in equal terms; and yet only one of these comes up and asks an investigation. If a committee is appointed at all, let it be for the purpose of inquiring into them all.

Mr. FRANCIS had very little sympathy with what are called wild cat banks; but he was disposed to give credit where credit was due. If the Governor, in his message, has thrown out any suggestion which is calculated to injure the credit of the Shamokin Bank, and its officers come here, in accordance with those suggestions, and ask at the hands of the Legislature an investigation, it is bound, in justice and honor, to proceed with the inquiry. To ask the bank to pay the expenses of such an examination would be like asking a defendant, who was arraigned at the bar of the courts, to pay the costs of prosecution. This examination was not only necessary, to protect the bank, but the people, and he should vote for the resolution, without entailing the expenses upon the officers.

Mr. KELLER was sincere in his motives, in offering the resolution to the Senate. He did not believe, with the Senator from Philadelphia, (Mr. RANDALL,) that the object was to white wash the bank, but rather to wipe out a stain which had been cast upon their credit.

Mr. MARSELIS did not care whether the credit of the bank was good or not—the people can take care of themselves. If it is good, it can be established without any white-washing process; and this can be done by making it known that their money is good, and by keeping it good.

Mr. SCHELL would vote against the resolution. He was in favor of investigating the affairs of a bank, or any other corporation, where any good could result from it; but in this case he deemed it unnecessary. A bank committee had already reported with reference to the affairs of this bank; and it was not a fair deduction that the bank should demand an investigation, or be white washed now, because the Governor, in his message, had suggested an inquiry into its affairs. The bank had created suspicion by the manner in which it organized, and there would be no change of the public impression with regard to its unsoundness, until it had, itself, established and maintained its credit.

The Senator from Schuylkill had informed the Senate that this investigation was desired by the officers of the bank—and he could see no other object of the officers, than to have the Legislature whitewash the bank by this action. We had been well told, by the Senator from Philadelphia, that the officers had it in their power to establish its credit by keeping its money at par, as other banks had done whose credit was unimpaired. He was in favor of the appointment of any committee which will bring in a bill repealing the charter of all wild-cat banks; for he believed that they were all alike worthless, and should forfeit their privileges.

Mr. RANDALL distinctly disclaimed any reflection upon the Senator from Snyder. He had, no doubt, submitted the resolution in good faith. But the affairs of this bank had already been examined by the other branch of the Legislature, and with the record which was presented before the Governor, the proper course was to instruct the Attorney General to proceed directly against the bank. He was willing to vote for a committee to probe all banks, but he should vote against it at this time. He had been told, when a boy, that "figures won't lie," but as his experience in life extended he had found that the saying was not always true, for some of the worst stories he had ever seen told were those published in bank reports. It was not difficult to see the object of the resolution, and he should be compelled to vote against it.

Mr. PALMER was surprised to hear the Senator from Philadelphia say that this was not a sufficient matter of importance to demand an investigation. Why, sir, said he, this bank is an institution chartered by your Legislature, which has received the sanction of your Executive, and its notes constitute a part of the circulating medium of your State. The allusion to the subject by the Governor, in his message, showed that importance attached to it; and his suggestions compel them to court the investigation asked. Whatever may have been its errors in organizing, it may be all well in the future, and the affairs of the bank be in a safe condition now. It was but just that men, who invest money in a bank, should be granted the privilege of setting themselves and their credit right before the public, and he hoped the resolution would pass.

Mr. GAZZAM could not agree with the Senator. If these grants of committees of investigation be made, the State may send out, every year, legislative committees to investigate the affairs of suspected banks. But if these investigations are had, it is better for the State to pay the expenses of them than the banks themselves. He thought the whole matter should be dismissed.

Mr. GREGG said that if either the bank or the public could derive any benefit from the investigation, he should have no objection to the appointment of the committee. If all banks would carry out the obligations imposed upon them by their charters, the Legislature would have no trouble with suggestions in the Governor's message, or from any other source. It requires considerable skill and experience in the examination of bank figures, and he much doubted whether a committee selected by the Senate would be able to understand them. If they give false figures in their reports, it is easy to give the same to the committee.

Mr. MILLER moved to postpone the consideration of the resolution indefinitely; which was not agreed to.

On motion of Mr. MARSELIS, the consideration of the resolution was postponed for the present.

On leave given, Mr. TURNEY made a statement, in substance as follows:

Mr. TURNEY desired to make a statement.

In the discussion of the bill for the abolition of the Canal Board, he gave the name of Judge Strickland as his authority for a statement—A misconception had been placed upon his remarks—the idea being entertained that Judge Strickland had volunteered the information.—He would now state, that the information to which he alluded, was in reply to a note of his to Judge Strickland, making inquiry as to the action of the Board.

The Deputy Secretary of the Commonwealth being introduced, presented two messages from the Governor; which were read, as follows:

EXECUTIVE CHAMBER,
Harrisburg, Jan. 21, 1859.

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

GENTLEMEN:—I have approved and signed the following acts of the General Assembly, viz:

On the 20th instant, "A supplement to an act to incorporate the Philadelphia and Darby railroad company, approved the 25th of April, 1857."

"Supplement to an act incorporating the Bedford railroad company, approved the 18th of March, 1858."

"An Act extending the time for the commencing of the Columbia and Octorara railroad beyond the time allowed by its acts of incorporation and supplements thereto."

"Resolution relative to the Legislative Manual compiled by Jacob Ziegler."

W. F. PACKER.

EXECUTIVE CHAMBER,
Harrisburg, Jan. 21, 1859.

To the Senate of Pennsylvania:

GENTLEMEN:—In compliance with the resolution of the Senate of the 17th inst., relative to the sale of the Delaware Division, &c., I have the honor to inform the Senate that the offer made for the Delaware Division of the Pennsylvania Canal, after the same had been sold to the Delaware Division canal company, was by Erskine Hazard, on behalf of the Lehigh coal and navigation company, and by B. Rush Plumley, for himself and associates. The amount offered, according to my information, was two millions of dollars. This was two hundred and twenty-five thousand dollars more than the previous contracted price, and it is to be regretted that the offer was not made before the sale had actually taken place.

The act for the sale of the public works was approved on the 21st of April, 1858. The transfers were made by the Commonwealth to the Sunbury and Erie railroad company on the 19th of May, and the different divisions were sold by the company between the 19th of May and the 10th of July, 1858. The Sunbury and Erie railroad sold the canals for $3,875,000, of which the State received $3,787,250; leaving the sum of $87,750 as the proportion of the excess of sale belonging to the company under the contract between the company and the Commonwealth.

W. F. PACKER.

On motion of Mr. MILLER, the message from the Governor was ordered to be printed in the Daily Record.

A communication was received from the Canal Commissioners and read, as follows:

CANAL COMMISSIONERS' OFFICE,
Harrisburg, Jan. 21, 1859.

HON. JOHN CRESSWELL, JR.,
Speaker of the Senate:

SIR:—The Board submit the following report on the claim of Samuel Copper, late contractor on the Erie extension of the Pennsylvania canal, referred to them for examination by an act passed the 8th of May, 1857. It will be seen by the minutes of the Board, recorded on page 616, vol. 8, Journal of the House of Representatives, session of 1840, that this claim was referred to the Canal Commissioners by an act passed on the 7th of May, 1839, with authority to settle the claim of said Copper, "for losses alleged to have been sustained by him in the construction of the said work, adjust the same on principles of equity and justice, having a due regard to the nature of the contingency by which the said loss was occasioned, and allowing him if the same were remote and unusual, so much, if any, above the contract price, as the said work would have cost to the contractor under the most judicious management, and with proper industry and economy;" and that on the 30th of January, 1840, the following resolution was passed by the Board:

Resolved, That the Board approve of the final estimate of W. Milnor Roberts, principal engineer on lock No. 11 of the Shenango line of the Erie extension, amounting to nineteen thousand one hundred and thirty-four dollars and fifty seven and a half cents, including an allowance of one thousand dollars for change of location; and that the superintendent of the line be and is hereby authorized to pay Samuel Copper, contractor for said lock, in addition to whatever may be due on said estimate, the sum of one thousand four hundred dollars as compensation in full for all losses sustained in the construction of said work.

This action of the Board was, after mature deliberation and examination. It was referred to the engineer and superintendent of the line, upon which the work was situated, at a period when all the facts were fresh in the minds of the claimants and of the Commonwealth's officers. It was decided by the Canal Commissioners, who, having the work under their supervision, had all the opportunities for forming a correct judgment of the claim.—Nineteen years have elapsed since that examination was made and decision given. The present Board have examined the testimony produced under the second act of Assembly, but find nothing therein to justify them in recommending to the Legislature to disturb the award of 1840. Very respectfully, your ob't servant,
NIMROD STRICKLAND,
President.

Mr. GREGG moved that the Senate adjourn until Monday next, at 3 o'clock, P. M.

Mr. HARRIS asked the Senator from Centre the reason for this motion.

Mr. GREGG explained that the House had agreed to adjourn over until Monday. In the Senate a number of gentlemen were asking for leave of absence, and it was doubtful if a quorum could be found to-morrow. Besides, there was nothing for the Senate to do; and this adjournment will afford an opportunity for the meeting of committees to compare bills, and mature business for the action of the Senate.

Mr. HARRIS said it was probable the House had agreed to adjourn over, but he was not aware of it. But even if it had, it was no reason why the Senate should. We adjourned on last Saturday, and the House was in session. We have been in session three weeks, and this is the third time the Senate has been asked to adjourn from Friday until Monday. The first time the pretext was to give the SPEAKER time to appoint the standing committees; the second time it was to afford the committees time to meet; and now it is the same thing and that we have nothing to do. He ventured to say that if the Senate did adjourn, there would not be a committee meeting. It was not right thus to fritter away our time. We should go to work like honest men, discharge the business which we have been sent here to do, and then go home to our constituents, prepared to render an account of our stewardship.

[The SPEAKER interrupted Mr. HARRIS in his remarks, with the statement that he had said to the Senate, distinctly, that he required no adjournment for the preparation of the committees.]

Mr. WRIGHT thought the Senate could find sufficient to do, if they did not adjourn. They had been asked to-day to postpone the consideration of a resolution because, as was alleged, there was so much to do, there was not time for its consideration. He was opposed to the adjournment.

Mr. COFFEY said that if the Senate could find nothing to do, and did not adjourn, he would move that the Shamokin Bank bill be made the special business of to-morrow.

The SPEAKER decided that this motion was not germane to the subject, and could not be entertained.

And on the question, Will the Senate agree to the resolution.

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. HARRIS and Mr. GREGG, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Gazzam, Gregg, Keller, Melis, Miller, Nunemacher, Palmer, Parker, Randall, Rutherford, Schell, Shaffer, Schindel, Steele, Turney and Cresswell, Speaker—16.

NAYS—Messrs. Coffey, Craig, Francis, Harris, Penney, Thompson, Welch and Wright—8.

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

On leave given, Mr. WRIGHT, (Corporations,) reported, as committed, "An Act to incorporate the Union mutual fire insurance company of Montgomery county."

Mr. GAZZAM, (same,) as committed, "An Act to incorporate the Allegheny fire insurance company of Pittsburg."

Mr. PENNEY moved the consideration of this latter bill; which was agreed to.

Whereupon the Senate resolved itself into committee of the whole. (Mr. SHAFFER in the Chair.)

After some time the chairman reported the same, as committed, and having passed its various readings, it was adopted.

On motion of Mr. FRANCIS, the Senate proceeded to consider bill No. 34, on the file of the Senate, entitled "An Act supplementary to several acts relative to taxes in Lawrence county."

Senate went into committee of the whole. (Mr. COFFEY in the chair.)

The bill being reported as committed, passed finally.

The Clerk of the House, being introduced, presented bills for concurrence.

Mr. PALMER moved to proceed to the consideration of Senate bill No. 39, entitled "A further supplement to an act relative to a certain burial ground and school lot in the borough of Pottsville;" agreed to.

The Senate resolved itself into committee of the whole. (Mr. HARRIS in the chair.)

This bill having passed second reading, was ordered to be transcribed for third reading.

On motion of Mr. STEELE, Senate bill No. 7, entitled "An Act requiring the register of wills in Luzerne county, to record in books, appraisements, inventories and vendue lists of personal property," was taken up, considered, and finally passed.

On motion of Mr. COFFEY, the Senate adjourned.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

FRIDAY, Jan. 21, 1859.

The House met at the usual hour, and was called to order by the SPEAKER.

Prayer was offered by the Rev. Mr. Robinson, of the New School Presbyterian Church, Harrisburg.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of yesterday.

Mr. CHURCH moved that the reading of the Journal be dispensed with; agreed to.

The SPEAKER laid before the House a communication from the Canal Board, in reference to the claim of Samuel Copper, late a contractor on the Erie Extension of the Pennsylvania canal, referred to the above Board by an act passed May 8, 1857, for examination.

GOVERNOR'S MESSAGE.

The Deputy Secretary of the Commonwealth being introduced, presented a message from the Governor informing the House that he had approved and signed the following bills:

"Supplement to an act to incorporate the Philadelphia and Darby railroad, approved 25th April, 1857."

Also, "A supplement to the act incorporating the Bedford railroad company, approved March 18, 1858."

Also, "An Act extending the time for commencing the Columbia and Octorara railroad beyond the time for commencing the same, in the act of incorporating and the several supplements thereto."

Also, "An Act relative to the Legislative Manual compiled by Jacob Zeigler, Esq."

ORIGINAL RESOLUTION.

Mr. HOTTENSTINE offered a resolution that a committee of three be appointed to whom shall be referred that part of the Governor's message relating to the affairs of the Shamokin Brook of Northumberland—said committee to report at as early a day as practicable; which was adopted.

Mr. PALM offered the following:

Resolved, That when this House adjourn, it adjourn to meet again on Monday next at three o'clock, P. M., and that that hour shall be the hour of meeting every Monday thereafter, and the hour of adjournment to be at five o'clock P. M., on every Monday, until otherwise ordered.

The chair ruled the above out of order, as there was already a standing rule of this House to the same effect.

Mr. PATTERSON offered a resolution that Daniel Nehart be appointed an additional assistant Doorkeeper of this House; which was not agreed to.

Mr. PUGH offered a resolution that one thousand copies of the list of county officers be printed for the use of the members; which was not agreed to.

Mr. BARNSLEY offered the following:

Resolved, That the Clerk be authorized to procure and furnish each member of the House with one copy of a railroad map of Pennsylvania: Provided, The cost of the same shall not exceed one dollar and fifty cents per map; which was not agreed to.

Mr. SHEPPARD offered a resolution that when this House adjourns it do so to meet next Monday afternoon at half past two o'clock; which was not agreed to.

Mr. ACKER offered a resolution that when this House adjourns, it do so to meet on next Monday afternoon, at 3 o'clock.

The chair decided said resolution out of order.

Mr. IRISH inquired whether there was already a rule to that effect?

The Clerk, by direction of the chair, read the rule.

Mr. GRITMAN, instructed by the committee on the contested election case of the Third representative district of Philadelphia, submitted a resolution that said committee be authorized to proceed to Philadelphia to take evidence of said case; which was adopted.

Mr. CHASE offered a resolution that the rule of this House, adjourning every alternate Friday, until the ensuing Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock, be repealed.

The House refused to proceed to the second reading of the same.

Mr. WILLISTON offered the following:

Resolved, That after to-morrow we will not receive the Daily Record, and hereby revoke the contract for publishing it, and this House will not appropriate money to pay for it after to-morrow.

And on the question,

Will the House proceed to the second reading of the same?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. WILLISTON and Mr. WARDEN, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Abbott, Barnsley, Barlow, Boyer, (Schuylkill,) Burley, Church, Dodds, Ellmaker, Fisher, Graham, Gratz, Hamersly, Harding, Kenegy, M'Dowell, Miller, Palm, Patterson, Ramsdell, Sheppard, Styer, Wagon seller, Walhorn, Whitman, Wiley, Williams, (Bedford,) Williston, Withrow, Wood and Lawrence, Speaker—30.

NAYS—Messrs. Acker, Balliet, Bertolet, Bryson, Campbell, Chase, Custer, Dismant, Eckman, Evans, Fearon, Fleming, Foster, Galley, Glaz, Gocpp, Good, Green, Gritman, Hill, Hottensine, Irish, Jackson, Ketchum, Kinney, Laird, Lawrence, (Washington,) Mason, Mehaffey, M'Clain, McCurdy, Neall, Pennell, Peirce, Pinkerton, Porter, Price, Pugh, Quizley, Rose, Rouse, Shields, Smith, (Berks,) Smith, (Philadelphia,) Stephens, Stouck, Stuart, Thompson, Thoru, Warden, Wilcox, Wolf and Zoller—54.

So the question was determined in the negative.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

Messrs. LAWRENCE, WAGONSELLER, MILLER, FEARON, KINNEY and ECKMAN, severally asked and obtained leave of absence, for a few days from to-day, for Messrs. BURLEY, BOYER, (Schuylkill,) GREEN, ZOLLER, BALLIET and DURBORAW.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES

The Committee on Accounts, who were instructed by a resolution adopted on the 1st inst., to investigate the charge that the franking privilege had been abused by the Clerks of the House during the recess, beg leave to report:

That they have examined the account of the postmaster at Harrisburg, for postage charged to the House of Representatives during the recess, and find that it amounts to $477 67.

This amount is made up as follows:

Amount of postage from the 20th day of April last, (the date when the last act was rendered,) to the 22d of April, the day on which the Legislature adjourned.....	$76 09
Stamps and stamped envelopes.....	223 40
Legislative Records , bound and sent to members after close of last session, in number one hundred, at cost, say $1 each.....	100 00
Copies of Record , three hundred packages, containing eighteen copies each, at ten cents per package.....	30 00
Copies of Militia bill , containing eight copies each, at ten cents per package.....	13 30
Copies of Appropriation bill , one hundred and thirty-three packages, containing eight copies each, at ten cents per package.....	13 30
Title of acts , one hundred and thirty-three packages, containing eight copies each, at ten cents per package....	13 30
One hundred copies of Constitution , at three cents each.....	3 00
In all.....	$472 09

According to this calculation the franking privilege has been used by the clerks during the recess to the extent of $5 28.

The committee, after a careful examination of all the facts in connection with the charge of "abuse of the franking privilege," are free to exonerate not only the clerks, but the postmaster at Harrisburg from all blame. The clerks, they are confident, have only exercised the franking privilege when the public business required them to do so.

And the committee moreover recommend that some action be taken by the House in regard to members procuring stamps and stamped envelopes, so that if they are procured from the postmaster the number may be limited and charged in the regular account, and not in the recess account.

C. L. PINKERTON,
MATTHEW SHIELDS,
JOHN M'URDY,
A. R. BARLOW,
Committee.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

Mr. HOTTENSTINE, (Roads and Bridges,) as committed, "An Act relating to road views and road damages, in Northumberland county."

Also, with amendment, Senate amendments to House bill No. 1., "An Act to abolish the office of Canal commissioner and State engineer."

Mr. THORN moved that the House proceed to the consideration of the same; which was agreed to.

The amendments were then read,

And on the question,

Will the House agree to the same? it was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. WILSON, (Estates and Escheats,) as committed, "An Act to authorize the commissioners of Somerset county to sell property, owned and occupied for the use of the poor in said county."

Mr. PIERCE, (Compare Bills,) reported that the committee had presented to the Governor for his approval, the following:

"Supplement to the act extending the time for commencing the Columbia and Octorara railroad, &c."

"An Act relative to Ziegler's Legislative Manual."

Also, "An Act to enable the county of Warren to effect certain compromises."

Mr. HAMERSLY, (Corporations,) as committed, "An Act to incorporate the International Union of art and literature."

To the Hon. W. C. A. Lawrence, Speaker of the House of Representatives, and members:

GENTLEMEN:—We, the undersigned, committee appointed by resolution of this House to inquire into, and report, whether Oliver Evans, a member of the Thirteenth representative distract of the city of Philadelphia, is entitled to retain his seat in this House, beg leave to submit the following report:

That in pursuance of said resolution of appointment, we met, and after having been legally organized, proceeded to investigate the matter submitted to us, and after hearing the counsel of the parties, and being satisfied the allegations contained in the bill or petition of the contestant, were insufficient in law, we quashed and dismissed the same. We therefore report, that Oliver Evans was regularly and duly elected a member of this House, and is entitled to retain his seat.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

J. HERON FOSTER,
Chairman.

Mr. HAMERSLY, leave being granted, submitted a resolution that the contestant be allowed the daily pay and mileage of a member of this House.

Mr. CHASE moved to amend the same by adding in the proper place "up to the present time;" which was agreed to.

On motion of Mr. THORN, the name of the contestant, Francis W. Edwards, was inserted in said resolution.

Mr. CHASE moved further to amend by allowing the said Edwards $5.00 per day; which was agreed to.

And on the question,
Shall the resolution pass?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. PALM and Mr. WHITMAN, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Abbott, Bryson, Burley, Campbell, Church, Evans, Fearon, Fisher, Foster, Gratz, Hamersly, Harding, Irish, Kinney, Maon, McHaffey, McClain, Miller, Neall, Peirce, Porter, Price, Pugh, Ramsdell, Rose, Rouse, Sheppard, Smith, (Philadelphia,) Styer, Thompson, Thorn, Wiley, Williston, Wilson, Wood, Zoller and Lawrence, Speaker—37.

NAYS—Messrs. Barnsley, Bertolet, Boyer, (Schuylkill,) Chase, Custer, Dismant, Dodds, Eckman, Edmarr, Fleming, Galley, Good, Graham, Hill, Hottenstine, Jackson, Ketchum, Lawrence (Washington,) M'Curdy, Palm, Patterson, Pennell, Pinkerton, Shields, Smith, (Berks,) Stephens, Stoneback, Stuart, Wagonseller, Walker, Warden, Whitman, Wilcox, Williams (Bedford) and Wolf—35.

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

BILL PASSED

On motion of Mr. GRATZ, the rules being in this case dispensed with, the House proceeded to the consideration of the bill to consolidate the stock of the Girard Bank; which was then read the second and third time, and passed finally.

BILLS IN PLACE.

Mr. ECKMAN read in his place and presented to the Chair, "An Act relating to the borough of Lebanon." (Referred to Committee on Corporations.)

Mr. LAWRENCE, (Washington,) "An Act further to provide for the protection of religious meetings." (Referred to Committee on Vice and Immorality.)

Mr. HILL, "An Act declaring dogs in this Commonwealth to be personal property." (Referred to Committee on Judiciary.)

Mr. IRISH, "A supplement to an act to increase the Union school and children's home asylum; to provide for the taxation of non-resident vendors of merchandise in the city of Philadelphia." (Referred to Committee on Judiciary.)

Mr. ROUSE, "An Act relating to the navigation of Pine creek, in Warren county." (Referred to Committee on Canals and Inland Navigation.)

Mr. GRITMAN, "An Act to provide for the payment of the expenses of the special election held in Luzerne county the 8th day of June, 1858." (Referred to Committee on Election Districts.)

Mr. HARDING, "An Act to incorporate the Spring Garden Street passenger railway company." (Referred to Committee on Corporations.)

Mr. CHASE, "A further supplement to the act, approved March 27, 1713, an act relative to limitations in actions." (Referred to Committee on Judiciary.)

Mr. LAWRENCE, (Washington,) "An Act to incorporate the Chatham Street passenger railway company." (Referred to Committee on Railroads.)

SENATE AMENDMENTS

To the act authorizing the court of common pleas of Union county to appoint a trustee to receive and apply certain money bequeathed by John Brow, deceased,

On motion of Mr. WAGONSELLER, were read and concurred in.

Mr. PRICE moved that the House do now adjourn; which was not agreed to.

BILLS CONSIDERED.

Mr. LAWRENCE, (Washington,) called up the supplement to the act relative to the Tyrone and Lock Haven railroad.

The first section being before the House,

Mr. LAWRENCE, (Washington,) moved to amend the same, by striking therefrom the word "loan;" which was agreed to.

And on the question,

Will the House agree to the section as amended?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. CHASE and Mr. PATTERSON, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Abbott, Acker, Barlow, Boyer, (Schuylkill,) Bryson, Campbell, Chase, Church, Dismant, Dodds, Eckman, Fearon, Fisher, Fleming, Galley, Goep, Go d, Graham, Gratz, Gritman, Hamersly, Harding, Hill, Jackson, Keneagy, Ketchum, Kinney, Laird, Mann, McHaffey, M'Curdy, Neall, Palm, Patterson, Pennell, Pierce, Porter, Price, Pugh, Ramsdell, Rouse, Sheppard, Shields, Smith, (Philadelphia,) Stephens, Stoneback, Stuart, Styer, Thorn, Wagonseller, Warden, Whitman, Wilcox, Williams, (Bedford,) Wilson, Wolf and Lawrence, Speaker—57.

NAY—Mr. Custer

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

Said bill was then read the second and third time, considered and agreed to; and on the question, shall the bill pass?

Mr. BARLOW had thought it singular that when he had presented this bill, some time since, it had been postponed. The delay which had since occurred was likely to be of serious consequence. His constituents felt a deep interest in the passage of this bill, and it would affect the coal, iron and lumber interests. The company had anxiously waited for the opening of the Legislature, and it was to be hoped that the House would at once pass the bill.

The question again recurring, shall said bill pass? it was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. PRICE renewed his motion to adjourn, and the question being taken, it was determined in the negative.

Mr. HAMERSLY asked the indulgence of the House to proceed to the consideration of a bill repealing "An Act to change the venue in a certain action from Union to Northumberland county."

Mr. PINKERTON moved to amend by substituting therefor an entirely new bill.

Messrs. WAGONSELLER, PATTERSON and HAMERSLY briefly opposed the amendment.

Mr. PINKERTON supported the same, and the question being taken, the amendment was lost.

Said bill was then read the second and third time, and on the question,

Shall the bill pass?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. JACKSON and Mr. CUSTER, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Abbott, Acker, Balliet, Barlow, Bayard, Boyer, (Schuylkill,) Bryson, Campbell, Chase, Church, Dodds, Eckman, Fearon, Fisher, Goep, Graham, Gratz, Hamersly, Hill, Keneagy, Ketchum, Kinney, Laird, Lawrence, (Washington,) Neall, Patterson, Pierce, Porter, Pugh, Quigley, Ramsdell, Rose, Shields, Smith, (Philadelphia,) Thorn, Wagonseller, Walker, Warden, Williams, (Bedford,) Williston, Wilson and Lawrence, Speaker—41.

NAYS—Messrs. Bertolet, Custer, Dismant, Galley, Good, Stoneback and Wolf—7.

A quorum of members not voting, the SPEAKER directed the Sergeant-at Arms to close the door of the House and allow no member to leave the Hall.

The Clerk then called the roll of the members, as follows:

Messrs. Abbott, Acker, Balliet, Barlow, Bayard, Bertolet, Boyer, (Schuylkill,) Bryson, Campbell, Chase, Church, Custer, Dismant, Dodds, Eckman, Fearon, Fisher, Fleming, Galley, Good, Graham, Gratz, Hamersly, Hill, Keneagy, Ketchum, Kinney, Laird, Lawrence, (Washington,) Mann, M'Curdy, Neall, Palm, Patterson, Pennell, Peirce, Porter, Pugh, Ramsdell, Rose, Rouse, Sheppard, Shields, Smith, (Berks,) Smith, (Philadelphia,) Stoneback, Stuart, Styer, Thorn, Wagonseller, Walker, Warden, Williams, (Bedford,) Williston, Wilson Wolf and Lawrence, Speaker—57.

It having been thus ascertained that a quorum of members was present,

The SPEAKER directed another call of the yeas and nays on the final passage of the bill under consideration, with the following result:

YEAS—Messrs. Abbott, Acker, Balliet, Bayard, Bryson, Campbell, Chase, Church, Dodds, Eckman, Fearon, Fisher, Graham, Gratz, Hamersly, Hill, Keneagy, Ketchum, Kinney, Laird, Lawrence, (Washington,) Maon, Neall, Palm, Patterson, Pennell, Peirce, Porter, Pugh, Ramsdell, Rose, Rouse, Shields, Smith, (Philadelphia,) Styer, Thorn, Wagonseller, Walker, Warden, Wilcox, Williams, (Bedford,) Williston, Wilson and Lawrence, Speaker—41.

NAYS—Messrs. Bertolet, Custer, Dismant, Galley, Good, M'Curdy, Smith, (Berks,) Stoneback, Stuart and Wolf—10.

So the bill passed.

The SPEAKER then adjourned the House until next Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock, P. M.

No. — FILE OF THE HOUSE.

Mr. THORN, in place—Jan. 11.

AN ACT relating to insurance companies and associations in the city and county of Philadelphia and the county of Allegheny.

The undersigned respectfully submits the following remarks in explanation of the bill to incorporate the American improvement and loan company.

The public debt of the European Government is estimated to be about ten thousand millions of dollars, the greater part of which bears interest at the rate of three per cent. No one believes that this debt will ever be paid, and yet these three per cents are worth more in that market than our railroad bonds bearing an interest of six per cent. The reason of this is, the greater part of this European debt is held by persons who look to the payment of the interest without expecting the payment of the principal, and who believe that it is better for them to have three per cent. certain, than risk our six per cents.—The purpose of the bill is to organize a company, composed in part of Europeans, who will command the confidence of the European public, authorized to negotiate the sale of American securities in that market, and who will make the requisite investigations as to the value of these securities—who will guarantee that the mortgaged property is sufficient to pay principal and interest; that the title deeds are in due legal form; and that as trustees they are solvent and reliable, so that by commanding the confidence of the European public, our bonds may be sold for money in fair competition with the three per cents.

The American iron master cannot now take our railroad bonds in payment for iron, because there is not a sufficient American capital seeking such investment. The English iron master can and does take them, not because he intends to hold them, but because he knows that he can sell them for money. Our railroad companies are compelled to pay a high price for bad iron, and submit to heavy charges for commissions and great loss in price. Such a company as the bill proposes, would not only place the bonds in the hands of those who wish to hold them as an investment for the best price that can be had, but at less charge for commissions; and, having a large capital invested at all times in the London market, could, by the sale of old bonds, make advances on new bonds, and hold them, under a contract with the railroad company, until the road is finished and productive, so as to make the new bonds as good as the old.

It is proposed to authorize this company to lend money to railroad companies, contractors, iron masters and others. This will enable this company to use European capital, which is abundant and cheap, in building up and sustaining our own manufactures, industry and enterprise. That our bonds may be sold for money in that market appears in the fact that the sum now held there is believed to be at least five hundred millions of dollars.

One other purpose of the bill is to organize a company, with sufficient capital and credit to contract for building the Pacific railroad, and a glance at the map of the world and a moment's reflection on the great lines of travel and of commerce, will show how much Pennsylvania is interested in making that great road tributary to her wealth and prosperity.

In short, the purpose of the bill is to organize a company, whose interest and duty it will be to exchange our bonds for the best price they can possibly bring in the European market, and lend the money here to aid our own industry, instead of exchanging our bonds for hard foreign iron as we now do. The details of the bill are such as to promote this end. It is not a monopoly nor can it be made such—for any one may become a shareholder, and the Legislature may grant any number of charters. No company can get business to do, unless it be the interest of the public to employ them, and to get them employment, they must command the public confidence.

ORIGINAL RESOLUTIONS.

Mr. FINNEY offered the following resolution:
Resolved, That the Committee on Printing be requested to take measures for the printing of public laws, as provided for in the contract to publish the Daily Legislative Record.

In presenting the resolution, Mr. FINNEY remarked that, when the contract was made with the publisher of the Record, it was provided that the laws passed by the Legislature, should be published, as they received the approval of the Governor. This had not been done at the last session, and he was desirous of having them published, as contemplated, in order that persons to whom the Record is sent, and who are interested in many of the laws passed here, may have an opportunity of seeing and reading them some six months before they are printed and distributed in the usual form. He did not suppose it was the neglect of the printer that they were not so published, but of others, perhaps, connected with the executive department.

Said resolution was twice read, considered and adopted.

Mr. COFFEY asked and obtained leave to withdraw certain papers relative to Joseph Brady, deceased, and also to present a petition from the same for relief, with accompanying documents.

BILLS CONSIDERED.

Mr. HARRIS moved to proceed to the consideration of House bill, entitled "An Act relative to abrogating the contract for the printing of the Daily Record."

Mr. BELL hoped the Senate would not proceed to the consideration of the bill now. It had but come over from the House this morning; it was the first the Senate had heard of it, had no knowledge of its provisions, and were not prepared to pronounce upon its merits. He deprecated this hasty legislation upon bills, before they are printed for the benefit of the Senators, especially bills which came from the House. They should take the proper course, and he referred to the committee, to whom the same subject had been committed several days since. They were prepared to investigate the matter, and there was no difficulty in getting a report, as the committees were not now burthened with business.

Mr. HARRIS said the Senator was aware, as well as himself, that the Senate had voted for the continuance of the contract with the present publisher of the Record, until a new one should be made. That contract is still in existence, and will remain in existence until a new one is entered into. The House had passed the bill annulling the old contract, and if we are to have a new one, let it be made now. He was not particular as to what parties are assigned the contract; so far as he was concerned, he was perfectly satisfied with the present man, but he did not recognize the right of the last Legislature to entail a contract upon this. He did not think there was anything in the bill requiring reference to a committee, and he hoped its consideration would be proceeded with.

Mr. BELL asked how the Senator from Butler could know whether the bill contained anything which required reference to committee? The Senate had not heard it read, and for the first time he had heard of the bill this morning. He understood that a struggle had been going on at the other end of the vestibule, for the purpose of giving the publication of the Record to another party than has it now. As well as he was able to determine, from the discussion which had taken place, the object was purely a partizan one; and although he did not know, he suspected strongly that a partizan feeling actuated the effort to press it upon the Senate now. Under the existing contract we have a Record every day, in accordance with its provisions, with which every person is satisfied, and to which he had no word of complaint, either as to its mechanical or mental execution. Why should the Senate, then, annul that contract? Why take up a bill which had occupied the attention of the House for one week, and before having it printed, or its provisions understood, proceed to its consideration? If the Senator from Butler would give him some good reason why the contract should be annulled, he would go with him; but until he did hear such reasons, he would be compelled to go against the bill. He had no partizan feeling in the matter, and he did not suppose the Senate would consider it in a partizan light.

Mr. HARRIS did not contend that the Senate, in annulling the old contract, should enter into a new one with different parties. But it was never intended that the contract of last year should be entailed upon the Legislature this year. He cared not with whom the contract for printing the Record is made, but the present one should be annulled and a new one entered into. He remarked that the securities for the faithful performance of the old contract had been released, and that there was now no binding power for its proper execution.

Mr. WRIGHT remarked that the Senator from Butler had said something about the securities under the existing contract being released. He would merely state, for the information of the Senate, that the securities had been renewed, obviating all objection upon that score.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. HARRIS and Mr. GREGG, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Blood, Coffey, Craig, Fetter, Francis, Gregg, Harris, Keller, Marselis, Nunnemacher, Parker, Randall, Rutherford, Schindel, Steele, Turney, Welsh and Wright—18.

NAYS—Messrs. Bell, Finney, Miller, Palmer, Penney, Shaeffer and Cresswell, Speaker—7.

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

The Senate then resolved itself into committee of the whole, on this bill, (Mr. HARRIS in the Chair.) After some time, the committee rose, and the chairman reported the same as committed. On motion, the Senate proceeded to second reading of the same.

Mr. BELL said that he could not avoid congratulating the Senator from Butler upon the success of his motion. He had told him, if the bill was pressed to a vote, it would be killed, for there was a well known majority against it.—He would not receive that suggestion, and he has seen the result. But the blind won't see, nor can they be persuaded. It had been pressed as a partizan measure, in the other branch, and its fate here could not have been other than it has met.

Mr. HARRIS remarked that there was a majority opposed to the abrogation of the contract; that there would be a majority against it anyhow, and if it cannot be passed to-day, it cannot be passed to-morrow. As regarded himself, he had no partizan feeling in the matter; and however the Senator from Chester may impute them to him, he disclaimed them. His object is simply to enter into a contract for the printing of the Record, as is contemplated by law—no matter whether with the present party or another.

Mr. FINNEY had nothing to say upon the question, except that he desired to have the printing done as provided for in the contract—that the laws should be published in the Record as they receive the approval of the Governor.—There was some advantage in having them thus published; for the people are advised as to what laws are passed six months earlier than when they are furnished in the usual pamphlet form. So far as the printing was executed under the contract, he was perfectly satisfied with it. It was printed cheaply, and in a manner to which there was no objection, and he should not go for the abrogation of it. With the exception that the laws had not been published, as required, when signed by the Governor, he had no fault to find; but that was more the fault of officers in the department of State, than of the publisher. The same subject was already before the Finance Committee, and he would ask for a postponement of the bill until some understanding of the contract, on this matter, could be had. He would, however, vote for continuing the contract, for nothing could be saved by voting against it.

Mr. WRIGHT remarked that the publishers of the Record were perfectly willing to comply with the terms of their contract, and it was not through their neglect, but that of the State Department, that it had not been complied with in every particular. It was to their interest to publish the laws, as required by the contract, and they were glad of the opportunity to do so.

Mr. RANDALL suggested that the Senator from Crawford could secure the publication of the laws, as specified in the contract, by instructing the Committee on Printing to have its provisions carried out.

On the passage of said bill, the yeas and nays were required by Mr. WRIGHT and Mr. HARRIS, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Baldwin, Coffey, Gregg, Harris, Palmer, Parker, Penney, Rutherford, Shaeffer, Thompson and Yardley—11.

NAYS—Messrs. Bell, Blood, Craig, Fetter, Keller, Marselis, Miller, Nunnemacher, Randall, Schindel, Steele, Turney, Welsh, Wright, and Cresswell, Speaker—15.

So the question was determined in the negative.

On motion of Mr. FINNEY, the Senate proceeded to consider a bill, entitled "An Act for changing the time of holding spring elections in Titusville, Crawford county." On this bill, the Senate went into committee of the whole, (Mr. FINNEY in the chair,) and being reported by the chairman as committed, was read a second and third time and passed.

Messrs. WILSON and WILCOX, a committee from the House of Representatives, being introduced, informed the Senate that the hall of the House of Representatives was now ready for the reception of the Senate, for the purpose of allotting the public printing and binding of this Commonwealth to the lowest bidder, agreeably to the provisions of the act of Assembly on that subject; whereupon the Senate proceeded to the hall of the House of Representatives.

After some time the Senate returned to their chamber.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE.

Mr. BELL called up Senate bill No. 33, entitled "An Act to refund certain taxes to the West Chester gas company."

Mr. WRIGHT remarked that since the bill had been before the Senate, he had made it his business to inquire into the history of the case, and had learned that no evidence had been produced in the department of the Auditor General, establishing the justice of the claim. The Chester county gas company had, for many years, avoided the payment of their taxes, and have not come up to the letter of the law; and a proposition coming up as this does, requires that there should be some facts adduced that the money claimed had been actually paid in, before the Legislature is asked to refund it. The Senator from Chester could not adduce proof that the money has been paid, and the Senate should not entertain the proposition. The proper redress is against the authorities of Chester county, and he was surprised that the company did not apply to the courts, instead of coming before the Legislature. If this claim is passed, it will open up the flood-gates of corruption; hundreds of companies are similarly situated, and will come here asking for similar acts, refunding sums alleged to be illegally paid by them. He did not believe the claim is justly due the company. They had owed the Commonwealth for years, and had openly, knowingly violated the law; and their only plea now is that they had paid some tax, at some time, which was illegally exacted from them.

Mr. BELL was glad when he saw evidences of individual or collective improvement. We had often been told that the world was religiously, intellectually and morally improving; the Senate had had an illustration of the truth of it in the gentleman from Philadelphia. The gentleman objects to the allowance of this claim, because there was no evidence furnished from the county authorities of Chester that the amount had been legally paid. He had never contended that it had been legally, but illegally paid, and it was upon that ground that he asked the Legislature to refund it. He congratulated the Senator from Philadelphia, (Mr. WRIGHT,) upon the progress he had made in morals; for he had been informed that he obtained, some two or three sessions since, upon his own ipse dixit, the passage of a bill to refund an amount of tax, said to be illegally paid by the keeper of some grog-shop, in Philadelphia. But since then the gentleman's morals had improved. So far as the evidence goes to establish the payment of this claim, there could be found no evidence upon the record of State tax, only in the aggregate. But there was evidence that the tax had been paid into the county Treasury by the company, and by the county officers into the Treasury of the State. He was ashamed that the Senator from Philadelphia should trouble himself or the Senate, so much, about so small a matter. This was a simple question whether if tax was illegally received by the State, it was not in justice bound to refund the amount, or whether it shall take advantage of its sovereignty, and say that, although illegally received, it will not refund, because the parties cannot sue and recover.

Pending the discussion, Mr. MARSELIS moved to go into committee of the whole for the purpose of considering the following amendment: Provided, It shall be made to appear to the Auditor General that such taxes have been paid into the Treasury of the State, and that the supreme court has decided to the effect that such taxes have been unlawfully paid into the Treasury.

Mr. BELL thought the Senate would be stultifying itself by refusing the allowance of this claim, and he would ask that the bill would not be allowed to fall, by amendments, or otherwise.

Mr. WRIGHT could see no fairer proposition than the one submitted by his colleague. It provides for the furnishing of proof of the justness of the claim, and why not accept it? Why deal in sophistry, instead of meeting the question fairly? The amendment appeals to the common sense of Senators, and there must be something wrong here, when he refuses it, and insists upon the allowance of claims, without full proof of their justice.

Mr. BELL called the gentlemen to order.—When he intimated that there was anything wrong in his advocacy of the bill, he was transgressing his right as a Senator, and he could not allow him to make any imputation dishonorable to himself.

Mr. WRIGHT was careful, he said, to avoid personal allusion; but he certainly thought there was something wrong, when the Senator will not accept of a simple amendment, calling for the very proof which the Senator from Chester says is forthcoming.

Mr. RANDALL could not see why the Senate cannot act now. The question was a simple one—whether the money asked to be refunded had been illegally paid to the county treasury of Chester county and had gone into the State Treasury. He believed there was sufficient evidence that it had been so paid, and the best thing that could be done now is to pay it back to the parties from whom it has been illegally obtained.

Mr. MARSELIS said this was a more important question than gentlemen were disposed to regard it. If the bill passes, and money is obtained, parties will flock here from all parts of the State, with claims similar to this. He had had a recent conversation with the president of a gas company in Philadelphia, who assured him that the company had a claim of some five hundred dollars, originating in a similar way. If the Legislature throws open the door for this, there is no telling where the matter will end. It is wrong to take money out of the treasury without proper proof; and it was but just that there should be some general rule established, by which money illegally paid may be refunded.

Mr. FINNEY did not understand why there should be any objections to the bill. The evidence afforded by the decision of the supreme court and the other authorities, of the illegal payment of the amount, went as far as it could go. It went to the courts upon the admission that it had been paid, and the supreme court decided that it had been illegally paid. What, then, had the Auditor General to do with it? Is he above this body, or superior in power to the supreme court? If so, we had better adjourn sine die, and invest him with the whole power of legislation. The bill contained a plain and simple proposition. It is a matter of record—it has been heard by the courts and determined by the courts; and the case of the five hundred dollars claimed by the Philadelphia company, was not similar to it in any respects.

In that case there had been no adjudication; no certificate from the county treasurer of the payment of taxes; and is no such case as that now brought here. He was opposed to referring the matter to the Auditor General, for he don't understand it; and as the Senator from Chester had said, the Senate would be stultifying itself by such a course, and saying in effect that it was unable to take care of itself. The request made here, is simply, will you pay a debt, honestly due, or repudiate? That was the only light in which it can be regarded.

Mr. COFFEY regarded it as simply a question of evidence, upon which the Senate could more properly determine than the Auditor General. The supreme court had decided that the amount had been improperly and illegally paid, and it was simple justice that the sum thus paid should be refunded. He read from Casey's Supreme Court Reports, a report of the case with the decision, and entered into an explanation of the circumstances attending it. The payment of this amount having been agreed upon by the authorities of Chester county and the company, a case of facts was made for the court, upon which his decision was based; and yet the Senator from Philadelphia says that no proof has been adduced here of the payment. No higher proof could be offered, and he could see no reason for a refusal to refund the sum claimed.—The Senator from Philadelphia, (Mr. WRIGHT,) was never satisfied that any money should come out of the State treasury, and if he needed any better evidence than that furnished here, there was a fair prospect that but little ever would come out for the payment of claims against the State.

Mr. BELL entered into a further explanation of the bill, and a statement of the evidence of the payment of the tax by the company.

Mr. WRIGHT would call the attention of the Senate to the importance of this bill, and to the fact that if it is passed there must also be a general law, and thousands will come here with claims, taking up the whole time of the Legislature. There would be no end to it. He seriously asked the Senate if they were as able to decide upon the matter as the Auditor General? Even admitting that they had the opportunity, what time have they to hunt up and examine the testimony? If they were to undertake it, it would occupy the entire time of the Senate; and he appealed to Senators to pause before overleaping the authorities of the State. He hoped the amendment would pass.

Mr. MARSELIS had not any personal feeling on the subject. He believed the statement of the Senator from Chester, and that the money should be refunded. But this bill opens up a very great field, and the Senate should be careful; yet if claims of this kind are to be allowed, it should be done in a manner creditable to the State, and not without a knowledge of all the facts.

Mr. BELL did not wish to interfere with the freedom of debate; but as he believed the subject had been exhausted, he would move the previous question. At the request of Mr. MILLER, however, he withdrew it.

Mr. MILLER was not disposed to occupy the time of the Senate, and had not said a word during the whole progress of the debate upon the bill. He simply rose to say that he would vote, most probably, with the minority. It might seem strange to the Senator from Chester that a minority should be so persistently arrayed against so plain a proposition. Every man was entitled to his opinions upon all questions, and the course of the Senator, in ridiculing those who chose to express their opinions, had the effect to muzzle free speech—to deter many from giving utterance to the views honestly entertained. Although the amount involved is small, the principle is as important as if ten thousand dollars were at stake. He then went into a review of the evidence upon which the claim is urged, pronouncing it insufficient to warrant the Senate in passing the bill, as proposed.

Mr. WRIGHT wished to ask the Senator from Chester a question. He understood him to say that the court in Chester county had decided against the company, and the case carried up to the supreme court, by which that decision was reversed. He wished to know whether he had understood him correctly?

Mr. BELL said that he understood him correctly, and referred to the report of the case, where a full statement of the facts is given.

The hour of one having arrived, Mr. RANDALL moved to postpone the hour of adjournment, for the purpose of finally disposing of the bill under consideration.

On which, The yeas and nays were required by Mr. RANDALL and Mr. WRIGHT, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Baldwin, Bell, Coffey, Craig, Fetter, Finney, Francis, Gregg, Harris, Palmer, Parker, Penney, Randall, Rutherford, Shaeffer, Schindel, Steele, Thompson, Turney, Welsh, Yardley and Cresswell, Speaker—22.

NAYS—Messrs. Blood, Keller, Marselis, Miller, Nunnemacher and Wright—6.

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

The question recurring on the motion offered by Mr. MARSELIS,

The question being on the final passage of the bill,

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. WRIGHT and Mr. BELL, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Baldwin, Bell, Coffey, Craig, Fetter, Finney, Francis, Gregg, Palmer, Parker, Penney, Randall, Rutherford, Shaeffer, Schindel, Steele, Thompson, Turney, Welsh, Yardley and Cresswell, Speaker—21.

NAYS—Messrs. Blood, Keller, Marselis, Miller, Nunnemacher and Wright—6.

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

The Deputy Secretary of the Commonwealth being introduced, presented a message from the Governor, stating that he had approved and signed the bill abolishing the board of canal commissioners and State Engineer.

On leave given, Mr. FETTER read in place a bill, entitled "An Act to incorporate the Northumberland and Juniata railroad company."

On motion, the Senate adjourned until tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

TUESDAY, January 25, 1859.

The House was called to order at the usual hour by the SPEAKER.

Prayer was offered by the Rev. Dr. Dewitt, of the New School Presbyterian Church.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of yesterday.

On motion of Mr. GRITMAN, the reading of the same was dispensed with.

Mr. MANN moved that the rules be suspended and that the House proceed to the consideration of the act changing the place of holding elections in West Branch township, Potter county; which was agreed to; whereupon said bill was taken up, considered and passed finally; and ordered that the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Mr. WAGONSELLER, leave being granted, recorded his vote in the affirmative on the tariff resolutions, recently introduced by Mr. LAWRENCE, (Washington.)

The SPEAKER laid before the House an abstract of the receipts and disbursements of the Monongahela navigation company.

REPORT OF A COMMITTEE.

Mr. HAMERSLY, leave being given, from the select committee appointed to revise certain rules of the House, made report, which was read, accompanied with a resolution that the thirty-eighth rule of the House as amended, be adopted as a standing rule of the same, and that the usual number of copies be printed for the use of the members.

Said resolution was read the second time.

And on the question,

Shall the same pass?

Mr. HAMERSLY said that the changes contemplated by the rule were important. One of the new provisions was that no bill should be objected off the calendar during the ten days preceding the end of the session. Some of these provisions would be of great service to-day, inasmuch as the private calendar was to be considered, and for this reason the rule should be adopted.

Mr. GRITMAN fully coincided with the gentleman, as to the importance of the rule, but desired to see it in print, and understand more fully its provisions.

Mr. THORN said that the desire of his colleague, (Mr. HAMERSLY,) was certainly a correct one, as the calendar was to-day to be considered. He would have no particular objection to the postponement, however, if the House would tacitly agree that the rule, if it finally passed, should cover the proceedings of to-day.

Mr. HAMERSLY said that he would have no objection to this.

The question being taken upon the motion of Mr. GRITMAN, it was lost.

The question then recurring upon the original resolution, it was adopted.

ground that the East Pennsylvania railroad company, who were most interested, had not received due notice of its presentation or provisions. It seemed strange that residents of other counties should be allowed to construct and control a telegraph line in Berks and Lehigh counties, and that the parties who were more deeply concerned should not be consulted.

The act to authorize the appointment of Commissioners to run the boundary lines between the counties of Centre and Union, and Clinton and Centre, was objected to by Mr. WAGONSELLER, because he had had no previous knowledge of its having been introduced, and was therefore surprised to see it upon the calendar.

ALLOTMENT OF PUBLIC PRINTING.

Agreeably to order, the SPEAKER and members of the Senate were introduced for the purpose of proceeding, in conjunction with the SPEAKER and members of the House, to receive proposals for the public printing of the Commonwealth, for the term of three years from the first day of July next, agreeably to the act of Assembly regulating same.

IN CONVENTION.

The convention was called to order by the SPEAKER of the Senate.

Mr. TURNEY offered the following :

WHEREAS, Public notice has been given by the Secretary of the Commonwealth, as directed by the act of 9th April, A. D. 1856, entitled "An Act in relation to public printing," that proposals would be received until this day by the Speaker of the Senate and Speaker of the House of Representatives, for doing the public printing and binding, agreeably to the provisions of said act of 9th April, A. D. 1856; therefore

Resolved, That said proposals for doing the public printing and binding, agreeably to the provisions of the act of the 9th instant, be now opened and published, and that the public printing and binding be allotted as directed in said act of Assembly.

Said resolution was twice read, considered and adopted.

Senator FINNEY called for the reading of the act relative to public printing.

The SPEAKERS of the Senate and House of Representatives then opened and published the following proposals, viz :

Geo. Bergner & Co., 72 per cent. below prices fixed by act of April 9th, 1856.

J. C. Wiestling & Co., 62 per cent. below prices fixed by act of April 9th, 1856.

Jacob Babb, 70 3/4 per cent. below prices fixed by act of April 9th, 1856.

The SPEAKER of the Senate and the SPEAKER of the House of Representatives, in the presence of both Houses, in convention for that purpose assembled, did allot all the printing and binding to A. Boyd Hamilton, he being the lowest bidder, having bid at the rate of 76 1-16 per centum below the rates specified in the act of the 9th of April, 1856.

The SPEAKER of the Senate, and the SPEAKER of the House of Representatives, then announced that they had approved of the bond for doing all the printing and binding of the Commonwealth, a copy of which is as follows:

Witness our hands and seals, this 25th day of January, A. D. 1859

The condition of this bond is such, that if the above bounden, A. Boyd Hamilton, to whom the printing and binding are allotted, well and faithfully in all respects do and perform the same for the Commonwealth, according to the manner required to be done and performed by the act, entitled "An Act in relation to public printing," approved the 9th of April, 1856, and do faithfully perform and execute the same at the rate per centum below the rates of compensation specified in said act, according to allotment this day made, for the period of three years, then this obligation to be void, otherwise valid.

A. B. HAMILTON,
E. M. POLLOCK,
T. A. HAMILTON,
ALEX. HAMILTON,

The Clerk of the House of Representatives was directed to file the original bond in the office of the Auditor General.

On motion of Mr. TURNEY, the committee was discharged from the consideration of the above resolution, and the Senate resolved itself into committee of the whole on the same, (Mr. KELLER in the chair.)

Mr. TURNEY explained the resolution. The writ for the election of a Senator in the place of Mr. Buckalew, had been issued by the present SPEAKER of the Senate; and for serving the requisite notices, the Sergeant-At-Arms had charged $12—two dollars per day for six days—and mileage, according to law, at fifteen cents a mile.

BILLS CONSIDERED AND PASSED.

On motion of Mr. GREGG, a bill, entitled "A further supplement to an act incorporating the Tyrone and Lock Haven railroad company."

On motion of Mr. BLOOD, Senate bill No.

64, "An Act relative to the board of revision in Elk county."

Mr. TURNEY moved so to amend this bill as to make its operation general; which was agreed to.

On motion of Mr. PARKER, Senate bill No. 60, "An Act relative to pawn brokers in the city of Philadelphia."

On motion of Mr. BELL, Senate bill No. 35, "An Act to extend the power of prothonotaries and clerks to administer oaths."

Mr. MARSELIS moved to amend this bill by inserting the following words:

"Provided, It does not apply to the city and county of Philadelphia."

Mr. MARSELIS did not know, but he thought the bill might work serious difficulty. It was, so far as he understood the purport of it, interfering with the province, and tended to reduce the fees of magistrates, and to give to the prothonotaries, who are already amply provided for, additional income in their offices. There are, he said, many magistrates who barely make a living, in the discharge of the duties of their office, and he thought this interference with them, by taking away a portion of their legitimate fees, unjust and injurious.

Mr. BELL explained that the bill had passed the Senate last winter and went to the House, where for want of time it failed to receive its sanction. The simple object of the bill is to have Prothonotaries qualified to administer oaths, when the services of a magistrate cannot be readily obtained, in cases where any defect existed in papers relating to titles to real estate, &c. He was not aware that the office of magistrate was instituted for the purpose of affording a living to any man. Magistrates and aldermen, in the cities, might accept the office with a view to profit, but in the country the office is accepted by citizens merely for the accommodation of their neighbors, and for the good of the community.

Mr. SCHELL remarked that the section may be all right, but it wears upon its face the appearance of not being right. It is possible that large estates, both real and personal, may be dependent upon this section, and involving large interest may work injustice.

Mr. BELL further explained the object of the bill to be to cure any defects in affidavits made in certain cases. There could be no objection to the bill upon the ground that it is calculated to work injustice, and he hoped it would pass.

The amendment was adopted, and the bill, as amended, finally passed.

ORIGINAL RESOLUTIONS.

On leave given, Mr. COFFEY offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That 500 copies of the fifth volume of the transactions of the Pennsylvania State Agricultural Society be printed for the use of the Senate, and that the secretary of said society is hereby authorized to prepare the same for publication, provided the cost shall not exceed that of former years.

Mr. COFFEY rose in explanation of the resolution. It had been usual, heretofore, for the Senate to order a number of copies of the transactions of the society for distribution. There had already been four volumes issued and distributed, and as he understood the transactions of the society are now ready for publication, it is desirable that the present volume should be in the form of the previous volumes. It was a document which it was perfectly proper for the Legislature to distribute, as the information which it contained was of vast importance to the agricultural interests of the State. There was no document which his constituents had called upon him for more than for this, and he considered the resolution providing the Senate with them in accordance with custom, and eminently proper.

The resolution was twice read, considered and adopted.

BILLS CONSIDERED AND PASSED.

On motion of Mr. STEELE, Senate bill No. 13, "An Act incorporating the Hollenback and Hanover turnpike road company."

Mr. MYER moved the postponement of this bill. Agreed to.

BILL IN PLACE.

On leave given, Mr. SHAEFFER read in his place and presented to the chair, "A supplement to an act incorporating the Green and Coates Street passenger railroad company."

BILLS CONSIDERED AND PASSED.

On motion of Mr. PALMER, Senate bill No. 40, "A supplement to an act providing for the erection of a house of employment for the poor in Schuylkill county."

On motion of Mr. WELSH, Senate bill No. 97, "An Act relative to dogs in York county."

This bill lies over on second reading.

On motion of Mr. SCHELL, Senate bill No. 95, "An Act authorizing the school directors of the borough of Bedford to borrow money, and for other purposes."

On motion of Mr. TURNEY, Senate bill No. 101, "An Act authorizing the school directors of Uniontown, Fayette county, to borrow money."

Mr. WELSH moved to amend, by striking out the clause exempting this school property from taxation.

Mr. TURNEY thought the clause of the bill which it was proposed to strike out, was based upon safe and just principles, and that, in exempting this species of property from State taxation, for a specified period of time, the Senate would not be traveling out of the general principle to which it had adhered. If there was any system around which the strong, protecting and fostering arm of the law should be thrown, it is that of the public schools, which have told, and are continuing to tell, with so much effect upon the general interests of the State. When the revenues derived from the usual sources, for the sustenance of this important system, are insufficient, and come short of providing for the educational wants of a school district, it is no more than right that the school directors should be empowered to borrow money, from any source where it can be obtained, in order that the public schools may be sustained, and that, too, without being liable to taxation upon the amount so borrowed. The amount which the State would derive from a tax upon the amount proposed to be borrowed, is a very inconsiderable one to the State at large; but it is much to the school district. The principle of it was correct; and he was ready to vote for any bill of this character, believing, as he did, that the State should not hesitate, in any instance, to lend its fostering hand to the system which it should take so much pride in building up, and upon the success of which so much depends.

The bill, he said, simply proposed to exempt the amount from taxation for a certain period. If, at the expiration of that period, the money is not paid, it is liable to the same burthen as is imposed upon all other moneys subject to taxation. He believed there was great merit in the bill; and it was but a simple act of justice that the State should lend its fostering care to all purposes where a general good was contemplated. The same liberality should, at least, be extended to the common schools, as has been frequently extended to other interests by the Legislature—to cemeteries, to institutions for the insane, the halt, the blind, which do not contribute one dollar to the treasury of the State. The passage of this bill would be no infringement upon the general principle. By that principle, school houses are exempt from taxation, and yet it is proposed by this amendment to tax the money which is borrowed for the purpose of erecting a school house. When the school directors are compelled to resort to other means than legitimate taxation, for the purpose of sustaining the public schools, he considered it but just that the amounts actually demanded to sustain the system should be exempt from the burthen imposed in other cases. It was not right for the State, when the school district was not embarrassed, to lay its broad palm upon it, with the crushing effects which will result from the amendment of the section as proposed.

Mr. WELSH remarked that the object which he had in view in offering the amendment had been attained. He merely wished to bring the question before the Senate, that it may decide whether cases of this kind should be liable to the usual taxation, or exempted. He agreed with the Senator from Westmoreland, that the State should extend its fostering hand to the public school system, in every way possible, not inconsistent with the principles of right. He had always voted against any proposition to exempt the property of any company or corporation from taxation, and he should continue to vote against it. But in the present case, we have a different principle presented, and he was glad that the Senate had an opportunity to decide upon the question which had been raised by his amendment.

Mr. HARRIS remarked that the Senate had passed a bill similar to this a few days ago.—He agreed with the Senators who had preceded him, as to the duty of the State in lending its fostering hand to the common school system of the State, and he hoped the bill would pass without the amendment.

The amendment was not agreed to.

Mr. SCHELL moved to re-commit Senate bill No. 95, for the purpose of inserting the amendment stricken out by the committee, exempting school property in Bedford county from taxation.

On the question, will the Senate agree to the motion? It was decided in the affirmative, and the bill passed as amended.

On motion of Mr. PALMER, House bill No. 106, "An Act changing the place of holding elections in West Branch township, Potter county."

Mr. PALMER presented a preamble to said bill, for the purpose of obviating the Governor's objections to such acts; which was adopted.

On motion of Mr. CRAIG, Senate bill No. 98, "An Act relative to the destruction of fish in M'Michaels creek."

The hour of one having arrived, the SPEAKER adjourned the Senate until to-morrow morning at 11 o'clock.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

WEDNESDAY, Jan. 26, 1859.

The House was called to order at the usual hour by the SPEAKER.

Prayer was offered by the Rev. Charles A. Hay, of the Lutheran Church, Harrisburg, Pa.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of yesterday; when,

On motion of Mr. MANN, the reading of the same was dispensed with.

The SPEAKER laid before the House a communication from the Attorney General, transmitting the estimated contingent expenses of that department—and recommending the increase of the salary of the Clerk from $500 to $800 per annum. (Referred to Committee on Ways and Means.)

Agreeably to order, the House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of bills on Private Calendar. The following were accordingly taken up and passed finally; and ordered that the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence:

No. 91. "An Act to incorporate the Ironton railroad and mining company in Lehigh county."

"A further supplement to the act to incorporate the Erie city railroad," came up in order.

Mr. LAIRD moved to amend the same, by adding the following; which was agreed to:

Provided, That the rights and privileges here- by conferred, shall be forfeited, unless the said railroad company shall have, within two years from the passage of this act, graded, bridged and completed, ready for the superstructure, at least ten miles of the road within the county of Erie.

Said bill was then read the second and third time, and passed finally.

"A further supplement to the act incorporating the Pittsburg and Erie railroad company," came up in order, and was read the second time.

Mr. LAIRD moved that the bill be postponed for the present.

Mr. ROSE hoped that no such postponement would take place, and did not know why it was proposed. The object of the bill was merely to extend the charter of the company. The gentleman from Erie, (Mr. LAIRD,) should have stated his reasons for postponement. There were many reasons why the bill should be passed at once; and to illustrate these, he would narrate a portion of the history of the Pittsburg and Erie railroad company.

The Pittsburg and Erie railroad company was originally chartered in 1846, and the last section of the act of incorporation, set forth that if the construction of the road was not commenced within the succeeding five years, and completed within ten years—or, if after having been constructed, it was suffered to go into decay and be impassable for the term of two years, the charter should be null and void.

In 1854 a supplement was passed extending the charter until the 20th day of April, 1859. In view of the approach of this latter period it is necessary that, at the present session of the Legislature, another extension be granted—otherwise the company will lose all the money they have expended in the construction of the road. But there is another and stronger reason why their charter should be extended. At the last session of the Legislature an act was passed incorporating a new company, called the "Erie and Pittsburg railroad company;" the position which they assumed was necessarily antagonistic to the old corporation. When the bill was pending in the House, the speaker had offered no objection, except to protect the rights of the old company.

In support of the Pittsburg and Erie railroad company, the county of Mercer had issued bonds to the amount of $150,000—$70,000 worth of these bonds were cancelled by a decision of the supreme court—but $80,000 worth were allowed to remain, in consequence of having been transferred and used in the construction of a portion of the road—and, in addition to this, private individuals had also subscribed large amounts of money, and pledged their property as a security for the payment—and in fact some of them were on the very verge of insolvency on account of the failure of the enterprise.

In view of these facts, when the act for the incorporation of the new "Erie and Pittsburg railroad company" was proposed last session, the speaker had offered an amendment; which was agreed to. This amendment made it incumbent upon the new company, in continuing their road south from Jamestown, in the county of Mercer, to occupy the railroad bed of the main line of the Pittsburg and Erie railroad company already graded, or in part graded, by and with the consent of the said Pittsburg and Erie railroad company; and to pay to the said company such sum as they could agree upon for work done, right of way, fencing, and the moneys necessarily expended in the prosecution of the work done upon that portion of the main line of said road. The bill, thus amended, passed both branches of the Legislature, and was signed by the Governor; and here the matter rested until a few days before the close of the session, when a supplement was offered and hurried through both Houses, without even going to its appropriate committee, completely repealing and nullifying the amendment to the original bill, and leaving it optional with the new company to follow the line of the old company's road or not, as they should find it convenient. The effect of this supplement had been to place the old company at the mercy of the new; and just as the speaker had predicted at the time, the new company, when waited upon by the old company in reference to a compromise, offered a certain sum, not one half what the work done by the old company is really worth, and asserted that if the old company would not accept that sum, they had the power, and would build a new road along side of the one already graded by the old company.

A whole summer had been spent in fruitless negotiations, and now as the charter of the old company expired on the 20th day of April next, it was the evident intention of their antagonists to postpone the matter until after that time—and then the old company would either be compelled to take a trifling sum for their work or lose the whole of it. Some fifteen miles of the road had been graded by the old company in Mercer county, and almost ready for the rails; a large amount of money had been expended, including $80,000 of the bonds of the county, in which every tax-payer in the county had an interest.

The speaker concluded, by appealing to the members if they would suffer any set of corporators, some of whom were not residents of the State, to rob and swindle his constituents in this manner.

Mr. LAIRD said that he did not wish to be understood as objecting to the bill; but was desirous of such a postponement as would allow him time to confer with his constituents and obtain their views.

Mr. ROSE said that the same argument had been used by the new company during the whole of last summer. The corporation of the Erie and Pittsburgh railroad company knew that the old company's charter would expire in April, and that an improper delay was their only object. The extension of the charter, as was proposed, would neither affect the constituents of the gentleman from Erie, (Mr. LAIRD,) nor would it retard, in any manner, the completion of the road, and trusted that the House would take immediate action, and pass the bill at once.

The question being taken, the motion to postpone was decided in the negative.

The bill then passed finally.

BILLS POSTPONED.

On motion of Messrs. GOEPP, WILLISTON and ROSE, the following bills were severally postponed for the present:

"An Act to extend to the county of Northampton the provisions of the act approved May 7, 1857, relative to the increase of pay of jurors and witnesses in the Commonwealth."

"An Act in relation to the railroad between Chambersburg and Hagerstown."

"An Act repealing part of an act declaring Big Sandy creek, Venango county, a public highway."

ORIGINAL RESOLUTIONS.

Mr. WARDEN submitted a resolution that 3000 copies of the report of the Auditor General on the Finances of the State, be printed for the use of the members.

Said resolution was read the second time,

And on the question,

Shall the same pass?

Mr. WALBORN said that, as he understood it, the law in existence already required that each member should receive thirty copies. He had received but seven, and was under the impression that no greater number had been distributed. He desired to know whether the House, if they passed the resolution as proposed, would not be paying twice for the same thing.

Mr. WARDEN said that the law in reference to the distribution of thirty copies applied only to the Bank report, and not to the report of the Auditor General.

Mr. WALBORN thought that it applied to both, and that the order was that 7000 copies should be regularly printed for both Houses.

Mr. WARDEN had been informed by the Auditor General himself, that the law referred only to the Bank report, but if he was convinced otherwise, would cheerfully withdraw his motion.

Mr. WALBORN reasserted the correctness of what he had stated.

Mr. MANN moved that the further consideration of the subject be postponed for the present; which was agreed to.

Mr. SMITH, (Philadelphia,) offered a resolution, that the resolution adopted a few days since, excluding Mr. C. M. Donovan from the floor of the House, be and the same is hereby rescinded, and that said Donovan be restored to all the privileges of an ex-member of this House.

And on the question,

Will the House proceed to the second reading of the same?

Mr. ABBOTT asked leave to make a statement. He had endeavored, by a proposition which he had made a few days since, to arrange this matter amicably, and desired to know now whether the two parties had made any agreement. Otherwise, there was no use in considering the subject, for the House had twice voted on the question.

The question recurring,

Shall the said resolution be read the second time?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. SMITH, (Philadelphia,) and Mr. GOOD, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Bertolet, Boyer, (Clearfield,) Brodhead, Custer, Dismant, Evans, Fisher, Fleming, Foster, Galley, Glatz, Goepf, Good, Gritman, Hamersly, Hill, Hottenstine, Jackson, Ketchum, Laird, Oaks, Pennell, Porter, Pugh, Quigley, Rohrer, Rose, Shields, Smith, (Berks,) Smith, (Philadelphia,) Stephens, Stuart, Thorn, Warden, Wilcox, Wolf and Woodring—37.

NAYS—Messrs. Abbott, Acker, Balliet, Barnsley, Bayard, Boyer, (Schuylkill,) Bryson, Burley, Campbell, Dodds, Durboraw, Eckman, Ellmaker, Fearon, Graham, Gratz, Green, Irish, Keneagy, Kinney, Mann, Mehaffey, M'Curdy, Miller, Neall, Palm, Patterson, Peirce, Ramsdell, Rouse, Shaffer, Sheppard, Smead, Styer, Taylor, Wagonseller, Walborn, Walker, Witman, Wigton, Wiley, Williams, (Bedford,) Williams, (Bucks,) Williston, Wilson, Withrow, Zoller and Lawrence, Speaker—48.

So the question was determined in the negative.

Mr. FOSTER offered a resolution that 5,000 copies of the report of the commissioners appointed at the last session of the Legislature to investigate the affairs of certain banks, be printed for the use of the House.

Mr. GRATZ moved to amend the same, by reducing the number to 3,000; which was agreed to.

Mr. WILCOX moved to amend the amendment, by printing 2,000 in English, and 1,000 in German; which was agreed to.

The question recurring,

Shall said resolution pass as amended?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. WILLISTON and Mr. WILLIAMS, (Bucks,) and were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Acker, Bayard, Boyer, (Clearfield,) Campbell, Custer, Evans, Foster, Goepf, Green, Gritman, Hamersly, Jackson, Ketchum, Laird, M'Dowell, Miller, Neall, Oaks, Patterson, Peirce, Porter, Price, Pugh, Quigley, Sheppard, Smith, (Philadelphia,) Stephens, Wagonseller, Wilson, Woodring and Zoller—31.

NAYS—Messrs. Abbott, Balliet, Barnsley,

Bertolet, Boyer, (Schuylkill,) Bryson, Burley, Dismant, Dodds, Durboraw, Eckman, Ellmaker, Fearon, Fisher, Fleming, Galley, Glatz, Good, Graham, Gratz, Hill, Hottenstine, Irish, Keneagy, Kinney, Lawrence, (Washington,) Mann, Mehaffey, M'Curdy, Palm, Pennell, Pinkerton, Ramsdell, Rohrer, Rouse, Shaffer, Shields, Smead, Smith, (Berks,) Stuart, Styer, Taylor, Thompson, Thorn, Walker, Warden, Whitman, Wigton, Wilcox, Wiley, Williams, (Bedford,) Williams, (Bucks,) Williston, Withrow and Wolf—55.

So the question was determined in the negative.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

Mr. DISMANT asked and obtained leave of absence for Mr. STONEBACK, for a few days from to-day.

BILLS CONSIDERED.

Mr. BRYSON moved that the Committee on Judiciary be discharged from the further consideration of "An Act supplementary to an act relative to the collection of taxes in Lawrence county," and that the House proceed to the consideration of the same; which was agreed to.

Said bill was then taken up, considered and passed finally.

Mr. ACKER moved to amend by adding the following to the end of the sixth line of the second section; which was agreed to:

Provided, That farmers renting stalls in said market, shall not be prohibited from selling meat or meats in such quantities as they may deem proper.

Said bill was then read the second time,

And on the question,

Shall the rule be suspended, and the same be read the third time?

It was determined in the affirmative; thirty-two gentlemen voting affirmatively and twenty-four negatively.

Mr. PENNELL rose to a point of order. He said that he was under the impression that it took a two-third vote of all the members present to suspend a rule.

The SPEAKER decided that two-thirds had so voted.

The question now being,

Shall said bill pass?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. JACKSON and Mr. PENNELL, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS.—Messrs. Abbott, Acker, Bayard, Boyer, (Clearfield,) Boyer, (Schuylkill,) Bryson, Burley, Campbell, Church, Dodds, Durboraw, Eckman, Ellmaker, Evans, Fearon, Fisher, Foster, Graham, Gratz, Green, Gritman, Hamersly, Hill, Irish, Keneagy, Ketchum, Kinney, Laird, Lawrence, (Washington,) Mann, Mehaffoy, M'Curdy, M'Dowell, Miller, Neall, Oaks, Palm, Patterson, Peirce, Pinkerton, Pugh, Ramsdell, Rohrer, Rose, Rouse, Shafer, Sheppard, Shields, Styer, Taylor, Thompson, Thorn, Wagonseller, Walborn, Walker, Whitman, Wilcox, Wilcy, Williams, (Bedford,) Williams, (Bucks,) Williston, Wilson, Withrow, Zoller and Lawrence, Speaker—65.

Mr. MILLER called up Senate bill No. 80, "An Act to change the time for holding spring elections in the borough of Titusville, Crawford county;" which was considered and passed finally.

Mr. BRYSON, on leave, read in place "An Act relating to the taking of depositions." (Referred to Committee on Judiciary.)

Mr. HAMERSLY, "A supplement to an act to incorporate the Second and Third Street passenger railway company of Philadelphia."

Mr. WILEY said that the original charter that had been granted to the road, provided that it should be extended northward to a certain point. The supplement which was proposed, was to oblige the company to fulfil this part of their contract.

The bill being upon its final passage,

Mr. SMITH, (Berks,) wanted to know how far it would increase the privileges of the company?

Mr. HAMERSLY said that it was merely to enable the company to fulfil a duty which should have long since have been accomplished.

Mr. PRICE thought that the bill was probably put forward under disguise.

Mr. GRITMAN doubted this.

Mr. SHEPPARD moved a postponement; agreed to.

The hour of one having arrived, the SPEAKER adjourned the House until to-morrow morning at 11 o'clock.

Mr. SCHELL offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Commonwealth be requested to communicate to the Senate, a statement containing the names and locations of the several charitable and benevolent institutions which have received appropriations from the State, together with the several amounts appropriated each year to each of said institutions; and also, a brief compilation of the several acts of assembly, providing for the admission of certain unfortunate people of the Commonwealth, into said institutions.

This resolution was laid on the table, under the rule.

On motion of Mr. TURNEY, the Journal of the Board of Canal Commissioners was ordered to be printed in the Record.

HOUSE AMENDMENTS

Senate bill No. 23, "An Act to incorporate the Western market company," as amended by the House, was brought before the Senate.

Mr. WRIGHT moved that the Senate concur.

Mr. BELL moved to postpone further consideration for the present.

Mr. BELL explained that he had not seen the printed bill, and had not examined it himself. It might have been printed, for aught he knew.

Mr. RANDALL rejoined that the bill had been printed and placed on the Senate file of each member; and if the Senator had not examined it, it was his own fault, and not of the Senate or of any one else.

Mr. FINNEY understood the bill to involve a simple principle—to enable the city of Philadelphia to get rid of its old, antiquated and ridiculous market sheds, and to adopt some other plan than that of selling out of cart-tails and on curb-stones. This, it appeared, did not suit the old fogy notions of a portion of the people represented by the Senator from Chester. He believed the bill asked for, was demanded by the interests of the people of Philadelphia, and he should, therefore, vote against the proposition to postpone.

Mr. BELL replied. He did not represent any antiquated notions, nor a people who are in favor of selling their marketing on curb-stones or from cart-tails. A very large class of those whom he had the honor to represent, were farmers, whose interests were, probably, as great as those of Philadelphia itself, in the provisions of this bill.

Mr. FINNEY explained. He had made no charge that the Senator represented antiquated notions. It was simply the old fogy principle which was involved in the objections to the bill, to which he had made allusion.

Mr. BELL wished to explain the features of the bill, and the position which he and his constituents occupied with reference to it.

Mr. RANDALL rose to a question of order, as to whether the gentleman could proceed with the discussion of the merits of the bill, upon the motion to postpone?

Mr. BELL hoped the bill would be allowed to lay over, in order to allow the Senate an opportunity to examine its provisions.

Mr. RANDALL was at all times willing to do anything in his power to gratify the Senator from Chester, but in this instance, he was compelled to oppose his request. It was important that the bill should pass now, and he hoped it would not be prevented by any objections on the part of the Senator. It was illiberal in the Senator to ask it, when those alone affected by it are unanimous in its favor.

Mr. BELL remarked that an association, which had not yet their building under roof, have come here with an act of incorporation, and ask that the Legislature shall pass it hurriedly, without even the necessary time to have it printed, and for the proper investigation of its provisions. He had understood that the bill had been prepared in a great hurry, and there was doubt as to whether it fully answered the object contemplated by it. Its postponement for twenty-four hours could affect neither the interest of the parties, or detract from the merits of the bill itself; and yet he had been told by the Senator from Philadelphia that it was illiberal in him to ask its postponement for that purpose—illiberal in the representative of a large constituency, who are interested in it, to ask for that which is uniformly granted as a common courtesy!

Mr. RANDALL would like the Senator from Chester to answer how he would receive any interference or objections on the part of Senators from the city of Philadelphia, or elsewhere, in any project to build market houses in the town of Chester? But the Senator has said he had not been afforded an opportunity of examining the bill—that it had not been printed, but hurriedly passed through the Senate and House. In that he was in error. The bill had been printed, and had received the deliberate action of both branches.

The SPEAKER suggested to Mr. BELL that he should confine himself as closely as possible to the question before the Senate. The merit of the bill were not debatable on the motion to postpone.

Mr. BELL remarked that he was simply giving a statement of facts in explanation of the bill, and not discussing its merits. The farmers of several counties, including Delaware and Chester, who have been in the habit of attending the Philadelphia markets, and of vending in the regular market stalls, are largely interested in this matter. A building was in course of erection at the corner of Sixteenth and Market Streets, to take the place of the old market sheds, and before it has been placed under roof an application has been made for an act of incorporation. The bill had passed the Senate without discussion, was sent to the House, and after a slight amendment was passed hurriedly there. That body, he understands, is now calling for the bill, for the purpose of further amendment. He had been requested, by some of those whose interests are affected by it, to arrest its passage here; and yet, when it is called up, and a request is made that it lay over for a few hours, for the purpose of affording an opportunity to examine it, the request is pronounced unreasonable. There was nothing unreasonable in it—nothing but a simple courtesy as well as right. It was not for himself that he requested it, but for the large class of farmers whom he represents. There was no necessity for this hurried action, unless there was something behind it, which he was not willing to believe.

The question being on the motion of Mr. BELL.

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. BELL and Mr. RANDALL, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Baldwin, Bell, Coffey, Francis, Gazzam, Keller, Miller, Myer, Palmer, Penney, Rutherford, Shaeffer, Thompson and Yardley—14.

NAYS—Messrs. Blood, Fetter, Finney, Harris, Marselis, Nunnemacher, Parker, Randall, Schindel, Steele, Turney, Welsh, Wright and Cresswell, Speaker—14.

So the question was determined in the negative.

The motion of Mr. WRIGHT was then agreed to.

On motion of Mr. FINNEY, House amendments to the bill relative to the Erie city railroad, lie over.

BILLS ON SECOND READING.

Senate bill No. 97, "An Act relative to dogs in York county," was taken up.

Mr. SCHELL wished some explanation of the bill. So far as he understood it, the object is to make dogs subjects of larceny. He was opposed to this, by merely having dogs registered, without having them designated as property, by collars, or some other mark.

Mr. WELSH believed that the Senator from Bedford was in his seat yesterday, when the act of Assembly with reference to the matter was read. That contained all the information he was prepared to give, and it was upon that act that the present bill was based.

The bill was then passed finally; the title being so amended as to read, "for the protection of dogs in York county."

BILLS CONSIDERED AND PASSED.

On motion of Mr. FINNEY, Senate bill No. 109, "An Act relative to collection of taxes and for other purposes, in Crawford county."

On motion of Mr. BELL, Senate bill No. 27, "A supplement to an act relative to executors and administrators." This bill lies over on 2d reading.

The Clerk of the House being introduced, presented an extract from the Journal of the House, requesting the Senate to return the bill, entitled "An Act to incorporate the Western market company."

Mr. BELL moved to re-consider the vote of the Senate on House amendments, to said bill.

Mr. RANDALL moved to postpone the motion to re-consider indefinitely.

Mr. WRIGHT said that was easier said than done. The bill had been passed by the House by a vote of sixty-five to twenty, and had been sent back to the Senate, where it had received its concurrence. It was not now in the hands of the Senate, and could not be sent back, unless the vote by which it had passed was re-considered.

Mr. RANDALL did not wish to reflect upon the House or any member of it, nor would he so reflect; but he had not been blind to the influences which had been at work to prevent the passage of this bill, in the lobby and outside.—There had been no objection to the bill, on the part of the city delegation, with one exception, and it had received the sanction of the House by a large majority. The objects of the bill were simple and unobjectionable, and he must object to this unusual, unheard of course of legislation. He would not allow, with his vote, any measure to pass hurriedly through the Senate; and although he had been charged, in a city weekly paper, with having "snaked" this bill through, he appealed to the Senators if he had ever exhibited indecent haste in urging upon this body any bill. This act, he said, had been passed in the regular way, had been reported, read and printed, and every possible opportunity afforded to Senators and others to examine its provisions.

What, he asked, can be the object of this request of the House? If its return is desired for the purpose of amendment, cannot that be as well done here as in the House of Representatives? The Senate was not rightfully called upon to send back a bill to the House, which had been passed in the regular form in that body, and which has received the concurrence of the Senate. If there is anything wrong in the bill, he continued, let the Senator from Chester indicate it; but he asked if the Senate would not lower itself by complying with a request, made without any show of reason or precedent?

Mr. BELL rejoined, that the Senator from Philadelphia had made the most extraordinary proposition which it had ever been his fortune to hear—that a co-ordinate branch of the Legislature would lower itself by acceding to a request made by the other. He challenged the production of a single instance, in the legislative history of Pennsylvania, where a request had been refused, or where, within one hour, the bill requested to be sent back had not been returned. He asked the Senate whether they were prepared to say to the House of Representatives of Pennsylvania, we will not grant your request—you have no right to demand it!

As respects the bill itself, he knew nothing with regard to it, save that which was patent on its face. He knew only that some of his constituents had come here and asked him to arrest the bill, in order that they may be satisfied that it answers the object desired. He advocated a return of the bill to the House, not with a view of defeating it, but simply in compliance with a respectful request made by that body, and in compliance with the wish of his constituents. What objection, he asked, could there be to returning the bill to the House, in order that they may look at it, and if there is anything wrong, repair it? To the respectful request that it shall be sent back, shall the Senate tell them, contemptuously, no; you shall not have it—we have passed the bill, and we will not return it? Will the Senate, composed of thirty-three men, presumed to be selected for their integrity and intelligence, say to their brethren of the other House—who are more immediately elected by the people, and who more directly represent their views—you shall not have it in your hands, because you have once passed it, and sent it here for our concurrence? He only desired that the Senate shall tender to the other branch that honor and respect which is due them. The motion to return the bill was simply made for the purpose of affording the House an opportunity of examining it, and making such amendments as it required. They were entitled to the ready compliance of the Senate in honor and courtesy.

Mr. WRIGHT considered the question a somewhat complicated one. He understood that the bill had already been transcribed and put in the hands of the Governor for his signature. It would require a joint resolution to call it back from the Governor; which he considered entirely unnecessary.

As to the merits of the bill, he was free to confess, there were a few features in it which did not meet with his approbation; yet in the main he was in favor of it. All that the parties desired, was to have a charter to build a market house, to answer the wants of the community, in lieu of the old sheds, which are to be removed. Previous to asking for an act of incorporation, they had expended a large sum for the purchase of a suitable lot, and other preliminaries to the erection of their building. The bill extending to them the privileges asked for, had received the approbation of the entire delegation from the city; and upon the vote to re-consider it in the House, to-day, there was only one member of that delegation in favor of it. So far as the butchers were concerned, he believed them to be as honorable a set of men as any other. An effort had been made to squeeze money out of them to procure the passage of the bill; and they had been sought, requested and threatened in the house and out of it—at home and elsewhere—for the purpose of laying them under contribution.—He fully exonerated the House from any dishonorable motive in regard to the matter; but there were parties who had pressed the company to the wall, for the purpose of obtaining money from them.

Before closing his remarks, he would state that the grant to this company could not possibly be a monopoly. Three other companies will be here this winter asking for the same acts of incorporation—demanded by necessity, in the removal of the market sheds of the city. The company did not desire an exclusive monopoly. The enterprise may even prove a failure; but it is one in which many persons were interested, among them farmers of Delaware and Chester counties, who were stockholders. He hoped the Senate would not stultify itself by re-considering the bill, thereby giving countenance to the outside pressure which had been used, and which was ever ready to be used, to secure the passage of measures by the Legislature.

Mr. GREGG remarked that the whole thing was to him just about as clear as mud, and he rose to ask for information. He did not see how the bill could be properly before the Senate, or how the discussion upon it was in order.

The SPEAKER explained the question as it was before the Senate, and remarked that the debate was in order.

Mr. FINNEY said that there was one view, alone, in which the question was presented to the Senate. He simply found before it a bill to incorporate a company for the purpose of erecting a market house in the city of Philadelphia, which was demanded by the necessities of the people. There was no interference with others—the rights of no one were intruded upon; but without any dissent on the part of the delegates from the city, the bill had been passed, extending to them the simple privilege desired. If there was anything wrong in the bill, why did not the House intimate to the Senate, when sending a request that it should be returned, what that wrong is? There should, certainly, be some reason assigned, why, after its passage in both the House and Senate, it should be re-considered and returned. It was strange that objections should be raised to it by the Senator of another district, when it had received the concurrent support of the city representatives here, in both branches. If the Senator from Chester had any objections to the bill, he should be able to put them in proper form. It had been passed without fraud, in the usual deliberate way, had been printed, read and considered, and yet the Senator asks that it may be arrested and sent back to the House, without any other reason being assigned than that some of his constituents think there may be objections to some of its provisions.

Mr. BELL explained that he had made no such allegation. The reason why he had asked that the bill may be returned, is simply because the House of Representatives had desired it.

Mr. FINNEY, in continuation, remarked that that did not alter the question at all. The simple fact that the House sent a request here, furnishes no reason why it should be returned, after having been passed by this body. They had no right to demand a return, and simple courtesy to the Senate required that the request should be accompanied with a reason.—For himself, he did not feel bound to take every step asked for by the House; and in this instance, he thinks it but just that some good reason should be furnished for the demand.—He considered the bill perfectly harmless, and unless some reason can be assigned, other than that given by the Senator from Chester, why the bill should be returned, he should vote against the motion. So far as any discourtesy is concerned, he did not consider it disrespectful in the Senate to take possession of any bill and exercise its own judgment with regard to it. If he was ever discourteous himself, it may be the fault of education or breeding; but when he was prepared to vote, as a Senator, it was his right to do so, without having his motives questioned or impugned. He was opposed to these delays in the passage of local bills, for the alleged purpose of investigation. They had grown too frequent, and it was time that the Senate should be more prompt in its action.

Mr. RANDALL observed that the Senator from Crawford had so much more plainly and ably stated the question than he could hope to do, that he was not disposed to trouble the Senate with anything further upon it. He could not avoid, however, making a single remark.—The Senator from Chester does not rest his objections on anything which is wrong in the bill. He says it may be all right, just and proper; yet when he had asserted, for the information of the Senator, that his constituents had been kindly provided for, and that there was nothing to which any reasonable objection could be taken by them to the bill, he asks that its passage may be delayed, in order that an opportunity may be afforded for examination. He could not but regard the request as an unreasonable one, and he hoped it would not be acceded to by the Senate.

Mr. BELL repeated what he had said before, and what he was compelled to repeat now.—Neither he nor his constituents had presented a request for the return of the bill. It had been made by the House of Representatives, and the simple question was whether the Senate would be courteous enough to accede to that request, or refuse it. It was a request which had never been refused, from the origin of this body to the present hour; and shall the Senate refuse it now? Shall we say, scornfully and contemptuously, to a co-ordinate branch of the Legislature, that we will not comply with a request, courteously made?

The Senator from Crawford intimates that because this is a bill affecting only local interests, that other Senators have no right to interfere in its passage. And yet, it appears, the Senator himself, has come to the rescue of a local bill. He cared not whether the question was a local or general one; he considered it his duty to investigate it.—He did not represent a single or local interest, he represented every part and every interest of Pennsylvania. This bill did affect, and largely too, the interests of his constituents; and although there had been no reason assigned for its return to the House, the simple fact that a request has been made pre-supposes a reason. Shall the Senate send to the House requesting it to furnish a reason? If we did so, they might say to us, "None of your insults;" for it would be an insult thus to treat with discourtesy their request, appropriately made.—He knew nothing of the bill, but it was enough for him to know that the House have preferred a request which the Senate dare not, (he said it advisedly,) dare not refuse, without a violation of legal and parliamentary propriety.

The hour of one having arrived while Mr. BELL was speaking, the SPEAKER requested him to suspend his remarks, retaining the floor for to-morrow.

The Senate was then adjourned until to-morrow morning at 11 o'clock.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

THURSDAY, January 27, 1859.

The House was called to order by the SPEAKER.

Prayer was offered by the Rev. Charles A. Hay, of the Lutheran Church, Harrisburg.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of yesterday.

Mr. CHURCH moved that the further reading of the same be dispensed with.

Mr. PENNELL said that in the Patriot and Union of this morning, in reference to the market bill, which was yesterday before the House—

The SPEAKER interrupted the gentleman by inquiring whether he was about to speak upon the motion before the House?

Mr. PENNELL. I thought that I had the floor.

Mr. WILLIAMS, (Bucks.) I hope that the reading of the Journal will not be dispensed with, but that it will be read this and every other morning. The allegation has been made by gentlemen that the printer of the Record does not give us true accounts, and by the reading of the Journal, if there are any errors, the House will be able to correct them.

The motion to dispense with the reading of the Journal was not agreed to, and the Clerk concluded.

Mr. PENNELL asked leave to make a statement. Leave being given, he said that in the Patriot and Union of this morning, he found the vote recorded which had been taken yesterday upon the final passage of Senate bill No. 23, entitled "An Act to incorporate the Western market company." He asked that this vote should be put upon the Journal of the House.

The SPEAKER. How does the gentleman propose to do it?

Mr. PENNELL. By a motion to that effect.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk informs me that the vote, as recorded in the paper alluded to, is not correct. Will the gentleman make some motion?

Mr. PENNELL. I will then move that the vote be placed upon the Journal.

Mr. LAWRENCE, (Washington.) Were the yeas and nays called?

The SPEAKER. They were not. The object of the gentleman from Delaware, (Mr.

PENNELL,) can only be accomplished by a motion to re-consider the vote by which the bill was yesterday passed.

Mr. WILLIAMS, (Bucks.) I will make a motion to that effect.

Mr. THORN. Is the bill now in possession of the House, or has it been taken out?

The SPEAKER. I am informed that it has gone to the Senate.

Mr. THORN. Then it cannot be re-considered.

Mr. PENNELL. I am instructed to say, that if necessary, it will be sent back, and will make a motion to that effect, if it cannot be done otherwise.

The SPEAKER. It can be done.

Mr. WILLIAMS, (Bucks.) We of the border counties of Philadelphia feel a deep interest in this matter, and as the gentleman from Delaware, (Mr. PENNELL,) is not satisfied that his constituents have been sufficiently cared for and represented, I hope that the members from the rural districts will let the vote come up for re-consideration. What kind of use is there in putting bills through which are relative to Philadelphia, at a two-forty rate, and to make motions that the rules be suspended and such bills passed instant? I hope that a re-consideration will take place.

Mr. THORN supposed that when the House suspended the rules yesterday, and passed the bill, they knew what they were about, even if the gentleman from Bucks, (Mr. WILLIAMS,) did not exactly understand the matter.

Mr. HAMERSLY rose to a point of order. The bill could not be re-considered if it was in the hands of the Senate.

The SPEAKER. It can be done, by a motion to that effect, even after it has gone into the hands of the Senate.

Mr. HAMERSLY. It must be done before.

The SPEAKER. The motion to re-consider the vote is in order.

On the motion to re-consider, the yeas and nays were required by Mr. WILLIAMS, (Bucks,) and Mr. ECKMAN, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS.—Messrs. Acker, Balliet, Barnsley, Bayard, Bertiolet, Boyer, (Schuylkill,) Brodhead, Bryson, Campbell, Custer, Dismant, Dodds, Durboraw, Eckman, Ellmaker, Fleming, Galley, Glatz, Good, Graham, Hill, Hottentstine, Jackson, Ketchum, Kinney, Laird, Lawrence, (Washington,) Mann, Mehaffey, M'Curdy, Oaks, Palm, Pennell, Peirce, Pinkerton, Porter, Price, Quigley, Ramsdell, Rouse, Shaffer, Smead, Smith, (Berks,) Smith, (Philadelphia,) Stephens, Taylor, Thompson, Wagon-seller, Walker, Warden, Whitman, Wigton, Williams, (Bedford,) Williams, (Bucks,) Wilson, Withrow, Wolf, Woodring and Lawrence. Speaker—59.

NAYS.—Messrs. Abbott, Church, Evans, Fearon, Fisher, Foster, Gratz, Gray, Green, Hamersly, Harding, Irish, Keneagy, M'Clain, M'Dowell, Miller, Pugh, Rohrer, Rose, Shepard, Shields, Styer, Thorn, Walborn, Wiley, Williston, Wood and Zoller—28.

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

The question again recurring,

Shall said bill pass?

On motion of Mr. PENNELL, the further consideration of the same was postponed for the present.

Mr. LAWRENCE, (Washington,) offered a resolution that the Senate be respectfully requested to return said bill to the House; which was read the second time.

Mr. LAWRENCE said that if the bill was to be returned from the Senate, a request must be made in the decorous manner contemplated by his resolution.

Mr. HAMERSLY said that the passage of the resolution would accomplish nothing, inasmuch as the Governor could not return the bill to the House, when it had originally come from the Senate.

The SPEAKER. The bill, I understand, has not yet gone to the Governor, but is in the Senate.

Mr. HAMERSLY. I am informed by a member that the bill has gone to the Governor for his signature.

Mr. LAWRENCE, (Washington.) If the gentleman, upon his honor, will make this statement, I will withdraw the resolution.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman cannot withdraw his resolution. It is in the hands of the House.

Mr. HAMERSLY. I will not assert positively, but have been so informed. I think it is decidedly out of order to re-consider it when it is not in the House.

Mr. THORN. My colleague from Philadelphia, (Mr. HAMERSLY,) has said just what I intended to say, when I was decided out of order by the SPEAKER, although I had only said, "Mr. SPEAKER."

Mr. SMITH, (Berks,) asserted positively that the bill was in the hands of the Senate, and had not gone to the Governor.

Mr. LAWRENCE, (Washington,) I hope that the resolution will pass.

And the resolution passed finally.

BILLS IN PLACE.

Mr. FISHER, leave being given at this time, read in his place and presented to the Chair, "A supplement to the act incorporating the Railroad car spring manufacturing company." (Referred to Committee on Corporations.)

Mr. HOTTENSTINE, "An Act changing the venue of a certain action from Union to Northumberland county." (Referred to Committee on Judiciary.)

Mr. M'DOWELL, "An Act relative to ordinances in the city of Allegheny."

Mr. MILLER, "An Act to provide for the erection of a new county, to be called Marion, out of parts of Crawford, Warren and Venango counties." (Referred to Committee on New Counties and County Seats.)

Mr. PINKERTON moved that the rules be suspended, and that the House proceed to the consideration of the bill just read by Mr. HOTTENSTINE.

Mr. PATTERSON hoped not. He wished to see the bill remain in the hands to which it had been referred. He desired the committee should ascertain the facts in the case.

The question being taken, it was determined in the negative.

Mr. WALBORN offered a resolution that the Committee on Printing be requested to inquire what documents, and the number of copies thereof, each member is entitled to receive, under existing laws, and to report at as early a day as practicable.

Mr. WALBORN said that he had spoken yesterday relative to the small number of copies of the Auditor General's Report, which he had received. The foreman of the State printing office had since waited on him, and had intimated that injustice had been done, by the assertion, to the State Printer. He therefore offered the present resolution for the sole purpose of finding out what number of copies of documents the members were justly entitled to receive.—On an examination of the law he had discovered that three thousand of the Auditor General's Report, three thousand of the Finance Report, and three thousand of the School Superintendent's Report, were ordered to be printed for the two Houses. Had any gentleman received any of the latter? The allowance ought to be about one hundred and twenty-five copies to each member.

Mr. HAMERSLY had received his full complement of documents. It had been asserted that efforts had been made to get additional copies of documents printed, in order to put money in the pockets of the State Printer. This was certainly not so, in the case of the Auditor General's Report, for the "matter" had been distributed.

Mr. WILLIAMS, (Bucks,) hoped the resolution would prevail. If the printers or subordinates in the House cheated, it was only just to know who cheated. He did not receive a tithe of the documents to which he was legally entitled. He had received but seven Auditor's reports, while the gentleman from Philadelphia (Mr. HAMERSLY,) had received thirty. Now was this owing to the carelessness of the subordinates, or was the gentlemen from Philadelphia in collusion with the subordinates? It was unfair that some members should receive a full number, and that "us greenies" should be cut off.

Mr. SMEAD had only received seven, and would vote for the resolution.

Mr. BERTOLET concurred with Mr. WILLIAMS, (Bucks,) and wanted an investigation.

Mr. WAGONSELLER wanted to know where the copies went to, if the members did not receive them.

Mr. WILLISTON, said that he had received his share, but somebody had taken them from his desk.

Mr. EVANS had received sixteen copies.

Mr. HAMERSLY wished himself to be understood as having said that he had received seven School Reports, and thirty copies of the Finance.

Mr. WILCOX said that the superintendent of the state printing office had told him that the copies were in the office, and had not all been distributed. No doubt if the members would wait, they would receive their share.

Mr. WILLISTON would like to hear from the gentleman from Northampton, (Mr. GEOPP.)

The resolution was read.

Mr. THORN thought that it ought to be modified so as to ascertain what number of copies had been printed.

Mr. ROHRER said:—There is another matter, I think, of equally as great importance to the members of this House, as the question under discussion—that of furnishing to each member their full quota of these documents at one and the same time. I have received at intervals of two, three and four days, a few copies of each of the documents referred to, and the probability is that some of my constituents have received the same kind two or three times, whilst others have received none. This arises from the fact that, I believe, it is impossible for any gentleman of this House to remember for the term of three days, to whom he may have sent his documents; and I know that gentlemen around me complain of the same difficulty. I would like, therefore, to see the duties of this committee enlarged, so as to enable them to inquire into the reason why the members are thus furnished, and at the same time remedy this difficulty; for my part, I would rather wait a whole week for my full quota, than receive them in the manner in which they have been furnished us—say two, four or six at a time. I do know my constituents would prefer the method of distribution I propose, as one most beneficial to themselves.

Mr. WALBORN said that he would modify his resolution, so as to make it require a statement of the number of copies which had been printed.

The SPEAKER. It cannot be modified, but amended.

Mr. CHURCH called for the reading of the resolution, as amended. It was read.

Mr. THORN suggested that it should also call for a statement of the number of copies which had been distributed.

The amendments were agreed to.

The original resolution as amended, then passed.

Mr. KENEAGY offered a resolution, that Eli Pickel be appointed an assistant paper-folder of the House.

The resolution was read.

The SPEAKER. Will the House agree to the resolution?

Is it ready for the question?

Mr. WILLIAMS, (Bucks.) Not just yet. We have enough dead-heads already. I hope that the gentleman from Lancaster, (Mr. KENEAGY,) was not sincere in offering his resolution.

Mr. KENEAGY said that he certainly was sincere. Every gentleman knew the difficulty which had been encountered in the House in getting papers properly folded and assorted, and there existed an actual necessity for another folder. Lancaster county was moreover justly entitled to a representative.

The SPEAKER decided that the question was not now debatable. He had labored under a misapprehension in thinking that the resolution had passed to its second reading.

The resolution was read a second time.

Mr. WILLIAMS, (Bucks,) said that Lancaster county was well represented, and that neither the dignity of its rights or the duties of the House required the appointment of an additional paper-folder.

Mr. ROSE. Is the gentleman from Lancaster (Mr. KENEAGY) afraid of getting his eel pickled?

Mr. PRICE spoke in support of the resolution; alleged that the duties required an additional assistant; that the House had in 1858 had more employees than at present, and that Mr. WILLIAMS had once promised not to oppose the resolution. The gentleman from Bucks had alluded to the singularity of the name of Pickel, but the gentleman had had a man named Eel appointed. In conclusion, he hoped that the resolution would not be pickled.

Mr. MILLER had no objection to the resolution, except on the score of policy. He thought that many difficulties in the House, relative to documents, originated from the fact that there were too many employees. Too many had been appointed last session, and there had not been actual necessity for half of them. If this new man was to be chosen, he would like to have some one turned out.

Mr. GRATZ said that he was disposed to vote in favor of the resolution, not because the Democrats had more employees than the present House, but because there was necessity for another appointment.

Mr. PINKERTON moved to amend the resolution, by striking out the name of Eli Pickel, of Lancaster, and inserting that of Jacob Brubaker, of Schuylkill.

The gentleman from Lancaster, (Mr. PRICE,) claims the appointment or election of this man Pickel as a right, but if he would take the pains and examine the records of this House, he would find that Schuylkill county, with her 13,000 voters, and sending three Representatives each year, for the last ten years, she has not been represented in one of the subordinate offices of this House, on the Republican side, and at least the last seven years, on the part of the Democracy. Now, sirs, I fear not to say, there is not another county in the State can say so much. Why, Lancaster is now represented here by a man in one of these offices. Therefore Schuylkill, for these reasons, considers herself entitled to the right instead of Lancaster.

Mr. PRICE said that there existed a necessity for another man, and that until the present session, Lancaster county had never been represented by the officers. Pickel was a good man, and should to be chosen.

The amendment of Mr. PINKERTON was lost.

Mr. LAWRENCE, (Washington,) moved as an amendment that the pay of the officers should begin on the first of February.

The amendment was agreed to.

The question then recurring upon the original resolution as amended,

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. PINKERTON and Mr. SHIELDS, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Abbott, Church, Ellmaker, Fisher, Foster, Gratz, Green, Hamersly, Harding, Keneagy, McDowell, Patterson, Price, Quigley, Rose, Smith, (Philadelphia,) Styer, Walborn, Wilcox, Wiley, Williston, and Wood—22.

NAYS—Messrs. Acker, Balliet, Barnsley, Barlow, Bertolet, Boyer, (Schuylkill,) Brodhead, Bryson, Burley, Campbell, Custer, Dismant, Dodds, Durboraw, Eckman, Evans, Fearon, Fleming, Galley, Glatz, Goepf, Good, Graham, Gray, Hill, Hottenstine, Jackson, Ketchum, Kinney, Laird, Lawrence, (Washington,) Mann, Mehaffey, McClain, McCurdy, Miller, Oaks, Palm, Peirce, Pinkerton, Porter, Ramsdell, Rohrer, Shaeffer, Shields, Smead, Smith, (Berks,) Stephens, Stuart, Taylor, Thorn, Wagon-seller, Walker, Warden, Whitman, Wigton, Williams, (Bedford,) Williams, (Bucks,) Wilson, Withrow, Wolf, Woodring, Zoller and Lawrence, Speaker—64.

So the question was determined in the negative.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

Mr. LAWRENCE, (Washington,) asked, and obtained, leave of absence for Mr. WILLIAMS, (Bedford,) for a few days from to-day.

ORIGINAL RESOLUTION.

Mr. SMITH, (Berks,) offered a resolution that two hundred copies of all passenger railway bills now introduced, or hereafter to be introduced, be printed for the use of the members of the Railroad Committee and House.

Said resolution was read the second time.

And on the question,

Shall the same pass?

Mr. THORN moved to increase the number of copies to five hundred.

Mr. WALBORN could not see why the bills of other committees should not be printed as well. He could not see the object of the above resolution, unless it was to embarrass the action of the Railroad Committee.

Mr. SMEAD had no particular objections to urge against the passage of the resolution, but thought that two hundred copies were quite sufficient.

Mr. THORN withdrew his amendment to increase the number.

Mr. SMITH, (Berks,) in reply to Mr. WALBORN, said that he introduced the resolution under consideration, not to embarrass, but facilitate and relieve the business of the Railroad Committee.

Pending some further remarks of the above gentleman, the hour of one arrived, and the SPEAKER adjourned the House until to-morrow morning at 11 o'clock.

ORIGINAL RESOLUTIONS.

Mr. TURNEY offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That the Clerk of the Senate be authorized to procure two thousand diagrams of the Senate and one thousand of the House, for the use of the Senate: Provided, That the same do not exceed in cost the amount paid for the diagrams of last session.

Mr. FRANCIS moved to amend, by striking out two thousand and inserting one thousand [of Senate.]

Mr. FRANCIS objected to so large a number of diagrams as was proposed by the resolution. He thought one-half the number amply sufficient for all purposes of the Senate; and, indeed, he doubted the propriety of making any provision for them at all.

Mr. WRIGHT advocated the original number, although he did not consider the diagrams of last session any improvement upon former ones. If any improvement can be made in them, he should like to see it; but at all events, if the Senate were to order them, he should go for the two thousand.

Messrs. MARSELIS, WELSH, COFFEY and GAZZAM agreed with Mr. FRANCIS in his views, and should vote for reducing the amount to one thousand. On the part of Mr. WELSH, it was stated that as far as he was concerned, he did not receive his proportion until after the adjournment of the Senate, when they were of no possible use. Mr. MARSELIS had, also, received his late in the session, and the greater part of them were still lying at home, of no benefit to any one; whilst Messrs. COFFEY and GAZZAM were not only opposed to the large number contemplated by the resolution, but to the manner in which the diagrams had been gotten up at the last session.

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. WELSH proposed further to amend, by adding the following:

"Provided the same be furnished within ten days after the passage of this resolution;" which was adopted.

On motion of Mr. WRIGHT, the number of House diagrams was reduced to 500.

Mr. PARKER offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That when the Senate adjourns, it adjourn to meet at 3 o'clock P. M., on Monday next."

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. SHAEFFER and Mr. HARRIS, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Baldwin, Bell, Gazzam, Keller, Marselis, Palmer, Parker, Penney, Randall, Shaeffer, Schindel and Steele—12.

YAYS—Messrs. Blood, Coffey, Fetter, Francis, Gregg, Harris, Myer, Nunnemacher, Rutherford, Thompson, Turney, Welsh, Wright, Yardley and Cresswell, Speaker—15.

So the question was determined in the negative.

THE BILL INCORPORATING THE WESTERN MARKET COMPANY.

The SPEAKER remarked that, before resuming the consideration of this subject—interrupted yesterday by the adjournment—he would rule out of order, the motion to postpone indefinitely the motion to re-consider; that the motion to re-consider was debatable; and that Senators would be limited to five minutes in their speeches.

Mr. BELL then resumed his remarks.

Mr. BELL remarked that when the Senate adjourned, yesterday, he had the floor upon the motion to concur in the request of the House, that the bill incorporating the Western market company be returned. Thanking the Senate for their kind indulgence, he proceeded to state what he considered the question at issue between himself and those Senators who opposed the motion. He then gave a brief and concise statement of the case, as it came before the Senate yesterday, with a reiteration of his views upon it. He repeated that his motion to comply with the request of the House, was not made for the purpose of defeating the bill, but for the simple purpose of allowing that body to bring it again before it, for such consideration or amendment as they may deem necessary. It was, he said, within the recollection of every Senator, that the bill was taken up and passed immediately after it had been reported, by suspending the rule which prohibits the reading of a bill twice on the same day.

Mr. RANDALL rose to state that the Senator was mistaken in stating that the bill had been taken up and passed immediately after it was reported. It had been reported in the usual way, and had not been called up until the regular order of business had been disposed of.

Mr. BELL remarked that that made no difference in the statement which he had made.—The bill had been taken up in half an hour after its passage, and by suspending a wholesome rule, had been passed hastily through, and sent to the House for its concurrence. But it had been said the bill was of a local character, and having received the sanction of the delegates from Philadelphia, in both branches, there should be no interference with it by those representing other sections. The bill he did not consider one of an exclusively local character, not alone for the large victualers of Philadelphia, but the vendors of marketing from the neighboring counties. As for himself, as a Senator, he was interested for no particular locality or class, but for the public benefit; and regarding the bill as affecting general interests, as much as it did those of a local character, he considered it his right and duty to take such steps with regard to it as the interests of the public, and particularly those of his own constituents, required.

He then gave a brief history of the case in the House, as published in the daily proceedings, from which it appeared that an error on the part of the SPEAKER, and a subsequent acknowledgment of that error, had led to its passage there, as well as to the request which was then, he said, lying upon the Clerk's desk, that the bill should be returned for legitimate action. He referred to a case which had come up in the Senate, in the early part of the session, which was perfectly analogous. The Senator from Centre, by consent, called up a bill, entitled "An Act repealing an act to change the venue from Union to Northumberland county," which, by some means, had got into the hands of the Governor, and had received his signature, although it was defeated in the Senate by three votes. Upon a representation of these facts, by the Senator from Centre, the Senate very properly re-considered and repealed the bill—the only way in which to remedy the wrong which had been done by a mere oversight. In the case now under consideration, the same principle is involved. The House, having passed a bill through an error of the SPEAKER, ask that it may be returned for re-consideration; a request which they had a right to make, and to refuse which was without precedent in the legislative history of Pennsylvania.

He cannot, he continued, tell what the object of the House is in this request, but it is natural to suppose that a request made by two thirds of its members was founded in some good reason. He was not familiar with the provisions of the bill, having had but little opportunity of examining them; but there was at least one objection to it. The price of market stalls is set down at $500. That might do for large victualers; but the poorer vendors of marketing, farmers from the neighboring counties, could not afford to pay such extravagant sums for the privilege of disposing of their articles.

Mr. PALMER said that, as he should vote to comply with the request of the House, although he was friendly to the general objects of the bill, he deemed it but just that he give the reasons which influenced him. He remembered that among the earliest acts of legislation in the Senate, was the consent given to the Senator from Centre, to call up an act repealing an act changing the venue from Union to Northumberland county, which had received the signature of the Governor, without having regularly passed the Senate. It was agreed that the bill had improperly become a law; and one Senator from Philadelphia had said he was not disposed to stand in the way of its repeal, if it had unjustly become a law, while another Senator from the city had stated that he merely voted to correct an informality—the merits of the case he knew nothing of. Now here is a case precisely similar. A bill, which has irregularly passed the House, through an error, and which that body requests the Senate to return, in order that any defects may be remedied, or objections obviated; and the simple question is, shall that respectful request be refused, and a co-ordinate branch be treated with contempt, or shall the Senate comply with a demand which is rightfully and justly made? He repeated, he was friendly to the general objects of the bill, but he should be compelled to vote for the motion to comply with the request of the House.

Mr. RANDALL did not desire to take any undue advantage in securing the passage of this or any other measure; and yesterday, when it had been stated that the bill had gone to the Governor, he went to the Clerk's desk to ascertain whether such had been the case, and to request that it should not be sent there until the question was fairly disposed of. So much for himself. As to the amount of stock, all of it has been subscribed, and the company only await the act of incorporation to go fairly into operation. As regards the action of the House upon the bill, so far as we know, it has passed constitutionally and regularly. He was sorry to see now, however, that the toxin of city and rural prejudice had been sounded, in the other branch, and had been re-echoed here. It was unjust thus to array against each other interests which were in keeping, and he deprecated the existence of any unfriendly feeling excited by such means.

Mr. BELL rose to explain. He had no unfriendly feeling towards the city of Philadelphia, or the bill. On the contrary, he had always had the most kind regard for the citizens, and had promised that he would vote for the act incorporating the Western market company.

Mr. RANDALL was sorry that the Senator from Chester had made any promise to vote for the bill, until he knew its provisions. He had stated here, in this discussion, that he knew nothing of them, farther than they had been elicited by the debate. As to the array of prejudice which was sought to be made by interested parties, against the city of Philadelphia, he was fully advised; and he sincerely deprecated the existence of any such feeling. No such notions influenced the constituents whom he had the honor to represent—they were arrayed against no section. The prosperity of Pennsylvania was a source of pride to Philadelphia; and her representatives had never been heard making the inquiry, whether a bill affected the people of Chester, the high hills of the Speaker's constituency, or the shores of Lake Erie.

But to come directly to the question—if there is anything wrong in the bill, he called upon the Senator from Chester to indicate it, that the Senate may see what are the objections to it demanding its return to the House. The cause was a bad one which seeks to be furthered by such a course as that resorted to here. There stands the bill. If there is anything wrong in it, let the Senator from Chester or its opponents indicate that wrong. If they do not, he stands up in all the consciousness of right and asks that the Senate shall refuse the motion.

On the question to re-consider the vote on the final passage of this bill,

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. BELL and Mr. RANDALL, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Baldwin, Bell, Francis, Myer, Palmer, Penney, Shaeffer, Steele, Thompson, Yardley and Cresswell, Speaker—11.

NAYS—Messrs. Blood, Coffey, Fetter, Finney, Gazzam, Harris, Keller, Marselis, Nunnemacher, Parker, Randall, Schindel, Turney, Welsh and Wright—15.

So the question was determined in the negative.

The Deputy Secretary of the Commonwealth being introduced, presented a message from the Governor; which was read as follows:

WM. F. PACKER.

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Senate bill, No. 37, "An Act relative to ex-cutors and administrators," passed finally.

BILL IN PLACE.

On leave given, Mr. FRANCIS read in his place and presented to the Chair, a bill, entitled "An Act relative to auctions and auctioneers in Lawrence county."

BILLS CONSIDERED AND PASSED.

On motion of Mr. Palmer, House bill, No. 21, entitled "An Act to repeal an act changing the place of holding elections in Porter township, Schuylkill county," was taken up.

Mr. MARSELIS moved to recommit this bill to the Committee on Election Districts.

Mr. MARSELIS hoped the bill would not pass now, but be postponed for a short time. He had been written to by citizens of that township, requesting him to arrest the passage of the bill, and he should like time to examine its provisions.

Mr. PALMER explained the object of the bill to be to change the place of holding elections in Porter township, Schuylkill county. The petition praying for it was signed by forty of the fifty-six voters in the district. They had first gone to the courts; but finding the place of holding elections fixed by legislative enactment of 1858, subsequent to the passage of the law giving to the courts the right of changing election districts, they were compelled to come here and ask, at the hands of the Legislature, the change which they desired. There was no objection, as he was aware of, to the bill, and he hoped it would pass.

Mr. MARSELIS thought the bill ought to be referred to the proper committee. It was wrong to pass it hurriedly here, when there were objections to it by those at home interested in it. The Senate should know all about it, pro and con, and he could not see anything to be gained by hurrying it through. He would, therefore, move to re-commit.

Mr. PALMER replied that his reason for urging its passage now was, because the township elections will be held in February; and if there is any change to be made in the place of holding the elections, it should be done soon, in order that the voters may be properly advised of it. As to any objections to the bill, he could not see how a small minority could ask to control a majority. As he stated before, there were but fifty-six voters in the district; and of these, forty had signed the petition asking for the change.

Mr. RANDALL wished to ask the Senator from Schuylkill, whether the place proposed in the bill was in the centre of the district?

Mr. PALMER replied that the elections were at present held in a school house. The bill proposes to hold them at the public house of a very good man.

Mr. RANDALL said the statement of the Senator confirmed what he had heard with reference to the matter—that it was proposed to be removed to a remote corner of the district.

Mr. SHAEFFER expressed a hope that the motion to re-commit would not prevail. The bill under consideration was but a small one, concerning a little locality in Schuylkill county, of which the Senate could know nothing, save that which was furnished by the Senator and the petition of the voters of the township. He had heard objections made by Senators from Philadelphia to the interference of others in local bills; and yet, strange to say, here is a little local matter, to which two Senators from the city raise objection, without knowing anything of its merits, save through information which is obtained from the letter of some disaffected person. He considered it a matter which was the peculiar province of the Senator from Schuylkill, who had too high a character at stake, to press it upon the Senate, unless it is founded in justice, and in accordance with the wish of the people of the district. The bill has been framed in accordance with the petition of forty out of fifty-six voters—probably all who had been asked—and he asked whether it was right or just in the Senators from Philadelphia to interfere in the local business affecting a remote locality in another county? He did not desire to say anything disparagingly of Philadelphia. He had always felt a pride in her growth, prosperity and greatness, and had ever been ready to do all in his power towards building up and protecting her vast interests; but if objections are to be made to local legislation, on the part of her representatives, she should take care that her own interests be not hazarded, in the large and continued legislation which she demands. He hoped the bill would not be re-committed; but that, if there are objections to be made, they might be made now, and the case fairly met. It can be done as well now as at any other time, and he could see no reason for the delay asked for.

Mr. PALMER read the petition of the forty voters of the district, in which they urge the change in the place of holding elections, asked for in the bill, upon the ground that the school house, in which they are held at present, is located in an uninhabited part of the township, contains but one small room, for the accommodation of the officers, and that the voters are subject to exposure and the inclemency of the weather. It was upon this ground that a large majority of them had petitioned for the change contemplated in the bill.

Mr. BELL had but one word to say. The reasons given in the petition and by the Senator from Schuylkill, were sufficient to warrant the passage of the bill, and he should vote for its passage and against its re-committal.

Mr. GAZZAM remarked that he should vote against the motion to re-commit, upon the ground that the reasons given by the Senator from Schuylkill were good and satisfactory.

The motion was not agreed to, and the bill passed.

Mr. STEELE called up Senate bill No. 38, "An Act to appoint commissioners to re-survey and establish a line for a main road through Wilkesbarre township, Luzerne county;" which, after being slightly amended, passed finally.

The hour of one having arrived, the SPEAKER adjourned the Senate until to-morrow morning at 11 o'clock.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

FRIDAY, Jan. 28, 1859.

The House was called to order by the SPEAKER.

Prayer was offered by the Rev. Mr. Casselman, of the Episcopal church, Harrisburg, Pa. The Clerk read the Journal of yesterday.

SENATE AMENDMENTS

To House bill, changing the place of holding elections in West Branch township, Potter county, were read; and, on motion of Mr. MANN, concurred in.

The SPEAKER solicited the attention of the House. During the proceedings yesterday, some doubts had been expressed as to the correctness of a decision which the Chair had made. This decision had allowed the re-consideration of a vote upon the passage of an act incorporating the Western market company of Philadelphia, when the bill itself had gone out of the possession of the House. The SPEAKER, upon examination, had found his views sustained by Cushing's Manual, Sec. 1274.

The section in question was read by the Clerk, as follows:

"The fourth effect of this principle is, that though a motion for re-consideration may be made and discussed in the absence of the paper to which it relates, yet if decided in the affirmative, it will be wholly ineffectual and inoperative until the paper in question is in possession of the House. The first step, therefore, after a vote to re-consider, is to send to the other branch, or to the Executive, for the paper in reference to which the vote to re-consider passes, or otherwise to bring it before the House. Possession of the paper may also be obtained before the motion to re-consider is made. In either case, the motion for the paper is incidental to the motion to re-consider."

Mr. HAMERSLY, who had yesterday taken a position antagonistic to the SPEAKER, and who had questioned the propriety of the decision, re-asserted the views which he had before expressed, by reference to page 214 of Sutherland's Manual, which contains the following passage:

"If, after the vote, the paper on which it is passed has been parted with, there can be no re-consideration, as if a vote had been for the passage of a bill, and the bill had been sent to the other House."

He stated that the views taken by Cushing and Sutherland were certainly conflicting, but there was this to be considered, that the House had adopted Sutherland for its guide, and was not governed by Cushing.

The SPEAKER called Mr. WILCOX to the chair.

Mr. LAWRENCE (Dauphin,) asked leave to make a statement. Leave being given, he said that if an appeal had been yesterday taken from the decision of the Chair, no objection would have been made. At present, however, there was no recourse but to discuss the matter in this informal manner. As Chairman of the House he had always endeavored to act in accordance with law and parliamentary usage, and would continue so to do.

He desired to revert to the facts of the case in which the difficulty had first originated. On Wednesday a bill had passed which authorized the incorporation of the Western market company, of Philadelphia. After this a gentleman had made a motion to re-consider the vote by which the bill had passed, when the document itself was out of the possession of the House. The SPEAKER had decided the motion to be in order. Mr. HAMERSLY had objected, and had read in support of his objection, a passage from page 214 of Sutherland's Manual.

Now any gentleman who was acquainted with Sutherland's Manual, knew its component parts. It opened with the Constitution of the State, proceeded to rules for the government of the Senate, then to rules for the House, and lastly to rules for the government of the United States' Senate at Washington. It was from the last named department that the gentleman from Philadelphia had culled his selection, and what, pray, had the government of the United States' Senate to do with the government of the House of Representatives of the State of Pennsylvania?

If he had known yesterday from what portion of the work the rule of Mr. HAMERSLY had been read, he would have said so at once, but he was ignorant of the fact. It was not applicable to the House; and whether the gentleman who read it, knew this or not, he was not prepared to say. It had no more to do with the House of Representatives of Pennsylvania, than it had with Hindoostan or the Hottentots.

There was a standing rule of the House, that any motion to re-consider a bill could be taken within six days after the original vote upon its passage. But the custom was to send the bills after they were passed to the co-ordinate branch of the Legislature, and they were sometimes sent within half an hour—sometimes not for one or two days. What could have been contemplated by the extension of the privilege until six days, except that it was intended that bills should be recalled when necessary? This, however, was not to the point. He desired to call attention to the twelve hundred and seventy-fourth section of Cushing's Manual, which had been already read by the Clerk. He then read the passage as given above. But the gentleman from Philadelphia, (Mr. HAMERSLY,) had said that Cushing's Manual had never been adopted by the House. This must be granted; but suppose that Sutherland's Manual, which had been prepared especially for the Legislature, failed to give an exposition of certain points, and was not full. What course must be then taken? Why there was but one, and that was to fall back upon standard and good authorities. Did the gentleman from Philadelphia, (Mr. HAMERSLY,) mean to deny or doubt the accuracy of Cushing. He thought not; for in these halls he had been cited for the last twenty years, and even when a boy, the speaker had seen copies of the work adorning the Legislator's desks. That being the case, was it not strictly proper for him to cite Cushing, and was it proper for the gentleman from Philadelphia to deny the application?

Again, reverting to the circumstances of the decision of yesterday, it was to be remembered, he said, that the gentleman from Delaware, (Mr. PENNELL,) had moved to re-consider the vote by which the bill had passed. The motion had been entertained after it was agreed to. The gentleman from Washington, (Mr. LAWRENCE,) had offered a resolution soliciting the recall of the bill from the Senate. He proposed to show that the offering of this resolution, as well as the other proceedings, were strictly in accordance with parliamentary usage, for Cushing said distinctly that any motion to recall the bill, was incidental to the motion to re-consider the vote, no matter whether it came before or after. Had the resolution been offered before the action of the gentleman from Delaware, (Mr. PENNELL,) it would have been entertained; but having been offered afterwards, it was equally legal.

It was to clear himself from the charge of incompetency, that he had made to-day this effort at self defence. For the patient hearing which the House had given him he thanked them, and regretted having been thus obliged to consume their time.

Mr. HAMERSLY said as there had been no point of order raised, he was somewhat at a loss to discuss this question, and yet it is evident that the SPEAKER has caused the extract from the work of Mr. Cushing to be read as an answer to some remarks made by him yesterday. He read from Sutherland's Manual then, as a reason why the House ought not to entertain a motion to re-consider a bill which had passed out of its possession, and which he was informed had been sent to the Governor, the extract which the SPEAKER had endeavored to overthrow by the authority of Mr. Cushing.—Now, the very authority quoted by the SPEAKER shows the absurdity of the position assumed; for if, as Mr. Cushing says, the motion to re-consider a bill not in possession of the House is inoperative, and can accomplish no purpose, then, he contended, it is out of order, and should have been so ruled by the SPEAKER. There must be some point at which the right to re-consider shall cease. Will the Honorable SPEAKER contend that, if the bill alluded to had been in the hands of the Governor, as we were told was the case yesterday, that it would then have been in order to re-consider it here? And yet, according to his favorite authority, (Mr. Cushing,) there would have been as much propriety in re-considering it then, as there would have been in re-considering a bill which was in possession of the Senate. The rule of this House says that a motion to re-consider is in order, if made at any time within six days, but that rule is based upon common sense and the supposition that the matter is yet within the control of the House. If it is to bear the literal construction placed upon it by the SPEAKER, then it would be in the power of any two members to re-consider a bill which had been sent to the Governor, had received his sanction, and thereby become invested with all the binding force of a law. It would be difficult to conceive of any position more ridiculous and absurd.

The SPEAKER has alluded to my long experience in this and the other chamber, and intimates his surprise that I was not better acquainted with the views of Mr. Cushing, whose book, he says, has been in use in these Halls for many years past. He begged leave to remind the Honorable SPEAKER that this book of Mr.

Mr. Cushing was never heard of in this House until the session of 1856, when my colleague, who sits immediately in front of me, offered a resolution authorizing the Clerk to purchase a copy of it. Previous to that time, it had never been heard of in these Halls, and he very much questioned whether there are half a dozen members present who had ever seen the book at the time the resolution was introduced.

This practice of recalling bills after they have passed is a modern innovation, and a very unsafe and dangerous practice. Until within the last two or three years it has never prevailed here and the sooner it is abolished the better it will be for us all.

There is no rule of the House upon the subject, and in the absence of it, we are compelled to rely upon precedents and practices elsewhere. The SPEAKER chooses to take for his guide the work of Mr. Cushing, who, he believed, had had considerable experience as an officer or member of the Legislature of Massachusetts. He (Mr. H.) took as his guide the practice which has prevailed in the Senate of the United States and of this State, as laid down in the Manual of Mr. Sutherland, which he would beg leave to remind the House has been adopted as our rule of conduct by a resolution of the House. The one is recognized as authority here—the other is not. The rule of the Senate of the United States, (he read from page 214 of Sutherland's Manual,) says: "If, after the vote, the paper on which it is passed has been parted with, there can be no re-consideration; as if a vote has been for the passage of a bill, and the bill has been sent to the other House." So the rule of the Senate of this State says—"No motion for the re-consideration of any vote shall be in order, after a bill, resolution, report, amendment or motion upon which the vote was taken, shall have gone out of the possession of the Senate."

Here are two authorities in direct conflict with Mr. Cushing, and he preferred looking to what has been the practice in the Senate of the United States and of this State, to the mere speculations of Mr. Cushing.

As there is no question before the House, he did not desire to waste any more time in the discussion of the question.

Mr. THORN said that it was a well established principle of jurisprudence, that nothing that could not be done directly, could be done indirectly. All who were present must have the events of yesterday fresh in their minds, and thus, glancing at the circumstances, he would state what he believed to be the effect of the rules of the House, and of Parliamentary rules, upon the question at issue. There was no dispute as to the fact that motions to re-consider could be made at any time within the six days succeeding the vote, even although the Governor had signed the bill—the enrolment tax being paid and vested rights having accrued. But nobody would pretend to assert that the bill could be operated upon after these important essentials had been undergone. The question of re-consideration ought to have been disposed of when the bill was before the House. If it had then been requisite, he could then have moved to go into committee of the whole to make suitable amendments, and the bill could have been read, as the rules required, at the call of any member. But how, pray, could such action have taken place yesterday? How could amendments have been offered, or the bill been read, when it was not in the House? He had seen this difficulty yesterday when the project of re-consideration was broached, and now saw it equally as clear. When he had risen yesterday during the debate, it was only to direct the matter into the proper channel, but in this he had failed. The motion to re-consider had evidently been in order, but it ought to have been postponed until the bill was procured, and then, on the question, "shall the bill pass?" amendments, &c., would have been in order.

He concluded by reiterating the futility of any motion to re-consider a bill which had been signed by the Governor and duly enrolled.

ORIGINAL RESOLUTIONS.

Mr. WILCOX offered a resolution that the Clerk in addition to the diagrams already ordered for the use of the members, be authorized to procure one thousand diagrams of the Senate for the use of the same; which was twice read and adopted.

Mr. PALM offered a resolution, that hereafter no member shall be allowed to read in his place any document, if such document shall be out of order at the time.

The House refused to proceed to the second reading of the same.

Mr. FOSTER offered a resolution, that when this House adjourn, it adjourn to meet again next Monday afternoon at three o'clock.

And on the question,

Will the House proceed to the second reading and consideration of the same?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. PATTERSON and Mr. ECKMAN, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Abbott, Acker, Bayard, Bertholet, Boyer, (Clearfield,) Boyer, (Schuylkill,) Evans, Foster, Goepp, Gratz, Harding, Kinney, McClain, McDowell, Miller, Patterson, Peirce, Porter, Quigley, Ramsdell, Smead, Smith, (Philadelphia,) Styer, Thorn, Wagonseller, Walborn, Whitmau, Wiley, Wood and Zoller—30.

NAYS—Messrs. Balliet, Barnsley, Barlow, Brodhead, Bryson, Burley, Campbell, Church, Custer, Dismant, Dodds, Durhrow, Eekman, Ellmaker, Fearon, Fisher, Fleming, Glatz, Good, Graham, Gray, Green, Gritman, Hamersly, Hill, Hottenstine, Irish, Jackson, Keneagy, Ketchum, Laird, Lawrence, (Washington,) Mann, Mehaffey, McCurdy, Neall, Oaks, Palm, Pinkerton, Price, Pugh, Rose, Rouse, Sheppard, Shields, Smith, (Berks,) Stephens, Stuart, Taylor, Thompson, Walker, Warden, Wigton, Wilcox, Williams, (Bucks,) Williston, Wilson, Withrow, Wolf Woodring and Lawrence, Speaker—61.

So the question was determined in the negative.

Mr. RAMSDELL, on leave given, from the select committee appointed upon the subject, made the following report:

Whereas, A select committee was appointed on the 22d day of the present session of the Legislature by this House, to act in conjunction with a similar committee from the Senate, for the purpose of contracting for the publication of a Daily Legislative Record:

And whereas, The Senate has refused to appoint such a committee, your committee respectfully submit the following report:

That they have received a proposition from Geo. Bergner & Co. to print a Record of the proceedings of this House; and also, that of the Senate, to be equal if not superior in every respect to that now printed by R. J. Haldeman, for the sum of 5 60-100 per page, being 1 40 cents less than the price now paid, which will therefore save the State the sum of $11 20-100 cents per day; we therefore offer the following resolution:

Resolved, That the committee already appointed on the part of this House be empowered to enter into a contract with Geo. Bergner & Co., for the publication of a Daily Legislative Record, under such restrictions as they may consider the most advantageous to the State, and that they also receive such sureties in the sum of three thousand dollars from the contractors for the faithful performance of the work as they may deem reliable—the whole to be submitted to this House for ratification.

The resolution was read the second time.

And on the question,

Shall the same pass.

Mr. GRITMAN said that if he had found an opportunity he would have risen to a point of order. The report of the committee was clearly out of order at the present time, for it did not emanate from a committee of the House. A committee had certainly been appointed in the early part of the session, to confer with a like body from the Senate upon the publication of a Daily Legislative Record, but pending their report, the House had taken up the subject matter and passed upon it, thereby effectually discharging the committee, and relieving them from the necessity of any further action. A report from that committee ought not now to be received, inasmuch as they had repeatedly before been called upon for a statement, and had failed to make one.

But laying aside this point of order, it was unprecedented for the House to wish to enter into a contract by which it would receive a double set of Records. He was not like the gentleman from Tioga (Mr. WILLISTON,) who did not believe in printers receiving any pay, but was willing to pay reasonably. He was, however, entirely opposed to paying double, and incurring the expense which would necessarily follow the publication of two Records. He would like any gentleman to find a precedent for such action as was proposed. If any parallel case could be found, he would vote with those who favored the movement; if not, then the matter was really not entitled to a moment's consideration. The Legislature was naturally inclined to be extravagant enough, without searching for outside means.

Mr. WILLISTON wished to reply to the imputation of the gentleman from Luzerne, (Mr. GRITMAN.) He had no objection to paying printers reasonably, and had never said so. As regarded the point contained in the resolution, he did not see how it could be reached by its passage. The resolution which he had opposed some days since would have settled the matter.

It stated very plainly that the House would not receive the Records from the Democratic publisher, and would not pay for them at the end of the session, or after a certain date. The publisher would thus have been notified of the abrogation of the contract by the House. He desired to call attention to the fact that this resolution, which would have answered every purpose, was lost by a large vote, and that the House had thus acquiesced in the insult put upon them by the last Legislature, by the act providing for the continuance of the contract.

Mr. MILLER wished to correct his friend from Luzerne, (Mr. GRITMAN.) The gentleman in question had stated that the House had taken the subject out of the hands of the committee, before they had offered any report. A repealing act, it was true, had been passed, but this had not in any degree affected the powers of the committee. They were appointed in the early part of the session, to consider the matter of the publication of a Daily Record, and in fulfillment of their duty had offered a report. The action of the House should not prejudice the committee. He, for one, in voting upon the contract when it was before the Legislature, had no intention of interfering with the committee.

Mr. RAMSDALL said that the only question seemed to be that of the right of the committee to report. It was appointed for a specific purpose—had waited a suitable time, and had come to the conclusion that the Senate was indisposed to hold any conference with it—consequently now came forward and offered a report. Was this not proper? They had not been instructed to fulfil their duties within a limited time, or been notified that if they did not come forward by a certain date, their report would not be received.

But it was not the report, or the time of its rendition, he said, that was the real subject of opposition. It was the resolution that was appended, and which empowered the committee to make a contract. This it was that excited the opposition.

In fact, the real question was this—whether the Senate, with a Democratic majority of one, was to rule the House, with a Republican majority of thirty-four—whether one man in the Senate was equivalent to thirty-four in the House. He trusted that, under these circumstances, the Representatives would not stultify themselves by allowing the resolution to be defeated—a resolution which by its passage would save $11.20 per diem, and would take that much out of the hands of a Democratic editor, (against whom he had nothing to say,) and place it in the hands of a Republican. $1000 had already been given this session, by the continuance of the contract, to feed a Democratic press. He wanted the matter settled, and the responsibility placed where it belonged. If the Senate desired to continue their contract, let them do so, and see where the pay would come from at the end of the session.

Mr. KINNEY expressed his endorsement.

Mr. GOOD moved that the further consideration of the matter be postponed for the present. The motion was lost.

Mr. ABBOTT regretted the present aspect of affairs. It had been alleged in previous discussions upon this subject, by the Democracy, that the continuing clause in the act of last session was placed there solely to secure the publication of a Record in the early part of this session, and thereby avoid trouble. If this was the only object contemplated, how was it that there were so many objections now to the formation of a new contract? If the object of the provision was answered, what objection could there be to its repeal? If there had originally been no other object than the one designated, it was evident that there was another now, and he would vote for anything and everything that would not induce an enormous expense, in order to have the matter satisfactorily adjusted. If the opposition party by their course indicate that they are willing to saddle the Commonwealth by allowing the continuance of the present Record, he was willing to take the responsibility incumbent upon making a new and satisfactory contract.

Mr. GOEPP was not prepared to say that the majority was really ready to pass the resolution, but it seemed so. If they did, it would be well for them to understand exactly the position of affairs.

A contract was in existence which had been made by the Assembly of the Commonwealth, by virtue of law, and which had been signed by the Governor, and was binding upon the State. Was it possible that the members of the House intended to bring Pennsylvania into such a position as would force her to embrace the doctrine of repudiation? It would make no difference whether the Records were received or not; they would have to be paid for, and the only way to evade this payment was by repudiation. If members were willing to take the first step towards this, let them do so with their eyes open. The contract was as binding as the State Debt; for it was made by the consent of the representatives in assembly, who were the delegates of the entire people of the Commonwealth. Nothing but the broad principle of repudiation could deprive the present contractor of the privileges which, under the agreement, he enjoys.

But the resolution—what did it authorize?—It empowered the committee to make a contract which was only binding on those whom it represented, and the contractor who agrees to the one part does it on the chance that the Senate will sanction the movement. It was true that the House did make contracts of certain kinds, but was it to be expected that the Senate, when they already had an agreement with a publisher, which was binding, would agree to make the State pay for another, which they had not sanctioned.

He had more faith than to believe that it was intended to repudiate the obligations of the State. It was disreputable for a people to do so, but if gentlemen would vote for such a measure, he desired that they should do so knowingly, and with the facts all before their eyes. If this new contract was to be paid, and the old one not to be paid, what was it but repudiation? It stultified the House; for it made them a party to a contract which was not binding upon the State.

Mr. HAMERSLY said that for a great many years it had been customary for each branch of the Legislature to make its own contracts. The House had a right to do so now, and would take care that its contractor received his pay or the Senate would certainly not get their's.

Mr. LAWRENCE, (Dauphin,) said that, as the parties on both sides in the matter of the Record were his immediate constituents, he was entitled to the floor, to be heard in their defence. He should join direct issue with the gentleman from Northampton (Mr. GOEPP,) in reference to the point of law which the last named gentleman had laid down. While he entertained the greatest respect for his legal opinions, he desired to refresh his memory upon one of the first principles of law, viz: the essentials of a contract. He should do this, too, without being frightened by the lugbear of repudiation—that great monster which had been brought out of its grave for this occasion. Nor would he be deterred by the idea of assuming a responsibility; for it was for this that he was sent here by his constituents.

But the gentleman had stated that the House was about to repudiate a contract. Now where was the contract with Richard J. Haldeman, for publishing the Daily Record this session? There was none. A contract was defined in law to be an engagement between two parties, who it was essential, should be able to contract—willing to contract, and who should contract. Two of these essentials had been fulfilled, viz: The ability and willingness, but the third had not been complied with.

The bill of 1858, which it must be admitted, was a law of the Commonwealth, was then read by the SPEAKER.

No evidence of assent to the so-called contract had been given by any officer of the Commonwealth. Last year this assent was rendered, but not during the present term. There was no renewal of the agreement—no endorsement of it, and no evidence of its continuance, with the assent of both parties.

He would tell why the clause providing for the continuance of the publication of the Record had been inserted in the act of 1858. At that time there was an excitement about Kansas, and a certain gentleman who held a position in the Senate, was weak in the knees—shaky, and required bolstering. The Democratic central organ in Pennsylvania, the Patriot and Union, volunteered to be his organ. He came out in favor of the Lecompton Constitution, and was supported by his backer. As a reward for his movement he is now enjoying his laurels in a Southern clime; but in order to aid and pay the organ, he fought through that passage in the act of 1858, knowing that the House this year would be Republican; for he had acumen enough to foresee the great change in popular sentiment. Those who were in the House last year know how energetically the clause was pressed, and how it was finally passed by a trick—how the House was unable to get an appropriation bill, and how the Senate refused to adjourn without their demand was complied with. The Republicans were in the minority then, and were conquered; but, thank God! were now in their strength, and it was but just and fair that they should wield their power, as had been done by the Democrats before them.

He had not proposed to make this a party question, but would have to do so. At the time of the passage of that continuing clause, it was admitted that it was inserted only because it was evident that the House would be Republican. He had proposed to amend it so that it would allow either branch the right to annul the contract, but the amendment and its supporters were beaten down.

Gentlemen had said that the Republicans, if they gave the new contract now, as was proposed, would not be able to pay the printer. Why not? The House had control of its own printing, and the Senate could not refuse to pass an appropriation bill. It might be very easy to say, "do you suppose the Senate will pass an opposition appropriation bill;" but they would pass it, nevertheless, for they could not, and would not, stop the government of the State. There would have to be concessions on both sides. The resolution should pass at once, and the House, if they refused to pass it, would only show themselves weak in the knees.

Cries of question! question!

Mr. THOMPSON supposed that every gentleman present had determined in his own mind what course to pursue. The gentleman from Luzerne (Mr. GRITMAN) had deprecated the existence of two Records, and although this result might follow the passage of the resolution, and although he disliked extremes, he should vote in favor of the course proposed, from the fact that he thought the House had a right to make its own laws. In the outset, the Democracy had defended their Record on the score of economy, but this argument had been swept away, and they had suffered it to dwindle down to a mere paltry question of politics.

In law no contract existed for the publication of the Record because in the original contract the time had been limited. He denied positively that the agreement extended into this winter. Suppose that an action was to be brought by the so-called contractor to recover pay for work performed. What ground would be taken? He would certainly be defeated, on the ground that no contract existed.

He considered that it was but right to vote for the resolution, and to enter into a new contract at as low a rate as possible, and if the opposition in the House and Senate were determined to abide by the old agreement, let them take the responsibility of paying double.

Mr. PRICE called the previous question.

Before the vote was taken to sustain the previous question,

Mr. GRITMAN arose to speak.

Cries of "hear him," "hear him."

Mr. GRITMAN said that he would not speak, if matters had not been alluded to which demanded a reply. Efforts had been made to make of this a party question. The SPEAKER of the House had descended from his chair to whip through a party question. He did not suppose that the name and dignity of the Chair should be used for any such purpose. He was not accustomed to see the SPEAKER of the House of Representatives of Pennsylvania come down and drive his party to a vote upon a question which was not of general partizan interest.

There seemed to be a disposition on the part of those who might be facetiously termed the People's party, to carry things with a high hand. He was afraid that a little power had made them mad. They seemed to think that the great Democratic party had been annihilated. Did they suppose that the old Democracy was not yet alive, because the Republicans happened, by accident, to have a small majority in the House of Representatives? Did they imagine that they could pass any measure, whether just or not, and throw themselves upon their constituents for support?

He was willing that the power of the majority should be used for the benefit of the party, but that majority was now combatting, not the Democracy, but a law of the land. The law, it was true, might be wrong, and complaints might be founded against it, but it was nevertheless a law, and as such to be found upon the statute books.

The vote that was proposed would only serve to run the State into additional expense to gratify a printer. Had the proposal come in any other manner, he would have objected. But the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, through her Representatives, had determined that the old contract should exist, and that it should be paid for. Moreover, the constituents of the members present, as reasonable men, must agree with this view, and would say so much to their Representatives.

The law could not be abrogated. It was there, and would there remain, and the expense which would accrue under its provisions could not be avoided. However, if the gentlemen were prepared to make a new contract, they had better do it.

Mr. SMITH, (Berks,) said that he had come from a county which he regretted to say, had lately shown signs of heresy in favor of the opposition. He was not now, however, about to make a stump speech, or one inspired simply by a desire to oppose. Neither did he arise with the words of Shakspeare in his heart, if not on his lips:

"I am Sir Oracle:

When I ope my lips, let no dog bark," but his object now was to express his astonishment that any legal gentleman could assert that there was no contract in existence for the publication of the Record—to oppose the sophistry of the gentleman from Dauphin, (Mr. LAWRENCE,) and to fortify and strengthen the views which had been expressed by the gentleman from Northampton, (Mr. GOEPP.)

The gentleman from Dauphin had submitted his understandings of a contract, and had stated that for its completion there were three essentials, viz: ability, willingness and an actual consummation. And the same gentleman had denied that any contract was in force between the House and the present publisher of the Record. Did Mr. LAWRENCE know that the last essential was sometimes implied as well as expressed, and that assent was also implied? What greater evidence could there be of the assent of the publisher in the present instance to the terms of the act, than that of his furnishing the Records daily.

If he was with the majority, he would no doubt agree with them in the principle that "to the victors belong the spoils," but under the present circumstances, however much inclined he might be to favor his own party, he would not consent to vote for such a resolution as was proposed. What would be the effect of its passage? Mr. Haldeman would proceed with his publication, and would continue until the end of the session. The new-contractor would furnish his Record, and the members would find their desks strewn over with two Records by two different publishers.

He concluded by alluding to the absurdity of one party attempting to abrogate a contract in which two were interested, and which could only be dissolved by the joint action of both.

Mr. LAWRENCE, (Dauphin,) said that this was really refreshing, and seemed like a revival of the old times of last session, when a small Republican minority combatted the Democracy. It was positively "fun," and when he used this word, he thought that he did so in its proper significance.

But he desired to reply to the gentleman on the other side of the House, (Mr. GRITMAN,) who seemed to think that, because he had been elected SPEAKER of the House, his mouth was to be closed during the session. He was not willing, however, to have his usefulness thus swallowed up in dignity. To pursue such a course would not be to do justice to the constituents who had sent him, and who did not know when they elected him that he was to be chosen SPEAKER. Was there any precedent why he should not descend to the floor of the House, and take part in debate? He did not come down as Sir Oracle, as a member had seemed to imply, but to satisfy the demands of his constituents, and he was determined to maintain his position as long as he thought proper. To say that because he was SPEAKER he must not take part in proceedings, was simply begging the question. It was using clap-trap, the meanest kind of oratory.

He believed that the resolution would pass, and did not believe that one member present had been affected by the speeches made, except perhaps some of the gentlemen of the opposition who had been injured in temper. The gentleman from Berks, (Mr. SMITH,) had admitted that two requisites of a contract had been fulfilled, and had boldly asserted the consummation of the third. He stated that a charter of incorporation was a contract between the State and other parties, in which assent, on the one hand, was implied.

Mr. SMITH, (Berks,) denied having said anything of the kind.

Mr. LAWRENCE (Dauphin,) continuing, said that in the case which he had just cited, it was true that consent was implied, but not until the act of incorporation had been handed in at the Secretary's office, the enrolment tax paid and the charter taken out. Now, how had the present publisher of the Record given any assent similar to this? True, he had sent papers to the House, but other gentlemen had done the same.

And it was said that Mr. Haldeman would continue to send the Record, and would demand pay at the end of the session. Would somebody be kind enough to say how he could enforce this payment, supposing the contract to exist, as the gentlemen from Berks and Northampton, had said? The House had the matter in its own hands. If they would not pass the appropriation bill, where would be the remedy? The Governor could not give pay—neither could the Senate, and who under Heaven could? The State could not be sued under existing laws, and it remained with the House, the members of which were fresh from their constituents, to control this matter.

He did not propose to reply to the gentlemen who, in a spirit not over kind or courteous, had doubted his right to come down from the Chair and take part in the debate.

Mr. SMITH, (Berks,) rose to explain. He had not reflected on the course of the gentleman from Dauphin, (Mr. LAWRENCE,) and in that respect did not coincide with the views of the gentleman from Luzerne, (Mr. GRITMAN.) He had not reflected on the SPEAKER.

Mr. LAWRENCE, (Dauphin.) Then, perhaps, the gentleman will tell me what he meant by his Shaksperian quotation.

Mr. SMITH, (Berks.) It was applicable to the manner of the gentleman from Dauphin, (Mr. LAWRENCE,) and perhaps other members of the opposition.

Mr. LAWRENCE, (Dauphin,) said that he was sorry, but could not help his manner. If the gentleman would suggest any particular impropriety which had been evident in his manner, he would beg pardon.

Mr. PATTERSON called the previous question.

Cries of "no, no, no!"

The call was seconded by Messrs. PATTERSON, PALM, PRICE, WAGONSELLER, WAL-

BORN, WHITMAN, WILEY, WITHROW, KENEAGY, IRISH, GREEN and BOYER of Schuylkill.

Several gentlemen solicited the SPEAKER not to put the question.

The SPEAKER. The Speaker has no opinion. The previous question has been called, and he has now but one course to pursue.

Mr. GOEPP claiming the floor.

On the question,

Shall the main resolution now be put?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. WARDEN and Mr. WILCOX, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Acker, Balliet, Barnsley, Bayard, Boyer, (Schuylkill,) Bryson, Burley, Campbell, Church, Durboraw, Eckman, Fearon, Fisher, Green, Hamersly, Harding, Irish, Keneagy, Lawrence, (Washington,) McHaffey, McCurdy, McDowell, Miller, Neall, Palm, Patterson, Price, Ramsdell, Shaffer, Smead, Styer, Wagonseller, Walborn, Walker, Whitman, Wigton, Wiley, Williams, (Bucks,) Withrow and Zoller—40.

NAYS—Messrs. Abbott, Barlow, Bertolet, Boyer, (Clearfield,) Brodhead, Custer, Dismaut, Dodds, Ellmaker, Evans, Fleming, Foster, Glatz, Goepf, Good, Graham, Gratz, Gray, Gritman, Hill, Hottenstine, Ketchum, Kinney, Laird, Mann, McClain, Oaks, Peirce, Pinkerton, Porter, Pugh, Rohrer, Rose, Rouse, Sheppard, Shields, Smith, (Berks,) Smith, (Philadelphia,) Stephens, Stuart, Taylor, Thompson, Thorn, Warden, Wilcox, Williston, Wilson, Wolf, Wood, Woodring and Lawrence, Speaker—51.

So the question was determined in the negative.

Mr. GOEPP said that it was always with reluctance that he intruded himself upon the attention of the House, but he had been referred to by the gentleman from Dauphin, (Mr. LAWRENCE,) and felt that in justice he was entitled to a hearing, not that he expected, however, to change any vote.

He thanked the gentleman from Dauphin for inquiring by what means the present contractor would get his money. In this query the cloven foot of the Republicans had been perceptible. How did any bondholder of the State enforce his claims? He could not bring an action, for the Commonwealth could not be sued. At one time this might have been done, but it was not possible now. But the bondholders depended on the honor of a great Commonwealth, and in the present case the contractor might have no remedy, and depend solely upon the sense of honor which should ever enforce the payment of the just obligations of the State.

He regretted that a strong party spirit had misled the gentleman from Dauphin in the statement that there was no evidence that the contractor had accepted the provisions of the act of 1858. That act directed Mr. Haldeman to do the printing of the Record, and to receive pay for it. He sent his papers to the House, and the contract was just as complete as in the case of a private individual who ordered a paper and received it. There could be no stronger indications of assent. The refusal to compensate the publisher would be a plain act of repudiation, and the members must see that if the resolution pass such repudiation would inevitably follow, or the Commonwealth would be saddled with two Records.

Mr. SHEPPARD had voted against the enforcement of the previous question, but hoped that the vote would now be taken.

Mr. LAWRENCE, (Washington,) asked leave to make a statement. The hour of one had nearly arrived, and if the debate was prolonged, there would be no time for the committees to hand in their reports, which would consequently be debarred from being put upon the private calendar. He would therefore move that the matter under discussion be postponed for the present, in order to allow the committees time to report.

Mr. LAWRENCE, (Dauphin.) Let the gentleman modify his motion so as to postpone the hour of adjournment until the committees have time to report.

The SPEAKER. The motion is before the House to postpone the consideration of the resolution, in order to allow—

Mr. LAWRENCE, (Dauphin,) was willing that the hour of adjournment should be extended, but was unwilling that the present matter should be postponed.

The SPEAKER declared that the object of both gentlemen would be answered by the motion of the gentleman from Washington, (Mr. LAWRENCE.)

Mr. ROSE rose to a point of order. He wished to inquire whether, as the yeas and nays had been previously called for on the vote upon the resolution, it was proper to entertain any motion of this kind.

The SPEAKER said that the call for the yeas and nays had been withdrawn some time since.

The yeas and nays were called upon the motion of Mr. LAWRENCE to postpone.

Mr. LAWRENCE, (Dauphin.) Is it in order to call the previous question?

The SPEAKER. It is not. The Clerk will proceed with the call for the yeas and nays.

Mr. WILCOX. I call for the orders of the day.

The SPEAKER. The hour of one having arrived, this House stands adjourned until tomorrow morning, at eleven o'clock.

HARRISBURG, FRIDAY, Jan. 14, 1859.

The Board met.

Present—Mr. Frazer, Mr. Strickland and Mr. Scott, President.

Mr. Strickland offered the following resolution, viz:

Resolved, That this Board, in pursuance of past practice of the Board of Canal Commissioners, will not re-open and re-consider any claim rejected by a previous Board, unless directed to do so by the Legislature.

And on the question,

Will the Board agree to the resolution?

The yeas and nays were required, and were as follows:

YEA—Mr. Strickland.

NAYS—Mr. Frazer and Mr. Scott.

So the resolution was determined in the negative.

HARRISBURG, TUESDAY, Jan. 18, 1859.

The board met.

Present—Mr. Frazer, Mr. Strickland and Mr. Scott, President.

Mr. Scott moved that A. M. White be permitted to introduce additional testimony in the case of the claim of A. M. and R. White & Co., and that he be heard in support of the same.

And on the question,

Will the Board agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required, and were as follows:

YEAS—Mr. Frazer and Mr. Scott.

NAY—Mr. Strickland.

So the motion was agreed to.

Mr. Strickland presented his reasons for his vote as follows, which were ordered to be entered on the Journal:

"Mr. Strickland states as his reasons for voting in the negative, that this case had been fully heard, and fairly rejected by the late Board."

Mr. Scott presented the reasons for his vote, which were ordered to be entered on the Journal, as follows:

"I vote for hearing additional testimony for the reason, that there was a distinct understanding at the meeting of the Board at Huntingdon, and after payment of the claim had been refused at a meeting of the Board at Pittsburgh, that additional testimony would be heard at Harrisburg."

HARRISBURG, WEDNESDAY, Jan. 19, 1859.

The Board met.

Present—Mr. Frazer, Mr. Strickland, and Mr. Scott, President.

The President laid before the Board a communication from Wm. B. Foster, Jr., Vice President of the Pennsylvania railroad company, stating that a suit has been brought against that company, in the court of Common Pleas of Westmoreland county, by Catharine Cope, for damages sustained on the Philadelphia and Columbia railroad, on the night of the 25th of January, 1857, and suggesting, as it is alleged, that the accident was caused by the negligence of the agents of the Commonwealth, the appointment of an attorney to represent her in the suit or in an effort to effect a compromise.

Which was read, and referred to the Attorney General.

Mr. Frazer offered the following resolution, viz:

Resolved, That the Board proceed to the examination of the claim of A. M. & R. White & Co.

And on the question, will the Board agree to the resolution?

The yeas and nays were required, and were as follows:

YEAS—Mr. Frazer and Mr. Scott.

NAY—Mr. Strickland.

So the resolution was agreed to.

Mr. Strickland presented the reasons for his vote, which were directed to be entered on the Journal, as follows:

"Mr. Strickland states as his reasons for voting in the negative,

"That this case of A. M. & R. White & Co., was fully heard and examined by the late Board of Canal Commissioners; that it was 'disallowed' by that Board at Pittsburgh, in September last, that the entry 'disallowed,' then made, was never erased or ordered by that Board to be erased, although they subsequently agreed to hear and did hear the claimants further in relation thereto; and that after a hearing by that Board, on Monday the 10th inst., the case was continued 'disallowed' and finally disposed of, and the attorney having charge of it left the Board with that understanding, and that the only recourse open for the party, was an application to the Legislature. That, admitting the right of this Board to open and re consider the case, which is not admitted, the testimony now produced in no respect changes its features as it stood before the late Board. It is a book alleged to be the claimants' book of original entries, and could have been produced by them at any time, if they had cared to do so; but the memorandum book from which the entry was taken, has been for months in possession of the Board.

"That to open this or any other case similarly situated, is to assume the right to open any and every similar case 'disallowed' or rejected by the late or any previous Board of Canal Commissioners, without limit as to time—and to unsettle the past practice of the Board without cause; for, in this, as in all other cases 'disallowed' or rejected by a previous Board, the party claimant cannot suffer permanent wrong, because redress is always within the power of the Legislature, and will doubtless be afforded, if it be shown that justice has not been done.

"That, aside from the foregoing reasons, it is due to the Legislature, who have before them a bill limiting the existence of the Board of Canal Commissioners, and restraining their power in all cases similar to that now before the Board, and also to the character of this Board, that final action shall not be taken in this or any similar case, during the pendency of said bill."

Mr. Scott presented the reasons for his vote, which were directed to be entered on the Journal, as follows:

"My reasons for voting to again examine this claim is, that when it was before the Board at previous meetings, I was fully convinced, after hearing the testimony, that a portion of the claim was just, and should be paid, and so voted at the time. This claim is examined by the Board, by the authority given in the 17th section of the act approved the 21st day of April, 1858, to provide for the payment of certain claims, and I know of no law, or any rule or regulation of the Canal Board, that is a bar to any action this Board may see proper to take."

Mr. Frazer presented the reasons for his vote, which were directed to be entered upon the Journal, as follows:

"William E. Frazer states as his reason for voting in the affirmative, that at a meeting of the Canal Board, held in Huntingdon, in the month of December, 1858, from the testimony given, did agree to grant a re-hearing of the case, which investigation was delayed by unavoidable casualties on the part of the claimant, until after the organization of the present Board; that the said claimant appeared before the present Board, and on his solemn oath says, 'the book he exhibited to the Board, contained the original entry of his amount, and is just and true.' These, together with the array of testimony on file in this office in this case, has been a sufficient cause for my affirmative vote, in my estimation."

The President laid before the Board a report to the Legislature on the claim of Peter S. McCulloch, for damage to his section boat, caused by a collision on the Allegheny Portage railroad, on the 4th of October, 1853.

Which was read, approved, and directed to be transmitted to both houses of the Legislature.

HARRISBURG, THURSDAY, Jan. 20, 1859.

The Board met.

Present—Mr. Frazer, Mr. Strickland and Mr. Scott, President.

Mr. Frazer moved that the claim of A. M. & R. White & Co. be allowed.

Mr. Scott moved to amend the motion so as to allow A. M. & R. White & Co. so much of their claim for wood only as was measured by Mr. Bryden, viz—3597½ cords.

And on the question,

Will the Board agree to the amendment?

The yeas and nays were required, and were as follows:

YEAS—Messrs. Frazer and Scott.

NAY—None.

[Mr. Strickland declined voting.]

The question recurring, will the Board agree to the motion as amended?

The yeas and nays were required, and were as follows:

YEAS—Messrs. Frazer and Scott.

NAY—None.

[Mr. Strickland declined voting.]

So the motion, as amended, was agreed to.

Mr. Strickland presented the reasons for not voting on this question, which were ordered to be entered on the Journal, as follows:

"He states that, believing the reasons given by him, and entered upon the Journal, against hearing the party claimant in this case, preliminary to the question on opening and re-considering it, and subsequently against opening for re-consideration, are proper and well founded; he considers that they forbid him voting, even in the negative, on the question of allowing the claim, or any portion of it, and to do so might be construed into a recognition of the action of the majority of this Board on the preceding questions as having been right and proper. If, however, he had been free to vote on the question of allowing the claim, or any portion of it, he would have considered it his duty to vote in the negative, for the claim is now unchanged in a single important feature from what it was before the late Board, and he then voted against allowing any portion of it, because, from all the information he could obtain, and after a free consideration of all the facts and circumstances bearing on it, (which information, facts and circumstances extend to bills for wood, heretofore allowed and paid to the same party,) he was satisfied that there was not anything due from the Commonwealth to these claimants. Such was the judgment of the late Board, and such is still his opinion."

HARRISBURG, FRIDAY, Jan. 21, 1859.

The Board met,

Present—Mr. Frazer and Mr. Strickland, President, pro tem.

The President, pro tem, laid before the Board a report on the claim of Samuel Copper, late contractor for Lock No. 11, on the Erie extension of the Pennsylvania canal, referred to the Canal Commissioners by an act approved the 8th of May, 1840.

Which was read, approved, and directed to be transmitted to both Houses of the Legislature.

Mr. Strickland called the attention of the Board to the remarks of Mr. Turney in the Senate yesterday, on the bill abolishing the office of Canal Commissioner; and stated that the information for which his name is there given as authority was simply a reply to the written inquiry of the Senator as to the action of the Board on the "White claim."

HARRISBURG, TUESDAY, Jan. 25, 1859.

The Board met,

Present—Mr. Frazer and Mr. Strickland, President, pro tem.

Ordered that the Secretary transmit to the Legislature, in pursuance of law, a copy of the Journal of the Board, from the commencement of the present fiscal year.

In pursuance of the act approved this day, abolishing the Board of Canal Commissioners, the Board transferred to the custody of the Auditor General, he being present in the office, "all books, papers, records, and other property belonging to said department."

Mr. FINNEY moved that resolution No. 96, "relative to the pay of the commissioners appointed to investigate the affairs of certain banks," be referred back to the Committee on Finance. Agreed to.

BILLS CONSIDERED AND PASSED.

On motion of Mr. BELL, Senate bill No. 26, "A further supplement to an act authorizing the Governor to incorporate the West Chester and Wilmington plank road company."

On motion of Mr. FINNEY, Senate bill, No. 129, "An Act to incorporate the Presbyterian church at Harrisburg," was called up.

The Senate resolved itself into committee of the whole. (Mr. BELL in the Chair.)

On motion of Mr. FINNEY, the word "at" in several places was changed to "of."

Mr. GREGG moved to amend by adding "Old School," in the first line of the first article.

Mr. GREGG offered the amendment in good faith. It was well known to this community that there were two branches of the Presbyterian church, which had worshipped in the same church for twenty years. It is also well known that the church asking for this act of incorporation is the Old School Presbyterian church—a name which they themselves claim, and which they cannot object to in the charter. If the Legislature incorporates them by "the Presbyterian church of Harrisburg," it makes but one Presbyterian church here, debarring others of the same denomination, from the use of a name to which they are equally entitled. If the amendment was made, he should vote for the bill; if not, he should be constrained to vote against it. He had, at all events, an objection to the bill; it was a case in which the courts have power, and they could have gone there and obtained their charter, without coming here to take up the time of legislation.

Mr. HARRIS could not see any good object in amending the name to that of "Old School." It was known to every Senator that the church making application for the charter is the Presbyterian church, and that they do not claim to be Old School. The portion which had seceded is known as the New School, and that they have gone by that name because they did secede.

Mr. BELL regretted that this matter had been brought here. He was informed that the Presbyterian church of Harrisburg had separated, and that both are erecting houses of worship.—The only difficulty with regard to the act of incorporation is the title. Those who had worshipped in the house destroyed by fire are generally known as the Presbyterian church; and he had been informed by the pastor that letters were frequently received by him directed to the "Presbyterian church of Harrisburg." If that title is given to the body now asking for an act of incorporation, it may lead to confusion and error. He remarked that some member of the Committee on Corporations, who had had the bill under consideration, might be able to make some statement which would set the matter in a proper light.

Mr. WRIGHT, as a member of the Committee on Corporations, did not know that he was called upon to say what had been done in their meetings; yet he could see no impropriety in it. He remarked that, in the event of the passage of this bill, the other branch of the church will seek an act of incorporation by some other name, and there could be no difficulty or confusion, as was feared by the Senator from Chester. The trouble between the different branches does not take its rise in the title, but in the division. Division in any body, religious or political, was calculated to breed unkind feelings, and opposition to everything, on the part of one branch, which was done by the other. He considered the name in the bill a very proper one. The church had been known for years as the Presbyterian church of Harrisburg; and while there is no other here, letters go there. But the moment a second church comes and asks for a charter, something must be done to designate it from the other. It had been suggested in Committee, that the first Presbyterian church of Harrisburg would be a proper name; but it was not for the Senate or the Committee to designate a name for any body, which came here asking for an act of incorporation. No title can be suggested which will be perfectly satisfactory to both parties; and he saw no impropriety in passing the bill as it is.

Mr. GREGG, in offering the amendment, did it from the purest motives. He did not know of any ill-feeling existing between the two branches of the church, until it had been alluded to here. He did know that the churches had been worshipping together for twenty years, and he supposed they were moving along harmoniously. The simple object of his amendment was to designate the church. He did not care in what way it was done, but to avoid difficulty it should be done in some manner different from the title contemplated by the bill.

Mr. BELL remarked that this charter had been asked for at the hands of the court, but the judge refused it on the ground of the title, as it is now in the bill. That was the sole ground upon which the refusal was made, and that it would lead to confusion and inconvenience.

Mr. RANDALL inquired whether any legacies had been left to the church, under the old charter, and whether they shall remain with the church already organized, or to the new corporation; and in what way they would be legally affected by this act.

Mr. FINNEY said he thought he could give an explanation entirely satisfactory to the Senator from Philadelphia. Here was a corporation, known in law, as the English Congregational church. If legacies had been left to the church under that name, they would remain—and a second party, in asking for an act of incorporation, take no rights vested in the first. The church asking for this charter do not claim such legacies, nor do they object to the other branch changing its title. So far as the confusion to which the Senator from Chester had alluded, there could be none whatever. The church had existed for a quarter of a century, under the corporate name of the English Congregational church, and yet they had always been addressed by the name of Presbyterian church. In all correspondence affecting the general interests of the church, it made but little difference into which hands it fell, while in matters of a private character, parties would send to the pastors.

He considered the amendment of the Senator from Centre as invidious. It was not a title taken by themselves, and either old or new would be an invidious designation. The parties have a right to have their own views and separate organizations; and he believed in his heart that no harm to religion resulted from sectarian divisions. He could not see anything wrong in the name; and if the other branch should come here and ask for an act of incorporation, under whatever name they choose to be designated by, he should vote for it.

Mr. WRIGHT, in reply to the question of his colleague, would say that there had been no objection urged by either party, that there were any legacies which could be interfered with by this bill.

Mr. FRANCIS regretted that this matter had come here in the shape it did. He had tried all in his power, by outside influences, to bring the parties to terms. The objections which were being made to the title of the bill reminded him of the lines in Shakspeare,

He who steals my purse steals trash, but he who robs me of my good name," &c.

It was the good old name of the Presbyterian church which was the bone of contention here. The English Congregational church has been in existence for some twenty years, he said. He then entered into a history of the church difficulty in 1838, growing out of the division of the Old and New School branches, and the adjudication of the matter before the supreme court. He had, he said, no personal feelings in the matter, but he considered the act of incorporation justly applied for, and he should vote for the bill, and for the title as it is.

Mr. GAZZAM did not wish to add a word to what had been said; but as he should vote for the bill, he desired briefly to give his reasons for it. He deeply regretted that any difference had arisen between the two branches of the Presbyterian church, and he would not have voted for the title, had the New School organization acted towards the others as justice and fair dealing demanded, in making a division of the property of the church. The title was not a material matter, and he saw no propriety in the amendment.

The question being upon the amendment offered by Mr. GREGG, it was not agreed to, and the bill finally passed.

On motion of Mr. FINNEY, the Senate adjourned until 3 o'clock, P. M. on Monday next.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

SATURDAY, Jan. 29, 1859.

The House met at the usual hour, and was called to order by the SPEAKER.

Prayer was offered by the Rev. Mr. Miles, of the Baptist church of Harrisburg.

Journal of yesterday was read.

Mr. GOEPP moved that the House proceed to the consideration of House bill No. 98, "Supplement to an act incorporating the Philadelphia and Reading railroad," which was not agreed to.

Mr. IRISH, on leave, from Committee on Judiciary, reported as committed, "An Act relating to the recording of certain ordinances in the city of Allegheny," and moved that the House proceed to the consideration of the same; which was agreed to.

Whereupon said bill was taken up and passed finally.

Mr. RANDALL moved that the rules be suspended and that the House proceed to the consideration of the resolution relative to entering into contract with Geore Bergner & Co., for the publication of a Daily Legislative Record.

And on the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. WOODRING and Mr. WILLISTON, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. So the question was determined in the negative, two-thirds not voting in the affirmative.

ORIGINAL RESOLUTIONS.

Mr. WILCOX offered a resolution relative to the pay and usual mileage of A. L. Linton, for services as clerk on the contested election case of Oliver Evans; and on his motion, the rules in this case being dispensed with, said resolution passed finally.

Mr. PALM offered a resolution that when this House adjourns, it adjourn to meet again at 3 o'clock, P. M., on Monday.

Mr. SMITH, (Berks,) moved to amend the same by adding, that the House adjourn to-day at 12 o'clock.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. HAMERSLY and Mr. ECKMAN, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Bertolet, Brodhead, Bryson, Church, Glatz, Goepf, Good, Harding, Hottenstine, Laird, Mann, M'Clure, Porter, Price, Rohrer, Smead, Smith, (Berks,) Stephens, Walborn, Wiley and Woodring—21.

NAYS—Messrs. Abbott, Acker, Balliet, Barnsley, Barlow, Bayard, Boyer, (Clearfield,) Boyer, (Schuylkill,) Burley, Custer, Dismant, Dodds, Durboraw, Eckman, Ellmaker, Evans, Fearon, Fisher, Fleming, Graham, Gratz, Gray, Gritman, Hamersly, Hill, Irish, Keneagy, Ketchum, Lawrence, (Washington,) Mehaffey, M'Curdy, M'Dowell, Miller, Oaks, Palm, Patterson, Pennell, Peirce, Pinkerton, Pugh, Ramsdell, Rose, Sheppard, Shields, Stuart, Styer, Taylor, Thompson, Thorn, Wagonseller, Walker, Warden Whitman, Wigton, Wilcox, Williams, (Bucks,) Williston, Wilson, Withrow, Wolf, Wood, Zoller and Lawrence, Speaker—63.

So the question was determined in the negative.

The original resolution was then adopted.

On motion of Mr. M'DOWELL, the bill authorizing the commissioners of Juniata county to construct a certain road was re-committed.

Mr. SMITH, (Berks,) moved that the House proceed to the consideration of the resolution submitted by him a few days since relative to the printing of railroad bills, and that the rules be suspended for that purpose.

Mr. THORN called for a division of the question. He was entirely opposed to having the rules suspended so frequently during the day, and wished the members to understand what would be the effect. If they were not suspended, the Record matter would come up in its order for adjustment.

Mr. SMITH said that when he offered his resolution it was with the full knowledge that the regular business would be interrupted. He desired to have his resolution disposed of, and in some measure to anticipate the report of the Committee on Railroads.

On the question, will the House agree to suspend the rules?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. SMITH, (Berks,) and Mr. ROSE, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Bayard, Bertolet, Boyer, (Clearfield,) Brodhead, Custer, Dismant, Evans, Fleming, Goepf, Good, Gray, Gritman, Harding, Hill, Hottenstine, Laird, Miller, Oaks, Pennell, Porter, Rohrer, Rose, Shields, Smead, Smith, (Berks,) Stephens, Stuart, Warden, Wilcox, Williams, (Bucks,) Wilson, Wolf and Woodring—33.

NAYS—Messrs. Abbott, Acker, Balliet, Barnsley, Barlow, Boyer, (Schuylkill,) Bryson, Burley, Campbell, Church, Dodds, Durboraw, Eckman, Ellmaker, Fearon, Fisher, Glatz, Graham, Gratz, Hamersly, Irish, Keneagy, Ketchum, Kinney, Lawrence, (Washington,) Mann, M'Curdy, M'Dowell, Palm, Patterson, Peirce, Pinkerton, Price, Pugh, Ramsdell, Rouse, Sheppard, Styer, Taylor, Thompson, Thorn, Wagonseller, Walborn, Walker, Whitman, Wigton, Wiley, Williston, Withrow, Wood, Zoller and Lawrence, Speaker—52.

So the question was determined in the negative.

Mr. HARDING offered a resolution that the House adjourn at 12 o'clock, noon, to day; not agreed to.

Mr. WILEY offered a resolution that there be an afternoon session on Tuesday and Thursday, from 3 till 5 o'clock; which was read the second time.

Mr. GOEPP said that the action of the House had been greatly embarrassed during the session by the different committees on contested elections. Some of them had been discharged, but others were still in existence, and their members were obliged to attend regularly, thereby necessarily interfering with the meeting of the standing committees of the House; under these circumstances, and in consideration of the present difficulty of getting committees together, he hoped that the House would postpone afternoon sessions for a week or longer.

Mr. ROSE moved a postponement; agreed to.

The Committee on Printing, to whom was referred the following resolution, viz:

"Resolved, That the Committee on Printing be, and they are hereby requested to inquire what documents, and the number of copies thereof each member of this House is entitled to receive by existing laws, and what number have already been delivered, and report the same at an early day."

Respectfully beg leave to report, that they have examined the act, approved on the 9th day of April, 1856, on this subject, and find that this House is entitled to receive the following documents, viz:

Two hundred copies of each bill ordered by this House. One hundred and seven copies of the "Executive Documents," containing the reports of the Canal Commissioners, State Treasurer, Auditor General, Surveyor General, Adjutant General and Superintendent of Common Schools.

The law says that documents containing these important reports, shall be delivered to the Clerk of the House, immediately after the opening of the Legislature, or as soon after as possible; and we find that no copies have been delivered thus far.

Five thousand copies of the Auditor General's report on Finance, are ordered to be printed.—This House is entitled to two-thirds of the number thus ordered; consequently three thousand three hundred and thirty-two copies is our share of this report.

This House is also entitled to three thousand three hundred and thirty-two copies of the Canal Commissioners' report.

Twenty thousand of the School Report are ordered to be printed; ten thousand of which are for the use of the Superintendent of Common Schools, and the balance are to be divided between the two Houses; one-third of them to the Senate and two-thirds to the House, which would give this House six thousand six hundred and sixty-seven copies of said report.

Your committee have also made inquiry regarding the documents already published; but they are informed by the officers that it is an utter impossibility to inform us of the number of copies furnished; that they are brought into the Hall and thrown in one corner without informing any body of the number of copies they delivered.

Your committee would therefore offer the following resolution:

"Resolved, That they be discharged from the further consideration of the subject."

Said resolution was read the second time, and adopted; and, on motion of Mr. SHEPPARD, ordered to be printed in the Legislative Record.

Mr. WILLISTON, on leave, read in his place and presented to the Chair a joint resolution relative to the pay of witnesses, &c., in the contested election case of Thomas H. Porter.

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. NEALL and Mr. HARDING, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Abbott, Acker, Balliet, Barnsley, Bayard, Boyer, (Clearfield,) Boyer, (Schuylkill,) Brodhead, Bryson, Burley, Campbell, Dodds, Durboraw, Eckman, Evans, Fearon, Fisher, Fleming, Glatz, Graham, Gratz, Gray, Gritman, Hamersly, Irish, Ketchum, Kinney, Laird, McClure, McCurdy, Miller, Oaks, Palm, Patterson, Peirce, Ramsdell, Smead, Taylor, Thorn, Wagonseller, Walborn, Warden, Wigton, Williston, Wilson and Lawrence, Speaker—46.

NAYS—Messrs. Bertolet, Church, Custer, Dismant, Goepp, Good, Harding, Hill, Hottenstine, Lawrence, (Washington,) Mann, Mehafeey, McDowell, Neall, Pinkerton, Price, Pugh, Rohrer, Rose, Rouse, Sheppard, Shields, Smith, (Berks,) Stephens, Styer, Thompson, Walker, Wileox, Williams, (Bucks,) Wolf, Wood, Woodring and Zoller—33.

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

The resolution authorizing the House committee to contract with Geo. Bergner & Co., for the publication of the Daily Record, then came up.

On the final passage, the resolution having been read,

Mr. HAMERSLY called the previous question.

The call was sustained by Messrs. PALM, ROUSE, ABBOTT, GRATZ, PRICE, M'CURDY, PATTERSON, BRYSON, RAMSDELL, KINNEY, BURLEY and SMEAD.

Mr. WILCOX offered an amendment to the resolution, that the name of Geo. Bergner & Co. be stricken out, and that the committee be instructed "to invite proposals and give the contract to the lowest bidder."

In the confusion which prevailed, it was almost impossible to tell whether the amendment of Mr. WILCOX had been offered before the call of the previous question or not.

Mr. M'CLURE asked leave to make a statement. He had been absent when the bill was offered, but could not now vote for it, being, as it was, in direct opposition to an existing contract.

Mr. IRISH rose to a point of order, and read from Sutherland's Manual, that the call for the previous question cut off all amendments.

Mr. GOEPP rose to a point of order. The gentleman, (Mr. IRISH,) had not read from the rules of the House, but of the Senate.

Mr. PRICE said that the previous question was called before the amendment was offered.

Cries of "no, no, no!"

The SPEAKER said that upon this he could not decide, and would leave it to the House to say.

Mr. GRITMAN thought that the Chair had already decided the point, and it was impossible, therefore, for it to be submitted to the House.

Mr. LAWRENCE, (Dauphin,) made a motion that it be the judgment of the House, that the previous question was called before the amendment was offered.

Mr. LAWRENCE, (Washington,) rose in order.

Mr. GRITMAN. Mr. SPEAKER, the gentlemen is certainly out of order.

Mr. SMITH, (Berks,) offered a written point of order; which was not read.

Mr. M'CLURE wished to disembarass the matter. He said that when the SPEAKER had recognized the call for the previous question, it cut off all amendments. The previous question was therefore the main one before the House.

The SPEAKER agreed that the question was, "shall the main question now be put?" but he was not able to decide whether the amendment of the gentleman from Elk, (Mr. WILCOX,) had been offered before or after the call for the previous question. He submitted the matter to the House for decision.

Mr. ROSE submitted that the call for the previous question had been made after the amendment was offered.

The SPEAKER recapitulated the circumstances, but again declined to decide upon which had the priority—the call or the amendment.

Mr. M'CLURE said that he would take an appeal from the decision of the Chair, that the previous question had been first called.

The SPEAKER said he had made no such decision.

Mr. ZOLLER asserted that the previous question was called before the amendment was offered.

Mr. ROHRER said that the matter was becoming a question of veracity, and that perhaps the members had better be sworn.

LEGISLATIVE RECORD.

PUBLISHED BY AUTHORITY OF THE LEGISLATURE OF PENNSYLVANIA.

FOR THE SESSION OF 1859.

No. 21

The Chair then called upon the House to decide as to the disputed point.

The House decided that the previous question had been first called, and that the amendment was therefore out of order.

Upon the question,

Shall the main question now be put?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. GOEPP and Mr. SMITH, (Berks,) and were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Abbott, Acker, Balliet, Barnsley, Barlow, Bayard, Boyer, (Schuylkill,) Bryson, Burley, Campbell, Church, Durboraw, Eckman, Fearon, Fisher, Graham, Gratz, Hamersly, Harding, Irish, Ketchum, Kinney, Lawrence, (Washington,) Mehaffey, M'Clure, M'Curdy, M'Dowell, Miller, Neall, Palm, Patterson, Peirce, Pinkerton, Price, Pugh, Ramsdell, Rouse, Sheppard, Smead, Styer, Taylor, Thompson, Thorn, Wagonseller, Walborn, Walker, Wigton, Williams, (Bucks,) Williston, Wilson, Wood, Zoller and Lawrence, Speaker—53.

NAYS—Messrs. Bertolet, Boyer, (Clearfield,) Brodhead, Custer, Dismant, Evans, Fleming, Glatz, Goepf, Good, Gray, Gritman, Hill, Hottentstine, Laird, Mann, Oaks, Rohrer, Shields, Smith, (Berks,) Stephens, Warden, Wilcox, Wolf and Woodring—25.

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

From the time the previous question was called until the vote was taken the greatest scene of confusion prevailed, and various points of order were raised but not sustained.

The question recurring,

Shall said resolution pass?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. MILLER and Mr. RAMSDELL, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Abbott, Balliet, Barnsley, Barlow, Bayard, Boyer, (Schuylkill,) Bryson, Burley, Campbell, Church, Durboraw, Eckman, Fearon, Fisher, Graham, Gratz, Hamersly, Harding, Irish, Kinney, Lawrence, (Washington,) Mehaffey, M'Curdy, M'Dowell, Miller, Neall, Patterson, Peirce, Pinkerton, Price, Ramsdell, Rouse, Sheppard, Smead, Styer, Taylor, Thorn, Wagonseller, Walborn, Walker, Wigton, Williams, (Bucks,) Williston, Wilson, Wood, Zoller and Lawrence, Speaker—47.

NAYS—Messrs. Bertolet, Boyer, (Clearfield,) Brodhead, Custer, Dismant, Dodds, Evans, Fleming, Glatz, Goepf, Good, Gray, Gritman, Hill, Hottentstine, Ketchum, Laird, Mann, McClure, Oaks, Pugh, Rohrer, Rose, Shields, Smith, (Berks,) Stephens, Warden, Wilcox and Woodring—29.

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

The SPEAKER adjourned the House until next Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock, P. M.

SENATE.

MONDAY, JAN. 31, 1859.

Agreeably to order, the Senate met at three o'clock, P. M. The SPEAKER in the Chair.

The Journal of Saturday was read and approved.

Messrs. BREWER, MILLER and SCOFIELD, appeared in their seats.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

Mr. THOMPSON asked and obtained leave of absence for Mr. BELL, for a few days from to-day.

Mr. BALDWIN, the same for Mr. PARKER.

BILLS IN PLACE.

Mr. STEELE read in his place, and presented to the Chair, a bill, entitled "A supplement to an act authorizing the appointment of an auctioneer in the borough and township of Wilkesbarre, Luzerne county."

Mr. PALMER, a bill, entitled "An Act to extend the limits of the borough of Pottsville, Schuylkill county."

Also, "A supplement to an act incorporating the Greenwood cemetery company at Tamaqua."

Mr. YARDLEY, a bill, entitled "An Act in incorporating the Newtown gas-light company."

Mr. TURNEY, a bill, entitled "An Act to authorize the register of wills of Westmoreland county to appoint an appraiser to re-assess the estate of Jonathan J. Mossholder, deceased, for collateral inheritance purposes."

Also, on leave given, a petition for the same, from heirs of Jonathan J. Mossholder.

Also, a bill, entitled "An Act reducing the expenses of collecting taxes in Fayette county."

On motion of Mr. TURNEY, the committee was discharged from the consideration of this bill, and the Senate resolved itself into committee of the whole. (Mr. BLOOD in the chair.)

After some time the chairman reported the same as committed, and the bill having been read a second and third time, passed finally.

Mr. WRIGHT, a bill, entitled "An Act to incorporate the Fourth and Eighth Street passenger railway company."

Mr. GREGG, a bill, entitled "A further supplement to an act incorporating the Lewisburg, Centre and Spruce Creek railroad company."

Mr. SCOFIELD, a bill, entitled "An Act supplementary to an act to enable the county of Warren to effect certain compromises."

On motion of the same Senator, the Judiciary Committee was discharged from the consideration of this bill, and the Senate resolved itself into committee of the whole. (Mr. BREWER in the Chair.)

This bill having gone through its various readings, was passed finally.

Mr. WRIGHT offered a joint resolution relative to the appointment of a postmaster for the Senate.

Mr. FINNEY thought the resolution entirely unnecessary. The Senate had a right to elect its own officers, without the consent of the House, as much so as to determine the right of its own members to a seat.

The SPEAKER remarked that the Judiciary Committee had decided that question, rendering the resolution entirely unnecessary.

Mr. WRIGHT subsequently withdrew his resolution.

BILLS CONSIDERED AND PASSED.

On motion of Mr. PENNEY, the Judiciary Committee was discharged from the consideration of House bill, No. 137, "An Act relative to the recording of a certain ordinance in the city of Allegheny," and the Senate resolved itself into committee of the whole. (Mr. FETTER in the Chair.)

This bill was read a second and third time, and passed finally.

Mr. HARRIS moved to discharge the Committee on Finance from the consideration of a joint resolution from the House, relative to the pay of A. L. Linton, for services rendered as clerk to the committee on the contested seat of Oliver Evans; which was agreed to.

The Senate then went into a committee of the whole on this resolution. (Mr. FINNEY in the Chair.)

Mr. TURNEY moved to amend by striking out the part relative to mileage.

Mr. HARRIS did not know that the mileage should be stricken out. If the allowance of mileage was usual, the claimant should receive it, as all others had. Other clerks, he thought, had received the allowance, and he saw no reason why, if this party had traveled in the discharge of his official duty, he should not receive the amount which the law allows to him.

Mr. TURNEY replied that the very reason why he moved the amendment, was that the Senate may ascertain whether he was entitled to mileage. He understood the claimant was here all the time, and that he did not travel in the discharge of his duty as clerk to the committee. His mileage might amount to much more than his per diem; and if the matter had been referred to the Committee on Finance, the facts of the case could have been ascertained. He was not aware what particular contested case these services were rendered in—they might have been in a case in which the Senate had no authority to employ the clerk. If it was the case of Edwards against Evans, there was no justice, morality or anything else honorable in the allowance. If the claimant was justly entitled to mileage, he would be the last to withhold it; but until he was convinced, by the proper investigation, that it was founded in justice, he should oppose its allowance; and it was with a view to a proper investigation of the matter, that he moved the amendment.

Mr. GAZZAM suggested that the Senate allow the bill to pass the committee of the whole, when he would move that it be re-committed to the Committee on Finance.

The amendment was agreed to, and after some time the committee rose; when,

On motion of Mr. WELSH, the resolution was re-committed to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. SHAEFFER called up Senate bill, No. 88, "An Act incorporating the First Presbyterian church of Strasburg, Lancaster county."

This bill passed finally; its title being so amended as to read, "First Presbyterian church and cemetery, &c."

On motion of Mr. STEELE, the Senate proceeded to consider Senate bill No. 76, "A further supplement to an act incorporating the Lackawanna and Bloomsburg railroad company."

The Senate resolved itself into committee of the whole. (Mr. GAZZAM in the chair.)

Mr. STEELE moved to amend in fourth line of the last section, by inserting after the word "county," the words "except Luzerne."

Mr. MYER asked the Senator why he excepted the county of Luzerne?

Mr. STEELE replied that the road had already been completed in Luzerne county; and, as there were some suits pending, he did not know but there might be some interference with them, unless this provision was made by the bill. There was no wrong contemplated to any parties, and none could be done that he was aware of. There was no objection to the bill.

The amendment was agreed to, and the bill was ordered to be transcribed for third reading.

On motion of Mr. FINNEY, Senate bill No. 77, entitled "A further supplement to an act incorporating the Meadville railroad company, approved May 20, 1857," was taken up in committee of the whole. (Mr. GREGG in the chair.)

Mr. FINNEY proposed to amend by adding the following at the end of the first section:

"And that the said company shall have the right to connect with any road or roads running to or from the counties of Warren and Mercer;" which was adopted.

The same Senator moved to strike out the second section. Agreed to.

The bill as amended passed finally.

Mr. TURNEY moved to discharge the Committee on Finance from the consideration of a joint resolution from the House, relative to the fitting up of the Hall of the House of Representatives, and that the same be referred to the Committee on Accounts.

Mr. WRIGHT hoped the motion to discharge the Committee on Finance and refer the matter to the Committee on Accounts, would not pass. It was a matter which properly belongs to that committee, and one upon which they should act.

Mr. RANDALL remarked that the Committee on Finance have had the matter under examination, and had unanimously agreed that the proper place for it was the Committee on Accounts.

Mr. GAZZAM trusted the Senator from Westmoreland would not ask for the reference. It was hardly fair, after one committee have had a claim under consideration, as the Committee on Finance have had this, and perhaps, finding something delicate or disagreeable in it, to seek its transfer to another. The Committee on Accounts have sufficient to engage their attention, and he saw no reason why it should be now bothered with this.

Mr. TURNEY replied that he had no desire to shirk any responsibility which attached to him. He was not only upon the Committee on Finance, but upon that of Accounts, to which it was proposed to refer the claim, and equal responsibility and labor attached to its consideration on each. Last year all bills of a similar character had been referred to the Committee on Accounts. He was surprised to hear the chairman of that committee, and one of the other members, asking that the reference asked for shall not be made. If the claim is referred to that committee, he was satisfied that it would receive the proper examination, and that they would, without difficulty, arrive at a conclusion entirely satisfactory to the Senate. So far as he was himself concerned, he would scorn to shirk any responsibility, or to be discharged from any duty, merely because something connected with that duty might be of a delicate or disagreeable character, or for any other reason. He hoped the Senator from Allegheny would take back the imputation that the motion to make the change of reference was actuated by any such motives. The matter comes to a committee of which he is also a member, and upon which the same objections would hold good. He only asked that the claim might be referred to the same committee as has been usual time out of mind.

Mr. GAZZAM remarked that he had merely put the matter interrogatively, without any wish to make any imputation, and he thought the Senator was unduly sensitive.

Mr. WRIGHT said the Senator from Westmoreland was correct in his statement with respect to the reference of these claims to the Committee on Accounts. At the close of the session, however, they had been shorn of their power, and it was certainly with gratification to the members of it that the power had been taken away. The Senator from Westmoreland was laboring under a misapprehension, and a little examination of the case will enable him to see his error. The Finance Committee, he thought, was the proper one to investigate the matter, and he hoped the change contemplated by the motion would not be made.

Mr. TURNEY rejoined that he was laboring under no misapprehension. He had never been of that class of legislators who shirked the responsibility of any class of claims; nor was the motion to transfer it, made with a view of avoiding the labor incident to its examination. He was upon both committees, and upon either would be taxed with its consideration. No further power is required of them than to inquire whether the repairs have been made, whether the items specified in it have been obtained, and whether the bill is just, and should be paid. There was a contingent fund which was designed for repairs, and for other purposes, and the officers of the Senate and House are directed to make such repairs, from time to time, as are demanded for the convenience and comfort of members.

There was no charge against the Clerks, that they had either exceeded their power, or had contracted a debt which was extravagant or unjust. The expenditures made by them for the repairs to the halls, this year, were immeasurably less than they had been in former years; and he did not wish to be understood as imputing to those officers any extravagant disbursement of the contingent fund. Before Gen. Miller, the Clerk of the Senate, had taken any steps to have the work performed, he had used every precaution to ensure its completion in a just and economical manner. He had even gone to Philadelphia, and bartered like a Jew upon change, in order to guard the interests of the State committed to his hands. This much he felt authorized to say in behalf of the Clerks. He did not care where the matter went, he was ready, so far as he was concerned, to take it up and act upon it at once. There was an evident justness in it, and let it go to what committee it will, it must receive their sanction.

Mr. SCOFIELD proposed to compromise, and send it to the Committee on Vice and Immorality. They are supposed to have many delicate matters in hand, and if, as the Senator seemed to intimate, there was anything of a delicate nature in this, it would be appropriately referred to that committee for its action.

Mr. GAZZAM said the Senator from Westmoreland had said that he understands the matter perfectly, and has told the Senate that the claim is a liberal and just one. If such is the case, why refer it to any committee? Why not take it up, and act upon it at once?

Mr. GREGG remarked that the Committee on Finance had had the claim before it, and they had agreed that all matters of a similar character should go to the Committee on Accounts. So far as the responsibility of acting upon it was concerned, he, like the Senator from Westmoreland, had no disposition to shirk it. As regarded the justness of the claim, he would bear his own testimony to that of the chairman of the committee. There had been guarded economy, on the part of the officers, and the expenditures compared favorably with those of former years.

Mr. TURNEY withdrew his motion, whereupon,

Mr. RANDALL moved that the Committee on Finance be discharged from the consideration of the resolution, and that the Senate proceed to consider the same; agreed to.

In committee of the whole, (Mr. HARRIS in the Chair,

Mr. TURNEY moved to amend by adding the following: "and the Treasurer is hereby authorized to pay to Wm. H. Miller, Clerk of the Senate, $3,121 25, the amount paid to W. H. Carryl & Co., for fitting up the Hall of the Senate."

Also, to change the title so as to read "Halls of Senate and House of Representatives."

The resolution as amended passed finally.

Mr. RANDALL called up House bill No. 28, "An Act to incorporate the Delaware and Schuylkill dredging company;" which passed committee of the whole and second reading, when it was allowed to lie over.

On motion of Mr. MARSELIS, Senate bill No. 83, "An Act to incorporate the Southwark soup society," was considered and passed finally.

On motion of Mr. BALDWIN, Senate bill No. 122, "A further supplement to an act to appoint commissioners to view, lay out and construct a State road in Lancaster and Chester counties, approved April 15, 1857," was considered and passed finally.

On motion of Mr. THOMPSON, Senate bill No. 78, "An Act to incorporate the Union mutual fire insurance company of Montgomery county," was taken up, considered and passed finally.

On motion of Mr. PALMER, Senate bill No. 92, "An Act to extend the charter of the Forest improvement company," was taken up, considered and passed finally.

Upon the motion to take up the joint resolution of the House, with reference to the contract for the printing of the Daily Record, there was an informal and running discussion between Messrs. MYER, SCOFIELD, TURNEY, FINNEY, GAZZAM, HARRIS and GREGG; during which the hour of 5 o'clock having arrived, the SPEAKER adjourned the Senate until tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

MONDAY, Jan. 31, 1859.

The House was called to order at 3 o'clock P. M., by the SPEAKER.

The Clerk read the Journal of Saturday.

Mr. HAMERSLY asked leave to read a bill at this time. Leave being given, he read a joint resolution empowering the House committee to contract for the publication of a daily Legislative Record, and moved to suspend the rules and proceed to its consideration.

Mr. JACKSON asked leave to record a vote.

The SPEAKER. Not at this time.

The resolution was read.

Mr. HAMERSLY said, that as the subject had already occupied too much of the time of the House, he would feel constrained to call the previous question.

Mr. ROSE asked as a favor to be permitted to say a few words in exposition of his views.

Mr. HAMERSLY, for that purpose alone, then consented to withdraw the call.

Mr. ROSE said that he was in favor of the resolution. The only reason which he had for objecting to a resolution of the same nature which had been offered on Friday or Saturday last, was that it would involve the necessity of having two Records printed. The first step towards getting a Record printed for the House was made by his colleague, who offered a resolution empowering a special committee to receive proposals. Before this committee had reported, a joint resolution was passed by the House, which was intended to dissolve the existing contract. He had voted for the postponement of the matter, because he thought that it was only just and proper that the committee should have an opportunity to report, and say whether it was possible to obtain a cheaper Record; and he had said then, that if their report was plausible, he would be in favor of rescinding the existing compact. The joint resolution was defeated in the Senate, and there the matter was suffered to rest for a few days. Another resolution was then submitted in the House, which authorized a negotiation with Geo. Bergner & Co., and he had voted against it, because he thought it was not proper for the House to make a new contract while the old one was still in existence, and had not been repealed. He regarded it as involving the necessity of the publication of two Records.

He was in favor of the proposed resolution, because the committee had reported that a cheaper Record could be obtained, and therefore would vote to rescind the contract. He would be astonished to find Democrats oppose the resolution. He had voted with them on all questions of economy, and desired them now to reciprocate—

Mr. HAMERSLY interrupted the speaker, by stating that he had only yielded the floor to the gentleman in order to allow him to make an explanation, and not that he might discuss the merits of the question. He would therefore renew his call for the previous question.

The call was sustained by Messrs. RAMSDALL, WIGTON, GREEN, BURLEY, McDOWELL, BOYER, (Schuylkill,) HAMERSLY, MEHAFFEY, ECKMAN, WAGONSELLER, and WILSON.

The SPEAKER. Shall the main question be put?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. GLATZ and Mr. GOEPP, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS.—Messrs. Ahcott, Acker, Balliet, Barnsley, Barlow, Bayard, Boyer, (Schuylkill,) Bryson, Burley, Campbell, Chase, Church, Dodds, Durboraw, Eckman, Ellmaker, Evans, Fearon, Fisher, Graham, Gratz, Green, Hamersly, Harding, Keneagy, Ketchum, Kinney, Lawrence, (Washington,) Mann, Mehafeey, McClure, M'Curdy, M'Dowell, Miller, Neall, Palm, Patterson, Pennell, Peirce, Pinkerton, Price, Pugh, Ramsdell, Rose, Shafer, Sheppard, Smead, Styer, Taylor, Thompson, Thorn, Wagonseller, Walhorn, Walker, Whitman, Wigton, Wiley, Williams, (Bucks,) Withston, Wilson, Withrow, Wood, Zoller and Lawrence, Speaker—64.

NAYS.—Messrs. Boyer, (Clearfield,) Brodhead, Custer, Dismant, Fleming, Foster, Glatz, Goepp, Good, Gray, Hill, Hottentstine, Jackson, Laird, Nill, Oaks, Porter, Quigley, Rohrer, Shields, Stephens, Stoneback, Stuart, Warden, Wilcox, Wolf and Woodring—27.

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

On the final passage of the bill,

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. ROSE and Mr. BRYSON, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS.—Messrs. Abbott, Acker, Balliet, Barnsley, Barlow, Boyer, (Schuylkill,) Bryson, Burley, Campbell, Chase, Church, Dodds, Durboraw, Eckman, Ellmaker, Evans, Fearon, Fisher, Graham, Gratz, Green, Hamersly, Harding, Keneagy, Ketchum, Kinney, Lawrence, (Washington,) Mann, Mehafeey, M'Clure, M'Curdy, M'Dowell, Miller, Neall, Palm, Patterson, Pennell, Peirce, Pinkerton, Price, Pugh, Ramsdell, Rose, Shafer, Sheppard, Smead, Styer, Taylor, Thompson, Thorn, Wagonseller, Walhorn, Walker, Whitman, Wigton, Wiley, Williams, (Bucks,) Williston, Wilson, Withrow, Wood and Zoller—63.

NAYS.—Messrs. Brodhead, Custer, Dismant, Fleming, Foster, Glatz, Goepp, Good, Gray, Hottentstine, Jackson, Laird, Nill, Quigley, Rohrer, Shields, Stephens, Stoneback, Warden, Wilcox, Wolf and Woodring—22.

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. JACKSON asked leave to record his vote in reference to the Record proceedings of Saturday; objected to.

Mr. JACKSON explained that he had been absent on Saturday when the vote in question was taken.

Mr. NILL moved to take up hill No. 81, on the House file, being a bill in relation to the railroad between Chambersburg and Hagerstown.

The SPEAKER. Shall the gentleman from

Sullivan, (Mr. JACKSON,) have leave to record his vote?

Leave was given.

Mr. WOLF asked the same privilege; which was granted.

Mr. NILL said that the parties interested in the railroad between Chambersburg and Hagerstown were exceedingly anxious to have the Legislature take some decided action. He hoped that the rules would be suspended, and that the House could at once proceed to the consideration.

The rules were suspended.

The House dispensed with going into committee of the whole.

The bill was read the second time, considered and agreed to—was read the third time by its title, and passed finally.

The SPEAKER. Senate bill No. 129, "An Act to incorporate the Presbyterian church of Harrisburg." (Referred to Committee on Corporations.)

Mr. HAMERSLY said that the Committee on Corporations had already considered a similar bill, which was No. 120 on House file. He moved that the House suspend the rules, and proceed to its consideration; which was agreed to.

The House dispensed with going into committee of the whole.

The first section was read.

On the second reading and consideration,

Mr. THORN said that he did not propose to offer any objections, but he would like to know if there was more than one congregation of Presbyterians now worshiping in Harrisburg.

Mr. NILL said there were two.

Mr. THORN said that the last part of the section gave communicant members a right to vote. He thought that the rules of the church conferred this privilege. He would like some gentleman interested in the matter to give an explanation of the bill.

Mr. GOEPP said that he had no particular interest. He should like to know, however, why this particular congregation applied to the Legislature, when the court was authorized to grant them a charter. He did not see any reason for the deviation from the usual course in such cases.

Mr. MCCLURE understood that the courts had refused in this case.

Mr. WILLISTON said that the courts had ample power. No gentleman could deny this, and he saw no reason why the Legislature should take up the matter.

On the passage of the first section,

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. WILLISTON and Mr. WILCOX, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS.—Messrs. Ahcott, Acker, Bayard, Boyer, (Clearfield,) Boyer, (Schuylkill,) Bryson, Campbell, Church, Custer, Dodds, Durboraw, Eckman, Fearon, Fisher, Fleming, Foster, Glatz, Good, Gratz, Green, Gritman, Hamersly, Harding, Hill, Jackson, Keneagy, Ketchum, Laird, Lawrence, (Washington,) Mann, Mehafeey, M'Clure, M'Curdy, M'Dowell, Miller, Neall, Nill, Oaks, Palm, Patterson, Peirce, Porter, Price, Quigley, Rohrer, Shafer, Sheppard, Shields, Smead, Stephens, Stoneback, Stuart, Styer, Taylor, Thompson, Wagonseller, Walhorn, Walker, Warden, Whitman, Wilcox, Wiley, Williams, (Bucks,) Wilson, Withrow, Wolf, Wood, Woodring, Zoller and Lawrence, Speaker—71.

NAYS.—Messrs. Balliet, Barnsley, Barlow, Brodhead, Chase, Dismant, Ellmaker, Evans, Graham, Kinney, Pinkerton, Pugh, Ramsdell, Wigton and Williston—14.

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

The second section was agreed to.

The title was agreed to. The bill was read a third time by its title, and passed.

Mr. GRATZ asked leave to make a statement. Leave being given, he moved to suspend the rules and take up House bill No. 85, as follows:

AN ACT to extend the act of the thirteenth of October, one thousand eight hundred and fifty-seven, entitled "An Act for the better security of laborers, mechanics and others in certain companies."

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That the act approved on the thirteenth day of October, Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and fifty-seven, entitled "An Act for the better security of laborers, mechanics and others in certain companies," be and the same is hereby extended to continue in force until the first day of February, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-one.

The House refused to suspend the rules; whereupon

Mr. GRATZ said that the act, which had been found extremely beneficial, would expire by its own limitation to morrow. He earnestly hoped that the House would revoke its decision, and give the bill a consideration.

This was agreed to, and the bill passed finally.

Mr. MCCLURE asked leave to offer a resolution. Leave being given, he offered the following:

Resolved, That hereafter the hour for the regular meeting of this House, shall be 10 o'clock, A. M.

On the second reading and consideration,

Mr. GOEPP opposed the resolution, and stated that the two committees on contested elections occupied the time of the members to too great an extent, to warrant an earlier hour of meeting than 11 o'clock, A. M.

Mr. KINNEY coincided in this view.

Mr. MCCLURE would amend so as to make it 10½ A. M.

Mr. WILCOX moved an amendment to this effect.

The amendment was not agreed to.

The question recurring on the original resolution,

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. BARNESLEY and Mr. PINKERTON, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS.—Messrs. Balliet, Barnsley, Barlow, Boyer, (Schuylkill,) Bryson, Chase, Custer, Dismant, Dodds, Durboraw, Eckman, Fearon, Fleming, Graham, Hill, Keneagy, Lawrence, (Washington,) Mann, M'Clure, Neall, Nill, Palm, Peirce, Pinkerton, Sheppard, Thompson, Wagonseller, Whitman, Wilcox, Williams, (Bucks,) Withrow, Wolf and Lawrence, Speaker—35.

NAYS.—Messrs. Abbott, Acker, Bayard, Boyer, (Clearfield,) Brodhead, Burley, Campbell, Church, Ellmaker, Evans, Fisher, Foster, Glatz, Goepp, Good, Gray, Green, Gritman, Hamersly, Harding, Hottentstine, Jackson, Kinney, Laird, McDowell, Miller, Oaks, Patterson, Pennell, Porter, Price, Pugh, Quigley, Ramsdell, Rohrer, Rose, Shafer, Shields, Smead, Stephens, Stuart, Styer, Taylor, Thorn, Walhorn, Walker, Warden, Wigton, Wiley, Williston, Wilson, Wood, Woodring and Zoller—55.

So the question was determined in the negative.

Mr. PRICE moved that a certain bill be committed to the Committee on Judiciary. Agreed to.

Mr. WILLISTON moved to suspend the rules, and call up a joint resolution providing for the pay of witnesses in the contested election for members of the Assembly in Cambria county.

Mr. LAWRENCE, (Washington,) hoped that the House would see the propriety of passing this resolution at once, as many of the witnesses were waiting to go home, and had no money to settle their bills.

Mr. MILLER said that he had one objection, and that was that in the statement the expenses of some man employed to serve subpoenas had been included. He had no objection to allowing the expenses of the witnesses.

Mr. GRITMAN said that if the matter was brought up in the proper form, he would not oppose the pay of witnesses. But he disliked to encourage the practice of bringing bills in piece-meal—parts at a time. The parties interested should have paid the bills, and then, with a correct certificate, signed by the chairman of the committee, have presented the account to the House.

Mr. WILLISTON had supposed that it was all right.

Mr. HAMERSLY inquired whether any preparation had been made for having the accounts certified?

Mr. WILLISTON stated that he was only interested in the matter through the request of others.

Mr. LAWRENCE, (Washington,) since he had become acquainted with the facts, hoped that the bill would be referred to the Committee on Accounts.

The motion to suspend the rules was agreed to.

The resolution was read.

Mr. HAMERSLY offered an amendment that the witnesses be paid, provided their accounts were examined by the chairman of the committee, and found to be correct.

Mr. LAIRD said that the bills had been sworn to before an alderman.

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. MILLER reiterated his statement, that an outside person had been employed to serve the subpoenas, and not an officer of the House.

Mr. WILLIAMS, (Bucks,) had the same objection. The House had a Sergeant-at-Arms and four assistants, and they should have attended to the matter.

Mr. WILLISTON said that the expense was the same, no matter who served the subpoenas.

Mr. LAWRENCE, (Washington,) said that a man had been chosen to serve the subpoenas who was familiar with Cambria county.

Mr. TAYLOR confirmed this statement.

On the question,
Shall the resolution pass?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. WILLIAMS, (Bucks,) and Mr. MILLER, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Abbott, Barlow, Brodhead, Bryson, Burley, Chase, Church, Dismant, Dodds, Durboraw, Eckman, Ellmaker, Evans, Fearon, Fleming, Foster, Good, Graham, Gratz, Hamersly, Harding, Hill, Jackson, Ketchum, Kinney, Laird, Lawrence, (Washington,) Mann, Mehaffey, McClure, (McCurdy, McDowell, Neall, Nill, Palm, Patterson, Peirce, Pinkerton, Porter, Price, Pugh, Quigley, Ramsdell, Rohrer, Rose, Shafer, Sheppard, Shields, Smead, Stephens, Stonehack, Stuart, Styer, Taylor, Thompson, Walborn, Walker, Warden, Whitman, Wigton, Wilcox, Wiley, Williston, Wilson, Withrow, Wood, Woodring, Zoller and Lawrence, Speaker—69.

NAYS—Messrs. Acker, Balliet, Barnsley, Bayard, Boyer, (Schuylkill,) Campbell, Custer, Glatz, Gray, Hottenstine, Keneagy, Miller, Wagonseller, Williams, (Bucks,) and Wolf—15.

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. FOSTER asked leave to record his vote upon the Record question of Saturday. Leave was given.

Mr. THORN offered the following:

Resolved, That J. R. Smith be, and is hereby continued as assistant post master during the present session.

On the question,

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. NEALL and Mr. PATTERSON, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Abbott, Boyer, (Clearfield,) Brodhead, Custer, Dismant, Ellmaker, Evans, Foster, Glatz, Goepf, Good, Gratz, Gray, Gritman, Harding, Hill, Jackson, Laird, Lawrence, (Washington,) Mann, McDowell, Miller, Oaks, Peirce, Porter, Price, Pugh, Quigley, Rohrer, Stephens, Stoneback, Stuart, Thorn, Warden, Wilcox, Woodring, Zoller and Lawrence, Speaker—38.

NAYS—Messrs. Acker, Balliet, Barnsley, Barlow, Boyer, (Schuylkill,) Bryson, Burley, Chase, Church, Dodds, Durhoraw, Eckman, Fearon, Graham, Hamersly, Keneagy, Ketchum, Kinney, Mehaffey, McClure, McCurdy, Neall, Patterson, Pennell, Pinkerton, Shafer, Smead, Taylor, Thompson, Wagonseller, Walhorn, Walker, Whitman, Wigton, Wiley, Williams, (Bucks,) Williston, Wilson, Withrow and Wolf—40.

So the question was determined in the negative.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

Mr. TURNEY, (Finance,) reported, with a negative recommendation, a joint resolution, relative to the pay of expenses of the Cambria county contested election case.

On leave given, Mr. TURNEY made the following statement:

Mr. TURNEY desired to make a statement in reference to this matter, and to give the reasons of the committee for their action. It had been customary to pass a joint resolution to pay parties for attending as witnesses in contested election cases, but the amounts had seldom been refunded. He wished the Clerk to read the following from Purdon's Digest, with regard to the matter:

"Every witness sent for, and attending the trial of any contested election as aforesaid, shall be allowed six cents for every mile of the distance, necessarily travelled by him in coming to and in returning from the place of trial, and shall also be allowed the sum of one dollar and thirty-three cents for every day he may be detained at the place of such trial; which mileage and expense, as well as the expense of summoning witnesses, shall be taxed by the select committee, and certified by their chairman to the Speaker of one or both Houses, as the case may require. And the amount thereof, the same being first approved by the House or Houses to which such certificate may be made, shall be paid by the treasurer of the county or counties in which the facts complained of took place, if such facts be substantiated; or by the treasurer of the county or counties in which the petitioner shall reside, if the statements in the petition shall not be substantiated, or orders drawn by the Speaker of either or both Houses, as the case may require."

His objection to the bill was based upon that section. He considered that there should be no action which was in conflict with that section, and that its requirements should, in no case, be set aside for the mere purpose of meeting an individual case.

Mr. MILLER inquired if the object of the resolution was to pay the amount out of the public treasury?

Mr. TURNEY replied that it was.

Mr. WELSH, (same,) with amendment, a joint resolution, relative to the pay of A. L.

Linton, clerk to the committee on the contested seat of Oliver Evans.

Mr. KELLER, from the Committee to Compare Bills, reported that they had compared and presented to the Governor for his approbation the following:

"A further supplement to an act to incorporate the Tyrone and Lock Haven railroad company."

"An Act to change the place of holding the general, special and township elections for the township of West Brunswick, Potter county."

"An Act to repeal an act to change the place of holding elections in Porter township, Schuylkill county. approved February 9, 1858."

BILLS IN PLACE.

Mr. SCHOFIELD read in his place and presented to the chair a bill, entitled "An Act to declare Willow creek a public highway."

ORIGINAL RESOLUTIONS.

Mr. BREWER offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That 2000 copies of the catalogue of the Pennsylvania State library be printed under the direction of the librarian, to be placed in the library for distribution."

Mr. SCOFIELD inquired if these catalogues had not already been ordered? It was his recollection that Mr. Dewitt, the Librarian, had been authorized to prepare a catalogue, and had consented to do so, upon condition that a large number of copies should be printed.

Mr. BREWER explained that the State Librarian had already been authorized to have one thousand copies printed, but when the types were already set, the additional copies contemplated by the resolution, would cost but little more. It was important, he thought, that Senators should have them, as there were many of their constituents who were desirous of knowing what books composed the library—particularly those residing at remote parts of the State.

The resolution was twice read, considered and adopted.

On motion of Mr. FINNEY, the vote on this resolution was re-considered, for the purpose of amendment.

Whereupon, the following was proposed as an amendment, "and one thousand copies for the use of the Senate."

Mr. SCOFIELD could not see the necessity of one thousand copies for the Senate. They could not take them home with them, unless they procured extra baggage. They might, he supposed, be sent by mail, but they would be considerably cumbersome, as the volume would be a pretty large one.

The amendment was adopted, and the resolution, as amended, passed.

BILLS ON THIRD READING.

"An Act to incorporate the Lackawanna and Bloomsburg railroad company," was passed finally.

"An Act to incorporate the Delaware and Schuylkill dredging company," came up on third reading, when

Mr. MARSELIS asked and obtained leave to amend,

On the final passage of the bill,

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. WRIGHT and Mr. MARSELIS, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Blood, Coffey, Finney, Francis, Gazzam, Gregg, Harris, Palmer, Parker, Randall, Rutherford, Shaeffer, Schindel, Steele, Thompson and Creswell, Speaker—16.

NAYS—Messrs. Brewer, Fetter, Marselis, Nunnemacher, Turney, Welsh and Wright—7.

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

A division of the question having been called on the motion to discharge the Committee on Finance from the consideration of a joint resolution brought from the House yesterday relative to the publication of the Legislative Record, and for the Senate to proceed to its consideration,

The SPEAKER declared the first part of the division to be now before the Senate.

The SPEAKER remarked, that when the Senate adjourned yesterday, it had under consideration the resolution of the House with reference to the printing of the Legislative Record.

Mr. MYER understood the question to be raised, whether the resolution could be entertained; and that upon that point, the SPEAKER was not then prepared to decide.

Mr. COFFEY would like to know what the proposition is, as he was not in his seat yesterday, when it came up.

Mr. TURNEY asked for the reading of the preamble and resolution.

The SPEAKER replied that he was just about ordering the reading, for the information of the Senate.

Mr. TURNEY considered it due to the Senate, as well as to the House, to know whether the party making the proposition referred to, is a competent and reliable party, and whether they can print a Record in as good style as the one with which they are now furnished. Before entering into a contract with the party, it is necessary to know who he is; what are his facilities for executing the work, and who are his securities. It was not proper that a resolution should come in here from the House, asking the Senate to take its mere ipse dixit with regard to the propositions submitted. The resolution goes on, professing to guard the public interests, in the very teeth of its action, of only a few days previous, authorizing the publication of a Record, notwithstanding the existing contract. That body had, on Saturday last, authorized the Committee on Printing to contract for a second Record, thus entailing a double expense upon the State, and overriding a standing law. Professions of economy came, he said, with a very bad grace from a body, whose practices were so inconsistent with their professions. Notwithstanding there was a contract already in existence, unrepealed and binding, they had passed a resolution authorizing the committee to enter into another contract, and had avowed their determination to force upon the Senate its allowance. There was no breach of confidence in saying this. It had been openly uttered in the other branch, and the declaration was to be taken as a fair indication of the feeling of the majority in regard to it. He repeated, professions of economy came with a very bad grace from parties who had displayed so much inconsistency. The movement was perfectly understood. If they fished for gud-geons, they should use bait which would catch gudgeons.

So far from this movement being made with a view to public economy, it was solely for the purpose of rewarding a partizan editor, who was always prompt in his action in securing every advantage, guarding every loop hole against the defeat of his project, and holding the lash over his political friends to drive them into the consummation of his plans. And yet there are gentlemen already on the stool of repentance, as has been indicated by their subsequent action.

But if the House desire a change, for the mere purpose of economy, and not with a view to rewarding a political partizan, why ask for the passage of this particular resolution? Why come here, asking our concurrence with them in an award to a particular party, before we are advised who that party is—whether responsible or reliable? If a change is to be made, why not let the contract be open to competition? The Senate, he said, had as much right to receive proposals as the House, and it was not just that they should be driven into a contract with an irresponsible party.

He was not prepared, he continued, to advocate the present price of printing the Record, if it can be done any better or cheaper; but if the Legislature is to enter into negotiations, let competition be open to all; let the award be fairly made, and he should be satisfied. But he was opposed to a contract being made without inquiry or investigation. He wished to know, and it was but right that the Senate should know, who the party making this proposition is—whether he is responsible, and what are his securities. If the work can be done in a better manner, or at cheaper rates, he should go for it, disregard the obligations of party, and be influenced solely by a sense of his duty to the public; but he did not wish to see a proposition thrown in here, where the partizan object of it was so transparent upon its face. It was undignified and uncourteous to the Senate; and he would never, by his vote, contribute to the ill partizan feeling which such a course was calculated to excite.

We have, he said, a law in force now, under which the contract for printing has been faithfully fulfilled; and we had also half a law in the other House, authorizing a contract for the Record printing. Until the Senate were convinced that a better or cheaper could be procured, he saw no propriety in making any other provision. He was prepared to vote for no Record at all, rather than vote for it in the manner contemplated by the resolution. Let the matter be referred to a responsible committee, upon whose report the Senate will be prepared to act, and not rushed through with the race-horse speed which is contemplated. He hoped the motion to discharge the committee would not prevail. There had already been more time consumed in the consideration of this matter than would pay for a Record for the whole session.

Mr. MYER was in hopes that the Senate would proceed at once to a vote upon the question. He thought every member understood it, and was as well prepared to vote upon it to-day as at any other; but from the nervous and excited manner of the Senator from Westmoreland he did not think they understood it. The Senate should be the last to talk of the action proposed by the resolution. The Record has been in existence for ten years, and each Legislature has contracted with parties for its publication. Last year an attempt was made to impose a contract upon the present Legislature, which was unjust. A proposition is now made to execute the work better and cheaper; and the only way to ascertain whether it has been made in good faith, is to let the matter come up; and if the proposition to print it twenty-five per cent. below present rates be made, the Senate owed it to itself and the public interests that the proposition should be accepted.

Mr. WRIGHT remarked that he did not know the party who had made the proposition; and he asked the Senator from Bradford for information.

Mr. MYER referred to a previous proposition, in which the parties were named. They were Geo. Bergner & Co. A proposition to do the work at lower rates had been made, and it was the duty of the Senate to take it into consideration, and see whether there was any sincerity in it. This was all he asked; and the Senate was bound, in justice to itself and the public, to do so.

Mr. MILLER merely wished to reply to a remark of the Senator from Bradford. So far as he understood him, the question is, Shall the present contract be abrogated? Abrogated upon what? The mere allegations of a party, unknown to this body, that they are prepared to furnish it at a lower price. He understood the object to be to take the contract out of the hands of the present printers and to give it to others, upon a simple and irresponsible allegation. It was not a proper way to proceed, and he hoped the proposition would be voted down.

Mr. COFFEY had but a single word to say, on the merits of the question. He thought the committee ought to be discharged, for there was evidently no intention to act upon the matter. The session had already been one third exhausted, and, although the matter had been before it almost ever since the opening, they had not proceeded to its consideration. All other matters, referred to that committee, had been promptly and speedily acted upon; and if they were not disposed to consider it, he was in favor of taking it out of their hands, and bringing it directly before the Senate, where it could receive attention.

Mr. TURNEY remarked that the matter had never been referred to the committee. At least, it was not now in their possession.

Mr. COFFEY replied, that the proposition of George Bergner & Co. had been in the possession of the committee almost from the opening of the session, and it had never yet been acted upon.

Mr. TURNEY said no member of the committee had ever called the subject up. Had the Senator from Indiana called attention to it?

Mr. COFFEY rejoined that he was not chairman of the committee, and it was not his province to call it up.

Mr. TURNEY said it had been the custom to call over the titles of all bills, in committee, when any action could be taken upon them. When the subject had been called up in the Senate by the gentleman from Butler, he had resisted the discharge of the committee from its consideration; but the Senator's party had voted in solid phalanx in its favor. When, a few days later, he asked leave to return the bill, there was not a dissenting voice.

Mr. RANDALL said that when the matter of the Record was in the hands of the committee, at the last session, he had voted against continuing the contract over to the present year. But that contract now stands, and is a law, binding upon the Legislature. He saw no utility in destroying that contract at this time. He did not ask any party to do the work at anything but a fair price; but if he were convinced that there was any sincerity in this proposition; that it was made in good faith, and not for the purpose of overturning a political opponent, he should go for it. He was convinced, however, that it was made for the purpose of overturning the present publishers, and that there was no other motive involved in it. He had heard no complaint against the manner in which the work had been done—on the contrary, all parties appeared satisfied. He hoped the matter would be disposed of, and that the time of the Senate would not longer be occupied with a question which was calculated to produce party wrangling and excite partizan discussion. He deprecated the feeling which such discussions were calculated to excite; and he infinitely preferred to join hands with Senators in their best efforts to second the best interests of the Commonwealth.

Mr. HARRIS did not wish to enter into a discussion of the question. It had already taken too wide a range. He simply wished to reply to the Senator from Westmoreland in his statement as to the disposition of this matter by the Senate. The resolution from the consideration of which he moved the discharge of the committee, was that to annul the contract now existing for the publication of the Record.—There was still a resolution in the hands of the committee authorizing the Senate to appoint a committee of three to act in conjunction with a similar committee from the House, to enter into a new contract. They referred to distinct and different subjects. With all deference to the chairman of the Committee on Finance, he alleged that he was mistaken in his statement of the matter. He concluded by saying that he was anxious and willing that this question should be speedily disposed of. He cared not to whom the contract for printing was awarded, so that the best interests of the State were subserved.

Mr. WRIGHT said, that upon a closer reading of the proposition, he finds that it contains a snake of the worst kind. It asks the Senate to leave to the House the discretionary power of making the contract, without any knowledge on our part, who the party is—whether responsible, or in any manner reliable.

Mr. FINNEY said the first proposition from the House, was to take into consideration the expediency of annulling the existing contract, and of entering into a new one. The request made was a proper and reasonable one. It was no party question at all, and should be met divested of all partizan feeling.

And on the question,

Shall the committee be discharged?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. RANDALL and Mr. FINNEY, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Baldwin, Coffey, Finney, Francis, Gregg, Harris, Myer, Parker, Penney, Rutherford, Scofield, Shaeffer, Thompson and Yardley—14.

NAYS—Messrs. Blood, Brewer, Craig, Fetter, Marselis, Miller, Nunnemacher, Randall, Schindel, Steele, Turney, Welsh, Wright and Cresswell, Speaker—14.

So the question was determined in the negative.

Mr. PALMER paired off with Mr. KELLER.

Mr. GAZZAM paired off with Mr. SCHELL.

On motion of Mr. FINNEY, the Senate proceeded to consider the following resolution, passed in the House January 5, 1859:

Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed, to act in conjunction with a similar committee of the Senate, for the purpose of contracting for the publication of a Legislative Record, containing full and accurate reports of both Houses of the Legislature. The contract to be submitted for the approval or rejection of the Legislature; and ordered that Messrs. RAMSDELL, PATTERSON and WILCOX be said committee.

Mr. FINNEY moved that the Senate concur, and that the SPEAKER appoint a similar committee.

Mr. TURNEY wished to state the course he was willing to pursue. He would vote for the reference to a committee, and would throw no obstacle in the way of securing the publication of a Record at the cheapest and best rates. He was in favor, if any change was to be made, to invite proposals, and to award its publication to the lowest and best bidders. He was desirous to terminate this interminable broil, and should vote for the resolution.

Mr. HARRIS was glad to hear the Senator from Westmoreland express himself so magnanimously. The Senate should not refuse to appoint the committee, through mere courtesy to the House, if nothing else.

Mr. WRIGHT had hoped the action of the Senate, upon this question, some days since, would be final; and he had once thought of raising the point of order, whether, the matter having been once disposed of, it could again come up for consideration. A contract was already in existence, which had been faithfully carried out; and there had been no word of complaint, either as to the mechanical or mental execution of the work. Nor did any gentleman find fault with the price, until the effort of the House was made to annul the contract, and give the work to a partisan. He did not find fault with that body for its disposition to reward its friends; but he did find fault with their continued and persistent efforts to force a contract upon the Senate. In both Houses there were partisan majorities, and he hoped this question will be settled, and terminate political feeling. The present contract cannot be broken down—he had no fear of that. It was not possible that by any trick or maneuvering, they can get it out of the hands of the present printer. So far as the interests of the Commonwealth were concerned, they demanded a continuance of the contract; for there would, doubtless, be a great saving by keeping it where it is. He had no fear of contradiction, when he said that the former publisher of the Record got more cut of the State for the work, than has been charged by the present parties. He would call the attention of the Senate to the folly of pressing this matter, for nothing could be gained by it. The printer who makes the proposition, has an eye to his own interests, and cares but little for those of the Commonwealth, in this offer to underbid the present contractor for the work. He was not disposed to see the time of the Senate thus wasted, and he hoped the proposition would be voted down. He believed that, if the question of order were raised, it would be decided to be irregular.

Mr. FRANCIS, personally, did not care to whom the contract of printing the Record was awarded; and he was sorry that the gentleman from Philadelphia had placed the matter in so strong a partisan light. In the discussion of the matter he had an eye to fifty things, but no eye to the public economy. He was for throwing the doors open to honorable and fair competition; and if the contract be awarded to the present party, or any other, he should be satisfied, so that there should be secured a faithful discharge of duty. The idea of the Senator from Philadelphia seemed to be that "to the victors belong the spoils;" and that because there is a majority in the Senate, others than partisans are to be ruled out. His own notion was this—and he should vote for nothing else—that the contract should be awarded to the lowest and best bidder. He cared not a farthing to whom it was given, so that the best man is secured, and the interests of the Commonwealth advanced and protected.

The question being on the motion of Mr. FINNEY,

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. TURNEY and Mr. WELSH, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Baldwin, Blood, Brewer, Coffey, Craig, Fetter, Finney, Francis, Gazzam, Gregg, Harris, Marselis, Miller, Myer, Nunnemacher, Parker, Penney, Randall, Rutherford, Scofield, Shaeffer, Schindel, Steele, Thompson, Turney, Welsh, Wright, Yardley and Cresswell, Speaker—29.

NAYS—0.

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

On motion of Mr. BREWER, the Committee on Railroads was discharged from the consideration of a bill, entitled "An Act relative to a railroad between Chambersburg and Hagerstown," and the Senate proceeded to consider the same in committee of the whole. (Mr. PALMER in the chair.)

After the chairman reported the bill as committed, it passed second reading and was ordered to be transcribed.

Mr. HARRIS called up a joint resolution from the House, relative to the pay of A. L. Linton, clerk to the committee on the contested seat of Oliver Evans, and moved to amend by re-inserting the part relative to mileage, previously stricken out.

On which some discussion ensued; when, without coming to a vote: the hour of one having arrived,

The SPEAKER adjourned the Senate until 11 o'clock to-morrow morning.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

TUESDAY, Feb. 1, 1859.

The House was called to order at 11 o'clock, A. M., by the SPEAKER.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal.

Mr. LAWRENCE (Washington) moved that the reading of that part of the Journal relating to petitions be dispensed with; which was agreed to.

The reading being concluded,

Mr. CAMPBELL asked leave to make a statement. Leave being given, he moved that House bill No. 155, be placed on the Private Calendar for to-day; agreed to.

ORIGINAL RESOLUTIONS.

Mr. RAMSDELL offered the following:

Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed by the SPEAKER, to inquire into the fact whether the Philadelphia and Reading railroad company have charged more on passengers traveling over said road than they are allowed to charge by the act incorporating said company.

The resolution passed to the second reading and consideration.

Mr. PINKERTON could not see the idea contemplated by the passage of the resolution, except that it was to cause the Commonwealth additional expense. If a committee was appointed, it was more than probable two or three thousand dollars would be expended, and that a favorable report would finally be returned.

Mr. PALM had reason to believe that the company had made heavier charges for passenger fare than was legal. He alluded particularly to an extra charge of ten cents made on persons who did not purchase their tickets in the offices, but paid in the cars. He hoped that the resolution would pass.

Mr. RAMSDELL said that his object in offering the resolution, had not been to put the State to any expense. He thought that it would be to the credit of the company to have the matter definitely settled.

Mr. PINKERTON moved that the further consideration of the subject be postponed.

Mr. GOEPP had personally no knowledge on the subject, but should vote for the postponement, because he saw that the gentleman from Berks, (Mr. SMITH,) who was known to take an interest in the Reading railroad company was absent. He hoped that out of courtesy to him, the House would postpone a consideration until his return.

The question being taken, the resolution was postponed.

The SPEAKER laid before the House a communication from the Auditor General.

Laid on the table.

Also, Senate amendments to House bill No. 17, relative to the fitting up of the Halls of the Capitol.

Mr. LAWRENCE, (Washington,) moved that the House concur in the amendments; which was agreed to.

Mr. LAWRENCE, (Washington,) offered the following:

Resolved, That the Auditor General be requested to furnish the House with a statement of the relative amount of capital of the banks and brokers of the Commonwealth, and the relative amount of tax paid by each in the aggregate.

The resolution was twice read, considered and agreed to.

Mr. ROSE moved that the Committee on Corporations be discharged from the further consideration of an act relative to the election of town council in the borough of West Greenville, Mercer county, and that it be placed upon the Private Calendar of to-day; agreed to.

Mr. PRICE asked leave to read a bill in place. Leave being given, he presented "An Act for the relief of Christian Hollingsworth, collector of military taxes of Lancaster county, and moved that it be placed on the Private Calendar for to-day;" agreed to.

Mr. GOOD, leave being given, read "An Act changing the name of a certain gas company of Allentown." (Referred to Committee on Corporations.)

Mr. TAYLOR, leave being given, presented "An Act relative to bringing suits against Butler and Lawrence counties." (Referred to Committee on Judiciary.)

Mr. BRYSON, leave being given, presented "An Act to establish a Normal School in connection with Westminster college, New Wilmington, Lawrence county." (Referred to Committee on Education.)

Mr. WILLIAMS (Bucks,) leave being given, presented "A bill annulling the marriage contract between Catharine Frankensfield and her husband." (Referred to Committee on Divorces.)

Mr. HAMERSLY rose to a privileged question to correct the wording of a passage in the Legislative Record of January 31st, and moved that the passage in question be re-published, together with a certain vote; which was agreed to.

Mr. CHASE laid before the House a report from the committee of ways and means. The committee reported as committed, Senate resolution No. 100, relative to the payment of claims reported by the Canal Commissioners.

Mr. CHASE moved that the House proceed to the consideration of the resolution; agreed to. The resolution passed finally.

Mr. ROHRER, leave being given, offered the following:

Resolved, That from and after this day, the Sergeant-At-Arms be instructed and required, to furnish to the members of this House the full complement of each kind of documents, as they are now and may be entitled to, at one and the same time, and not in such disjointed parcels as heretofore.

The resolution was twice read, considered and adopted.

Mr. McDOWELL asked leave to record a vote. Leave was given.

Mr. SHAFER, leave being given, read "An Act annulling the marriage contract between Griffith and her husband."

Mr. SHEPPARD read in place a bill, to authorize the sheriff of Philadelphia county to advertise lists of property in three daily papers.

The hour of one having arrived, the SPEAKER adjourned the House until 11 o'clock tomorrow morning.

The undersigned respectfully submit the following reasons for voting against the resolution "authorizing the House committee to contract with George Bergner & Co., for the publication of the daily Record."

At the last session of the Legislature, a joint committee, appointed for that purpose, entered into a contract with Richard J. Haldeman, for the publication of a daily Legislative Record, which was approved and ratified by both Houses. At the time this contract was made, it was only to continue for the session of 1858; but subsequently, an act of Assembly was passed, which provided that "the said Richard J. Haldeman, is hereby authorized to continue the publication of such Record at the next session, under all the terms and conditions of the existing contract, until the two Houses otherwise order, or a new contract is made for such publication." In pursuance of this provision, the said Haldeman has continued to furnish the Record during the present session; and, so far as we know, has complied, in all respects, with the terms and conditions of the original contract.

The authority under which he acts, being an act of Assembly, it cannot be repealed or abrogated except by the concurrent action of both Houses and the approval of the Governor. A resolution for that purpose passed the House and was defeated in the Senate; and here, in our opinion, the power of the House over the question was exhausted, and the whole matter should have rested. Our duty, as law abiding citizens, and as representatives, required that we should respect and obey that law until it was repealed or abrogated by the power that made it.

But as an additional reason for voting in the negative, we believe that the effect of the resolution will be to introduce two sets of Records into the House, and thereby entail an additional expense upon the Legislature.

Mr. Haldeman, having renewed his bonds of last session, has bound himself in the penal sum of four thousand dollars, with two sureties, conditioned for the faithful performance of his contract, and, as a matter of course, he cannot fail to deliver the Record, as stipulated in the bond, without endangering himself and sureties. Besides, this contract, solemnly entered into by the representatives of the people, is as morally and legally binding upon the State, until the law is repealed, as any other debt she has ever contracted.

The resolution in question empowers the committee already appointed on the part of the House, to enter into a contract with George Bergner & Co. for the publication of a Daily Legislative Record, and it requires them "to receive such sureties in the sum of three thousand dollars from the contractors, for the faithful performance of the work, as they may deem reliable."

If the committee, in pursuance of this resolution, negotiate a contract with Messrs. Bergner & Co. for the publication of a Record, they, in like manner, will be bound under similar penalties to deliver the Record as stipulated in the contract; and if they fail to do so, will also render themselves and sureties liable; and the inevitable result will be the publication of duplicate copies of the proceedings of the House, by two different companies, both of which will expect to be paid; and, in our opinion, will eventually be paid, either at the present or some future session of the Legislature.

In view of these facts, we feel constrained from a sense of duty to vote against the resolution; although, as partisans, we would much prefer to give the publication of the Record to a Republican, yet we believe that the success of the Republican party depends more upon a rigid adherence to the doctrines of retrenchment and public economy, than upon putting three or four thousand dollars into the pocket of any individual member of the party, at the expense of the public treasury.

LEWIS PUGH,
W. W. DODDS,

J. HERON FOSTER.

Mr. HOTTENSTINE, on leave given, entered the following upon the Journal:

My reasons for voting against the resolution giving the printing of the Daily Record to no one but Mr. Bergner, are, first: If economy and not favoritism is the sole object, as the gentleman from Mercer (Mr. ROSE,) has ventured to assert, and if the said gentleman be sincere, the committee would not need to have been restricted to give the same to a certain individual, but should have been left at liberty to give it to the lowest bidder; the probability is by so doing, that another eleven dollars a day might have been saved to the State.

The following are corrected extracts from the proceedings of the House of Monday, January 31st.

Mr. HAMERSLY asked leave to read a bill at this time. Leave being given, he read the following:

Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives, That the contract with R. J. Haldeman for the publication of a Daily Legislative Record, be and the same is hereby terminated, and that the Committee on Public Printing be and they are hereby instructed to enter into a contract for the publication of a Daily Record, agreeably to the terms and conditions contained in the proposition submitted to the select committee of the House of Representatives.

Mr. HAMERSLY moved a suspension of the rules, for the purpose of considering the resolution. On a call of the yeas and nays the vote stood as follows:

YEAS.—Messrs. Abbott, Acker, Balliet, Barnsley, Barlow, Bayard, Boyer, (Schuylkill,) Bryson, Burley, Campbell, Chase, Church, Dodds, Durboraw, Eckman, Ellmaker, Evans, Fearon, Fisher, Graham, Gratz, Green, Hamersly, Harding, Keneagy, Ketchum, Kinney, Lawrence, (Washington,) Mann, Mehaffey, McClure, M'Curdy, M'Dowell, Miller, Neall, Palm, Patterson, Pennell, Peirce, Pinkerton, Price, Pugh, Ramsdell, Rose, Shafer, Sheppard, Smead, Styer, Taylor, Thompson, Thorn, Wagonseller, Walborn, Walker, Whitman, Wigton, Wiley, Williams, (Bucks,) Williston, Wilson, Withrow, Wood, Zoller and Lawrence. Speaker—64.

NAYS.—Messrs. Boyer, (Clearfield,) Brodhead, Custer, Dismant, Fleming, Foster, Glatz, Goepf, Good, Gray, Hill, Hottenstine, Jackson, Laird, Nill, Oaks, Porter, Quigley, Rohrer, Shields, Stephens, Stoneback, Starni, Warden, Wilcox, Wolf and Woodring—27.

On the final passage of the joint resolution, The yeas and nays were required by Mr. ROSE and Mr. BRYSON, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS.—Messrs. ## ORIGINAL RESOLUTIONS.

Mr. MARSELIS offered the following; which was twice read, considered and adopted:

Resolved, That the Committee on Railroads be authorized to prepare a schedule of the different passenger railway companies proposed to be incorporated, the name of streets on which to be located, and the several commissioners; to be printed for the use of the Senate.

Mr. MYER presented the following resolution; which was twice read, considered and adopted:

Resolved, That the Committee on Claims and Damages be requested to report a bill providing for the assessment and payment of damages on the North Branch canal, as provided in the seventh section of the bill of sale to the Sunbury and Erie railroad company, approved April 21, 1858.

Mr. YARDLEY, the following:

Resolved, That the Governor be requested to furnish evidence of the subscription of the stock in the Germantown passenger railway company, and all facts connected therewith, on which he issued letters patent.

Mr. SCHELL did not know that he had any objection to the resolution. It may be good; but if it is good, it should be made to apply to all railroads.

Mr. YARDLEY had no objection to making it general in its application. The reason he offered the resolution was that the company were now making application for a considerable enlargement of their corporate privileges; and as a new member, he asked for such information as would enable him to vote understandingly as to the propriety of extending to it the privileges desired.

Mr. MARSELIS did not wish to commit himself either to vote for or against the resolution until he knew something of its character. It was somewhat through his agency that the act incorporating this company had passed; and from his knowledge of the gentlemen connected with it, he would expect nothing from them but that which was highly honorable and honest.

Mr. RANDALL had no objection to the resolution, except so far as it was an indirect intention to injure the company. He was acquainted with the gentlemen constituting it, and could say that they stood high for character, honor, integrity, and wealth. Of wealth, however, he would say nothing; but as citizens they stand without reproach. The resolution was a kind of reflection on the company, as well as upon the Executive. If this peculiar course is to be adopted in reference to this company, he knew of no reason why it should not be made general.

Mr. FINNEY understood the resolution differently from the Senator from Philadelphia. There was no reflection upon the Governor. He had been exceedingly cautious in lending his sanction to acts of incorporation, and he could not suppose that he had departed from his usual course in this case. He believed the company to be an upright one, and he felt disposed to regard it favorably, because it was the only one asking legislation that had not had bidders to ask him something about it. It was, he said, getting to be a very dangerous thing to pass a bill, without the consent of the lobby; and it may be that this resolution is thrown out as a premonitory threat of the deluge which is to come hereafter, should the Legislature undertake any action, without first consulting the hangers-on in the lobbies, as to its propriety.

Mr. YARDLEY remarked that the resolution cannot be fairly construed into an attack upon either the Executive or company. He had no such intention. He had no reason to doubt the standing of the company, and the resolution had only been offered for the purpose of information. It was the only company who had a bill now pending for the enlargement of its privileges; and if they come in asking for such enlargement, it was not unfair that the question should be asked how they obtained the franchises which they are now enjoying. He regarded it as a legitimate matter of inquiry, and he could see no reason why there should be any objection to it.

Mr. RANDALL had no objections to the resolution, if the Senator from Bucks would make it general. He had been informed that the money had been actually paid in before letters patent had been issued.

Mr. SCOFIELD said he did not believe the object of the resolution was to obtain information. It can effect nothing, and was intended to delay action with reference to this matter, or some other. If this company come here asking for an extension of their privileges, let them come unprejudiced in advance, and without any effort to throw suspicion around them. He was in favor of including all companies in the inquiry; let them all be hunted out, and let us know who they are, what is their standing and character for honesty and integrity. Let us know who from the west and the north, or from other sections, go to Philadelphia to build railroads, men who ask for the privileges to construct railroads in that city, who have never seen the city, and never rode in a passenger railway car in their life. Let all be included, let us go out upon a voyage of discovery, and see who of these are the most honest, whose wealth and standing is highest, and who are most entitled to franchises at the hands of the Legislature.

Mr. RANDALL asked the Senator from Bucks whether he understood him as consenting to the proposition to make the inquiry general.

Mr. YARDLEY replied that he did.

Mr. SCOFIELD moved to postpone the resolution indefinitely.

On which motion the yeas and nays were required by Mr. RANDALL and Mr. YARDLEY, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS.—Messrs. Baldwin, Coffey, Craig, Fetter, Finney, Gazzam, Gregg, Miller, Nunnemacher, Parker, Randall, Rutherford, Schell, Scofield, Shaeffer, Schindel, Steele, Turney, Welsh and Cresswell, Speaker—20.

NAYS.—Messrs. Bell, Blood, Brewer, Francis, Harris, Keller, Marselis, Myer, Palmer, Penney, Thompson, Wright and Yardley—13.

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

Messrs. TURNEY and GAZZAM made statements explaining their votes on the above motion; which are as follows:

Mr. TURNEY desired to make a statement in explanation of his vote upon the resolution. It came, he said, with a two-fold force. He would not vote against any proposition to obtain information upon anything wrong; but he could vote for nothing containing, as this did, a direct fling at the Executive.

Mr. GAZZAM also desired to make a statement in explanation of his vote. He had no desire to defend the Executive; he was able to defend himself; but he gave his vote for the motion because he thought, with the Senator from Warren, that the object was to occasion delay, or to prejudice some action of the Legislature. He was also desirous of making the inquiry a general one.

BILLS ON THIRD READING.

"An Act relative to a railroad between Chambersburg and Hagerstown."

Mr. WELSH asked to have the bill lie over.

Mr. WRIGHT requested that the bill might lie over.

Mr. BREWER said that the parties interested in this road were ready to begin the work; but they could not begin until this bill is passed. Every thing connected with it was right, and he was desirous that it should pass without any delay.

Mr. RANDALL said he should be compelled to call the yeas and nays, because of the refusal of the Senator to allow the bill to lie over. He had not examined the bill, and was not prepared to vote upon it. If it is all correct, as the gentleman alleges, why refuse to have its consideration deferred? It had never been to committee; and it should certainly be referred, in order that an examination may be made into its provisions.

Mr. WELSH wished the Senator from Franklin to understand that his request for a postponement was not made from any opposition to the bill. He had received a letter from a gentleman of standing and character in Philadelphia, asking him to have the bill laid over; and it was in accordance with that wish, that he had made the request. He had ascertained that the bill had never been sent to the committee, and there had been no opportunity for examining it. Unless it were laid over, he should be compelled to vote against it.

Mr. BREWER remarked that when the bill came up on second reading, yesterday, he had asked that the rules might be suspended, and the bill passed; not with a view to take any advantage, or to interfere with the rights of any party; but, at the request of a Senator, he had permitted it to lie over, in order to afford to gentlemen an opportunity of examining it. Twenty-four hours had passed, affording ample time for an examination into the character and nature of the bill. It had been here some time; had been printed and placed upon the desks of Senators, and he could see no unreasonableness in his desire to have it disposed of to-day. The bill effects only the interests of the people of Franklin; and if requests are to come from every part of the State, asking that the consideration of bills may be postponed, legislation would move at a very slow and uncertain pace. It was important that the bill should pass immediately, and as injury and loss would result from delay, he hoped the Senate would consent to its consideration now.

On the final passage of the bill,

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. RANDALL and Mr. BREWER, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS.—Messrs. Blood, Brewer, Fetter, Francis, Gazzam, Gregg, Harris, Keller, Myer, Palmer, Parker, Penney, Rutherford, Schell, Scofield, Shaeffer, Schindel, Steele, Wright, Yardley and Cresswell, Speaker—21.

NAYS.—Messrs. Coffey, Craig, Marselis, Miller, Nunnemacher, Randall and Welsh—7.

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

Joint resolution from the House, relative to the pay of A. L. Linton, was next in order.

The question being upon the amendment offered by Mr. HARRIS, to reinsert the part relative to mileage, previously stricken out.

Mr. HARRIS said that when the Senate adjourned; yesterday, he was endeavoring to convince the Senate of the justness of restoring a small pittance of mileage, which had been stricken out. He advocated it upon the ground that it had been usual to allow mileage, and this was the first instance which had ever come to his knowledge, of a refusal to do so. He wished to cast no reflection upon the Committee on Finance—he rather commended them for their course. He was willing to go with them in retrenchment and reform in all matters affecting the public interests; but he thought they should commence somewhere else than in such small matters as this. It was a small matter to the State, but a great one to the claimant; and he hoped the Senate would restore the pittance which had been stricken out.

Mr. WELSH regarded the wish to pay mileage to this party as a mere gratuity, and nothing else. The gentleman himself had acknowledged to the committee that he had come here on other business, and not for the purpose of acting as clerk to the committee on the contested election case. He cared not for the precedent. It was time to break up this system of extravagant and unjust allowances to clerks and witnesses, and the Senate should refuse its countenance to any usage which took money out of the treasury unjustly.

Mr. TURNEY said that so far as the equity of the case was concerned, it should have been sent to the Committee on Pensions and Gratuities, instead of Finance, for it was nothing but a gratuity, and in violation of a statute. It had been a usage, more honored in the breach than in the observance, to allow mileage to witnesses, and others, in cases of contested elections; but he read, yesterday, a law which defined the rights of parties, and which contemplates no such allowance as is here claimed. There is no law authorizing a committee to employ a clerk—there is no clerk known to law; and he thought as the claimant had frankly acknowledged before the committee that he did not come here as a clerk, but upon other business, the allowance of his per diem was sufficient, without adding mileage.

Mr. PENNEY thought the Senator from Westmoreland labored under a misapprehension of the legal right to pay parties employed by the House. If that body should employ any one, and pass a resolution to pay him for his services, it was not the place of the Senate to say to the House that it has over-estimated those services, and to refuse to make provision for their payment. The House is the best judge of the services of its own officers, and he saw no just reason why the allowance of mileage should not be made.

Mr. TURNEY wished to ask the Senator whether the House can pass appropriations for any purpose?

Mr. PENNEY replied, no; he knew nothing of the practice to pay mileage, but it was hard for this party to bear the brunt of the new rule of economy which had just sprung up.

Mr. TURNEY said this was a much larger matter than the Senator is disposed to regard it. It was not the first instance in which the Committee on Finance had taken this position. They had established a precedent in the Cambria county contested election case, where there was no doubt of the liability of the county to pay the expenses. In this case the committee were disposed to pay what is claimed, but they could find no warrant for it; and they had even exceeded their limit in making the allowance of per diem.

Mr. RANDALL considered this a very plain matter. Gentlemen assert that it is but fair to pay for services which had been rendered; but he contended that the services for which this mileage was claimed, had never been rendered. The claimant had admitted before the committee that he did not come here to act as clerk in this election case, but upon business of his own. He had not been put to the extra expense contemplated by the law; and he would vote against any subterfuge in the payment of services, even where it affected his own salary. He could not vote for it; for the claimant had never traveled a mile, and there was not even the shadow of justice in it.

Mr. GAZZAM had heard the arguments on both sides, but he was unconvinced that the allowance should not be made. The House had power to employ certain persons, and to make such contract with them as they deemed proper, and it was not for the Senate to say that they were either unnecessarily employed, or their services over-estimated. With the claimant the consideration of his acceptance of the position as clerk, was the usual mileage, and not the three dollars per diem. It did not strike his mind as a gratuity. The services had been performed; the House had recognized them, and made provision for their payment; and he was unwilling to interfere, unless it be by a general act, affecting all future cases.

The question being upon the amendment, The yeas and nays were required by Mr. WRIGHT and Mr. HARRIS, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Baldwin, Bell, Blood, Coffey, Finney, Francis, Gazzam, Harris, Miller, Myer, Palmer, Parker, Penney, Rutherford, Shaeffer, Schindel and Thompson—17.

NAYS—Messrs. Brewer, Fetter, Keller, Marselis, Randall, Scofield, Steele, Welsh, Turney, Wright, Yardly and Cresswell, Speaker—13.

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

On the resolution as amended, The yeas and nays were required by Mr. WRIGHT and Mr. HARRIS, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Baldwin, Bell, Blood, Coffey, Finney, Francis, Gazzam, Harris, Miller, Myer, Palmer, Parker, Penney, Rutherford, Scofield, Shaeffer, Schindel, Steele and Thompson—19.

NAYS—Messrs. Brewer, Fetter, Keller, Marselis, Nunnemaecher, Randall, Turney, Welsh, Wright, Yardley and Cresswell, Speaker—11.

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

The Deputy Secretary of the Commonwealth being introduced, presented a message from the Governor; which was read, as follows:

EXECUTIVE CHAMBER,

GENTLEMEN:—I have signed and approved the following acts of the General Assembly:

On the 1st instant, "A further supplement to 'An Act to incorporate the Tyrone and Lock Haven Railroad Company.'"

"An Act to change the place of holding general, special and township elections for the township of West Branch, in the county of Potter."

On the 2d instant, "An Act to incorporate the Presbyterian church of Harrisburg."

"An Act to confirm the title to a certain lot, late the estate of Arthur Howell, deceased."

W. F. PACKER.

BILLS CONSIDERED.

On motion of Mr. RANDALL, Senate bill No. 132, "A supplement to 'An Act incorporating the Germantown passenger railroad company,' approved April 21, 1858," was taken up and passed committee of the whole. (Mr. SCHELL in the Chair.)

This bill lies over by request.

On leave given, the Committee to Compare Bills made a report.

Mr. SCOFIELD moved to discharge the Committee on Election Districts from the consideration of a bill relative to fixing the place of holding elections in Hamlin township, McKeen county.

The motion was agreed to; and having dispensed with going into committee of the whole, the bill passed finally.

The hour of one having arrived, the SPEAKER adjourned the Senate until eleven o'clock to-morrow morning.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

WEDNESDAY, Feb. 2, 1859.

The House was called to order by the SPEAKER at the usual hour.

Prayer was offered by the Rev. G. J. Martz, of the German Lutheran church, Harrisburg, Pa.

The Clerk read the Journal of yesterday.

ORIGINAL RESOLUTIONS.

Mr. KENEAGY offered a resolution, that the Committee on the Judiciary System be instructed to inquire into the expediency of passing a registry law for the better prevention of fraud in elections, and report by bill to this House; which was read the second time; and on the question, shall the same pass?

Mr. GOEPP said that the gentleman who had presented the resolution had doubtless gone into the details of the subject, and should therefore have drawn up a bill. It was unfair to impose upon the Judiciary Committee the onerous task of preparing an act; it was not their legitimate business, and was not customary. If the originator of the resolution would draw up an act, and would then place it in the hands of the committee, it would no doubt be duly considered. To be sure, the resolution was not compulsory, but nevertheless carried with it the weight and force of an action of the House. He would suggest the propriety of voting down the resolution, and then leave the gentlemen who were interested to prepare a suitable bill.

The question recurring,

Shall the resolution pass?

On motion of Mr. THORN, the question was referred to the Committee on Election Districts.

Mr. FOSTER submitted a resolution, that Jno. R. Smith be continued in office until the 1st of March next.

The House refused to pass to the second reading of the same.

Mr. WILLIAMS, (Bucks,) offered a resolution that the Committee on Ways and Means be discharged from the further consideration of the act relative to the pay of members, and that the House proceed to the consideration of the same now.

And on the question,

Will the House proceed to the second reading and consideration of the same?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. WILLIAMS and Mr. WITHROW, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Abbott, Acker, Balliet, Barnsley, Barlow, Bertolet, Boyer, (Schuylkill,) Brodhead, Burley, Custer, Dismant, Durboraw, Eckman, Elmaker, Fleming, Galley, Glaz, Good, Gritman, Hill, Hottelustine, Jackson, Kencagy, Ketchum, Kiuncy, McHaffey, McClure, McCurdy, Nill, Oaks, Palm, Patterson, Peunell, Peirce, Pugh, Shafer, Shields, Smead, Stoneback, Stuart, Taylor, Wagonseller, Walker, Warden, Whitman, Wiley, Williams, (Bedford,) Williams, (Bucks,) Withrow, Wolf and Lawrence, Speaker—51.

NAYS—Messrs. Bayard, Boyer, (Clearfield,) Bryson, Campbell, Chase, Church, Dodds, Evans, Fearon, Fisher, Foster, Goepf, Graham, Gratz, Gray, Hamersly, Harding, Laird, Lawrence, (Washington,) Mann, McClain McDowell, Miller, Neall, Price, Quigley, Ramsdell, Rohrer, Rose, Sheppard, Smith, (Philadelphia,) Styer, Thompson, Thorn, Walborn, Wilcox, Williston, Wilson, Wood, Woodring and Zoller—41.

So the question was determined in the negative, two-thirds not voting in the affirmative.

Mr. PAL offered a resolution that hereafter no member will be allowed to smoke, snuff, chew or drink whiskey at the expense of the State.

Ruled out of order.

Mr. KENEAGY offered a resolution that 5,000 copies of the annual report of the trustees and superintendent of the Pennsylvania State Lunatic Asylum, be printed for the use of the House; which was read the second time.

Mr. WILCOX moved to amend, by printing 3,000 in English and 2,000 in German.

Mr. HAMERSLY moved to amend the amendment by reducing the number of copies to 2000 in the English and 500 in the German language; which was agreed to.

And the resolution as amended was agreed to.

Mr. THORN submitted the following resolution:

Resolved, That 200 copies of all the bills now before the Railroad Committee, in reference to passenger railroads in the city of Philadelphia, together with those reported to the House upon the same subject, be printed for the use of members of the Railroad Committee, and that no action be taken by the said committee upon the same until they be printed.

Mr. THORN asked leave to make a statement. Leave being given, he said that a large number of his constituents were present from Philadelphia—many of them property holders, and in high positions. They desired to know the real aspect of the Philadelphia city passenger railroad question. Heretofore they had only seen the titles of the bills, as they had been sent to the city by telegraph. The bills had accumulated so fast that it was almost impossible to follow them. After conference, last evening, with a number of these gentlemen, he had drawn up the resolution, and now, as a question of courtesy, requested its passage.

Mr. WILSON favored the resolution. He, too, had had many applications, and some of them based upon the same ground.

Said resolution was then read the second time.

And on the question,

Shall the same pass?

Mr. KENEAGY moved that the further consideration of said resolution be postponed for the present.

A rambling discussion took place, during which Mr. PRICE said that it was unfair to accord such a privilege to Philadelphia (by allowing her railroad bills to be printed) and not extend the privilege to the country.

Mr. GOEPP said that it was more difficult to obtain information on railroads than on other subjects which had been before the House. The project of printing the bills was calculated to be of benefit, by enabling the country members, as well as those outside parties who were interested, to see what was going on. Heretofore it had been almost impossible to find out what was being done, and it was unfair that all the burden and responsibility should be thrown upon the railroad committee. But the printing would throw light upon the matters in question.

Philadelphia was the metropolis of Pennsylvania, and whatever concerned her, naturally was of interest to the State. Viewed in this light, the matter was not one of a local character, as has been intimated by the gentleman from Lancaster, (Mr. PRICE). It was asked as a courtesy by the member from Philadelphia, (Mr. THORN,) that the railroad bills affecting that city be printed, and he saw no reason for denying the request.

Mr. PRICE inquired whether other committees than that on railroads might not ask the same privilege, and what course would be taken in such a case.

Mr. GOEPP said that it would be time enough to decide this question when it came up. It might not be desirable on ordinary local bills to have them printed, but this matter, as he had before said, was not local, but affected the whole State.

Mr. MCCLURE said that, as a mere act of courtesy, the gentleman from Philadelphia (Mr. THORN) had asked the favor at the hands of the House. There was quite a variety of bills, many of them providing for the construction of railroads upon the same streets. Numbers of constituents were present who sought information, and could only obtain it by having the printed bills. For the sake of the members, however, who would be required to vote, it was essential that they should be printed. If the gentleman from Lancaster had asked to have some particular act thus published, he would no doubt have thought it discourteous for any member to have opposed his motion.

Mr. WALBORN said that much had been stated that was apparently fair and plausible, but, as chairman of the Railroad Committee, he challenged any one to say that he had not extended the fullest courtesy to all, and had not endeavored to give information to all who sought it.

Mr. M'CLURE rose to explain. He hoped that he had not been understood in his remarks as having referred personally to the chairman of the committee.

Mr. WALBORN continued, by repeating that he had extended every possible courtesy. But this was not the point; there was a principle involved which demanded consideration. — It was the duty of the committee, as he understood it, to condense business before it came before the House. If the bills were printed, and laid upon the desks of the members, the effect would be to destroy the utility of the committee, and virtually to ignore their existence. Did the House wish to do this?

If it was fair to print these bills, it was equally so to print others. As for the constituents who were interested and anxious to read the documents, he thought that the people who sent him to Harrisburg, intended that he should act independently of all outside influences, and regardless of any committees or bodies of men who came with sinister motives.

Mr. SMEAD presumed that however great the willingness of the chairman of the committee might be to give information, if he was called upon by all the members of the House he would find his duties arduous. The printing of the bills would allow the country members an opportunity to inform themselves of their contents, and would be otherwise beneficial.

Mr. WILLISTON thought that it was a purely local question, and to be decided in accordance with the wishes of those whom it affected. But there was one point in the discussion which had taken place, to which he wished to allude. He had no faith in the infallibility of committees, and as a general thing did not believe that the members were chosen because they possess extra wisdom or virtue. Every one who was acquainted with the usual manner of their appointment knew this. As far as regarded responsibility of position, he knew no distinction between members of the committee and of the House, and that the House should determine not to take action on any particular matter merely because a certain committee might consider it as a reflection upon them, was discreditable. It was only just to give to the gentleman from Philadelphia, (Mr. THORN,) the courtesy desired. He did not agree with the gentleman from Philadelphia, (Mr. WALBORN,) that all who came here as outsiders were robbers and thieves, and not to have a bearing. The members were sent to Harrisburg to listen to and carry out the views of their constituents, whether expressed in writing or orally. He desired to re-assert his disbelief in the incorruptibility of any committee.

Mr. THORN acknowledged that as far as he was concerned, he had received every possible courtesy from the chairman of the Railroad Committee. He wished to say one word more, and would then be done with the subject. He did not believe that committees were instituted for the purpose of condensing business, but rather to perfect business; moreover, he did not believe that the people had sent him to Harrisburg to act in a purely independent manner, but rather to be their representative, to ascertain their wishes, and govern himself accordingly, and to be responsible to them for his acts. He disclaimed any intention of having reflected on the chairman personally, and in evidence of this would state that he had shown the resolution to Mr. WALBORN before it had been submitted.

Mr. LAWRENCE, (Washington,) had not at first supposed that the resolution would assume such importance. He believed that some attempts had been made, however, to cast reflections on the committee and on the manner of its appointment. For one, as a member of the committee, he could say that he had never been consulted by the SPEAKER previous to his appointment, and he would not allow any man, whether the gentleman from Tioga or any other, to intimate that he had been put on for especial purpose.

In the course of his experience he had never before seen an attempt made to take a matter of this kind out of the hands of a committee consisting of thirteen respectable men. Even the members of that committee could not always readily agree upon conflicting claims, and if the bills were printed and put before the House such a diversity of objects and interests would be apparent, that the House would never be able to come to a satisfactory adjustment.

The committee, when in session, had endeavored to do what was best for the city of Philadelphia, without recourse to outsiders. One third of the whole time of the House was taken up in the consideration of matters relative to that city. He then spoke of her as the just pride of the Commonwealth, and said that the country members were always ready to meet her representatives upon fair and equal grounds.

If the bills of the Railroad Committee were to be printed, why should other bills not receive the same consideration? Particularly did he object to that part of the resolution which said that no bills should be reported until they were printed.

Mr. M'CLURE said that the members of the Railroad Committee seemed to be laboring under a misapprehension. It was simply asked that the bills be printed, and there was no desire to take the business out of the hands of the committee, or to interfere in the slightest degree with any of their prerogatives. It had been said that bills, when in the hands of the committee, had been refused consideration. So rumor had it.

Mr. THORN said that the rules of the House did not permit any allusion to what was done in committee, but he desired to state a proposition: Suppose that two men were sent in on a committee to consider six bills. One of them was read, and a motion was made that it be adopted and that the others be not read. I say that this was done in committee.

Mr. M'CLURE said that so gentlemen on both sides had stated. He thought that such a proceeding was not fair.

Mr. LAWRENCE, (Washington,) denied having said that the committee had considered all the bills.

Mr. WALBORN denied that it had been refused to allow the bills to be read. A motion had been made that all of them should be read, but there were so many that the motion was withdrawn.

Mr. HILL raised a point of order, viz: that no gentleman should be allowed to speak more than twice on one subject.

Mr. M'CLURE. No one has spoken more than twice.

Mr. M'CLURE said that he would coincide in a motion to discharge the committee, if they took the action of the House as a reflection upon them. They deserved it. There could be no fairer proposition than to have the bills printed, and as for talking about outsiders, they were deeply interested. He was amazed at hearing the chairman of the committee pleading his own immaculate virtue. If the Railroad Committee had suffered in the discussion, it was their own fault. Why did they not willingly come forward and show what the bills were?

Mr. LAWRENCE, (Dauphin,) had no especial interest in the matter, but having been temporarily absent from the room, on his return had been told that a reflection had been cast upon the SPEAKER for the manner in which he had appointed the committee. He desired to ask of the gentleman who had made the allusion, an explanation.

A member. Who was it?

Mr. LAWRENCE, (Dauphin.) The gentleman from Tioga, I believe, (Mr. WILLISTON.)

Mr. WILLISTON said that he had made no reflection on the SPEAKER.

Mr. LAWRENCE, (Dauphin.) I am glad to hear it.

Mr. WILLISTON said that he had only entered on the debate because some remarks which had been made, that certain bodies and committees were intact, had grated harshly on his feelings. He had meant to say, and had said, that position was no indication of infallibility. From this assertion he would not fall, but he had meant and specified no particular person.

He desired to make one remark. The gentleman from Lancaster had suggested that if the bills were given to the printer, they would be tied up and be out of reach of the House. There was no fear of this.

Mr. LAWRENCE, (Dauphin,) expressed his satisfaction at the explanation, although he had been informed that the gentleman from Tioga had made a personal allusion.

Mr. KENEAGY moved to postpone the resolution. He thought there was ample time and opportunity for the members to see the bills after they had been reported upon by the committee.

Mr. CHURCH gave notice that if the motion to postpone did not carry, and the resolution passed, he should move that the bills of the Committee on Corporations be also printed.

Mr. HAMERSLY hoped that this would not deter any one from voting in favor of the resolution. In no other department was there as much confusion as in that of railroads. There were numerous applicants for the same routes. He was surprised that out of ten or twelve applications for the same route, the chairman of the committee should have selected one. He would like to see the other bills, if the committee did not fear the judgment of the House. It was the right of the committee to consider the bills, but it was also his right to see those which had been thus rejected. It had been customary for committees to report bills with a negative recommendation, when they would of course have been printed, but in this instance they had evidently refused to report at all.

As for the statement that Philadelphia projects consumed one-third of the time of the House, he would simply have it remember that Philadelphia paid nearly one-third of the taxes.

Mr. LAWRENCE, (Washington,) said that in alluding to the time he, had not done so in a complaining manner. He had no doubt but that if the House would wait they would find the rest of the bills reported with a negative recommendation.

Mr. ABBOTT said that if the allegation was made that favoritism had been shown by the committee, the parties who considered themselves injured had a right to print their own bills. He should vote against the postponement, and in favor of the resolution.

Mr. BARLOW was opposed to printing; first, on account of the expenditure of money which would result; second, because the committee was fully competent to act; and thirdly, because there was no reason why these bills should be printed and the others ignored.

Mr. KETCHUM, as one of the Railroad Committee, was willing that the House should know every thing that had been done. He had nothing to conceal, and was not afraid of scrutiny. He was opposed to the printing for several reasons. First, because it would afford a bad precedent; and secondly, because it was a reflection on the House as well as a committee. He took it as a suspicion upon the Railroad Committee particularly, and as far as he personally was concerned, had this to say—that in the course which he had pursued, he stood fully justified before God and man. The ultimate conclusion to be drawn, was, that either the committee was corrupt or else the House did its business, through ignorance or rascality, in a miserable manner, and was afraid to trust its committee. As to the distinction which had been attempted to be drawn between the city and country, he loathed it.

The question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion to postpone.

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. GOOD and Mr. EVANS, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Barnsley, Barlow, Boyer, (Clearfield,) Boyer, (Schuylkill,) Brodhead, Burley, Church, Dismant, Durboraw, Ellmaker, Fearon, Fleming, Galley, Glatz, Good, Graham, Harding, Hottenstine, Keneagy, Laird, Lawrence, (Washington,) Mehaffey, Nill, Patterson, Pennell, Price, Quigley, Rohrer, Stoneback, Stuart, Styer, Wagon seller, Walborn, Walker, Wilcox, Williams, (Bedford,) Williams, (Bucks,) Withrow, Wolf, Woodring and Lawrence, Speaker—41.

NAYS—Messrs. Abbott, Acker, Balliet, Bayard, Bertolet, Bryson, Campbell, Chase, Custer, Dodds, Eckman, Evans, Fisher, Foster, Goepp, Gratz, Gray, Hamersly, Hill, Irish, Jackson, Ketchum, Kinney, Mann, McClain, McClure, McCurdy, McDowell, Neall, Oaks, Palm, Peirce, Pinkerton, Pugh, Ramsdell, Rose, Shafer, Sheppard, Smead, Smith, (Philadelphia,) Taylor, Thompson, Thorn, Warden, Whitman, Wiley, Williston, Wilson, Wood and Zoller—50.

So the question was determined in the negative.

The question recurring on the final passage of the original resolution,

Mr. ROSE moved the following amendment: "And that the Committee on Railroads be and are hereby instructed to report all bills asking for the incorporation of passenger railroads upon the same route, and where the main line shall be located upon the same street or streets in the city of Philadelphia, at one and the same time, either with an affirmative or negative recommendation."

Mr. ROSE did not intend the amendment as a reflection, but to remedy an apparent difficulty. He had too much confidence in the committee to believe that they would venture a report without due consideration upon every bill before them. The amendment, by its peculiar provisions, would save printing.

Mr. THORN said that the amendment provided for just the things that they wished to avoid. He appealed to Mr. ROSE not to embarrass the resolution.

Mr. ROSE said that if it would be any satisfaction to the gentleman, he would withdraw the amendment.

Mr. CHURCH hoped the amendment would pass.

Mr. THORN rose to a call of the previous question, which was seconded by Messrs. THORN, HAMERSLY, EVANS, KETCHUM, HARDING, BAYARD, MCCLURE, GRATZ, NEALL, GRAY, ECKMAN, SMITH, (Philadelphia.)

And on the question,

Shall the main question now be put?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. PATTERSON and Mr. PRICE, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Abbott, Balliet, Bayard, Bertolet, Boyer, (Schuylkill,) Brodhead, Bryson, Church, Custer, Dismant, Dodds, Eckman, Ellmaker, Evans, Fisher, Goepp, Gratz, Gray, Hamersly, Harding, Hill, Irish, Jackson, Ketchum, Kinney, Mann, McClure, McCurdy, McDowell, Miller, Neall, Oaks, Peirce, Pinkerton, Pugh, Ramsdell, Rohrer, Rose, Shafer, Sheppard, Smead, Smith, (Philadelphia,) Taylor, Thompson, Thorn, Warden, Wiley, Williston, Wilson, Wood and Zoller—51.

NAYS—Messrs. Acker, Barnsley, Barlow, Burley, Campbell, Chase, Durboraw, Fearon, Fleming, Foster, Glatz, Good, Graham, Hottenstine, Keneagy, Lawrence, (Washington,) Mehaffey, McClain, Nill, Palm, Patterson, Pennell, Price, Quigley, Stoneback, Stuart, Styer, Wagon seller, Walborn, Walker, Whitman, Wilcox, Williams, (Bedford,) Williams, (Bucks,) Withrow, Wolf and Lawrence, Speaker—37.

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

The question now being,

Will the House agree to the amendment submitted by Mr. ROSE?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. NILL and Mr. PATTERSON, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Barlow, Boyer, (Schuylkill,) Brodhead, Burley, Chase, Custer, Dismant, Fearon, Galley, Glatz, Good, Graham, Gray, Hill, Jackson, Keneagy, Laird, Lawrence, (Washington,) Mehaffey, McCurdy, Nill, Oaks, Patterson, Pennell, Price, Quigley, Rohrer, Rose, Sheppard, Smith, (Philadelphia,) Stoneback, Stuart, Styer, Wagon seller, Walborn, Walker, Warden, Williams, (Bedford,) Williams, (Bucks,) Wilson, Withrow, Wolf and Lawrence, Speaker—43.

NAYS—Messrs. Abbott, Acker, Balliet, Barnsley, Bayard, Bryson, Campbell, Church, Dodds, Durboraw, Eckman, Ellmaker, Evans, Fisher, Fleming, Foster, Goepp, Gratz, Hamersly, Harding, Irish, Ketchum, Kinney, Mann, McClain, McClure, McDowell, Miller, Neall, Palm, Peirce, Pinkerton, Pugh, Ramsdell, Shafer, Smead, Taylor, Thompson, Thorn, Whitman, Wilcox, Wiley, Williston, Wood and Zoller—45.

So the question was determined in the negative.

The question again recurring, will the House agree to the original resolution of Mr. THORN?

Mr. ROHRER here rose, and sent a slip of paper to the Chair, which the SPEAKER directed to be read by the Clerk.

Mr. THORN objected.

The SPEAKER directed the Clerk to read the paper.

Mr. THORN rose to a point of order; it was that after the previous question has been called no member has a right to rise in his place and present any paper to be read by the Clerk.

The SPEAKER decided the document in order, on the ground that as he was ignorant of its contents he could not decide as to its competency or incompetency until he had heard it read.

Mr. THORN insisted that the Chair could not entertain anything of the kind while the previous question was pending.

The SPEAKER replied that the paper in question might contain Mr. ROHRER'S reasons for voting on the amendment offered by Mr. ROSE; and if so, it was certainly in order.

Mr. THORN appealed from the decision of the Chair.

The SPEAKER demanded the appeal to be reduced to writing.

Mr. MCCLURE rose and stated to the House that he had examined the paper submitted by Mr. ROHRER, and discovered that it was an amendment. The difficulty could be obviated if the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. THORN, would suffer the same to be read.

Mr. THORN assented to this.

The amendment was then read as follows:

And that the same be printed and furnished, at the expense of the several applicants.

The SPEAKER then decided the amendment out of order.

The question again recurring, shall the original resolution pass?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. PATTERSON and Mr. NEALL, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. On motion, the SPEAKER was authorized to draw his warrant on the State Treasurer in favor of Geo. W. Porter, for $1407.86, in payment of the above account

Mr. WELSH, in behalf of the Committee on Estates and Escheats, asked that the committee be discharged from the consideration of a bill, entitled "An Act in relation to partitions of real estate in the several courts of common pleas in this Commonwealth," and that the same be referred to the Committee on Judiciary; which was agreed to.

Also, that the same committee be discharged from the consideration of a bill, entitled "An Act to authorize the trustees of the Associate Reformed, now the United Presbyterian congregation in the city of Erie, to sell certain property and to remove the bodies of persons interred therein," and that the same be referred to the Judiciary Committee; agreed to.

Mr. PENNEY, (same,) as committed, "A supplement to an act relative to the sale and conveyance of real estate, approved April 18, 1853."

Mr. COFFEY, (same,) as committed, "A supplement to an act incorporating the Fayette County railroad company."

Mr. TURNEY moved that the Senate proceed to the consideration of this bill; which was agreed to. Whereupon the Senate resolved itself into committee of the whole. (Mr. PENNEY in the chair.)

After some time, the chairman reported the same as committed, and the Senate proceeded to second reading.

Mr. PENNEY was desirous that the bill should lie over. He did not know that eventually he should have any objection to it; and as far as he was at present aware, he had no objection, save to the last section. He then entered into an explanation of the features of that section, as calculated materially to affect the interests of the Connellsville road, which was now negotiating a loan for the completion of the work.

Mr. TURNEY explained the object of the bill, and said he considered it selfishness on the part of the Senator to object to a little local matter, which it was important, to those whose interests were involved, should promptly pass. So far as the Connellsville road is concerned, a large proportion of it traversed his district, and affected his constituents more than the people of Pittsburg. The bill had passed, at the last session, without objection; and the only reason why it did not receive the sanction of the Governor, was owing to some defect in one of its clauses.

Mr. GAZZAM wished the bill to lie over, in order that an opportunity may be afforded for seeing whether any of its provisions are objectionable, and to what extent, if any, the interests of the Connellsville road were affected by it. He entered into a history of the advantages furnished by that road, as an outlet to the trade of the people of Pittsburg and Fayette county, in the course of which he said the merchants of Pittsburg had found it to their advantage to send passengers and freight one hundred and forty miles out of the way, to Wheeling and by the Baltimore and Ohio road. He read the following extract from the Dispatch, in explanation of the facts to which he had alluded:

"We learned on Saturday, that a movement was being made among the merchants here, in concert with an official agent of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, to do their business by way of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad and the "Circumbendibus" from Wheeling. It appears that the unwise discrimination of the Pennsylvania Central against the merchants here has driven them to a resolve to give all possible favor to the Baltimore and Ohio route, and experiments so far are satisfactory. A lot of three hundred sacks coffee from Baltimore arrived on Saturday, in prime order, not in four days, as stated by the Gazette, but in two, and at as satisfactory rates as by the Central. Another lot of three hundred sacks is already ordered from Philadelphia, over the same route, and also one hundred barrels syrup. This is but the beginning of what must be almost a revolution in trade, unless the Central shall come to terms. We are told that a trade worth fully $60,000 per annum is thus about being diverted; that the mercantile community of our city is about a unit on the subject; and that no half-way or "put-off" expedients will avail to change the direction of sentiment and trade; as, save the transshipment at Wheeling, the Baltimore and Ohio route is in every respect equally desirable and convenient, and far more accommodating."

The bill was ordered to be transcribed for third reading.

Mr. FETTER, (Agriculture and Domestic Manufactures,) as committed, "An Act to prevent the destruction of trout in Blair county."

Mr. SCHELL, (Private Claims and Damages,) in accordance with the resolution adopted yesterday, "A bill providing for the payment of certain claims."

Mr. BLOOD, (New Counties and County Seats,) as committed, "An Act to re-annex Brady township, Lycoming county, to Union county."

ORIGINAL RESOLUTIONS.

Mr. SCOFIELD offered the following resolution:

WHEREAS, The Senate of the United States, during the session of the first Congress, sat with closed doors: And whereas, A manuscript Journal, containing sketches of debate, and of the proceedings in the Senate, was kept by William Maclay, one of the Senators from Pennsylvania, a part of which is now in existence; be it therefore,

Resolved, That a committee of five be appointed to confer with the person in possession of such Journal, with a view to consider and report on the propriety of the Legislature subscribing for a portion of the book which he has in view to publish.

Mr. SCOFIELD explained the object of the resolution. He had read some portions of the Journal kept by Mr. Maclay, and found it a document of great interest. It was now in the hands of a distant relative of Mr. Maclay—Mr. George W. Harris—and he wished a committee appointed to examine the manuscript, and report upon the propriety of the State ordering a number of copies, if the work should be printed.

Mr. SCHELL did not like to vote for the resolution. He was opposed to the publication of any work by the Legislature. He would not object to subscribing for a reasonable number of copies.

Mr. SCOFIELD explained that the resolution did not contemplate the printing of the work, but merely an inquiry into the propriety of purchasing a number of copies, should the work be published.

Mr. SCHELL continued. Even should the committee report in favor of the purchase of a certain number of copies, he should be opposed to it. If the present Legislature should subscribe for a certain number for its use, the next would consider that they had as good a right to be supplied, and thus this thing might go on for years. He had no doubt that the work was of great importance, and he had no doubt the patriotism of the people of Pennsylvania would respond by a liberal subscription towards its publication. It was, however, more a matter of national interest, and should be undertaken by Congress. He would subscribe for one or two copies himself, but he saw no necessity for aiding it in the manner contemplated by the resolution, when it was so liable to be abused.

The resolution was twice read, considered and adopted.

On motion of Mr. SCOFIELD, the hour of meeting for the Senate hereafter, shall be half-past ten o'clock, A. M., except on Monday's; on which day it shall remain as at present ordered.

Mr. BREWER, on leave given, withdrew certain papers and documents of Mary Richardson, widow of an old soldier.

Mr. TURNEY, on leave given, read a bill, entitled "An Act relative to furnishing the School Department with a copy of Roger's geological survey;" which,

On motion was taken up.

Mr. TURNEY stated that every other department had been provided with a copy of the work, save the School Department; and as it was a most important document, the resolution was merely intended to remedy a defect.

The bill passed finally.

The Committee to Compare Bills made a report.

The Deputy Secretary of the Commonwealth being introduced, presented a message from the Governor, stating that he had approved and signed the following:

"An Act relative to recording a certain ordinance of the City of Allegheny."

"An Act in relation to the railroad between Chambersburg and Hagerstown."

"A further supplement to an act authorizing the Governor to incorporate the West Chester and Wilmington plank road company."

"Resolution relative to fitting up the Halls of the Senate and House of Representatives."

On leave given, Mr. WRIGHT read in place, a bill, entitled "An Act to incorporate the Northumberland improvement company."

On motion of Mr. SCHELL, the Senate proceeded to second reading of the following:

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Commonwealth be requested to communicate to the Senate a statement containing the names and locations of the several charitable and benevolent institutions which have received appropriations from the State, together with the several amounts appropriated each year to each of said institutions; and also a brief compilation of the several acts of Assembly providing for the admission of certain unfortunate people of the Commonwealth into said institutions.

The resolution was adopted.

Mr. FINNEY desired to make a statement.—He was reported in yesterday's (Telegraph's) proceedings as having said that it was getting to be a dangerous thing to pass any bill without the consent of the "other House," and that "it may be that this resolution is thrown out as a premonitory threat if the Senate dares to pass a bill without the consent of the other body, or that if we dare to combine ourselves against the influence of that distinguished body, the deluge will come upon us." He had used no such language, and did not like to be reported as saying what he did not. The language imputed to him was a reflection upon the House, which he certainly did not intend. He simply alluded to the fact that it was getting to be a very dangerous thing to pass a bill, without the consent of the lobby; and it may be that this resolution is thrown out as a premonitory threat of the deluge which is to come hereafter, should the Legislature undertake any action, without first consulting the hangers on in the lobbies, as to its propriety.

He was also represented as saying that "the resolution embraced a reflection upon the Governor, and for that reason, if for no other, he would vote against it." He had said there was no reflection upon the Governor. It was a matter of no very great importance, yet it was calculated to place him in a wrong position, and to lead to misunderstanding.

Mr. GREGG moved to proceed to the consideration of a bill for the payment of the expenses of witnesses in the Cambria county contested election case; which was agreed to.

Whereupon the Senate resolved itself into committee of the whole. (Mr. RANDALL in the Chair.)

Mr. GREGG wished to make a statement. The Committee on Finance had reported the bill with a negative recommendation, although it was conceded the county was bound to pay the amount. It had been the practice for the Auditor General to pay the claims of witnesses in contested election cases, and collect the amount from the counties. This party had come here by the action of the other House, and one gentleman had advanced the money to take them home. They were justly entitled to the amount claimed, and he hoped it would be allowed.

Mr. TURNEY alluded to the law which he had read, when this case was reported by the committee, and remarked that these parties were bound to take notice of it. They had come here, under its provisions; and there should be no exception in a particular case.

This bill lies over on second reading.

ORDERS OF THE DAY.

On second reading, "A supplement to an act incorporating the Germantown passenger railway company."

Mr. MARSELIS moved to postpone for the present.

Mr. MYER moved to amend by postponing indefinitely.

Mr. MARSELIS was desirous that the bill should lie over. He was not prepared to act upon it intelligibly, nor could any Senator do so without the proper examination of its provisions. It was a matter of great importance to the people of Philadelphia. The feeling with reference to these railway grants was different from what it was at first. There are a great number of them who think they have had enough of them, and that it was time to pause; if any more roads are to be put in the city limits, it should be done judiciously. The city was already inundated with railways, and it was wrong thus to perforate it, without knowing whether the plan proposed is a good or bad one, and without having all the information necessary to enable us to act understandingly.

Mr. RANDALL thought the matter a very plain one, and he did not see any necessity for delaying the consideration of the bill.

Mr. MARSELIS said the people of Philadelphia had an idea there should be some streets left open for the passage of large and massive bodies, which cannot be conveyed through thoroughfares traversed by these roads. It was not the body of the people who ask for this privilege, but a company which had been got up for the construction of another rural road. They were not the proper persons to judge what streets were proper to be traversed by passenger railways. The people of Philadelphia should have some voice in the matter; and in order to ascertain the necessary facts, he wished a postponement of the bill.

Mr. WRIGHT was in favor of the motion to postpone. There was no necessity for hasty action; and there were many items in the bill which require careful examination. He found one provision, upon which he should object to the bill, if for no other. It authorized this company to construct their road upon certain portions of streets, until the city, in its magnanimity, shall grade others, and save them the trouble and expense. There should be time afforded for examination of the bill, and to make it more perfect. There were conflicting interests here. Railway companies were seeking control of the streets of the whole city, to have them under their entire jurisdiction. Six or eight parties, he said, were seeking the use of the streets, and there were six or eight bills now before the committee. He was loth to be considered as wishing a postponement, because he was in the interest of any party outside, or that he was fighting against those desirous of the passage of this bill. It was simply as a Senator from Philadelphia that he was interested in the matter, and as the interests of his constituents are affected.

With his colleague, he thought there were railroads enough, and that the people of Philadelphia were similarly impressed. All the great avenues of the city were already occupied by these passenger railways, and the Legislature should pause before giving a monopoly into the hands of these companies. The matter should receive a thorough sifting, and he hoped the bill would be postponed for the present.

Mr. RANDALL said that it was true that the company had been incorporated last year, to come in from Germantown to the end of the Germantown road. They now merely ask for a supplement, enabling them to continue their road through certain streets of the city. They have not invaded the halls of legislation with bidders, but have allowed the bill to stand on its real merits.

Mr. BREWER thought the bill should be postponed for the purpose of affording an opportunity to examine its provisions. A number of railroad bills were before the committee, and they should all be reported to the Senate before action is taken upon any of them. They could then vote intelligently. So far as regarded the merits of the case, he knew but little. It was a matter between the companies, and one upon which he had no personal feeling.

Mr. MYER said this was a matter which excited considerable interest. He corrected the Senator from Philadelphia as to the right of the road to connect, and read section seven of the original act of incorporation in explanation.—The passage of a supplement for the simple purpose of connecting, was, he said, unnecessary. No line of cars can start from Germantown and run to the city for five cents. It was only through the populous streets, where persons are frequently taken up and put down, and where the travel is great, that they can be expected to pay. As to the efforts of parties in the lobbies, he knew nothing, and cared nothing. The President of this road had been here, but for what purpose he was not aware. There seemed a strong objection to acting upon the bill. If it had been unworthy, why did not the committee report it with a negative recommendation? And why was there an exception made in this over all others? He had no interest, directly or indirectly, in the matter, and cared not which one of the parties seeking these railway privileges succeeded in the end. Another reason why he should vote for a postponement was, that yesterday, a resolution of inquiry with reference to the matter was voted down. Why smother a resolution of inquiry? He considered it the duty of the Senate to adopt a proposition to inquire into any bill made by its members.

Mr. BELL said it was fair and right, unless under peculiar circumstances, when gentlemen ask for information with reference to any matter, that it should be granted; and a refusal to do so, creates suspicion that hurry is desired. This company comes here for an enlargement of corporate powers, in antagonism with other parties, having equal rights. He desired information himself; he wished to know why this bill was brought before the Senate, in preference to other competitors. He did not like to be hurried, but was desirous that the matter should go over for some little time. It was important to neighboring counties, and particularly to the people of Philadelphia, that there should be no hurried action upon it. He referred to that feature of the bill alluded to by Mr. WRIGHT, authorizing the company to occupy particular portions of streets, until such time as the city shall grade others, as particularly objectionable.

Mr. FINNEY would join the Senator from the city to put a limit to the indiscriminate passage of railway bills, and would unite in caucus to determine what shall be passed, and what refused. He recollected when the Fifth and Sixth Street passenger railway was chartered, there was considerable opposition to it, yet when it passed, they all clamored for roads, and the next winter there were many applications for the privilege of building them. So far as the fear that, in the appointment of the commissioners to receive stock, that certain parties would be favored, was concerned, there was no ground for it. No member has any right to presume that stock will be refused to any one.

Mr. WRIGHT wished to say but a few words further upon the subject. There was no excuse for the company in not constructing their road, according to their charter. They had become satisfied that it will not pay, and it has been in a great measure abandoned. Nor will they construct a foot of the road unless they get the advantage which they ask for by this extension of their corporate privileges. Heregretted that the Committee on Railroads had not given the same advantage to all bills before them for the same purpose.

The hour of one o'clock having arrived while Mr. WRIGHT was speaking, at the request of the SPEAKER he gave way, being assigned the floor for to-morrow; when the Senate was adjourned until to-morrow morning at half past 10 o'clock.

[A typographical error occurred in yesterday's report of proceedings in the Senate, by the omission of Mr. NUNEMACHER'S name on the motion to re-insert the allowance of mileage to A. L. Linton, clerk to the committee on the contested seat of Oliver Evans. Mr. N. voted "no." He has not been absent from his seat during the session, and has never failed to vote.]

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

THURSDAY, Feb. 3, 1859.

The House was called to order by the SPEAKER at the usual hour.

Prayer was offered by the Rev. Mr. Colder, of the Bethel church, Harrisburg, Pa.

The Clerk read the Journal of yesterday.

Mr. KINNEY, from the committee appointed in the case of the contested election from the county of Cambria, wherein Richard J. Proudfoot is contestant and Thomas H. Porter respondent, made report:

That in accordance with the laws in such case made and provided, they proceeded to hear the said parties by themselves and their counsel, their proofs and allegations, and to examine the election returns and other papers connected with and appertaining to said contested election.

By the returns made of the election held in the said county of Cambria on the 12th day of October, 1858, it appeared that for the office of Representative for said county, Thomas H. Porter had 2,091 votes, and Richard J. Proudfoot had 1,779 votes.

It is alleged, however, by the contestant, that the election held in the township of Washington, in said county, for said office, was undue, illegal and void, because of the irregularities and disregard of the requirements of law in the formation of the election board in said township, and of the gross frauds perpetrated by said election board in conducting said election.

The evidence taken in the said contested election case, and accompanying documents and papers, are herewith presented as a part of this report, and from such evidence, your committee learn the following facts:

Albert F. Cantwell, who acted as judge at said election, was at that time postmaster in said township, and thereby was disqualified by law to act in that capacity.

Charles Geisman, who acted as one of the clerks, was at that time deputy postmaster under the said Albert F. Cantwell, and was thereby under the same disqualification.

Werner Bender, who acted as one of the inspectors, was appointed to that position by the said Albert F. Cantwell, and by virtue of that appointment alone exercised the functions of said office. In making such appointment, the twenty-third section of the general election law was entirely disregarded. By the returns of the township election in said township, held the 19th of February, 1858, Michael Moyer was chosen one of the inspectors. Upon his failure to attend at the general election, the act referred to makes the person receiving the second highest number of votes for judge the inspector, which the said return shows was Jacob Crist.—Upon his neglect to attend, then said act requires the legal voters present to elect an inspector. None of these requirements were complied with.

John Short, who acted as the other clerk, was appointed to that office by the said Werner Bender, and exercised its functions by virtue of that appointment alone.

This board, so constituted, was sworn, is sworn at all, which fact is regarded by the committee as very questionable indeed, (for it appears from the testimony of several reliable witnesses, that not even the form of an oath was administered,) by one F. M. George, who was not a justice of the peace, and had no authority to administer an oath. His commission for that office expired more than a year previous to that time; and the fact that he had imposed himself upon his neighbors, and held out to the public that he was such an officer, by assuming and exercising its important and sacred functions, and jeopardizing thereby the peace of the community and the rights of property, does not, in the opinion of the committee, to any extent whatever, legalize the swearing of said board. And the other fact, that he had a year and a half before been re-elected, but did not take his commission, cannot redeem his illegal acts.

It further appears from the evidence, that the said Werner Bender was so deficient in a knowledge of the English language, and of the election laws, that he was not qualified to discharge the duties of his office. His own testimony shows that when a portion of the election law was read to him by the judge, nine words out of ten he did not understand. He could not comprehend questions asked him by the committee, and could be examined only by means of an interpreter. He could study out short words, but could not read. Your committee, therefore, believe that an office which seems to require an understanding of the election laws, the examination of naturalization papers, and the reading and counting of votes, could not be properly filled by a person so deficient in these requirements; and an election board so formed is but little better than a board with but one inspector. The committee do not say that these facts would invalidate the election at that poll, but it would tend to render the result of such election doubtful and uncertain.

It further appears, that of the four hundred and thirty-seven persons represented as voting at that poll that day, by the tally lists returned by said board, but one hundred and seventy-one are found on the assessment of said township for that year. Presuming that the one hundred and seventy-one were legal voters, it leaves two hundred and sixty-six names on said tally lists, without any persons in said township to represent them. It also appears, that from one hundred and fifty to two hundred persons only were at the election that day, and some evidence fixes the number at below one hundred and sixty. These facts lead your committee to the conclusion that excess of votes was most fraudulently stuffed into the ballot box by said election board, and names to represent them were in the same false and fraudulent manner entered upon the tally lists by the clerks.

It is claimed by the respondent, Mr. Porter, that one hundred and fifty-six legally qualified electors voted for him at that poll on that day, which, if allowed, would still entitle him to the seat. It is also claimed that those legal electors should not be disfranchised by throwing out the entire poll; but that the committee should go behind the frauds of the election board, and count the votes of such legal electors whenever it can be done. That one hundred and fifty-six legal voters of said township did so vote for Mr. Porter, was admitted by the contestant pro forma, and for the purpose of the argument in this case only. Your committee is unable to see how one hundred and fifty-six legal voters, depositing their ballots with a board so constituted, could to any extent whatever, purge it of its illegality and corruption. They might as well have deposited their ballots with any other collection of men. To vote, pre-supposes a legally constituted board to receive votes, to deposit them in the ballot box, to count and tally them, and then make a proper return of the same. It is the duty of such qualified voters, to see that a legal and properly constituted board is sitting to receive and count their ballots—the whole matter is in their hands, and in theirs alone. If they neglect their duties in their own behalf, and are thereby defrauded, they cannot reasonably complain if they are disfranchised. There are cases in which communities should be held responsible for their acts, as well as individuals, and the facts before us present such a case.

The right of the committee to throw out an entire poll, on account of irregularities and frauds on the part of the election board, is clearly recognized in the case of Cassidy and Man, tried in Philadelphia in 1856. Judge Thompson, in his opinion in that case, page 431 of the report, says, that had not the charge of frauds and irregularities on the part of the board been erased from the petition, upon application to the court for that purpose, which act he then regretted, he should have thrown out the return of every division tarnished with fraudulent conduct, on the part of the officers charged with the performance of such solemn and responsible duties. The opinion of Judge Taylor, recently given in an investigation of this identical election poll, but in a contest between different parties, establishes the same doctrine. He says, "the facts, in our judgment, disclose such fraud as renders the whole poll undue and void."

With all these facts before the committee, and with these recent precedents to guide them, they have adopted the following resolutions:

Resolved, That in consequence of the irregularities and disregard of the requirements of the law, in the formation of the election board in the township of Washington, Cambria county, on the 12th of October, 1858, and of the gross frauds perpetrated by the said board in the said election, the said election in said township was null and void, and is hereby rejected.

Resolved, That at the general election held in the county of Cambria, on the 12th day of October, 1858, for representatives, Thomas H. Porter received 1690 legal votes, and Richard J. Proudfoot received 1758 legal votes; and Richard J. Proudfoot having received a majority of all the legal votes polled, was duly elected to said office, and is entitled to his seat in this House as member from the county of Cambria.

All of which is respectfully submitted,

O. H. P. KINNEY,
WILLIAM GRAHAM,
S. B. CHASE,
JOHN M'CURDY,
W. W. KETCHUM,
JOHN W. CAMPBELL,
LINDSEY MAHAFFEY.

On leave given,

Mr. LAIRD, from the minority of said committee, made the following report, viz:

The undersigned, members of the select committee to investigate the matter of the contested election from the county of Cambria, dissenting from the sentiments expressed in the report of the majority of said committee, would respectfully beg leave to submit the following reasons for their dissent:

The undersigned, after a careful consideration of all the facts adduced in evidence in this case, and mature deliberation upon the principles and legal questions involved in its determination, are induced to the conclusion that there was not sufficient reasons to impose upon the committee the duty of disregarding the solemnly expressed will of the people, and overthrowing the most sacred and cherished rights of the citizens. The allegations contained in the petition of the contestant, and the doctrine contended for by his counsel, that inasmuch as certain informalities and irregularities existed in the organization of the board of election in Washington township, that fraud must necessarily be presumed, and that, in consequence, the whole election was vitiated and invalidated, and must therefore be set aside, does not meet our sanction. These irregularities, consisting as they did in the internal organization of the board, and having reference only to the informality of its qualification, and not to the illegality of its constitution, and having no allegation sustained by proof of positive frauds in the incipency of the proceeding, do not make out such a case of positive fraud as should invalidate the whole election. A tribunal, such as a committee of the Legislature, in the investigation of the facts, should be governed by an honest desire to elicit the truth, and reach, if possible, a true and correct expression of the voice of the people, and in their effort to accomplish this object should be governed by wise and liberal rules, and not by narrow and technical rules of law, which too often obscure and cloud the truth, instead of elucidating the subject under investigation. The allegations are that the oath was administered by an individual whose commission as justice of the peace had expired, although he was still acting as a magistrate, and held himself out to the public as such; that the judge of election was a postmaster in the township, and one of the clerks acted occasionally as deputy postmaster, and that a large number of illegal votes were cast at the election in said township. These were all the material allegations contained in the petition and proven in the investigation, and upon them it is asked that the election should be reversed, notwithstanding it was admitted that a majority of the qualified electors of that county cast their votes for Thomas H. Porter, in the direct contravention of which admitted fact the sitting member is thus ousted from his seat, and the will of the majority of the legal voters of Cambria county is thus thwarted and defeated.

The duty imposed upon the committee by the act of Assembly is, "to try the matter of the petition and to give a true judgment according to the evidence, unless the committee shall be dissolved;" and in complying with the provisions of the act of Assembly, to try the matter, they are not to be confined to mere technical rules of a court of exclusive law jurisdiction, but should be governed by such wise and liberal principles as will most certainly conduce to the elimination of the truth and the securing of justice to the parties. The act prescribes that the said committee "shall decide not only the validity of the election, but also which of the candidates had the greatest number of legal votes." The law defines the legal qualifications of the voter, and most emphatically declares that all persons possessing these qualifications, shall enjoy the right of electors. This prescription of a sacred right is imperative. The qualified electors under this act, possess rights which cannot be taken away, either by legislative enactment or even the misconduct of a board of election officers. Nor can any irregularity in the manner of holding an election or of election officers, be used as a pretext to deprive the citizen of his sacred rights at the ballot-box. In this case is the evidence of fraud participated in only by the election officers sufficient to justify the entire negation of the elective franchise? If it is alleged fraud did exist, are those who had no complicity with and no knowledge of such fraud, to be involved in the disabling and disqualifying consequences of an act in which they had no part or lot? Are the irregularities alleged in contestant's petition of such a character as to impose upon the tribunal to which the matter is referred, the overwhelming necessity of setting aside the entire election in Washington township, and thus invalidating the clearly expressed will of the people of Cambria county? These are interrogatories which must all be answered in the affirmative, before we can justify the setting aside of this election. The extraordinary construction of the powers and duties of the committee, which would necessarily result from an affirmative answer to these questions, would place the legal and qualified voters of any election district in the power of a board of election officers, who may, by wilful and intentional irregularities and improprieties, defeat the will of the citizens of said district and nullify the sacred guarantees of the Constitution. On the contrary, such a liberal construction should in all cases be given to the law and to the acts of public officers, as will give, if possible, full and entire force and effect to the exercise of the elective franchise and the rights of the citizen.

If the proceedings at the election and on the part of the board of officers are apparent upon their face to be regular and legitimate, the voter has not only a right to presume, but is bound to presume, under the operation of that salutary maxim of law that "everything is presumed to be legal until the contrary appears," that all the requisitions prescribed by the act of Assembly have been fully complied with.

If any irregularity was patent upon the face of the proceedings, the contrary presumption would naturally arise, and the honest voter would be put upon his inquiry to ascertain the true and exact state of the facts, and whether the necessity of the case required and justified a radical departure from the specific course prescribed by law; as, for instance, if the election had been held at a place different from that required by the act of Assembly, or a different set of officers from those elected for that purpose conducted the election, the want of regularity is apparent, and the voter put upon his inquiry to know if such irregularity was in accordance with the spirit of the law, and justified by the necessity of the case. No such duty devolved upon the voter in the case determined by the committee. No informality appeared upon the face of this election, save that one of the inspectors was not the one elected to that office; but the law authorizing the judge of election to appoint an inspector in case of the absence of the one duly elected—the fact that another one acted in that capacity, is no evidence of irregularity, as the presumption of course arises that he was appointed in accordance with the provisions of the law; the person legally entitled to act not appearing at the election to assume the duties of his office. The question again presents itself, shall the citizen be disfranchised, when no suspicion could possibly rest upon his mind that anything wrong existed?

In this case, the voters, in the innocent enjoyment of their rights, and in the proper and honest exercise of their constitutional privileges, went to the polls at Washington township, at the house prescribed by the law for holding the election, and there deposited their ballots in that place, which were received by the officers duly elected to conduct said election, and to all appearances in all the proceedings, every legal requisition complied with: and shall this entire number of qualified voters be disfranchised, without any fault of their own, and under circumstances that could not possibly raise any presumption of irregularity, informality, or fraud? If the board, or any members of it, were guilty of any misconduct or impropriety, they were amenable to the law, and should receive the punishment due to their acts; but is it right or just that the honest voters of Washington township should be involved in the penal consequences of illegal acts, to which they were not privy, and of which they had no knowledge, and could have no knowledge under the circumstances? The Committee are bound to respect and carry out the constitutional rights of the citizens, even though they should not strictly and in every respect comply with the narrow and technical construction of the statutory provisions. Under the Constitution, each house is to judge of the qualifications of its own members, and the action of this House should be in favor of and not against the free exercise of the elective franchise. It should at all times uphold the citizen in the full enjoyment of his constitutional rights, and not seize upon technical rules and technical construction of an act of Assembly to strike them down. Thomas H. Porter has, beyond all question, even by the admission of the contestant, a clear and undeniable majority of the constitutional voters of the district composed of the county of Cambria, and the action of the majority of the Committee, in depriving him of a seat in this House, involves the perpetration of a great wrong upon the people of that district, and one that will surely bring its retributive penalty upon those at whose instigation the injustice has been done.

WILSON LAIRD.

CHARLES H. HILL.

The SPEAKER. The report of the committee having been final and conclusive, Mr. PROUDFOOT will come forward and be sworn.

Mr. PROUDFOOT advanced.

Mr. ROHRER rose to object to the swearing of the gentleman, and wished to offer a resolution.

The SPEAKER. A resolution is not now in order; the gentleman must state his objections from his seat.

Mr. ROHRER then read the following:

WHEREAS, It is confidently asserted that RICHARD J. PROUDFOOT, of Cambria county, is a foreigner by birth and not a qualified elector of this Commonwealth, and therefore ineligible to a seat in this House; therefore

Be it resolved, That a committee of — be appointed to inquire into the facts relating to the qualifications of the said RICHARD J.

PROUDFOOT, and report the same to this House.

The SPEAKER. The resolution is out of order at present. The law has prescribed a certain mode for contesting seats. The resolution will be in order after the gentleman has been sworn.

Mr. M'CLAIN. Is the report final?

The SPEAKER. It is.

Mr. PROUDFOOT appeared before the SPEAKER'S desk, and was duly qualified.

Mr. ROHRER then, on leave, presented the above resolution; which was read the second time.

Mr. WILLISTON said that he was utterly opposed to the offering of resolutions which were based solely upon rumor. He concurred fully with the decision of the Chair, that the law had prescribed a certain mode for disposing of contested election cases.

The SPEAKER explained that the decision in question had not been made with any special reference to the terms of the resolution.

Mr. WILLISTON repeated that he was opposed to the House taking any action upon outside rumors. The resolution read, "it is said." By whom was it said? when, and where, and how? If any evidence was offered, he would vote for the resolution; but he did protest against this improper way of doing business. He disliked to oppose the resolution, but, as a matter of principle, would have to do so. The seat of the gentleman had been contested from the first of the session, and a final report of the committee had just awarded him the place. It was unfair to take further action against him on mere rumor.

Mr. M'CLURE called for the reading of the resolution.

The resolution was read.

Mr. TAYLOR hoped that the resolution would not be entertained. The application which it embodied should be made under oath. At the proper time, he was authorized to say, that Mr. PROUDFOOT would be fully prepared to prove his competence.

Mr. ROHRER said that the gentlemen from Indiana and Tioga were certainly sufficiently lawyers to know that it would be absolutely impossible for any man to make affidavit as to the facts in this particular case. If there was any record in existence, Mr. PROUDFOOT had it in his possession, and it was now due to him that the matter should be investigated.

Mr. M'CLURE had heard many rumors that gentlemen present were not entitled to their seats, and some time since, a resolution almost similar to the one just presented was offered, and very properly rejected. If any one would come forward and make affidavit as to any of the facts alleged against Mr. PROUDFOOT, he would vote for the resolution.

Mr. WILLISTON reiterated the same sentiments.

The question recurring,

Shall the said resolution pass?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. GOOD and Mr. BOYER, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Barnsley, Bertolet, Boyer, (Clearfield,) Brodhead, Custer, Dismant, Evans, Fleming, Galley, Glatz, Goepf, Good, Gray, Gritman, Hill, Hottenstine, Jackson, M'Clain, Neall, Oaks, Quigley, Rohrer, Smith, (Philadelphia,) Stoneback, Stuart, Warden, Wilcox, Wolf and Woodring—29.

NAYS—Messrs. Abbott, Acker, Balliet, Barlow, Bayard, Boyer, (Schuylkill,) Bryson, Burley, Campbell, Chase, Church, Dodds, Durbow, Eckman, Ellmaker, Fearon, Fisher, Foster, Graham, Gratz, Green, Hamersly, Harding, Irish, Keneagy, Ketchum, Kinney, Lawrence, (Washington,) Mann, Mehaffey, M'Clure, M'Curdy, M'Dowell, Miller, Nill, Palm, Patterson, Peirce, Pinkerton, Price, Pugh, Ramsdell, Rose, Shafer, Sheppard, Smead, Styer, Thompson, Thorn, Wagon seller, Walborn, Walker, Whitman, Wiley, Williams, (Bedford,) Williams, (Bucks,) Williston, Wilson, Withrow, Wood Zoller and Lawrence, Speaker—62.

So the question was determined in the negative.

Mr. HAMERSLY voted against the resolution because there was no evidence of the facts alleged.

Mr. TAYLOR declined voting because he was engaged as counsel by Mr. PROUDFOOT.

Messrs. KINNEY and M'CLAIN desired to place upon the record their reasons for voting on said resolution.

Mr. RAMSDELL, leave being given, from the committee appointed on the part of the House to confer with a similar committee of the Senate, if such committee should be appointed by that body, respectfully submit the following report:

That the Senate on Tuesday last appointed said committee; that we have waited upon the chairman and proposed an early consultation. We proposed, in order to harmonize the apparent differences, to give out the Record to the lowest bidder, without any reference to the political principles of the contractor.

The Senate committee refuse to give us any encouragement of a conference.

We, therefore, recommend the ratification of the contract entered into by a select committee of this House.

The contract was then read.

Mr. FOSTER asked for information in regard to the contract.

The SPEAKER said there was no motion before the House.

Mr. HAMERSLY moved that the contract be ratified by the House.

Mr. FOSTER wished to inquire whether in the first proposals which had been made by Bergner and Company to the House, they had not expressed a willingness to print for $5.20 per page; also, whether they had not agreed to furnish three thousand copies instead of two thousand, as was provided in the present contract put before the House for ratification.

Mr. GOEPP wished simply to obtain information. A joint resolution was passed the other day, appointing a special committee to confer with a committee of the Senate, and to report. Was this a report from that committee, or was it from the committee of the House, which had been appointed to act separately?

Mr. ROSE. The committee spoken of in the resolution is evidently the Committee on Printing of the House and Senate.

Mr. GOEPP said that, as he understood it, this was a report from the Committee of Printing of both House and Senate. But the special committee, which had been appointed by the House, in the early part of the session, had also made a report at one time. How was this? Did the House intend to allow contradictory reports to be offered?

Mr. RAMSDELL, as having been chairman of both committees, rose to explain. By the passage of a joint resolution, a committee was appointed to confer with a similar body of the Senate. But the joint resolution was voted down in the Senate, and the committee which was appointed early in the session, made the report which had been presented.

Mr. GOEPP said that in that case he supposed that the joint resolution, which had been presented was abandoned. It was certainly improper for the Legislature to entertain two or three different reports from two or three different committees.

Mr. HAMERSLY said that he had voted in favor of the resolution authorizing the House committee to contract with George Bergner & Co., because he had thought it right. But some of his friends had doubts upon the subject, and he therefore had offered the joint resolution, which had been refused by the Senate. He had intended this as a compromise, but the Senate had rejected it.

Mr. THORN said that he believed that if Mr. Haldeman furnished the Record, he would have to be paid for it. But the House had a right to control its own printing, and, on that ground, would vote for the resolution before the House.

Mr. FOSTER. My questions are not yet answered. Does the resolution call for two thousand or three thousand copies of the Record?

Mr. RAMSDALL said that it was three thousand.

Mr. FOSTER was astonished. It had certainly been read two thousand. Had an alteration been made while the document was at the Clerk's desk?

Mr. RAMSDALL said that he did not believe that it had been inserted since the reading.

Mr. FOSTER said that one of the parties to the contract had gone to the desk and made the change.

Mr. ROSE suggested that Mr. FOSTER should make another inquiry, which was, whether the sureties had agreed to the alteration?

Mr. FOSTER said that it was equally easy for the figures in the bond to have been changed.

Mr. M'CLURE wished to know distinctly whether the figures had been changed.

Mr. RAMSDALL said they had not to his knowledge. He had been told, since the report was read, that the figures were three thousand, but he had before thought they were two thousand.

Mr. M'CLURE again demanded to know, as due to himself and the House, whether an alteration had been illegally effected in the official report.

The SPEAKER examined the document, and said, "It has been done."

Mr. M'CLURE. Then, sir, I desire to know by whom it was done. The House has a right to know.

Mr. M'CLURE then alluded to the principal matter at issue, and declared that he would have nerve enough to vote against the passage of the resolution because it was wrong. In all ordinary matters he would yield to the party rule, but when it came to cracking a party whip over men and driving them to espouse a measure which was not right, he would resist. This was attempted to be done in the present case, when a Legislature, merely to put money into the pocket of one man, was about to vote for the printing of two Records; and the members had come to Harrisburg pledged to economy! There was no dodging the question; if the contract was made now, there would be two Records to pay for. It was not a matter to assume a partisan aspect. The project brought forward was one based upon personal aggrandizement, and yet an attempt was made to force members to vote for it by the allegation that it was a party measure. If it was one of the principles of the Republican party to put its hand in the treasury and take out money to favor any man, he was not of the party. Let the contract with Mr. Haldeman be rescinded, and he would be ready then to throw the lists open to Bergner or any other man. But so long as the contract with Haldeman existed, it was an outrage to make another.

Mr. ROSE said that the question had assumed a shape that he predicted it would some time since. Every body in the House admitted that Mr. Haldeman would have to be paid, for his contract was a law of the land. It had been said that the result of the new contract would be, that the State would have to pay for two Records. This could easily be avoided. If the gentlemen who pressed the new contract were sincere, and really did not wish the State to incur any unnecessary expense, let them make a change in the contract, (since slight changes were so easily made,) and institute a proviso, that in case Mr. Haldeman was obliged to be paid, they would not demand any money.

He agreed with the gentleman from Franklin, (Mr. M'CLURE,) that an effort was being made to whip every man into a party vote by a party lash. But he, too, had nerve enough to resist such an attempt. Did the success of the Republican party depend upon paying any one applicant a thousand or two dollars from the public purse? No! it depended upon higher principles. The Legislature might pass away, the Record fall into oblivion, but the principles of Republicanism were eternal. He protested against such an outrage as was contemplated. He was not to be frightened or forced into it. He had no objection to Mr. Bergner printing the Record, if it could be done legally, or if the members could prove that it would not be necessary to draw money from the treasury to pay for two Records.

Mr. WILLISTON rose to make a suggestion. It seemed that some of the members of the Republican party scorned the lash of their own friends; yet, while doing this, it behooved them to take care lest they become shackled by and lashed by the opposition. But he protested that the party to which he belonged were not slave drivers.

As for talking about the new contract being illegal and wrong, was it to be supposed that the last Legislature had been infallible when they made an agreement, which was carried in the form of a snake? Would the present House submit to their decision and be bound by them. As for the expense, larger sums were voted away daily and nothing thought of them. He protested against the party lash, as it had evidently been applied in this instance, by the last Legislature. Was there any moral obligation resting upon the House to pay for Haldeman's Record, if they should pass a resolution to refuse it, and notify the publisher?

Mr. WILCOX rose to call for a postponement of the question for the present. Before doing so, however, he gave notice that, as a member of the committee, he should at an early day offer a minority report.

Mr. LAWRENCE, (Washington,) moved that the report, as it had evidently been altered, be re-committed to the committee. He could not vote in favor of it, in its present loose form.

Mr. MILLER would vote for the re-commitment.

Mr. HAMERSLY said that this was certainly a party question, being upon a contract which was entailed upon the House by a party vote in a preceding Legislature. And this session, how had the vote stood? Had not the Democrats been on one side and the Republicans, with the exception of a few who were perhaps weak in the faith, on the other? Had not a Democratic Senate refused to consider a proposition which would have saved the State over eleven dollars per diem?

Mr. NEALL agreed that it was a conflict between Republicans and Democrats.

Mr. MILLER rose to a point of order. The question was upon re-committing. Did the gentleman mean to speak upon that question?

Mr. NEALL said that he did. He wished to say that if the report had been altered, he hoped that it would be re-committed.

Mr. CHURCH rose to a call of the previous question; which was sustained.

And on the question, Shall the main question now be put?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. PRICE and Mr. PATTERSON, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Abbott, Acker, Balliet, Barnsley, Barlow, Bayard, Boyer, (Schuylkill,) Briley, Campbell, Chase, Church, Durboraw, Eckman, Ellmaker, Evans, Fearon, Fisher, Graham, Green, Hamersly, Harding, Irish, Koneagy, Kinney, Lawrence, (Washington,) Mann, McHaffey, M'Curdy, M'Dowell, Miller, Neall, Palm, Patterson, Pennell, Peirce, Pinkerton, Porter, Price, Pugh, Shafer, Smead, Taylor, Thompson, Thorn, Wagonseller, Walborn, Walker, Whitman, Wiley, Williams, (Bedford,) Williams, (Bucks,) Williston, Wilson, Withrow Zoller and Lawrence, Speak-er—56.

NAYS—Messrs. Beitolet, Boyer, (Clearfield,) Brodhead, Bryson, Custer, Dismant, Fleming, Foster, Galley, Goepf, Good, Gray, Gritman, Hill, Hottenstine, Jackson, Ketchum, Laird, M'Clure, Nill, Oaks, Quigley, Rohrer, Rose, Smith, (Berks,) Smith, (Philadelphia,) Stoneback, Stuart, Warden, Wilcox, Wolf and Woodring—32.

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

The question now being as stated by the chairman, (Mr. WALBORN,) on the motion to re-commit the bill,

Mr. M'CLURE rose to a question of order. That the previous question having been called, it cut off all subsidiary motions, except motions to amend the question under consideration.

A rambling and prolonged discussion upon points of order then took place. Messrs. M'CLURE, THORN, GOEPP, LAWRENCE, (Washington,) and ROSE, were interested, Mr. WALBORN being Speaker pro tem.

The Chair finally decided the point of Mr. M'CLURE well taken.

Whereupon Mr. THORN called the attention of the Chair to page 158 of Sutherland's Manual.

The Chair re-called his first decision and stated to the House that the question now was on the motion to re-commit, made by Mr. LAWRENCE, (Washington.)

From the above decision the following appeal was taken:

The question being on a motion to ratify a contract reported by a special committee; and, a motion having been made during the pendency of the first named motion to re-commit the contract to the committee, the previous question was called and sustained. The Speaker (Mr. WALBORN,) decided that the main question was the motion to re-commit.

From this decision the undersigned respectfully appeal. A. K. M'CLURE, MAX GOEPP.

And on the question, Shall the decision of the Chair stand as the judgment of the House?

Another debate took place between Messrs. M'CLURE and THORN. Finally,

On motion of Mr. LAWRENCE (Washington,) the appeal of Messrs. M'CLURE and GOEPP, was tabled.

The motion to re-commit was then carried.

The hour of one having arrived, the SPEAKER adjourned the House.

No. 182.—FILE OF THE HOUSE.

GOEPP, Judiciary—Jan. 31.

AN ACT to confer on certain associations of the citizens of this Commonwealth the powers and immunities of corporations and bodies politic in law, and to confirm charters heretofore granted.

WHEREAS, The Legislature of Pennsylvania, by an act passed the twenty-second day of April, one thousand eight hundred and fifty, authorized and fully empowered the court of common pleas for the city and county of Philadelphia to grant acts or charters of incorporation to citizens of this Commonwealth, desirous of forming mutual savings fund, land and building associations, and by several supplements thereto have enlarged said authority, thereby encouraging citizens to form and invest their savings in said associations:

And whereas, The said act and its said several supplements have, by various other acts of the said General Assembly, been extended to various other counties of this Commonwealth:

And whereas, The authority thus granted has been freely exercised, and by such encouragement and by allowing members of said associations to adopt such constitutions or articles of association as to them might seem most beneficial, and by allowing parents to sign the constitutions for and on behalf of their minor children, a large and constantly increasing interest has been created, such associations affording to the indigent an opportunity to save and profitably invest their savings, thus inducing the people to form habits of economy and self-denial, by setting apart periodically a portion of their earnings, enabling them to purchase or build their own homes, increasing the number of small real estate owners, and thereby enriching and strengthening the Commonwealth:

And whereas, Such associations are meritorious and deserving the care of the State; therefore

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That at any time, when ten or more persons may desire to form a mutual saving fund, loan or building association under the provisions of this act, they shall make application to the court of common pleas of the proper county, in the manner and at such times as are prescribed by the thirteenth section of an act passed the thirtieth day of October, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and forty, entitled "An Act relating to orphans' courts and for other purposes," and upon compliance with the provisions of the said section of said act, the said court shall be and hereby is fully empowered to grant acts or charters of incorporation to said associations; and the thirteenth, fourteenth and fifteenth sections of the aforesaid act of Assembly are hereby extended to and made a part of this act, with regard to said associations, corporations, or bodies politic in law: Provided, That no charter granted under or by virtue of the provisions of this act be for a longer period than twenty years.

SEC. 2. That the capital stock of any corporation created by virtue of this act shall at no time consist of more than two thousand five hundred shares of two hundred dollars each, the instalments on which stock are to be paid at such time and place as the by-laws shall appoint; no periodical payment to be made exceeding two dollars on each share; and if any stockholder shall neglect or refuse to make payment of instalments on stock or interest on loans, as directed by the by-laws, such stockholder, his assignee or legal representative, shall pay such fines for every neglect or refusal as the by laws shall provide; all stockholders being six months in arrears in payment of their instalments shall be liable to a forfeiture of membership in the said corporation, when they shall be entitled to receive therefrom the same amount as a member withdrawing, as hereinafter provided; new shares of stock may be issued, in lieu of the shares withdrawn or forfeited; the stock may be issued in one or in successive series, in such amount as the board of directors or the stockholders may determine: Provided, That if the holder of matured stock desires to let the money due him or her remain in the said corporation, it shall be lawful to declare semi-annual dividends out of the profits of the business thereof on such matured stock; and any stockholder wishing to withdraw from the said corporation shall have power to do so, by giving thirty days' notice of his or her intention to withdraw, when he or she shall be entitled to receive the amount paid in by him or her, and such proportion of the profits as the by-laws may determine, less all fines and other charges: Provided, That at no time shall more than one-half of the funds in the treasury of the corporation be appropriable to the demands of withdrawing stockholders, without the consent of the board of directors; and that no stockholder shall be entitled to withdraw whose stock is held in pledge for security; upon the death of a stockholder, his or her legal representatives shall be entitled to receive the full amount paid in by him or her, and legal interest thereon, first deducting all charges that may be due on the stock; no fines shall be charged to a deceased member's account from and after his or her decease, unless his legal representatives of such decedent assume the future payments on the stock.

SEC. 3. That the number, titles, functions and compensation of the officers of any corporation created by virtue of this act, their terms of office, the times of their elections, as well as the qualifications of electors and the ratio and manner of voting, and the periodical meetings of the said corporation, shall be determined by the by-laws.

SEC. 4. That the said officers shall hold stated meetings, at which the money in the treasury, if over two hundred dollars, shall be offered for loan in open meeting, and the stockholder who shall bid the highest premium for the preference or priority of loan shall be entitled to receive a loan of two hundred dollars or more for each share of stock held by such stockholder: Provided, That a stockholder may borrow such fractional part of two hundred dollars as the by-laws may provide; and good and ample security shall be given by the borrower to secure the re-payment of the loan; in case the borrower shall neglect to offer security, or shall offer security that is not approved by the board of directors, by such time as the by-laws may prescribe, he or she shall be charged with one month's interest, together with any expenses incurred, and the money shall be re-sold at the next stated meeting; in case of non-payment of instalments or interest by borrowing stockholders, for the space of six months, payment of principal and interest may be enforced by proceeding on their securities according to law.

SEC. 5. That a borrower may re-pay a loan at any time; and in case of the re-payment thereof before the expiration of the eighth year after the organization of the corporation, there shall be refunded to such borrower one-eighth of the premium paid for every year of the said eight years then unexpired; and in case of recovery of loans by process of law, when the amount collected by or distributed to the said corporation shall exceed the amount of loan taken by the borrower with interest and charges, the money shall be re-loaned at the next stated meeting, and the excess recovered beyond the amount required to pay the loan with interest and charges, shall be returned to the borrower from whom the money was collected or his or her legal representative: Provided, That in case the said corporation shall have issued its stock in series, such re-loan shall be made only to the stockholders of the same series: And provided, That if the premium offered for the re-loan shall be greater than that originally given by the defaulting borrower, the amount of the original premium only shall be paid over by the said corporation: And provided, That such defaulting borrower may at any time after the said re-lending demand from the said corporation the amount required to be paid to a stockholder withdrawing his stock, saving and excepting, however, to the said corporation, the right to retain so much, or the whole thereof, as may be requisite to save it from loss, in case the amount recovered shall not suffice to pay the re-loan.

SEC. 6. That no premiums, fines or interest on such premiums that may accrue to the said corporation, according to the provisions of this act, shall not be deemed usurious, and the same may be collected as debts of like amount are now by law collected in this Commonwealth.

SEC. 7. That no corporation or association created under this act shall cease or expire from neglect on the part of the corporators to elect officers at the time mentioned in their charter or by-laws; and all officers elected by such corporation shall hold their offices until their successors are duly elected.

SEC. 8. That the charters of incorporation heretofore granted by the courts of common pleas of the several counties of the Commonwealth to mutual saving fund, loan, land and building associations, under the authority of the act of twenty-second of April, one thousand eight hundred and fifty, entitled "A supplement to an act entitled 'An Act to prevent waste in certain cases within this Commonwealth, passed the twenty-ninth day of March one thousand eight hundred and twenty-two; to land and building associations, giving the court of Susquehanna county jurisdiction in a certain case; relative to the service of process in certain cases; to party walls in West Philadelphia; to the proof of a certain will; to the sale and purchase of certain burial grounds in Philadelphia; to the laying of gas pipes in the district of Moyamensing; to the release of certain sureties in Erie county; to the State lunatic hospital; relative to the service of process against sheriffs; to the rights of married women; to ground rents; and relating to foreign insurance companies,'" and its supplements, are hereby declared to be legal and valid; and it is hereby declared that the true intent and meaning of the said acts was to authorize the incorporation of companies or associations, with power to loan or advance to stockholders thereof the moneys accumulated from time to time, and to secure the re-payment of such moneys, and the performance of the other conditions upon which said loans were made, by bond and mortgage or other security, as well as with power to purchase or erect houses for the benefit of their stockholders; and that the premiums taken by the said associations for the preference or priority of such loans should not be deemed usurious: Provided, That nothing herein contained shall be construed to affect cases adjudicated under the said acts.

SEC. 9. That any saving fund, loan or building association, incorporated by or under this or any other act or acts of Assembly of this Commonwealth, is hereby authorized and empowered to purchase, at any sheriffs' or other judicial sale, or at any other sale, public or private, any real estate upon which such association may have or hold any mortgage, judgment, lien or other incumbrance or ground rent, or in which said association may have an interest; and the real estate so purchased, or any other that such association may hold or be entitled to at the passage of this act, to sell, convey, lease or mortgage at pleasure, to any person or persons whatsoever; and all sales of real estate heretofore made by such associations to any person or persons not members of the association so selling, are hereby confirmed and made valid.

No. 187.—FILE OF THE HOUSE.

THOMPSON, Judiciary—Jan. 31.

WHEREAS, Under the provisions of an act, entitled "An Act for the sale of the State canals," approved April twenty-first, Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and fifty-eight, an association of persons, under the corporate name of "The Delaware Division canal company of Pennsylvania," purchased from the Sunbury and Erie railroad company, the Delaware Division of the Pennsylvania canal;

SEC. 2. That so much of the fifth section of the said act as gives the same rights, privileges and franchises to the purchasers of the Delaware Division canal, for the improvement and enjoyment of the same, and to enter into and upon the river Delaware, as have been heretofore granted to the Lehigh coal and navigation company of this State, to enter into and upon the river Lehigh, for the construction and improvement of the canal and navigation owned by them, shall be so construed as to permit the said Delaware Division canal company to enlarge and improve their canal to equal the capacity of the canal of the said Lehigh coal and navigation company: Provided, The said Delaware Division canal company shall not construct any dam in such manner as shall impede or obstruct the descending navigation of rafts or other crafts on said Delaware river; and they shall construct such schutes, and make such channels as will maintain the descending navigation in said river in as good condition as before the erection of any such structure by them: And provided further, That before constructing any dam across said river, they shall first secure such legislation from the authorities of the State of New Jersey as shall authorize the same.

SEC. 3 That it shall be lawful for the said Delaware Division canal company to increase their capital stock, from time to time, sufficient in amount to pay the cost of any enlargement or improvement they may deem expedient to make under the authority given by this act, and to dispose of the same on such terms as the stockholders may direct; the board of managers may fix by their by-laws the number of directors that shall constitute their board, the time of their annual election, and the time and mode of payment of dividends on their capital stock: Provided, That the board of managers shall consist of not less than nine members, one of whom shall be chosen president by the said managers; and the dividends on the capital stock of said company shall not exceed the net earnings, after the payment of ordinary repairs and expenses; and the said Delaware Division canal company of Pennsylvania may, and is hereby, authorized to charge the same rate of toll per ton per mile on coal that the Lehigh coal and navigation company are now authorized by law to charge on the lower division of their canal.

SEC. 4. That the Governor of this Commonwealth shall, on or before the first day of June next, appoint a board of appraisers to consist of three persons, who shall reside at least ten miles distant from said Delaware Division canal, and whose duty it shall be to assess all damages occasioned to individuals or companies within six years prior to the twenty-first day of April, Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and fifty-eight, by reason of the location, construction, repair, management or use of the Delaware Division canal by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and which have not heretofore been presented to and passed upon by the Cannal Commissioners or other competent authority, and also to assess all damages to real estate which have been or may be occasioned by the said Delaware Division canal company of Pennsylvania in maintaining and improving the canal or its appurtenances.

SEC. 5. That the said appraisers, before entering upon the performance of their duties, shall be sworn or affirmed to discharge the same faithfully, to the best of their abilities; and their award, or that of a majority of them shall be final and conclusive; and where damages are assessed, if not paid within sixty days after notice to the said Delaware Division canal company of Pennsylvania, the award may be entered of record in the county where the damages were sustained, and shall have the like effect of a judgment duly obtained; the said appraisers shall meet, on application of not less than three persons claiming damages, and shall give notice to the claimants and the canal company in writing of the time and place, at least ten days before the meeting; and shall, in ascertaining the damages, take into consideration the advantages as well as the disadvantages occasioned to the claimants by the canal aforesaid; and shall, in their report, state when and how the damages (if any) were sustained; the said appraisers shall each receive four dollars per day for their services for the number of days employed, together with five cents per mile for each mile traveled in performing the same; to be paid by the said Delaware Division canal company of Pennsylvania; notice shall also be given by the claimants for damages of their application for the assessment of the same to the canal company, at the same time that the application is made.

SEC. 6. That in event of the absence of one of the appraisers at the meeting to assess damages as aforesaid, the other appraisers, if they cannot agree upon said assessments, or any of them, may choose a third appraiser, who shall not reside within ten miles of the canal aforesaid; and who, after being duly sworn or affirmed as said appraiser, may act for the time being, in all respects as though he had been originally appointed by the Governor, and where there shall be a vacancy in the board of appraisers, occasioned by death, resignation, removal, incapacity or other cause, the Governor shall fill said vacancy by appointment; extracts from the journal of the Canal Commissioners or former board of appraisers, and certified copies of all papers on file in any of the departments at Harrisburg, shall, if pertinent, be received in evidence by the board of appraisers, in adjudicating claims for damages as aforesaid.

SEC. 7. That when the said company cannot agree with the owner or owners of any land or materials, taken in enlarging, improving, repairing or maintaining the said canal, upon the compensation to be paid for the same, the proceedings to assess the damages therefor shall in all respects be the same as those provided for the Lehigh coal and navigation company: Provided, That nothing herein contained shall authorize the said company to enter upon any lands, or take any property, without making compensation to the owners of said property or giving adequate security therefor: And provided, That in all cases where the parties cannot agree on the amount of compensation for land or materials so taken, the company shall tender a bond, with sufficient security, to the party claiming the damages, the condition of which shall be, that the company will pay, or cause to be paid, such amount of damages as the parties shall be entitled to receive, after the same shall have been agreed upon by the parties or assessed under the provisions of this act; which bond, if refused by the party claiming damages, shall be presented to the court of common pleas of the proper county, or any judge thereof, in vacation; and if approved, it shall be filed among the records of said court of common pleas, for the benefit of the person or persons to whom it is given.

SEC. 8. That whenever the present mortgage debt of the company is paid, in part or in full, the board of managers are authorized to increase the capital stock equal to the amount of the debt paid, and distribute the said increase amongst the stockholders in proportion to the amount of stock held by each; all proceedings heretofore had in the organization of the company, and in fixing upon the number of directors, and in the election of officers, are hereby declared to be legal and valid, in the same manner as though special provision had been made therefore by act of Assembly, previous to the organization of the said company.

ORIGINAL RESOLUTIONS.

Mr. BELL offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That the Committee on Railroads be requested to report to the Senate, at as early a day as practicable, all the bills referred to it, relative to proposed passenger railways in the city of Philadelphia, and that all action on any of the said bills be suspended until all of them be so reported and printed for the use of the members.

Mr. BELL made a brief statement in support of the resolution.

Mr. RANDALL had no objection, except as it proposed to suspend action on all bills. As to the objection of the Senator that he had not been able to examine them, he would state that they had been published in the papers for three weeks. He had, himself, loaned bills, so that every possible publicity should be given to them.

Mr. BELL was surprised that any Senator should object. The resolution was simply offered with a view of furnishing information. He had not examined the papers to see what bills will be offered here, and he desired an opportunity of examining them in the usual way.

Mr. RANDALL moved to amend, by striking out all after the words "city of Philadelphia."

The amendment was agreed to, and the resolution, as amended, passed.

The Deputy Secretary of the Commonwealth being introduced, presented a report of the president, superintendent and finance committee of the Western Pennsylvania hospital.

ORDERS OF THE DAY.

The bill, entitled "A supplement to an act incorporating the Fayette County railroad company," came up in order on third reading.

Mr. PENNEY said if the bill was allowed to lie over until Monday, he should make no objection. There was no hurry for the passage of it, and it should take the usual course.

Mr. TURNEY remarked that the delay would subject the parties who are interested to great inconvenience. Some of them are here, waiting action in the matter, and it was important that steps should be taken to put things under way. There was no secret involved in it—no mystery—no snake—but a plain proposition. He was in favor of granting the privilege of making a road whenever they had the money to build it; and he hoped there would be no obstacle interposed to the passage of the bill.

Mr. GAZZAM said he would not have spoken, if the reasonable request of his colleague had been complied with. He had no disposition to oppose the bill; but if the Senator from Westmoreland was pertinacious, he could not be surprised if others should be equally persistent in their demands. Why, he asked, should there be any objection to the bill lying over for a few days? He was disposed to go for the bill, but unless the reasonable request for its delay be complied with, he should be compelled to vote against it.

Mr. MILLER remarked that the road asked for was a short one, and he could not see what object the gentleman could have for the postponement of the bill. The Senators from Allegheny were opposed to a road, twelve miles long, in Fayette county, for no other reason than that her people refused to pay tribute to Pittsburgh, by going around that distance, for the purpose of reaching market. The plan proposed was the nearest and cheapest one to market, and he could not see what interest Pittsburgh could have to oppose it, unless it was to compel the people of that county to pay tribute to her. It was, he said, an illiberal policy to pursue. He alluded to the opposition of that city to the Hempfield road, because of the fear that a portion of its trade might be diverted, and which cost that road one million of dollars. If it had not been for that opposition, he said, that road would have been in successful operation. Another effect of the illiberal policy of the city of Pittsburgh, was their opposition to the bridge at Wheeling, which the Baltimore and Ohio railroad wished to construct, which aroused a spirit of retaliation on the part of Virginia.—When Pittsburgh desired to build a road to Steubenville, to do which it was necessary to cross what is known as the Pan Handle, they refused the right of way. This opposition also cost a great amount of money, and prevented the road from being built. Of Pittsburgh he was proud, as a western man—she was the great work-shop of Pennsylvania—he gloried in her, and her interests should be protected. It required no force work to make of her a great city, and she should not seek to be fostered at the expense of her neighbors.

Mr. GAZZAM expressed his thanks to the Senator from Washington for the disposition which he had to guard the interests of Pittsburgh. His position with reference to the bill, was not one of objection, or a desire to defeat it, but simply that its consideration may be delayed for a few days, in order that he may be able to determine whether there was anything in it affecting the interests of Pittsburgh. The Senator from Washington had alluded to the opposition to the Hempfield railroad, as having cost that road one million of dollars. They might have saved that sum, if they had taken the suggestions of the natural advantages which were made as to route. He was in favor of taking roads wherever there was money to build them; but in this case, he simply asked that the consideration of the bill may be postponed until Monday, in order that time may be afforded for examining its provisions.

Mr. SCHELL had made it a general rule to vote in favor of the unrestricted construction of railroads. At first blush he had thought it possible there might be something in the bill which would tend to obstruct the completion of the Connelville road; but upon an examination he could see no serious injury that can accrue. His district was interested in the Pittsburgh and Connelville road; and if he were satisfied any injury would result to it from the passage of this bill, he would have no doubt as to his course. It is true, it may affect the bonds which that company are negotiating, and it is possible that, upon that ground, the Senators from Pittsburgh may be justified in desiring a postponement.

Mr. PENNEY did not wish to discuss the merits of the bill, at the present time. The discussion had already taken some range, and he was not now disposed to allude to it. With regard to the granting of charters for the construction of roads, the country had made a mistake. Charters should not be granted to all companies asking the privilege of building roads; but the best commercial routes should be selected, and localities where trade demands that they should be built. The people, he said, had been mistaken in the west, and had allowed the railroad mania to run riot. Every man who thought he wanted a railroad through his farm, was permitted to have it. Had not so many of these wild projects been carried through, there would not now be seen so many roads languishing for the want of capital and trade to sustain them.

Every man on the proposed route, was, he said, already within ten miles of either the Pennsylvania or Connellsville road; and he asked whether it was policy to run roads in such close proximity to each other? It was a mistaken policy, and should be corrected. He was not speaking of the interests of Pittsburg, particularly, but of the interests of general roads, which should be first cared for before diverging lines were constructed, particularly when those roads need centralizing aid.

He only asked that the matter be postponed until Monday. It had been hurried through the House, without reference, perhaps, and without discussion. He would move that the bill lie over until Monday.

Mr. TURNEY hoped the motion would not prevail. He would be pleased to gratify the Senator from Allegheny, and would consent to his request, if any satisfactory reason had been urged. The proposed road is a feeder of the Connellsville road, and is the best project which Pittsburg could originate.

Mr. HARRIS wished the Senator to allow the motion to prevail. It was a reasonable request, and should be complied with.

Mr. GAZZAM remarked that the only reason why he was desirous that the bill should lie over, was that time might be afforded for an examination of its provisions. The refusal of the friends of the bill to delay its passage, was calculated to excite suspicion that all was not right.

On the motion to postpone,

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. PENNEY and Mr. TURNEY, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Brewer, Coffey, Finney, Gazzam, Harris, Marselis, Myer, Palmer, Penney, Rutherford, Schell, Scofield and Shaeffer—13.

NAYS—Messrs. Blood, Craig, Fetter, Francis, Keller, Miller, Nunnemacher, Parker, Randall, Schindel, Steele, Turney, Welsh, Wright, Yardley and Cresswell, Speaker—16.

So the question was determined in the negative.

The question recurring upon the final passage of the bill, it was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. MYER desired to make a statement. He was reported in the Record proceedings of yesterday, as having asked "if this bill was unworthy, why did not the committee report it with a negative recommendation?" He was speaking of the wrong policy of the bill under consideration being acted upon, before the others in the hands of the railroad committee had also been reported, either favorably, or with a negative recommendation, thus affording an opportunity to the Senate of judging of their respective merits. The report placed him in the light of favoring the bill, whereas he was opposed to its taking precedence of others of a similar character.

A joint resolution relative to the pay of witnesses in the Cambria county contested election case, came up on second reading.

On the adoption of the resolution,

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. TURNEY and Mr. GREGG, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Baldwin, Finney, Gazzam, Gregg, Harris, Myer, Palmer, Parker, Penney, Rutherford, Shaeffer, Thompson, Yardley and Cresswell, Speaker—14.

NAYS—Messrs. Bell, Blood, Brewer, Coffey, Fetter, Keller, Marselis, Miller, Nunnemacher, Randall, Schell, Scofield, Schindel, Steele, Turney, Welsh and Wright—17.

So the question was determined in the negative.

The motion to postpone indefinitely the consideration of "A supplement to the act incorporating the Germantown passenger railway company," came up in order.

Mr. MARSELIS desired a postponement of the bill, for the same reasons he had urged yesterday. The printer was, he understood, at work preparing the bills, and they would all be on file in a few days, when Senators would have ample opportunity of being advised of their merits.

Mr. HARRIS said it was hard for Senators from the rural districts to come to any conclusion, when the delegation from the city itself was divided. He wished to vote intelligently, and before he could do so, he desired information with reference to the matter.

Mr. RANDALL remarked that the Senator from Butler did not understand the effect of the motion. It required a vote of two-thirds again to bring it up.

Mr. BREWER suggested that the Senator would effect his object by allowing the motion to prevail. Within six days it could be reconsidered, during which interval there would be ample opportunity for obtaining all the information desired.

Mr. MILLER had never taken part in the local affairs of Philadelphia, and was disposed, as a general thing, to let them manage their own affairs. He would favor the postponement asked for, if he thought those seeking it desired information as to the provisions of the bill; but he did not think such was the object. He was not insensible to what he heard outside—and that, too, without the desire or intention of hearing—that the object of delay was that another bill might be substituted. That was the main object, and not an opportunity of ascertaining the merits of the projects. A day or two ago, the Senator from Philadelphia, who now desires a postponement, eulogized the company seeking the extension of their corporate privileges, in the highest terms.

Mr. MARSELIS rose to explain. The company which he had eulogized and the one now asking for the passage of this bill, were distinct parties. He was speaking of the former body, not of the present.

Mr. MYER hardly knew what to infer from the remarks of the Senator from Washington, in which those who advocate the postponement of this bill are charged with dishonest motives.—So far as he was concerned, he repelled, with indignation, the imputation of dishonesty. The motion for the postponement was made in good faith, and with a view of giving all parties interested, a fair and impartial hearing before the Senate. He stated, at the time he made the motion to postpone indefinitely, that it was not made for the purpose of defeating the bill, but for the sole purpose of allowing the Senator from Philadelphia to express his views with regard to it.

Mr. BELL, very unexpectedly to himself, felt called upon to say something with reference to this question. He also disclaimed the motives which were imputed, by the Senator from Washington, to those who had favored a postponement of the bill. It was with deep surprise that he had heard the expressions of the gentleman. How the idea should have been conceived, much less expressed, he was at a loss to conjecture, that a body like this should be influenced, by outside pressure, in the discharge of its duties. He knew nothing of the company asking for the passage of this bill, or the persons composing it, nor what are its merits. He simply desired that each of the parties interested in the matter should have an opportunity of being heard; and that was the reason why he had submitted the proposition which he did to delay action on all bills relating to this subject. It was, he said, a foregone conclusion, as indicated by a previous vote, that the bill will be passed, regardless of the rights of all others.

Mr. MARSELIS said it was due to himself that he should add a few words to what he had previously said. His motives had been impugned in seeking a postponement of this bill.

If there was any reason for this, he should like the Senator to speak out a little plainer, and say upon what ground he had placed a construction upon his motives.

He objected to the bill because, if the road is to be built, the construction of it should be given to citizens of Philadelphia, residing along the route, and who are interested in seeing the work properly performed, rather than to corporations already in existence.

Mr. MILLER said he owed it to himself, as well as the Senate, that he should make a statement with reference to what had fallen from him when last upon the floor. He might have let fall a remark which would warrant the feeling which Senators had evinced; but he was not aware that anything to which he had given expression, could be construed into a reflection upon any member of this body, or any gentleman connected with the bill. It was certainly not his intention to do so; and whatever he did say, perhaps unguardedly, there was nothing which could be justly construed into a reflection upon the motives, which those who sought a postponement of the bill had placed upon his remarks.

Mr. WELSH said the remarks of the Senator from Philadelphia clearly indicated that the object of delay was for information; and yet he tells us he is opposed to both projects, and in favor of a third. There had been considerable said about there being afforded no opportunity for deriving information. No attempt had been made to stifle consideration of the bill; but ample opportunity had been afforded for a proper understanding of the case. The whole thing, he said, was a struggle between men seeking control of these roads; and while he would impugn no man's motives, they should not come here and charge the friends of the bill with seeking to prevent them from deriving every necessary information with regard to it.

Mr. COFFEY should vote against the postponement of the bill. There was not a Senator on the floor who has not had an opportunity of being advised of its merits. He had examined it himself, and every opportunity had been afforded to others of an examination. He was in favor of the bill, because he thought it was right. There had been no remonstrance against it; it was conceded that some party should construct a railway along Fourth and Eighth Streets, and it was for the Senate to decide (perhaps it may arbitrarily,) who the party shall be, to do that which, when done, all admit will be right.

Mr. BREWER had never, in his brief legislative career, seen a bill with such extraordinary provisions as the one which was now before the Senate. In many respects it was defective, and he wished a postponement of it, in order that it may be amended. Power was given in the bill to this company, to run over any street on either side of Eighth and Market, and he asked whether the Senate was willing to give to any company such powers? It was no more than fair to the Senators from Philadelphia, a majority of whom desire it, that the bill should be postponed. As for himself, he had no feeling upon the subject. The parties were strangers to him, but he desired to vote upon the question, so that he could feel that he had discharged his duty to himself and the public.

Messrs. RANDALL and WRIGHT briefly discussed the question; and pending the remarks of Mr. WRIGHT, the hour of one o'clock having arrived, the SPEAKER adjourned the Senate until to-morrow morning at 10½ o'clock, that Senator having the floor.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

FRIDAY, Feb. 4, 1859.

The House was called to order at the usual hour by the SPEAKER.

The Clerk read the Journal of yesterday.

The SPEAKER laid before the House the report of the auditors appointed to audit the account of the Seamen's fund society of Philadelphia.

Mr. M'CLURE, on leave, offered a resolution that the special committee appointed to try the contested election case, in which Mr. Matthews is contestant, have leave to proceed to Philadelphia, for the purpose of taking further testimony.

Mr. MILLER said he did not see any necessity for taking another journey to Philadelphia.

Mr. M'CLURE remarked that at first there was some doubt in his mind whether the resolution under which the committee was authorized to go to Philadelphia a few days ago, would authorize them in again going there.

Mr. GRITMAN said, when it was first proposed in committee that it would be a great saving of expense to the city of Philadelphia for the committee to sit in Philadelphia, I voted against it, in committee and in this House, on the grounds that the duties of my office, and the interest of my county and constituents require my constant presence in this House; but the majority of that committee compelled my attendance, under the laws relating to contested election cases. I am utterly opposed to the resolution, although it be a saving of expense to the city of Philadelphia—for it is well known by all who have any knowledge upon the subject, that the State does not defray any portion of the expense.

Mr. M'CLURE remarked that unless the committee went to Philadelphia, it would be impossible to get a quorum of the members here.

Mr. ROSE observed that during the short time the committee were in Philadelphia, they took the testimony of thirty witnesses. It was, consequently, a saving to the Commonwealth of a large amount of money. He confessed he did not feel like going to Philadelphia again, but as the majority of the committee were desirous to go, he should offer no objection.

Mr. GRITMAN repeated, that he thought the resolution under which the committee had been appointed, did not authorize them to go to Philadelphia more than once. For his own part, he did not want to go there again.

The question being taken on the resolution, it was adopted.

Mr. THORN moved that the regular order for to-day be suspended, in order to receive reports of committees; which was agreed to.

Mr. GOEPP further moved to include bills read in place; which was also agreed to.

Mr. WILLISTON, on leave, presented a petition from the officers of the Tioga County Bank, and resolution asking for an investigation of the affairs of said Bank. The resolution is as follows:

Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed by the SPEAKER of the House to inquire into and examine as to the solvency of said Tioga County Bank, and report to this House; which was read the second time,

And on the question,

Will the House agree to the resolution?

Mr. GRITMAN said he was opposed to the resolution, and he would give his reasons why in as few words as he was able. He was aware that the resolution was of a similar nature to that which had been passed by the House of Representatives, at the last session of the Legislature, appointing a committee to investigate the affairs of the Shamokin Bank, and a resolution of a like character had been introduced and defeated. The reason why he was opposed to this resolution was this: When the resolution was introduced in the Senate, in relation to the Shamokin Bank, it was there said by Senators that if the Bank wished to establish its credit, they could easily do so by paying their bills and keeping their notes at par, or at a reasonable discount. But here was an application to the House of Representatives to assure the community of the safety and sound condition of the Tioga County Bank. Now, he was not unfriendly to the Tioga Bank, the Shamokin Bank, or the Crawford County Bank; on the contrary, he was friendly to the officers of the Tioga Bank, and they were friendly to him. It would be shown, when the evidence came to be printed in the Executive Documents, which was taken by the committee of investigation, that even-handed justice had been done that bank—that nothing was there set forth except upon the showing of their own officers. And now the petition just presented, showed that the bank had changed hands since the investigation into its affairs, and that it was now under better management, and in sound condition. If, then, that was the fact, the community would not be long in finding it out. He repeated that he was opposed to the course of proceeding now proposed, in respect to that bank, as it was not a matter of necessity, and where it was not for the benefit of the bank, it not having been alleged, that he was aware, that the bank was in an insolvent condition, or that the people were in danger of suffering by it. If they were, then he would have no objection that the public treasury should be called upon to pay the expense of investigating the affairs of the Tioga Bank. Now, when that institution was before the last Legislature, it was upon specifications fully set forth, in a specific form. It was then alleged that the bank was not in a sound condition, and that it was necessary to investigate its affairs, in order to the protection of the community. But when a resolution came in here, asking this House, in so many words, to white-wash this bank, he contended that it was not our province, nor any part of our duty. He would himself be in favor of investigating any bank where sufficient reasons were adduced; but to have it done for the purpose of bolstering up this, or any other bank, it was, he thought, asking too much of this House, and more than the Senate had evinced a disposition to comply with. The Bank must vindicate its character and reputation itself. It was their duty to establish their own credit with the community, and all that had heretofore been done by the authority of the Legislature, and by sanction of the Executive, was to be found in the testimony derived from the books of the bank itself. The committee could not go anywhere else. They could not collect information from outside sources. He would again reiterate, the committee obtained the evidence from the books of the bank itself, and therefore, if it was a solvent institution, their books would show it.

Mr. WALBORN. I rise, sir, to move the postponement of the resolution.

Mr. THORN. I ask the gentlemen to withdraw his motion for a moment, in order that I may move an amendment.

Mr. WALBORN then withdrew his motion; and

Mr. THORN then moved the following amendment:

Add to the proviso—Provided that the said Tioga Bank shall defray all the expenses of the committee, and before the committee shall enter upon an investigation the Bank shall give their consent thereto.

Mr. THORN. Now, sir, I rise to renew the motion of my colleague, (Mr. WALBORN.)

Mr. WILLISTON said he had to offer an apology to the House at this time. He did not suppose that the presentation of the resolution would have provoked debate. He did not stand there as the champion of any bank. If he recollected aright, the gentleman, (Mr. GRITMAN,) proposed, at the last session, an investigation of the bank to which he had referred, in accordance with the recommendation contained in the Governor's message. And a committee was accordingly appointed. All that he (Mr. WILLISTON) knew relative to this bank, was from what he had heard here.

Mr. GRITMAN remarked that he was willing the bank should have all the credit that was due it, for he entertained the highest regard for all its officers.

The question being taken on the motion to postpone; it was agreed to.

Mr. CHASE, on leave, from the Committee on Ways and Means, reported, as committed, "Joint resolution to pay Thomas H. Porter, late member of this House, and I. H. Wells, clerk of the contested election committee;" and on his motion, the rules in this case being dispensed with, the resolution was read the second time.

Mr. GOEPP moved to amend the same, by increasing the pay of Mr. Porter two dollars; which would then make his compensation proportionate to the pay received by a sitting member; but the amendment was lost.

And the resolution passed finally.

Mr. WIGTON, (Ways and Means,) as committed, "Supplement to the act relative to the non-payment of the enrolment tax."

Mr. GALLEY, on leave, moved that the bill for the incorporation of a Normal school at California be re-committed to the Committee on Education.

Mr. ROSE moved that the further consideration of the question be postponed for the present; which was not agreed to, and the question being again taken, said bill was re-committed.

MEMORIAL OF OFFICERS, &c., OF THE TIOGA COUNTY BANK.

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

Whereas the Executive of Pennsylvania, in his recent annual message to your Honorable body, in view of the facts reported by a committee in reference to the organization and subsequent management of the Tioga County Bank, among others, has called your attention to the said bank, and recommended a careful inquiry into its present condition. Now, the undersigned officers, directors and corporators of the said Tioga County Bank, beg leave to represent, that since said report the stock of said bank has changed hands, and is now held by men of undoubted responsibility; that new officers have been elected, and the entire management of the bank controlled by a board of home directors; that they claim the bank is now upon a safe basis, and they intend to make it a permanent and solvent institution, and worthy of public confidence and patronage, and to do a legitimate business in a legitimate way. And while they do not impugn the motives of the Executive, they feel that, by being thus publicly pointed at, it may embarrass them in their endeavors to make it a reliable institution, unless an investigation shall be had. They therefore pray your Honorable body to appoint a committee to make a full, thorough and careful examination into the present condition of said Tioga County Bank, and make report to the present Legislature, to the end that your Honorable body and the public may be advised if there is anything worthy of condemnation in the present condition or management of said bank, and as in duty bound will ever pray, &c.

That the Senate meet hereafter at 9½ o'clock and adjourn at a quarter of 12 on Saturdays.

Mr. WRIGHT proposed further to amend by making the resolution, as regards the hour of adjournment, apply to this day.

Upon the resolution with reference to the adjournment, and upon the various amendments, as well as the motion to re-consider, there was a running discussion between Messrs. MYERS, WRIGHT, HARRIS and WELSH.

Mr. RANDALL moved to postpone the consideration of the resolution and amendments indefinitely.

ORDERS OF THE DAY.

The motion to postpone indefinitely the consideration of "A supplement to the act incorporating the Germantown passenger railroad company," came up in order.

Mr. WRIGHT having the floor.

Mr. WRIGHT did not wish to vote upon the motion of the postponement; nor was he desirous of speaking against time. He was prepared to offer two or three amendments, which he thought would obviate all difficulty to the passage of the bill. He would yield the floor to-day, with a view to a discussion of the merits of the bill when it should again be before the Senate.

Mr. HARRIS said that when the bill was pending, yesterday, he was anxious that there should be a postponement for a short time, in order to afford an opportunity for examining its provisions. Since then, it had laid over one day; and as he thought it had already taken up enough time of the Senate, he thought the question should be met at once.

Subsequently, upon the various amendments and proviso which were offered, there was a protracted, running discussion between Messrs. WRIGHT, COFFEY, MARSELIS, MILLER, SCOFIELD, FINNEY, RANDALL, PALMER, GAZZAM, BREWER and MYER.

The motion to postpone indefinitely was lost; whereupon

Mr. MYER moved to postpone until Wednesday next;

On which the yeas and nays were required by Mr. FINNEY and Mr. WELSH, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Bell, Blood, Brewer, Fetter, Keller, Marselis, Myer, Palmer, Penney and Yardley—10.

ney, Francis, Gazzam, Harris, Miller, Nunnemacher, Parker, Randall, Rutherford, Schell, Scofield, Shaeffer, Schindel, Steele, Turney, Welsh, Wright and Cresswell, Speaker—21.

So the question was determined in the negative.

Mr. BALDWIN moved to re-consider the resolution fixing the hour of adjournment to-day at a quarter of 12 o'clock:

On which the yeas and nays were required by Mr. WRIGHT and Mr. COFFEY, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Baldwin, Coffey, Craig, Finney, Harris, Miller, Nunnemacher, Palmer, Parker, Randall, Rutherford, Schell, Scofield, Shaeffer, Turney, Welsh and Cresswell, Speaker—17.

NEAYS—Messrs. Bell, Blood, Brewer, Fetter, Francis, Gazzam, Keller, Marselis, Myer, Penney, Schindel, Steele, Wright and Yardley—14.

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. HARRIS moved to postpone indefinitely the re-consideration of the resolution.

On which motion,

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. BELL and Mr. WRIGHT, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Baldwin, Coffey, Craig, Fetter, Finney, Harris, Miller, Nunnemacher, Palmer, Parker, Randall, Rutherford, Schell, Scofield, Shaeffer, Steele, Turney, Welsh and Cresswell, Speaker—19.

NAYS—Messrs. Bell, Blood, Brewer, Francis, Gazzam, Keller, Marselis, Myer, Penney, Wright and Yardley—11.

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

The question recurring upon the motion to postpone the consideration of the bill for the present.

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. MYER and Mr. RANDALL, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Bell, Blood, Brewer, Fetter, Marselis, Myer, Palmer, Penney and Yardley—9.

NAYS—Messrs. Baldwin, Coffey, Craig, Finney, Gazzam, Harris, Miller, Nunnemacher, Parker, Randall, Rutherford, Schell, Scofield, Shaeffer, Schindel, Steele, Turney, Welsh, Wright and Cresswell, Speaker—20.

So the question was determined in the negative.

Mr. WRIGHT moved to amend, in the 12th line, by inserting after the word "opened," the words "by consent of land owners;" which he subsequently withdrew, and offered in lieu thereof, the following: After the word "graded," in the same line, insert the words, "by this company."

Mr. GAZZAM suggested a modification of this amendment, so as to make it read, "opened, and by the said company graded;" which was adopted.

Mr. WRIGHT moved further to amend by adding the following proviso, to come in at the end of the first section:

Provided further, That the portion of said road extending south-east from Washington lane, in Germantown, Twenty-second ward of the city of Philadelphia, to the junction of Fourth and Fifth streets, with the Germantown and Perkiomen turnpike road, be finished within eight months from the time of the passage of this act, in accordance with the provisions of the act to which this is a supplement, otherwise the provisions of this supplement shall be void, so far as the right of this company to use Fourth and Eighth streets for railway purposes is concerned.

Mr. RANDALL offered the following as a substitute: Provided further, That if the Germantown passenger railway company shall be able to agree with the Germantown and Perkiomen turnpike company for the right of way for their said railway over said turnpike within thirty days after the passage of this supplement, then the said passenger railway company shall, within ten months after such agreement, lay a railway track or tracks, and run their cars thereon, as provided in the act to which this is a supplement, from the intersection of said turnpike with Fourth street northwardly as far as Washington lane in said city; but if the said passenger railway company shall fail within the said time to agree with said turnpike company for the right of way, then said passenger railway company and the said turnpike company shall each, within a reasonable time thereafter, choose one person, and the two persons so chosen shall select a third person, or if the two first chosen fail to agree upon a third person within five days after they are chosen, then the court of common pleas of Philadelphia shall select such third person; and the three persons so chosen, or a majority of them, shall proceed to fix and determine, by a yearly rental or otherwise, as they shall see proper, the fair value of the said right of way, and the valuation so fixed shall be filed on record in the said court, and shall be confirmed by the said court, and within ten months after the said proceedings, shall be finally settled and confirmed; the said passenger railway company shall lay a railway track or tracks to Washington lane, and run their cars thereon, as before provided in this section.

The question being upon Mr. RANDALL'S substitute,

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. WRIGHT and Mr. MYER, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Baldwin, Coffey, Craig, Finney, Francis, Gazzam, Harris, Miller, Nunnemacher, Parker, Penney, Randall, Rutherford, Scofield, Steele, Turney, Welsh and Cresswell, Speaker—18.

NAYS—Messrs. Blood, Brewer, Fetter, Keller, Marselis, Myer, Palmer and Wright—8.

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. YARDLEY paired off with Mr. SHAEFFER, who was absent.

On the question, will the Senate agree to the section as amended?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. WRIGHT and Mr. MYER, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Baldwin, Coffey, Craig, Finney, Francis, Gazzam, Harris, Miller, Nunnemacher, Parker, Randall, Rutherford, Scofield, Steele, Turney, Welsh and Cresswell, Speaker—17.

NAYS—Messrs. Blood, Brewer, Marselis, Myer, Palmer and Wright—6.

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. MYER submitted the following, to come in at the end of the first section:

Provided, That the said company, before commencing to run their cars on the said railway, or before authorizing or contracting with any other company to run cars on the said railway, shall purchase, at the option of the owners, the stock of horses, omnibuses, sleighs and harness, owned and used for the lines on said streets, at a price to be assessed in the following manner: The said owners shall choose one disinterested person, and the said company shall choose a second disinterested person, and the two thus chosen shall choose a third, who, having been sworn before the court of common pleas, faithfully to perform their duties, shall appraise the said stock, as the same is used and running on the said streets, and the value thus arrived at by them shall be binding and final on all parties.

Pending the consideration of the proviso offered by Mr. MYER, the SPEAKER declared the Senate adjourned until Monday at 3 o'clock, P. M.

Monday, Feb. 7, 1859.

The House was called to order at 2 o'clock, by the SPEAKER.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of Friday; when,

On motion of Mr. WILCOX, the further reading was dispensed with.

Mr. STEPHENS, on leave, read in his place and presented to the chair, "An Act relative to roads in Salem township, Wayne county;" and,

On his motion, the rules being in this case suspended, said bill was taken up, considered and passed finally; and ordered that the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

SENATE AMENDMENT

To the supplement to the act incorporating the Fayette County railroad company, was concurred in.

ORIGINAL RESOLUTION.

Mr. HARDING, on leave, presented a resolution that a committee of five be appointed to inquire into the operations of the building, loan, and savings institutions and corporations of the city of Philadelphia; which was read the second time.

Mr. THORN said that the scope of the resolution was too wide. "To examine into the affairs" was not sufficiently expressive, and did not make the contemplated object clear. He did not know that he should oppose the resolution, however. If a full examination of all affairs was to be made, a year would scarcely be sufficient time for a committee to report.

Mr. HARDING said that the reason why he had offered the resolution, was because he had been solicited by both the enemies and friends of these institutions to do so. He hoped that the resolution would pass, and that the committee would be appointed.

Mr. THORN suggested that it was not exactly right to make the institutions of Philadelphia subject to an examination, and allow the others throughout the State to pass without notice. The particular duties of the committee should be more distinctly set forth. He moved that the words "city of Philadelphia" be stricken out, and that the words, "State of Pennsylvania," be inserted.

The amendment was not agreed to.

On the final passage of the resolution there was no quorum voting;

Whereupon, the vote being again taken, the resolution was not agreed to.

Mr. CHURCH, who had voted in favor of the passage of the resolution, desired to explain.—He had been in favor of a full examination of the affairs of the institutions of Philadelphia, because he believed that they were well-managed, and could not be injured by any investigation. He saw no reason, however, why Philadelphia should be singled out.

PETITIONS, &amp;c., PRESENTED.

Mr. GRAY read in his place and presented to the chair, the petition of sundry citizens of Washington township, Greene county, for the passage of an act authorizing the voters of said township to elect two additional supervisors of highways for said township.

Mr. WALKER, eight from two hundred and sixty-nine citizens of Jenner township, Somerset county, for the repeal of the supplement to the act passed 16th April, 1858, relative to certain borough and township elections; and, on leave, read a bill in relation to the same; which,

On his motion was taken up and passed finally.

Mr. EVANS, the answer of Horace B. Fry, to the petition presented by his wife, Emily L. Fry, praying for a divorce from the bonds matrimony with him, and asked that it be read.

Mr. EVANS moved that the answer be read.

Mr. HAMERSEY had no objection, but thought that if it was read, the petition of Mrs. Fry should be also laid before the House.

Mr. EVANS said that this would not be opposed.

Mr. THORN said that the answer of Mr. Fry had already been published in a newspaper, and no doubt the majority of the members had already perused it. He thought, under these circumstances, that the reading might be well dispensed with.

Mr. SMITH, (Philadelphia,) moved to postpone.

Mr. HAMERSEY said that he was willing to have them read.

Mr. WALBORN said that he would not favor any effort to postpone the reading of any petition. It was a right of the people to be heard.

Mr. THORN said that he did not wish to be misunderstood. He would have no particular objection to the reading, if the documents were not long, and if the answer had not already been published in a newspaper, which he had read in his own room yesterday morning. It was not a question of delicacy. If Mr. Fry chooses to furnish a copy of his answer to a newspaper forty-eight hours before it was offered to the House, he could not complain, if the House dispensed with its reading. He agreed with Mr. WALBORN that it was a right of his constituents to have their petitions read, but in this case it was scarcely necessary.

Mr. EVANS expressed himself against the postponement.

Mr. HARDING objected to the remarks of Mr. THORN, that Mr. Fry had furnished a copy of his answer to a newspaper. Mr. Fry had told him (Mr. HARDING) that he was sorry that it had appeared in print, and that he had only prepared three copies for the use of the Divorce Committee. How it had found its way into the press, he did not know.

Mr. HAMERSEY, as one of the Divorce Committee, said that he had not received a copy of the answer.

Mr. EVANS said that it was proper to explain that the letter which had accompanied the copy of the answer which he had presented, was dated the third instant, before the publication in the paper.

The question being on the motion to postpone, it was not agreed to.

No. 178.—FILE OF THE SENATE.

MILLER, Judiciary—Feb. 3.

AN ACT relative to arbitrations.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That arbitrations under the compulsory arbitration law and its supplements shall be called lay arbitrations, and arbitrations under this act legal arbitrations.

SEC. 2. That whenever a party to a suit shall, by himself or attorney, enter a rule to arbitrate the same, he shall be taken and deemed to have waived his right to appeal and trial by jury in said suit, and it shall be optional with the other party to the suit, or his attorney, whether the arbitration shall be a legal or lay arbitration; and unless the opposite party, or his attorney, shall on or before the day fixed for choosing the arbitrators, elect by writing filed to have a legal arbitration, it shall be a lay arbitration as heretofore, with the right to each or either party to appeal.

SEC. 3. That if the party not entering the rule shall, as aforesaid, elect to have a legal arbitration, there shall be but one arbitrator, who shall have been duly admitted to practice law in some court of record in this Commonwealth, and the method of choosing service of notices, length of rules and fixing times of hearing, shall be the same as under the lay or compulsory arbitration law.

SEC. 4. That the arbitrator shall have the same power and authority to permit the amendment of the declaration and pleadings, grant non-suits, award subpoenas and attachments, to make interlocutory orders necessary for the trial of the case, to allow the names of the parties to be amended or changed, and to compel the production of books and papers to be used on the trial of said case, as judges of courts of record now have or may have, and with the same force and effect; and to punish witnesses in contempt for non-attendance after having been duly and legally subpoenaed, by imposing upon them all the costs of the attachment awarded for their arrest, and the same may be levied of their goods and chattels, lands and tenements, without any right of exemption, or stay of execution, for the collection of which said arbitrator may award execution in the name of the plaintiff in the suit, for the use of the county against the said witness so in contempt.

SEC. 5. That the hearing or trial before the arbitrator shall be proceeded in, in the same manner, and governed by the same rules as trials before courts and juries, and exceptions to the admission or rejection of testimony shall be taken and noted at the time of the admission or rejection thereof, and either party, at any time before the closing argument in the case, may submit written points of the law arising therein, and request the opinion of the arbitrator in writing thereon. It shall be the duty of the arbitrator to conduct the trial, and at the conclusion thereof, to find and report the facts of the case in the form of a special verdict, together with the exceptions taken during the trial to the admission or rejection of evidence, and the points of law made by the parties, and his decision or ruling thereon, and his award or finding in the case. The award and accompanying papers before mentioned shall be by him filed in the prothonotary's office, within seven days after the finding thereof; upon which award so filed judgment shall be entered nisi to become absolute, if no exceptions to the ruling or decisions of law thereon, or motion to set it aside, as hereinafter provided, be made or filed within twenty days after the filing of said award. If exceptions be filed to the decisions or ruling of the law in the case by the arbitrator, the same shall be in the nature of a writ of error to the common pleas, or court in which the case is pending, to the decision of which, upon such exceptions, either party shall be entitled to take a writ of error, upon the usual conditions and restrictions.

SEC. 6. That the judgment nisi, on the award, shall continue to be a lien until final judgment.

SEC. 7. That the arbitrator shall keep a memorandum of his acts and proceedings, under and by virtue of the fourth section of this act and file the same with his award.

SEC. 8. That as compensation for his services the arbitrator shall be entitled to receive six dollars for the first day and four dollars for each subsequent day's service, necessarily employed in the hearing and determining the case. He shall also be entitled to receive two dollars for each adjournment upon application of either or both of the parties, at any time when no other proceedings are had; but he shall not charge or receive adjournment fees for any day when he shall charge or receive per diem compensation, which compensation shall be taxed and collected as costs in the case.

SEC. 9. That before entering upon his duties the arbitrator shall be sworn or affirmed, to perform the duties of his appointment with fidelity, which oath or affirmation may be administered by any attorney of any court of record of this Commonwealth, or by any officer having general authority to administer oaths, or by the prothonotary of the court.

SEC. 10. That the award may be set aside, and the case referred to the same or a different arbitrator, at the option of the parties, to be chosen at a time and place to be fixed by the court, within four days thereafter, in the usual manner, to meet not less than four nor more than ten days after said choosing for the following causes, to wit: For such misbehavior on the part of the arbitrator, as in the opinion of the court shall invalidate the award, in which case the arbitrator shall forfeit his compensation for testimony discovered after the trial, such as will justify the court in granting a new trial.

SEC. 11. That no rule to show cause why an award shall not be set aside for misbehavior on the part of the arbitrator shall be granted unless the party making the motion shall state the misbehavior in writing specifically which statement shall be verified by the oath or affirmation of the mover, or some person acquainted with the fact; and no award for the cause aforesaid shall be set aside unless the same be proved to the satisfaction of the court.

SEC. 12. That no application or motion to set aside an award, for after discovered testimony, shall be entertained or rule granted to show cause, unless the mover shall have reduced the facts, which he expects to prove, to writing; which statement shall be accompanied by the oath or affirmation of the mover or some one for him, that the same are true and were not known to the parties asking for the new trial, or either of them, at the time of the former trial, and that he expects to prove the said facts by a witness whose name and place of residence shall be given. On the hearing of the rule to show cause, the said witness may be examined as to his knowledge of the facts alleged.

SEC. 13. That no motion to set aside an award shall be entertained by the court, unless made within twenty days from the filing thereof in open court, if a court be in session, at any time during said twenty days, if not to a judge at chambers.

SEC. 14. That all subpoenas, executions, attachments, rules or orders, made or awarded by the arbitrator, shall be issued by the prothonotary, and he may issue subpoenas returnable before the arbitrator without a special order.

SEC. 15. That the parties or their attorneys to a suit pending, or hereafter to be brought, may amicably refer the trial and determination of the same to a legal arbitrator, and fix their own time and place of hearing with the same force and effect, and with the same incidents and rights to the parties as if the said suit had been referred by rule entered and arbitrator chosen, as hereinbefore provided.

ORIGINAL RESOLUTIONS.

Mr. RANDALL offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That the act to establish a general banking law be made the special order for Monday next, and every day thereafter until disposed of.

Said resolution was twice read, considered, and adopted.

Mr. WELSH offered the following:

Resolved, That from and after this day, it shall be the duty of the SPEAKER to charge all private bills which may hereafter be called up for consideration to the member upon whose motion such bill may have been considered; and it shall also be the duty of the SPEAKER to call the names of the Senators alphabetically, whenever the consideration of bills shall be in order, and each Senator shall then in his turn have the privilege of moving to proceed to the consideration of a private bill.

Mr. GREGG desired some information with reference to the operation of the plan proposed by the resolution.

The SPEAKER explained that the resolution was in the language of the resolution of last session.

Mr. GREGG thought it would, sometimes, operate a little injuriously—particularly with modest members.

The SPEAKER suggested that no advantage could be taken by any Senator, and that its operation, heretofore, had been beneficial.

Mr. MYER explained the operation of the resolution last session.

Mr. WELSH said the resolution was in the precise language of the resolution passed at the last session, and under which the Senate had proceeded in its business. It will operate fairly and justly to all, and he hoped it would be adopted.

The resolution was twice read, considered and adopted.

ORDERS OF THE DAY.

House bill No. 100, "An Act authorizing the Auditor General and State Treasurer to sell certain stock belonging to the State in the Washington and Wilmington turnpike road company," came up in order and passed finally.

BILLS CONSIDERED AND PASSED.

On motion of Mr. WELSH, Senate bill No. 158, "An Act incorporating the Mount Olivet cemetery association of York county."

On motion of Mr. CRAIG, Senate bill No. 236, "An Act incorporating the Parryville bridge company."

On motion of Mr. MILLER, House bill No. 35, "An Act for the relief of certain collectors of taxes in Washington county," was taken up. Mr. MILLER moved to amend, by re-inserting in the sixth line the words "and State."

Mr. TURNEY said that although the sum involved may be small, it might be establishing a dangerous precedent. The Finance Committee had struck out the words "and State;" and although he had no objection to the extension of this privilege in case of county tax, he was opposed to extending it to State tax.

Mr. MILLER said, in explanation of the bill and amendment, that the Committee on Finance had stricken out the words "and State" in the bill. As this renders the bill entirely inoperative, I move to insert these words. It will be understood by the Senate, that the commissioners in each county are required to exonerate tax collectors from the collection of taxes, which may have been improperly assessed upon individuals or property. This is a just and equitable provision in the general law; otherwise collectors would be compelled to account for and pay into the treasury taxes which may have been illegally assessed. If this was the case, no person could be found who would act in this capacity. The committee, in striking out the words, "and State," show their willingness to exonerate the collector from the collection of county taxes, that may have been improperly assessed. If it is right in this instance to permit the commissioners to grant exonerations from county taxes, it is equally so to do the same for State taxes. In Washington county, a certain time is fixed for the collector to claim such exonerations. It appears that, at the said time, (the first of January in each year,) certain of the collectors of Washington county, through sickness and other unavoidable causes, failed to come up; when coming in after this period they found the door closed upon them by the law. Now they desire this time to be extended, that justice may be done them, and that they may not be compelled to account for and pay in taxes that it is impossible for them to collect. The commissioners are ready to make such exonerations as are reasonable and just, but cannot do so unless this amendment, now offered, is sustained.

Mr. SCHELL thought the amendment of the Senator from Washington should be adopted. If there was any benefit to be derived from this bill, as regards county tax, it would be equally just and beneficial in respect to State tax.

Mr. BELL considered the amendment a good one, and that it should be adopted.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

It was determined in the affirmative, and the section as amended was adopted.

On the final passage of the bill,

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. MILLER and Mr. TURNEY, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Baldwin, Bell, Blood, Craig, Fetter, Finney, Francis, Harris, Keller, Marselis, Miller, Parker, Penney, Rutherford, Schell, Scofield, Schindel, Steele, Thompson and Cresswell, Speaker—20.

NAYS—Messrs. Brewer, Nunnemacher, Randall, Turney, Welsh and Wright—6.

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

On motion of Mr. GAZZAM, Senate bill No. 239, "An Act incorporating the Charters and Robinson Township turnpike road company."

On leave given, Mr. RANDALL reported as committed, "A further supplement to the act incorporating the Lewisburg, Centre and Spruce Creek railroad company."

On motion of Mr. BELL, House bill No. 23, "An Act relative to making and opening roads and building bridges in West Marlborough township, Chester county, and repairing roads in said township."

On motion of Mr. RANDALL, House bill No. 27, "An Act to incorporate the Penn Warehouse company," which was amended in the first section by adding the names of Andrew J. Catherwood and Morton McMichael.

By request this bill lies over on second reading.

On motion of Mr. TURNEY, Senate bill No. 163, "An Act to incorporate the Uniontown gas and water company." This bill was slightly amended.

On motion of Mr. SCHELL, Senate bill No. 185, "An Act to incorporate the Johnstown and Ashtola tramroad and railroad company."

This bill having been amended in the first section by the insertion of the words, "and several supplements thereto," after the words "forty-nine," in the twelfth line, lies over.

On motion of Mr. GREGG, "A supplement to the act incorporating the Lewisburg, Centre and Spruce creek railroad company."

On motion of Mr. SCOFIELD, House bill No. 60, "An Act to repeal the tenth section of the act of 27th April, 1852, entitled 'An Act authorizing the laying out of a State road in Montgomery and Bucks counties; relative to fishing in certain streams in Potter county.'"

Mr. BELL wished to know the object of the bill.

Mr. SCOFIELD explained that the section forbids others than residents of the State of Pennsylvania, fishing in the streams of Potter county. Persons from the State of New York, had been in the habit of coming over, previous to its passage, and fishing. The hotel keepers had found them profitable customers, and they were desirous of having the section repealed, so that these New Yorkers might enjoy the privileges which they had previously, and the business interests of a portion of the people of Potter be benefitted. The bill was an omnibus bill, and it was proposed simply to eject the tenth passenger.

Mr. BELL thought that might all be very well; but when the Legislature passed that law, there must have been some good reason for doing so. Fish must have been scarce, or they would not have desired such a clause.

Mr. SCOFIELD said the law was passed, because the people of that section of the State wished to reserve the best fish for themselves. They found, however, that the New York folks, who had been in the habit of coming over to fish, were fond of whisky; and the passage of this law had deterred them from coming, thereby injuring the business of hotel keepers. They desired its repeal, so that these persons may be induced to visit the county during the fishing season.

Mr. RANDALL wished to inquire of the Senator from Warren, whether this tenth passenger, whom he proposed to eject, had paid his fare? If he had, they had no right to eject him.

Mr. PALMER wished to express how willingly he would vote to repeal the section, and extend to all the privileges of fishing in that county. He was, he said, at home, a very laborious man; and almost the only recreation he took from his duties, was in the summer among the trout streams of Potter. In his pleasure in that pastime, he had become acquainted with many New Yorkers, and had found them a very clever set of men. He did not desire that they should be fined for pleasure which he, as a Pennsylvanian, enjoyed, simply because they were from another State.

Mr. SCHELL wished to know whether the fish of Potter could not be made to go over to New York State, and the object be accomplished in that way.

Mr. SCOFIELD replied that if the Senator from Bedford could devise some plan by which the Allegheny or other rivers could be made to run up stream, he might be equally successful in accomplishing the other. The fish were, he said, headstrong and stubborn, like politicians, and liked to run with the current.

On motion of Mr. TURNEY, Senate bill No. 70, "An Act to repeal an act for the protection of sheep and taxing of dogs in Blair county."

On motion of Mr. RANDALL, Senate bill No. 150, "A further supplement to an act consolidating the city of Philadelphia."

Mr. GREGG asked for an explanation of the bill.

Mr. RANDALL said the object of the bill was to do away with the election of the board of guardians of the poor and the board of health, by the people, and to give to the supreme court their appointment. The change proposed would be a saving, to the city of Philadelphia of twenty-five thousand dollars annually, and perhaps of hundreds of thousands of dollars eventually. The bill had been sent to him by the city council of Philadelphia; it had received their unanimous approval, and he did not believe there would be found a dissenting voice to it among his constituents.

Mr. BELL was gratified with the bill, because of the spirit it manifests. He had seen it charged upon the board of guardians of the poor, that they had perpetrated pecuniary frauds to a vast amount, and the plan proposed for their selection by the bill would have a tendency to guard the public interests. He referred to the evils growing out of a reference of every thing to the popular vote, particularly as it affects the judiciary system. He was, he said, a Democrat, and had been from his youth up, but he could not but regard it as an error, and was of the opinion that the sober second thought of the people would induce them to return to the old method of selecting the high office of the judiciary.

Mr. WRIGHT had no serious objection to the bill, but he thought there might be some difficulty in carrying out the intentions of its framers. He thought the object contemplated by the second section could not be attained without some difficulty.

Mr. RANDALL rose to say that his only object was to abolish the boards before the spring election.

Mr. WRIGHT agreed with his colleague, that the sooner the bill passed, the better for the interests of the people of Philadelphia. Still, he had objections to the second section, and he hoped it would not pass.

The second section was withdrawn and the bill passed.

On motion of Mr. STEELE, House bill No. 43, "An Act relating to sheriffs' and prothonotary's costs in Luzerne county."

BILLS IN PLACE.

On leave given, Mr. BLOOD read in his place and presented to the Chair, "An Act to repeal the last proviso of the 41st section of an act to reduce the State debt, and to incorporate the Pennsylvania canal and railroad company."

Mr. BELL, "An Act authorizing execution of property in equity on non resident defendants."

The hour of one having arrived, the SPEAKER adjourned the Senate until to-morrow morning at half-past 10 o'clock.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

TUESDAY, Feb. 8, 1859.

The House was called to order at 10 o'clock by the SPEAKER.

The Clerk read the Journal of yesterday.

The SPEAKER laid before the House a statement of the affairs of the Thomas iron works.

BILL IN PLACE.

Mr. ECKMAN, on leave, read in his place and presented to the Chair, "An Act to confirm the sale of the Germau school-house, in Myers-town, Lebanon county," which was referred to the Committee on the Judiciary System.

Mr. BRODHEAD, on leave, presented two petitions from citizens of Pike county, asking for an alteration of the road laws as far as relates to said county.

REPORT OF A COMMITTEE.

Mr. WILCOX, from the minority of the committee appointed on the subject of printing the Daily Legislative Record, submitted the following report:

The Legislature, at its present session, adopted a resolution for the appointment of a committee, in conjunction with a similar committee of the Senate, should the Senate appoint such committee, for the purpose of contracting for a Daily Legislative Record, of which committee the undersigned was appointed a member by the SPEAKER.

The Senate refused to appoint a committee, and of course no conference was had.

The majority of the committee of the House reported the fact to this body, and offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That the committee already appointed on the part of the House, be empowered to enter into a contract with George Bergner & Co., for the publication of a Daily Legislative Record, under such restrictions as they may consider the most advantageous to the State, and that they also receive such sureties in the sum of $3,000 from the contractors for the faithful performance of the work as they may deem reliable; the whole to be submitted to this House for ratification.

This resolution was predicated upon a proposition submitted to the committee by George Bergner & Co., for the publication of a Daily Legislative Record, for the sum of $5 60 per page, being $1 40 per page less than the price allowed R. J. Haldeman, Esq., and this resolution was adopted by the House.

The undersigned refused to sign the contract entered into by a majority of the committee, for the reason that it would entail on the State the expense of two sets of Records, furnished by different parties.

At the last session of the Legislature a law was passed, of which the following is the fortieth section, entitled "An Act to provide for the ordinary expenses of government," &c., approved April 21, 1858

"To Richard J. Haldeman, publisher of the Legislative Record, compensation at the rate of seven dollars per page for the numbers published and re-published of said Record, at the present session, deducting any sum heretofore paid, the amount to be certified as due by the superintendent of public printing; and the said publisher is hereby authorized to continue the publication of such record at the next session, under all the terms and conditions of the existing contract until the two Houses otherwise order, or a new contract is made for such publication."

This is the law of the land, and can only be repealed by the action of both Houses. The Senate refused to confer with the House in making a new contract, and hence any action on the part of the committee of the House to enter into a new contract with a different person would have entailed upon the State the additional expense of paying for a Daily Legislative Record contracted for by the House alone. Mr. Haldeman being authorized by the law to continue the publication of the Record, until the two Houses should otherwise order, would have been bound by the terms of his contract to have furnished daily, and thus instead of saving money to the State the additional expense of $41 80-100 per day would have been entailed on her.

It is the duty of a legislator to husband, by all means within his power, the money of the people. It is his duty to see that the public money is appropriated in a fair and legitimate manner, and the undersigned could not in justice to himself or the people, sign a contract, which, to say the least of it, was useless, without the concurrent action of a co-ordinate branch of the Legislature.

The authority to Mr. Haldeman to continue the publication of the Record emanates from the law of the land, and until that law is repealed, it is worse than folly to enter into a contract with another person to do the same thing without law.

For these reasons the undersigned refused to sign the contract as submitted to him.

Very respectfully,

WM. P. WILCOX.

The SPEAKER laid before the House a communication from the Auditor General, in answer to a resolution of the first instant, calling upon that department for information relative to the capital of banks and brokers in this Commonwealth; which was read by the Clerk, and laid on the table.

Mr. FOSTER rose to a privileged question. Leave being given, he referred to a newspaper which he held in his hand, (the Daily Harrisburg Telegraph.) and asked for the reading of a certain article.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentlemen send forward the paper?

The article was read as follows by the Clerk:

"A FALSEHOOD CORRECTED.—We observe in the Legislative proceedings published in the Pittsburg papers, (which we learn are sent to that city by J. Heron Foster,) a charge that we forged a paper or contract after it had left the committee. This is a base and malicious falsehood, and the writer knew it to be such. The facts are simply these: We made a proposition to the House to print a Record for $5.60 per page, similar to that for which they now pay $7 per page. The House now receives two thousand copies of that Record, but the number printed for both Houses is 3,000. The proposition offered by us was a verbatim copy of the agreement made last year with Mr. Haldeman; but the words 'two' were very indistinctly written by the Clerk who copied the agreement, and when we discovered that the Clerk had read 'two' instead of three, we took the agreement to Mr. Ramsdell, Chairman of the committee, and told him that the word ought to be distinctly written 'THREE'—that we were willing to give them even THREE THOUSAND COPIES instead of 'two,' the number now received. Mr. Ramsdell at once replied, make the 'h' more plain and then it cannot be mistaken for 'two.' Consequently it will be observed that if any alteration was made at all (which we utterly deny,) the members would have received ONE THOUSAND COPIES more by the alteration, and that certainly would have been no fraud whatever upon any body, and would have only resulted to the injury of ourselves."

The SPEAKER said that this was not a privileged question, and that the gentleman could only speak upon it by asking leave to make a statement. Leave was accordingly asked and given.

Mr. FOSTER then said that it might be that the question was not privileged. What he wished to say was, that no statement had been made in the telegraphic dispatches which had not previously been made by him upon the floor of the House. At the time of the occurrence which had given rise to the article in question he had charged, as he now charged, that while a certain contract was pending, and its ratification under consideration, it was illegally altered, and without the knowledge or consent of the House. This alteration was of such a character, according to his knowledge of law, as to entitle it to the name of a forgery. A remark to this effect had passed his lips, and had found publicity through the telegraphic columns of the press. If outside parties thought proper to institute any proceedings on this assertion he would furnish a certified copy of his allegations.

But he desired now to caution the House that some action was necessary for the protection of its papers. This was his object, rather than to speak in his own defence.

As regard the facts of the forgery, he wished to recapitulate them. While the contract between a certain committee and George Bergner & Co. was before the House for ratification, he had asked the chairman of the committee (Mr. RAMSDELL,) whether the contract provided for the publication of two or three thousand Records. He had received no answer, but the Clerk had read it two thousand. He had demurred at this as not according to the bid of the parties offering to contract, whereupon one of the parties to the contract went to the Clerk's desk—took possession of the contract, and altered it, and a moment afterward stepped up to Mr. RAMSDELL, and said in a loud whisper: "Tell FOSTER it is three thousand." He had then, to satisfy himself as to the facts, stepped up to Mr. RAUCH, then acting as assistant clerk, and obtained the document. Upon examination he found that "two" had been erased—that "three" had been inserted, and that the ink used in the alteration was not yet dry. He asked the Clerk (Mr. RAUCH,) whether it had not been read "two," and received the reply "yes, but it has since been altered," mentioning who had done it. He returned to his seat—made the charge openly, and was prepared to sustain it. He now appealed to the House whether its papers and records were safe when accessible to a man who would commit alteration and forgery, and who occupied a seat at the very elbow of their Clerk.

Mr. ROSE asked leave to make a statement. Leave being given, he requested that the Clerk might read a certain article from a newspaper, (the Daily Harrisburg Telegraph.)

The Clerk read the article, as follows:

"OUTRAGEOUS CONDUCT.—We are pained to denounce the conduct of at least one member of the Legislature thus early in the session. We allude to the outrageous conduct of Mr. ROSE, the Republican member from the counties of Mercer and Venango, who during the debate yesterday behaved in such a menacing and braggadocio manner towards the presiding officer, (Mr. WALBORN, who was temporarily occupying the chair,) that it became necessary for that gentleman to call upon the Sergeant-at-Arms to take him into custody; and even then he behaved afterwards ungentlemanly, and unworthy of a man occupying a seat on the floor of the House.

"We say this more with sorrow than anger, having been on the most intimate terms with that gentleman during the last session of the Legislature, and have defended him on more than one occasion. He had one personal rencontre with a member from the city of Philadelphia, and from present appearances we expect some similar scenes, not with political opponents but with partizan friends. However, the Republicans of Mercer and Venango will find it very difficult to ascertain with what party Mr. ROSE intends to act. He has thus far acted more with the Locofocos than with our own friends."

Mr. ROSE then said that while he was in Philadelphia fulfilling his duties as a member of a committee on a contested election case, the article in question had been placed in his hands by a friend. In one sense, he was surprised at its perusal. In another, he was not surprised. It did not astonish him to see an attack upon him by that paper, for he had learned, a week before, that the editor intended to assail him on account of his refusal to vote him the contract for the publication of the daily Legislative Record. But he was astonished that the manager of the paper did not pay some slight regard to the truth. Every gentleman in the House, who had been present on the occasion referred to, could testify that the allegations of the article were unqualifiedly false. He would, however, revert to the circumstances.

When the contract between the Record Committee and George Bergner & Co., with the accompanying bonds, was read, it was stated by the gentleman from Allegheny (Mr. FOSTER) that an alteration had been made in the contract since it had been read by the Clerk. The discovery of this base forgery, committed on the floor of the House, in the very presence of the Representatives of the people, brought the blush to the face of every honorable man, no matter to which party he belonged. It was easy then to appreciate the situation of the friends of George Bergner, (the House had its own opinion as to who made the alteration,) and to see that their only course was to press a re-committal of the contract to the committee. This was a very nice way of getting out of the matter. Pending a motion to this effect, the previous question was called. The gentleman from Franklin (Mr. M'CLURE) took the ground that the vote must be at once had on the original resolution to ratify the contract. The chairman (Mr. WALBORN) had decided otherwise. From this decision an appeal was taken. Several gentlemen took the floor at the same time, and considerable confusion prevailed. The Chairman decided that the appeal was not debatable, whereupon he had taken an appeal from this decision. The Chairman said that the appeal must be put in writing. He had accordingly prepared it, and being entitled to the floor, got up to offer the paper. That this was strictly proper, is evinced by the fact that it was in strict accordance with the orders of the Chairman. But the confusion was so great that it was almost impossible for him to be heard, and while holding the paper in his hand, he was obliged to call "Mr. SPEAKER" several times. The Chairman gave no apparent attention, and probably did not hear him, but directed the members to take their seats. He, thinking himself entitled to the floor, had retained his position until the Chairman remarked that "if the gentleman from Mercer did not take his seat he would call the Sergeant-at-Arms," when he immediately took his seat. This was all of it; and the assertion that the Sergeant-at-Arms had had him in custody was false.

Another allegation in the article was that he had behaved in a braggadocio and menacing manner during the debate. Was this charge sustained? The publisher of the Daily Telegraph had good reporters in the House on the occasion referred to, and one of them had shown to the speaker a very correct account of his remarks. Why did not the publisher put those remarks in the paper, and let the people judge whether they were in braggadocio style? Why had they been smothered, and an account of those proceedings been omitted, and found no place in the Telegraph? The House were the best judges of why this was done.

Another allegation, which he regarded as "the unkindest cut of all," was contained in the statement, viz: that the editor of the Telegraph had been last year on the "most intimate terms" with him. This was too bad; moreover it was false; and he was satisfied that if such a report was believed it would kill him in the State of Pennsylvania quicker than anything else.

Still another allegation was that he had voted with the Democrats. Why, who made George Bergner a plank in the Republican platform, and who gave him the right to read a member out of the party if he did not put his hand in the public Treasury, and help to draw some three or four thousand dollars for the aforesaid Geo. Bergner? He had only to say, that if this man Bergner was a plank in the Republican platform, he desired to spit upon that plank.

Mr. ROHRER asked leave to make a statement. Leave being given, he said that he desired to corroborate the assertions of Mr. ROSE. He had been extremely sorry to see the attack made upon that gentleman, in a paper of his own party, and had considered it an outrage, owing to its falsity. During the whole of the scene alluded to, he had been seated near Mr. ROSE, and so convenient that he could not fail to perceive all that passed, and to hear all that was said. The allegations were untrue, and he himself had shown the article to Mr. ROSE in Philadelphia, in order that he might speak in his own justification.

As a close observer of what was transpiring at the time, he had noticed nothing arrogant in the conduct of the gentleman from Mercer, (Mr. ROSE.) Other members of the House were soliciting the attention of the SPEAKER with just as much energy, and with just as little intention of disrespect. He had noticed particularly, at the time, that Mr. ROSE was endeavoring to call the attention of the SPEAKER. He turned round in his seat, and from the smile that he observed playing upon the countenance of Mr. ROSE, that, with him, the whole affair was evidently considered a matter of fun and amusement. He had himself called "Mr. SPEAKER," louder than usual, and if anything in a more boisterous manner than Mr. ROSE. But this was most certainly warranted by the circumstances at the time, for there was much noise and confusion. At the time Mr. ROSE was requested to take his seat, or receive the attention of the Sergeant-at-Arms, there was nothing improper in his manner, and indeed his conduct was, to a very great degree, in my estimation, less exceptionable than many other members of the House. He deemed this corroboration due to Mr. ROSE, as he had been singled out from amongst the rest, and made the target for a very villainous and unjustifiable attack.

Mr. BARNESLEY, on leave, presented the petition of citizens of Bucks county, in favor of the incorporation of the New Britain turnpike road company.

Mr. CHURCH, on leave, from the committee on corporations, reported with amendment, "supplement to the act to incorporate the Commonwealth Insurance company of Pennsylvania;" and on his motion the same was ordered to be placed on the Private Calendar.

Mr. EVANS, on leave, read in his place and presented to the Chair, "An Act to incorporate a ferry over the river Schuylkill;" and on his motion said bill was ordered to be placed on the Private Calendar.

On motion of Mr. LAWRENCE, (Washington,) Mr. WILCOX'S minority report was ordered to be printed in the Legislative Record.

Messrs. MANN and STUART severally asked and obtained leave of absence for Messrs. WILLISTON and HOTTENSTINE for a few days—the latter on account of sickness in his family.

Mr. QUIGLEY submitted the following:

WHEREAS, It has been alleged on the floor of this House, that a contract while on the Clerk's desk, pending a motion to approve of the same, was altered materially without the consent of the House; be it therefore,

Resolved, That a special committee of three be appointed, with power to send for persons and papers, to inquire into the facts, and report what action, if any, should be taken on the subject.

The resolution was read the second time.

Mr. LAWRENCE, (Washington,) leave being given, said that he understood that the party, who it was alleged was implicated in the alteration, had fallen back upon the chairman of the committee for defence. The chairman was not present, and he therefore moved a postponement.

On the question to postpone,

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. QUIGLEY and Mr. GOOD, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Abbott, Acker, Balliet, Barnesley, Barlow, Boyer, (Schuylkill,) Bryson, Burley, Campbell, Chase, Church, Durboraw, Eckman, Ellmaker, Evans, Fisher, Graham, Gratz, Green, Hamersly, Keneagy, Ketchum, Kinney, Lawrence, (Washington,) Mann, Mehaffey, M'Clure, M'Curdy, M'Dowell, Miller, Neall, Nill, Palm, Patterson, Pennell, Peirce, Price, Proudfoot, Rose, Shafer, Smead, Styer, Thompson, Wagonseller, Walborn, Walker, Whitman, Wigton, Wiley, Williams, (Bedford,) Williams, (Bucks,) Wilson, Withrow, Zoller and Lawrence, Speaker—55.

NAYS—Messrs. Bertolet, Boyer, (Clearfield,) Brodhead, Custer, Dismant, Fleming, Foster, Galley, Good, Gray, Hill, Jackson, Laird, Oaks, Pinkerton, Quigley, Rohrer, Smith, (Berks,) Smith (Philadelphia,) Stephens, Stoneback, Stuart, Warden and Wolf—24.

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

When, on motion of Mr. FOSTER, the further consideration of the same was postponed for the present, on account of the absence of the gentleman who has said bill in charge.

"An Act to incorporate the Eastern market company," came up in order, and was read the second time.

Mr. PEIRCE moved to amend as follows:

That the said corporation shall have no power to prohibit or restrict by any by-laws, rule or regulation, any person who shall rent or occupy a stall in any such market building, from exposing to sale and selling at said sale, in such quantities as he may think proper, beef, pork, mutton, veal and poultry, which shall be slaughtered or killed on his farm; nor from exposing to sale and selling at said stall, butter, cheese, sausages and chopped meats which shall be manufactured or prepared for market on his said farm; nor from exposing for sale and selling at said stall, any article or articles killed or slaughtered, made, manufactured or prepared for market on his said farm; which was not agreed to.

Mr. BARNESLEY offered the following amendment, to come in at the end of the sixth section:

Provided, They shall not by any rule or regulation prevent farmers who rent stalls in said market, from disposing of the produce of their farms, in such quantities, and upon such terms, as said farmers may think proper; and the farmers of the State of Pennsylvania shall enjoy all the rights and privileges in said market house, that may be granted to the citizens of Philadelphia or elsewhere: Provided further, That said company before the renting of any stalls in said market house—and yearly thereafter before said renting—shall, by ten or more printed hand bills, put up in the most conspicuous places in said market house, ten days before the time of renting, give notice of the time when said stalls will be rented; which said renting shall take place in said market house: And provided further. That upon application being made at the time of letting said stalls, the farmers of the State of Pennsylvania shall be entitled to rent at least fifty per cent. of the stalls in said market: Provided further, That no farmer shall be entitled to rent more than three stalls in said market, unless all the stalls shall not be applied for at the time of letting; which was agreed to.

He also offered the following new section; which was agreed to:

Sec. 10. The Legislature hereby reserves the right to amend or alter the provisions of this charter at any time, provided no injury shall be done thereby to the stockholders of said company.

Mr. SHAFER offered the following amendment to the second section:

That the capital stock of said company shall consist of four thousand shares, of one thousand dollars each, with the privilege of increasing the same to five thousand shares.

And on the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. SHAFER and Mr. PENNELL, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Acker, Balliet, Barnsley, Bayard, Boyer, (Clearfield,) Brodhead, Bryson, Burley, Campbell, Custer, Dismant, Durhoraw, Eckman, Foster, Galley, Good, Gray, Hill, Kinney, Mann, McDowell, Miller, Nill, Patterson, Pennell, Peirce, Shafer, Smith, (Berks,) Stephens, Stoneback, Thompson, Wagonseller, Walker, Witman, Wigton, Wiley, Williams, (Bedford,) Williams, (Bucks,) Wilson, Withrow, Wolf, Zoller and Lawrence, Speaker—43.

NAYS—Messrs. Abbott, Boyer, (Schuylkill,) Chase, Church, Ellmaker, Evans, Fisher, Fleming, Goepp, Gratz, Green, Keneagy, Ketchum, Lawrence, (Washington,) Neall, Oaks, Proudfoot, Rohrer, Rose, Stuart, Styer, Thorn, Warden, Wilcox and Woodruff—26.

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. SHAFER moved the following further amendments, which were also adopted:

In the fourth section of amendment, third line to read, "one thousand shares," instead of two hundred; and in the fourth line of same section to read, "one hundred persons," instead of twenty.

In the eighth section of amendment, sixth line to read, "five thousand shares," instead of one thousand.

And on the question,

Will the House agree to the bill as amended?

It was determined in the affirmative; and ordered that the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Mr. HAMERSLY called up House bill No. 174, "An Act to amend and extend the charter of the fire insurance company of Germantown and its vicinity," and moved as a substitute the Senate bill; which was agreed to; and the bill passed finally.

PASSENGER RAILWAY BILL.

Mr. GOEPP moved that the House proceed to the consideration of House bill No. 160, "A supplement to an act incorporating the Green and Coates Street passenger railroad company."

Mr. THORN called for the order of the day. The SPEAKER said that this was in accordance with the order of the day.

The motion to take up the bill being before the House,

Mr. THORN said that on that question he would call the orders of the day, and in explanation would ask for the reading of Rule No. 38.

The rule was read by the Clerk, as follows:

"RULE 38. That on Tuesday of each week, the Speaker shall, immediately after the reading of the Journal, take up private bills, a calendar of which, in their numerical order, shall be made by the Clerk, and printed and laid on each Member's desk before nine o'clock on the morning of each Tuesday; and the Speaker having announced such bills in their order, they shall be severally read by the Clerk; and all such bills as shall encounter no objection, either when the titles of the same are announced by the Speaker, or when the Clerk shall have read the same through, shall be laid aside and prepared for second reading, and shall be taken up in the afternoon of the same day, in the same order and disposed of in the manner in which bills are now disposed of; and such bills as have passed as aforesaid, shall be in order from day to day until disposed of, unless a majority of the House shall determine otherwise. The proposing of an amendment to any bill shall not be construed to be an objection, unless an objection be actually made; but no debate on such amendment, or to the bill to which it is proposed, shall be in order; nor shall any bill reported with a recommendation to be negatived be placed upon the calendar. Any member objecting to a bill upon the calendar shall be required to state the grounds of his objection at the time, confining himself, however, briefly to the objection. All bills objected off the calendar shall be placed at the foot of the calendar of the succeeding Tuesday, under the head of 'Objected Bills,' and shall be taken up in their order, as soon as the regular calendar has been disposed of, unless a majority of the House shall otherwise determine. This rule shall not be construed to interfere with the passage of Senate bills as they may be reached; nor shall that part of the rule which allows a member to object a bill off the calendar be in force during the last ten days of the session; but all bills then upon the calendar shall be considered in their order, unless a majority of the House shall otherwise order."

Mr. THORN. Does the SPEAKER decide that the motion to consider is in order?

The SPEAKER so decided, and said that it was incumbent upon him to entertain the motion.

Mr. THORN presumed that his call for the order of the day was also in order.

The SPEAKER said that the order of the day was the consideration of private bills, and that this was a private bill.

Mr. THORN suggests that of course the only result that they both wished to arrive at was a proper conclusion.

The SPEAKER said that the gentleman from Philadelphia could not claim the attention of the House at this time without he raised a point of order or appealed from the decision of the SPEAKER.

Mr. THORN said that in that case the gentleman from Philadelphia would most respectfully raise a point of order and submit it in writing.

The point of order was as follows:

TUESDAY, Feb. 8th, 1858.

The Private Calendar was, during the day, under consideration, and gone through with, and during its progress bill No. 160, "A supplement to an act incorporating the Green and Coates Streets Philadelphia passenger railway company," was objected off the Private Calendar by the gentleman from Philadelphia, (Mr. FISHER,) under the 38th rule of this House, which says "All bills objected off the calendar shall be placed at the foot of the Calendar the succeeding Tuesday, and shall be taken up in their order as soon as the regular Calendar has been disposed of, unless a majority of the House shall otherwise determine."

The gentleman from Northampton, (Mr. GOEPP,) rose in his place and moved to proceed to the consideration of House bill No. 160, entitled "A supplement to an act to incorporate the Green and Coates Street passenger railroad company," it being one of the objected bills which, under the rule No. 38, lies over until next Tuesday.

The SPEAKER, having entertained the motion of the gentleman from Northampton, Mr. THORN, of Philadelphia, called the orders of the day.

The SPEAKER decided the motion of Mr. THORN out of order, and the motion of the gentleman of Northampton, (Mr. GOEPP,) in order.

Mr. THORN, of Philadelphia, submits the following point for the SPEAKER'S decision:

That rule 38 provides that this objected bill, No. 160, is not in order, as the rule requires it to lay over one week, and cannot be considered at this time without a suspension of that rule.

The SPEAKER decided the point of order not well taken.

Mr. THORN appealed from that decision.

Mr. NILL moved to lay the appeal on the table.

The SPEAKER said that it was not yet before the House, not having been written and presented.

Mr. LAWRENCE, (Washington,) intimated that Mr. THORN was consuming the time of House until the hour of adjournment.

Mr. THORN asked leave to make a statement. Leave being given, he said, "Mr. SPEAKER, as the moderator of this House, I demand of you not to permit my motives to be impugned."

Mr. THORN and Mr. HAMERSLY presented an appeal from the decision of the SPEAKER, in writing, as follows:

"The SPEAKER decided the point of order not well taken, from which an appeal is taken to the House by

GEO. T. THORN,
GEO. W. HAMERSLY."

Mr. NILL moved that the appeal be laid upon the table.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Elk, (Mr. WILCOX,) take the chair?

The chair was taken by Mr. WILCOX.

Mr. THORN. Do the rules of this House recognize a motion to lie on the table?

The Chairman said that the motion was in order.

Mr. THORN said that the rules of this House no where, he believed, recognized a motion to lie on the table, in order. Mr. Zeigler, in his Manual, gave his own opinion that such a course might be pursued, but no rule recognized it. Besides this, it should be recollected that Zeigler's Manual had not been adopted for the government of this House. And if gentlemen would read a little further in the Manual, they would find that even if the motion was in order it was susceptible of amendment. If this was so, and if it became necessary, he should offer an amendment. Would it be in order?

The Chairman said that it would.

Mr. THORN then moved to amend by allowing it to lie upon the table until Thursday of next week, and asked for the reading of the point of order and the appeal.

They were accordingly read by the Clerk.

Mr. THORN said that it was the practice of the House to take bills in numerical order.—Even assuming that the SPEAKER had been right in entertaining the motion to consider, yet when he had called the order of the day the House could not proceed to a consideration of the bill without they suspended the rules by a two-thirds vote.

Mr. THORN continued further in defence of his position.

Mr. GOEPP desired to have the floor for a time, for the purpose of postponing the hour of adjournment.

Mr. THORN refused to yield and continued until

The hour of 5 having arrived, the Chairman adjourned the House until to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock.

In the report of the proceedings of Monday, in relation to the memorial of Mr. Fry, Mr. HAMERSLY is made to say:

"That as one of the Divorce Committee, he received a copy of the answer."

Mr. HAMERSLY should have been made to say:

"That the memorial of Mr. Fry was published in the 'Sunday Dispatch,' before he received a copy of it—that he had read it at his own house before a copy was furnished to him as chairman of the Committee on Divorces."

No. 18.—FILE OF THE SENATE.

SEC. 5. SEC. 7. That the Auditor General of this Commonwealth shall cause to be engraved and printed, in the best manner to guard against counterfeiting, such quantity of circulating notes in blank, of different denominations, not less than five dollars each, of which are authorized to be issued by the banks of this Commonwealth incorporated under this act as he may deem necessary from time to time, to carry into effect the provisions of this act; said notes shall be countersigned by the Auditor General, or by a clerk appointed by him for such purpose, numbered and registered in his office, in manner as directed by him in a book kept for the purpose; and all notes issued by him shall be uniform, and they shall have stamped on them, "secured by the deposit of public stock."

Sec. 9. That the Auditor General, with the approval of the Governor, shall devise a seal with a suitable inscription for this branch of his duties, independent of the seal of office now used by said officer as Auditor General; a description of which, with a certificate of approval by the Governor, shall be filed in the office of the Secretary of State, with an impression thereof; which shall thereupon become his seal of office as set forth in this act, and the same may be renewed when necessary; every certificate, assignment and conveyance, executed by the said Auditor General, in pursuance of any authority conferred on him by this act, and sealed with the aforesaid seal, shall be received in evidence, and may be recorded in the proper recording offices, in the same manner and with like effect as a deed regularly acknowledged or proved before any officer authorized to take proof or acknowledgments of deeds; and all copies of papers in the office of said Auditor General that have any relation to any of the banks or banking associations of this State, certified by him and authenticated by the said seal, shall, in all cases, be in evidence equally and in like manner as the original.

Sec. 10. That banks established under this act, upon legally assigning to and depositing with the Auditor General the bonds or evidences of debt of this Commonwealth, shall be entitled to receive an equal amount of such circulating notes in blank of the denominations such as they may require, numbered, registered, countersigned and stamped, as is herein provided for; the bonds and stocks to be taken at their market value: Provided, That the same is not above par.

Sec. 11. That the Auditor General may, at his discretion, exchange such bonds and stock, or any of them, on receiving other approved bonds and stock of equal account; and when any sum of the principal of the bonds and stock which have been transferred to the Auditor General shall be paid to him, he shall notify the bank or banking association which transferred the same of such payment; and shall pay the same to such bank or banking association on receiving other approved bonds and stock of an equal amount, or on returning an equal amount of the bills or notes delivered by him to such association for circulation; which bills, when delivered, shall be cancelled, and all bonds and stock received by the Auditor General under the provisions of this section, shall be subject to all the regulations and restrictions prescribed by the different sections of this act.

Sec. 12. Mr. WRIGHT, "A joint resolution relative to the purchase of Sutherland's Manual for the use of the members of the Senate and House of Representatives, and the Clerks and Assistant Clerks of the two bodies."

Mr. WRIGHT moved that the Senate proceed to its consideration; agreed to.

Mr. GREGG did not see the object of incurring the expense incident to the purchase of Sutherland's Manual. The Legislature have now Ziegler's Manual, which had been provided at an expense of one thousand dollars, besides the cost of printing. Senators had talked every day about retrenchment and reform, and yet there is scarcely one on which there is not some project set on foot for getting books and other things which are of no use.

Mr. WRIGHT said the rules of the Senate require that Jefferson's Manual shall be taken for its guidance. Sutherland's Manual contains the important features of this, besides much other valuable information which has been omitted in Ziegler's. Besides, it is larger and more comprehensive.

Mr. BELL inquired whether there was a new edition of the work. If there was, he was desirous of procuring it; if not, the old one could be of no use.

Mr. SCHELL had no objection to supplying new Senators, or those who had not already been provided, with the work. As for himself, he had two copies, and he presumed other Senators had an equal number.

Mr. GREGG said both Houses had contracted for Ziegler's Manual, and there was no necessity of having two, or of kicking out Ziegler's.

Mr. SCOTFIELD remarked that the State had paid one thousand dollars for Ziegler's Manual, besides the cost of printing, which would probably reach one thousand more. He supposed this proposition was made with a view of benefiting somebody else.

Mr. TURNEY was opposed to the resolution. The work contemplated by the resolution had been superseded by the compilation of another work, which answered the same purpose. He would, however, vote for a modification, giving the new members the work.

Mr. WELSH was not under the impression that the action of the Senate, with reference to Ziegler's Manual, had superseded Jefferson's Manual. Ziegler's was a good book, but it does not contain all that Sutherland's does. He would vote for the resolution; and if a resolution were introduced to supply Cushing's Manual, he would also vote for that. It was important that they should, as faithful representatives, be acquainted with all the Parliamentary rules which governed the Senate.

Mr. SCHELL rose to inquire whether the one thousand dollars appropriated by the Senate was for the work and labor, or for the labor of compiling alone? If it was for the labor only, he had misunderstood the resolution, and should have voted against it. One thousand dollars was enough for both the labor and publication.

Mr. TURNEY moved that the Senate go into committee of the whole on this bill for the purpose of amendment; which was agreed to; whereupon

Mr. TURNEY moved to insert at the end the following: Provided, Such distribution be confined to those who have not hitherto received them.

Mr. RANDALL wished to have the amendment in another shape. He had given his copy of the work away, and should like to have another.

Mr. CRESSWELL was opposed to the amendment. He agreed with the Senator from York, with regard to the policy of supplying Senators with all these works. There was a rule of the Senate making Jefferson's Manual the governing one of this body. There is much in the work which Ziegler's does not contain, and it was important that members should be provided with it, in order to make themselves familiar with its provisions. He believed that time would be saved by buying all books upon parliamentary usages. It was very important that representatives should become familiar with those usages; and as many Senators had, doubtless, given copies of the work away to their constituents, he thought it but proper that they should be supplied. Mr. Sutherland, the compiler of the work, had expended much labor in its preparation, and takes it much to heart that his Manual is now to be thrown overboard.

The question being upon the amendment proposed by Mr. TURNEY, it was determined in the negative.

The bill being reported by the chairman, the Senate, on motion, proceeded to second reading.

On the final passage of the bill,

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. TURNEY and Mr. WRIGHT, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Blood, Coffey, Gazzam, Keller, Marselis, Myer, Parker, Randall, Shaeffer, Schindel, Thompson, Welsh, Wright and Cresswell, Speaker—14.

NAYS—Messrs. Baldwin, Bell, Craig, Fetter, Finney, Gregg, Harris Miller, Nuunemacher, Palmer, Penney, Rutherford, Schell, Scofield, Steele and Turney—16.

So the question was determined in the negative.

ORIGINAL RESOLUTION.

Mr. BELL offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That from and after this day, the Senate will hold afternoon sessions on Monday's and Wednesday's, from three to five o'clock, for the purpose of considering private bills.

Mr. MYER offered a substitute, providing for night sessions on Tuesdays and Thursdays, commencing at 7½ o'clock; which was not agreed to.

The question recurring upon the resolution; it was adopted.

ORDERS OF THE DAY.

"An Act to incorporate the Johnstown and Ashtola tramroad and railroad company," came up in order on second reading.

The various sections having been read and passed;

Mr. TURNEY moved to add the following as a new section:

That before the said company shall enter upon and occupy any land through which said road may be made, they shall file a bond in the court of common pleas of the county in which said land is located, with securities to be approved by said court, conditioned to indemnify the owner of such land, for any damages that may be caused by the occupation of such land; and the said court shall appoint three commissioners to assess such damages, who shall be citizens of the said county, who shall be governed in all things not inconsistent herewith, by the provision of certain acts for the assessment of damages on the Pennsylvania railroad.

Mr. SCHELL thought the amendment was entirely unnecessary.

Mr. TURNER briefly advocated the propriety of his amendment.

Mr. SCHELL thought there should be no deviation from the general railroad law, as was contemplated by the gentleman's amendment, and he hoped it would not be adopted.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree so to add?

It was determined in the negative, and the bill passed finally.

"An Act to incorporate the Pennsylvania warehouse company," came up in order on second reading. The first section being under consideration.

Mr. BELL could not see the propriety of the bill, and as he was not familiar with the objects, he would ask for an explanation.

Mr. RANDALL said, as the Senator from Chester did not seem to have examined the bill, he was perfectly satisfied that it should lie over, in order to afford him time for its perusal.

Mr. BELL did not desire a postponement. He simply desired a statement of its objects.

Mr. RANDALL explained that the corporation was one of which they had several in Philadelphia. The privileges asked for in the bill were not unusual; and there was not one who seriously objected to it, except, perhaps, one or two companies, who are already in the enjoyment of similar privileges, and who desire a monopoly.

Mr. BELL said it was an established rule with him and others not to incorporate any company for the transaction of any business which could be carried on by private enterprise. He could see no necessity for the incorporation asked for here, for there was nothing to prevent the company from doing business like all other parties. He knew nothing, he said, of the company asking for this charter, whether they are worthy or not. He objected to the bill upon principle, and could see no just reason why it should pass.

Mr. TURNER said he did not understand the bill in an objectionable light. He knew there were one or two charters previously granted for the same principle. If the principle was wrong, those charters having been granted, and the parties operating under them having a monopoly, the more we make of them the more likely will the public interests be subserved. This bill proposes that there shall be three companies to do that which is now done by two. It will lessen the force and power for evil of those already in existence.

Mr. MARSELIS was opposed to the bill, briefly expressing his opposition; while Mr. GAZZAM was constrained to vote in favor of it.

Mr. PALMER remarked that, if he understood the bill, the object was to incorporate a very large pawnbroking and insurance company, with authority to transact business and exact interest to the amount of thirteen and a half per cent. He cared nothing for what the Legislature had done in the past; he held the present proposition to be abominable. It was nothing better than to incorporate a wholesale pawnbroker's shop—a shaving company—at unlimited rates of interest.

Mr. RANDALL was sorry that the Senator from Schuylkill had thought it necessary to oppose the bill with so much vehemence. If he found anything in it objectionable, any feature for which he could not go, why did he not ask that it might be stricken out, or suggest some amendment, rather than resort to expressions against it, which were calculated to influence the passions, instead of controlling the judgment? He would join hands with the Senator, at any time, in the effort to strike down moneyed monopolies. He had voted uniformly against banks, and yet he believed the banking interests were in the hands of as honest men as there are in the Commonwealth. The people who ask for this act of incorporation are among the best citizens of Philadelphia. There was not, as he was aware of, a single clause wrong in it. If there was, let Senators suggest what it is, and he would cheerfully strike it out. He had always voted to throw around these corporations every restriction. He did not desire that the privilege asked for by this company shall be held solely by the United States government, in their bonded warehouse system. The citizens of the country have the same right, and should stand upon the same footing.

Mr. PALMER wished to explain why he could not suggest an amendment. The bill was all wrong, and he was opposed to it on principle.

Mr. MARSELIS remarked that he was also opposed to the bill upon principle. The whole object of this incorporation was to induce speculators to import goods, who have not the money to pay for them, and to make advances upon them at most ruinous rates.

Mr. GAZZAM said there were none who would more cordially unite with the Senators in framing anything for the correction of abuses to which they had alluded, than he; and he would vote for an amendment to confine the dividends to reasonable rates. There were several good objects in the bill, which recommended it to him; one of which was that merchants, instead of going to local banks for accommodations, can store their goods, where they will be perfectly safe, and obtain the needed advances upon them. With a view of diminishing the monopoly which now exists, he would go for the bill.

Mr. WRIGHT desired to add a word or two to what he had said upon the subject. He cordially concurred with the Senator from Schuylkill and his colleague (Mr. MARSELIS,) in their views as to the injurious tendencies of this bill. He was opposed to the establishment of such institutions; there was no necessity for them. The warehousing system of the United States was entirely different, and the objections to the proposed corporation do not apply to that. He drew a distinction between their operations, and concluded by saying that we had entirely too many corporations; the tendency was to incorporate everything that asked for it, and after a while we should have associations of shoemakers, carpenters, &c.—nothing would be done without an act of incorporation.

Mr. TURNER asked the Senator from Philadelphia whether he had not introduced a bill, at a previous session, to incorporate a soup company in Philadelphia?

Mr. WRIGHT replied that he did not himself introduce it; it was done by his colleague. The object, however, was a praiseworthy one, and the case bore no analogy to the present one. Although he voted for that bill, he did not know but it was better to dispense charity without the aid of corporate powers.

Mr. SCOFIELD had listened to the discussion, for the purpose of ascertaining what the objections to the bill are. One of the objections was that the bill conferred upon the company the rights of a huge pawnbroker's shop; and yet private citizens may build warehouses, and store goods, constitutionally and legally retaining them for the payment of charges.

The object of this bill is simply to allow several men, in a corporate capacity, to do that which they have a legal and constitutional right to do as individuals. There was nothing wrong in this; and the other objections had no more weight. He had generally voted against these bills of incorporation, but he thought the object of the one under consideration was a good one, and he should vote for it.

Mr. MILLER said that the bill was one of considerable importance; and as some Senators had not examined it, he hoped it would be permitted to lie over.

Mr. RANDALL said he had consented, when the bill was first called up, that it should lie over; but the Senator from Chester had said he only desired an explanation of its object, and no request was made for a postponement, nor any objection expressed to it.

Mr. FINNEY said the only objection which seemed to be urged against the bill, was the vague and indefinite one that it was a corporation; and those who oppose it, arrogate to themselves the virtue that they oppose all corporations. How, he asked, could the country expand without the aid of corporations, in giving to capital its beneficial powers? This bill is not, he said, asked for in a spirit of innovation. There was nothing different in it, in the abstract, from the little act passed this morning, granting the privilege to a company to make a tram road in Cambria county. If the charges, which are made against corporations, that they are all dishonest; that they are rats and rascals, the people would not have the privileges, at such an expense of their honor and standing. Corporations exist by the force of convenience to trade and commerce—all civilization stands upon corporations, and they were not all the horrible things which some Senators are disposed to picture them.

So far as regarded his own course with reference to acts of incorporation, he had never shirked responsibility in any instance, but had voted for a corporation or bank just when he had thought it right, and when the necessities of trade and commerce demanded them. So uniform had been his course in this respect, that he had come to be regarded as the peculiar champion—the incarnation of the spirit of corporations. It was no argument against corporations to call those connected with them rats and rascals; such objections were born of a misconception of what is right, and fed by ignorance and prejudice. He was prepared to vote for this or any other bill of incorporation, which he considered right, and to take the responsibility of that vote, be it great or less.

Mr. WRIGHT said that he had made it a rule to vote as his judgment dictated on questions of this character. There were many corporations of a proper character, which were in no way detrimental to the public interests. The Senator from Crawford, (Mr. FINNEY,) was nearly as well known to the people of Philadelphia as he was to the people of Crawford. He was universally known as the friend of corporations of every grade and hue. Some of those, who played an important part in the passage of Bank bills, unless they were greatly misrepresented, took a lively interest in their organization. He had been the uniform opponent of such measures, without regard to the parties interested in them.

Mr. BELL said he was so unfortunate as to originate this protracted discussion, although he did not dream that his remarks would occasion it. As to the bill, he had made a valid objection. It was conceded to be a principle, founded in correct political economy, that no corporate privileges should be extended for the furtherance of any object which private capital or individual enterprise can effect. This bill proposes to extend to a company the privilege of receiving goods at an enormous rate of deposit, and to insure them at another enormous rate. Will that contribute to the public interest? Will it contribute to the prosperity of Philadelphia? His objection to the bill was not as to its details, (although they might all be defective,) but to the general features of it. He deemed the privileges asked for, entirely unnecessary; and such as were to be viewed with the eye of jealousy. He would move to postpone for the present.

Mr. RANDALL objected to the postponement. He hoped the Senator from Chester would withdraw his motion; and he would renew his request, that, if there was anything wrong in the bill, they should be indicated, that any defect might be remedied.

The question being upon the first section of the bill,

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. BELL and Mr. RANDALL, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Baldwin, Coffey, Craig, Finney, Gazzam, Gregg, Harris, Miller, Parker, Penney, Randall, Rutherford, Scofield, Shaeffer, Thompson, Turney, Welsh and Cresswell, Speaker—18.

NAYS—Messrs. Bell, Blood, Francis, Keller, Marselis, Myer, Nuunemacher, Palmer, Schindel, Steele and Wright—11.

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

The second, third, fourth, fifth and sixth sections, were agreed to.

Whereupon, the hour of one having arrived, the SPEAKER adjourned the Senate until to-morrow morning, at 10½ o'clock.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

WEDNESDAY, Feb. 9, 1859.

The House met at 10 o'clock, and was called to order by the SPEAKER.

Prayer was offered by the Rev. Charles A. Hay, of the English Lutheran church, Harrisburg.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of yesterday; when Mr. SMEAD moved that the further reading of the same be dispensed with; which was not agreed to.

The Clerk then completed the reading of the Journal.

Mr. PENNELL moved that the amendments inserted in the act to incorporate the Franklin market company, be journalized.

Mr. HAMERSLY moved to amend by so correcting the same as though they had been offered on second reading; which was agreed to; and the motion, as amended, was adopted.

When said bill was under consideration yesterday,

Mr. PENNELL moved to amend the same, by adding to the end of the second section the following proviso; which was agreed to:

Provided, Such by-laws and regulations shall not exclude farmers from any right, privilege or immunity, that is, or may be granted to any citizen of Philadelphia or elsewhere: And provided also, Some uniform rule in the renting or letting out of said stalls shall be established by said company, and printed in English, and hung up in some conspicuous place in said market house or houses: And provided further, That upon application being made at the time or times set forth in the aforesaid printed rule, the farmers of the State of Pennsylvania shall be entitled to fifty per cent. of said stalls: Provided, They make applications for said stalls in conformity with the aforesaid rule; which was agreed to; and the bill, as amended, passed finally; and ordered that the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

GREEN AND COATES STREET PASSENGER RAILROAD BILL.

The House resumed the consideration of the act incorporating the Green and Coates Street passenger railway bill.

The question being, will the House agree to the motion made by Mr. THORN to amend the motion offered by Mr. NILL to lay the appeal on the table? which amendment proposed to lay the appeal on the table until Thursday week,

Mr. THORN said that he did not purpose to occupy the attention of the House for any length of time. He merely desired to say that if the decision of the SPEAKER was to be sustained as the judgment of the House, it would be in effect an abrogation of rule thirty-eight. He then reverted to the Private Calendar, and explained the aims contemplated by its formation some twelve years ago. He said that the word then in the rule, after the word shall, had been erased, and was not in the printed copy. This alteration gave, perhaps, the SPEAKER a technical propriety in his recent decision, (that the motion to consider bill No. 160 was in order) which, however, if sustained, would effectually destroy the rule. He continued to argue that the motion had been out of order.

Mr. LAWRENCE, (Dauphin,) said that when the gentlemen from Philadelphia (Mr. THORN) had taken his appeal yesterday, he supposed that the only object was delay, and did not think that the matter would be pushed. He replied to the arguments of Mr. THORN that the motion to consider was out of order, and said that as SPEAKER he had been obliged, under the rules, to entertain it. The word "then," if it had been erased, had been while the rule was in the hands of the committee. A motion was always in order.

The discussion upon the decision yesterday, made by the SPEAKER—upon the propriety and legality of calling up bill No. 160, and upon sundry points of order continued and participated in by Messrs. HAMERSLY, THORN, LAWRENCE, (Dauphin,) GOEPP, CHASE and THOMPSON, and finally the question was taken on the motion of Mr. NILL, to lay the appeal of Messrs. THORN and HAMERSLY upon the table.

On this question,

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. THORN and Mr. WILLIAMS, (Bucks,) and were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Barnsley, Barlow, Bayard, Boyer, (Clearfield,) Boyer, (Schuylkill,) Burley, Church, Durboraw, Ellmaker, Goepp, Graham, Green, Irish, Keneagy, Ketchum, Kinney, Lawrence, (Washington,) Mehaffey, Miller, Nill, Oaks, Palm, Patterson, Peirce, Pinkerton, Rohrer, Rouse, Smead, Smith, (Berks,) Stuart, Styer, Wagon seller, Walborn, Walker, Whitman, Wigton, Wilcox, Williams, (Bucks,) Wilson, Withrow and Wolf—41.

NAYS—Messrs. Abbott, Acker, Balliet, Bertolet, Brodhead, Campbell, Chase, Custer, Dismant, Eckman, Evans, Fisher, Fleming, Foster, Galley, Good, Gratz, Gray, Hamersly, Hill, Laird, Mann, M'Curdy, M'Dowell, Neall, Proudfoot, Quigley, Stephens, Stoneback, Thompson, Thorn, Warden, Wiley, Williams, (Bedford,) and Woodring—35.

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

The question then recurred, on the motion of Mr. GOEPP, to take up and consider House bill No. 160.

Mr. THORN inquired whether a majority vote would be sufficient to call it up.

The Chair was of opinion that it would.

Mr. HAMERSLY questioned the propriety of this decision.

Mr. GOEPP supported the Chairman.

Mr. IRISH favored the views of Mr. HAMERSLY, that a two-third vote was requisite.

Mr. ABBOTT agreed with Mr. GOEPP.

Whereupon another discussion ensued; which was participated in by Messrs. WILLIAMS, (Bucks,) THORN, GOEPP and CHASE

The question being taken on the motion of Mr. GOEPP to consider bill No. 160,

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. PATTERSON and Mr. WILLIAMS, (Bucks,) and were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Barnsley, Barlow, Boyer, (Clearfield,) Boyer, (Schuylkill,) Burley, Church, Ellmaker, Goepp, Graham, Green, Keneagy, Ketchum, Kinney, Lawrence, (Washington,) Mehaffey, Miller, Nill, Oaks, Patterson, Peirce, Pinkerton, Rouse, Shafer, Sheppard, Smead, Smith, (Berks,) Stuart, Styer, Wagon seller, Walhorn, Witman, Wigton, Wilcox, Williams, (Bucks,) Wilson, Withrow, Wolf and Lawrence, Speaker—38.

NAYS—Messrs. Abbott, Acker, Balliet, Bertolet, Brodhead, Chase, Custer, Dismant, Durboraw, Eckman, Evans, Fisher, Fleming, Foster, Galley, Good, Gratz, Gray, Hamersly, Hill, Jackson, Mann, M'Curdy, McDowell, Neall, Palm, Proudfoot, Quigley, Rose, Stephens, Stonehack, Thompson, Thorn, Walker, Warden, Wiley, Williams, (Bedford,) Woodring and Zoller—39.

So the question was determined in the negative.

ORIGINAL RESOLUTION.

Mr. THOMPSON submitted the following:

Resolved, That the Clerk of the House be authorized to furnish each member and officer thereof, a map of the city of Philadelphia.

The House refused to proceed to the second reading of the same.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

Mr. STUART asked and obtained leave of absence for Mr. HOTTENSTINE for a few days from yesterday.

Messrs. GALLEY and DURBORAW severally asked and obtained leave to withdraw certain petitions.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

Mr. CHASE, from the Committee on Ways and Means, reported as committed, Senate Resolution No. 190, relative to a copy of the Geological Survey of this State, for the School Department; and on his motion, the rules being in this case dispensed with, said resolution was read the second and third time.

Mr. MEHAFFEY, (New Counties and County Seats,) reported as committed, "An Act to erect a new county, to be called Monongohela, out of parts of Fayette, Washington, Westmoreland and Allegheny counties."

Mr. WARDEN moved that the bill be re-committed.

Mr. LAWRENCE, (Washington,) opposed the motion.

And on the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. LAWRENCE, (Washington,) and Mr. WALKER, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Bayard, Bertolet, Brodhead, Custer, Dismant, Evans, Fisher, Foster, Galley, Goepp, Good, Graham, Gray, Hamersly, Hill, Irish, Jackson, Ketchum, Kinney, M'Dowell, Oaks, Proudfoot, Quigley, Rohrer, Rose, Rouse, Smead, Smith, (Berks,) Stephens, Stoneback, Thorn, Warden, Whitman, Wiley, Wolf, Woodring and Zoller—38.

NAYS—Messrs. Abbott, Acker, Barnsley, Barlow, Bryson, Burley, Chase, Durhoraw, Eckman, Ellmaker, Green, Keneagy, Lawrence, (Washington,) Mann, Miller, Neall, Nill, Patterson, Peirce, Pinkerton, Shafer, Sheppard, Styer, Wagon seller, Walborn, Walker, Wigton, Wilcox, Williams, (Bedford,) Williams, (Bucks,) Wilson, Withrow and Lawrence, Speaker—33.

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. STUART, from the Committee on Roads and Bridges, reported as committed, "An Act to increase the pay of supervisors in Tremont township, Schuylkill county."

Mr. THOMPSON, (Estates and Escheats), with amendment, "An Act authorizing Asa Dimock, administrator of the estate of his son, Lafayette Dimock, deceased, late of Harrisburg, to sell and convey certain unimproved and unproductive lands belonging to said estate."

Mr. NEALL, leave being given, read in his place and presented to the Chair, a petition from citizens of Birmingham township, Allegheny county, in favor of the erection of a new county, to be called Monongahela, out of parts of Fayette, Washington, Westmoreland and Allegheny counties.

On motion of Mr. WILCOX, the rules being in this case dispensed with, the House took up and passed finally, Senate bill No. 64, "An Act relative to the boards of revision in the county of Elk."

Mr. GOOD moved to proceed to the consideration of House bill No. 282, relative to the division of the borough of Allentown into wards. Agreed to, and the bill passed.

Mr. LAWRENCE, (Washington,) moved to proceed to the consideration of the joint resolution giving Hon. Wm. E. Frazer, Canal Commissioner, compensation for his services between the time of his appointment and the abolition of the Canal Board. The said compensation being one-half of the amount which would have been received by him for a year's services.

Mr. GOOD moved to amend by inserting one-third of the sum.

Mr. JACKSON moved to amend the amendment, by giving him the pay per diem that he would be entitled to in law.

Mr. ABBOTT was opposed to the amendment to the amendment, and considered that the services of the Canal Commissioners were worth at least one-third of the yearly salary.

Mr. LAWRENCE (Washington,) said that by the one-third amendment, the amount paid would be about four hundred dollars. Mr. Frazer had calculated to be in duty for at least six months, and had made his arrangements accordingly. He should be paid at least a moiety of what he would have received.

Mr. JACKSON said that he was always in favor of paying justly for services actually rendered. It was true that Mr. Frazer had been brought here, and with others, had performed duty, by examining some old claims (which claims had previously undergone scrutiny and been rejected by the old Board,) and had attempted to raise them. In fact, warrants for their payment, amounting to about five thousand six hundred dollars, he believed had been drawn.

Mr. THORN inquired of Mr. JACKSON, who was connected with Mr. Frazer in the transaction.

Mr. JACKSON replied the Hon. Geo. Scott, as appeared by the proceedings of the Canal Board, which had been published in the Daily Record.

Mr. HAMERSLY rejected any insinuation against the character of Mr. Frazer, who was an honorable high-minded man.

Mr. JACKSON said that he had not wished to cast any imputation on either Mr. Frazer or Mr. Scott. But he did say, that the former gentleman, after three hours examination of an old claim, was not competent to decide upon its merits. It was a claim for wood furnished to the old Portage railroad, and the parties, he understood, had already received some $90,000 previously. It is wrong to pay any person more than is honestly his due, and the State will be paying enough (and too much,) if it has to pay the $5600—and not pay some $700 for about ten days services besides.

Give the gentleman what he is entitled to by law—and that is enough.

Mr. HAMERSLY said that in regard to that claim, he happened to know that Hon. Mr.

Frazer, while a Senator, had had ample opportunity to become acquainted with the facts.

Mr. NILL said that the proposition should be amended so as to give Hon. Mr. Frazer the amount of mileage allowed to members.

The question being taken on the amendment to the amendment, it was lost.

Mr. WARDEN moved further to amend the amendment, by inserting one-third instead of one-fourth.

This was not agreed to.

Mr. THOMPSON moved to amend the amendment, by making it $500.

This was not agreed to.

Mr. CHASE moved to amend, by inserting $200, and striking out the word "Hon." wherever it occurred.

The original resolution as thus amended, passed.

BILLS IN PLACE.

Mr. MILLER, "A resolution relative to the Colonial Records and Pennsylvania Archives. (Referred to Committee on Ways and Means.)"

Mr. WILLIAMS, (Bucks,) "A further supplement to the act to regulate the sale of liquors, et cetera, approved March 31, 1856, in Bucks county."

The bill passed finally with an amendment, extending its provisions to Bradford county.

Mr. HARDING, "An Act to extend the time for which assessors are elected in the city of Philadelphia." (Referred to Committee on Judiciary.)

Also, one from citizens, praying for an appropriation to the Pennsylvania widows' asylum. (Referred to the Committee on Ways and Means.)

Also, one from the officers of the same, of like import. (Referred to the Committee on Ways and Means.)

Mr. IRISH, one praying for an act to incorporate the Commercial Bank of Pittsburg. (Referred to the Committee on Banks.)

Also, one from the same, praying for the abolition of the office of county school superintendent. (Referred to the Committee on Education.)

Mr. IRISH, one from citizens of Pittsburg, for the incorporation of a City passenger railroad to the village of East Liberty. (Referred to the Committee on Railroads.)

Mr. NEALL offered a resolution that the Sergeant-at-Arms be instructed to distribute the Records before the morning session.

Mr. M'DOWELL moved to amend, by making it before 10 o'clock.

It was finally decided to postpone the matter indefinitely, inasmuch as the SPEAKER had control of the officers of the House.

The hour of one having arrived, the SPEAKER adjourned the House until to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock.

No. — FILE OF THE HOUSE.

THOMPSON, in place—Jan 12.

No. 150.—FILE OF THE SENATE.

WRIGHT, Corporations—Feb. 2.

A FURTHER SUPPLEMENT to an act consolidating the city of Philadelphia.

AN ACT relative to arbitrations.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That arbitrations under the compulsory arbitration law and its supplements shall be called lay arbitrations, and arbitrations under this act legal arbitrations.

SEC. 2. That whenever a party to a suit shall, by himself or attorney, enter a rule to arbitrate the same, he shall be taken and deemed to have waived his right to appeal and trial by jury in said suit, and it shall be optional with the other party to the suit, or his attorney, whether the arbitration shall be a legal or lay arbitration; and unless the opposite party, or his attorney, shall on or before the day fixed for choosing the arbitrators, elect by writing filed to have a legal arbitration, it shall be a lay arbitration as heretofore, with the right to each or either party to appeal.

SEC. 3. That if the party not entering the rule shall, as aforesaid, elect to have a legal arbitration, there shall be but one arbitrator, who shall have been duly admitted to practice law in some court of record in this Commonwealth, and the method of choosing service of notices, length of rules and fixing times of hearing, shall be the same as under the lay or compulsory arbitration law.

SEC. 4. That the arbitrator shall have the same power and authority to permit the amendment of the declaration and pleadings, grant non-suits, award subpoenas and attachments, to make interlocutory orders necessary for the trial of the case, to allow the names of the parties to be amended or changed, and to compel the production of books and papers to be used on the trial of said case, as judges of courts of record now have or may have, and with the same force and effect; and to punish witnesses in contempt for non-attendance after having been duly and legally subpoenaed, by imposing upon them all the costs of the attachment awarded for their arrest, and the same may be levied of their goods and chattels, lands and tenements, without any right of exemption, or stay of execution, for the collection of which said arbitrator may award execution in the name of the plaintiff in the suit, for the use of the county against the said witness so in contempt.

SEC. 5. That the hearing or trial before the arbitrator shall be proceeded in, in the same manner, and governed by the same rules as trials before courts and juries, and exceptions to the admission or rejection of testimony shall be taken and noted at the time of the admission or rejection thereof, and either party, at any time before the closing argument in the case, may submit written points of the law arising therein, and request the opinion of the arbitrator in writing thereon. It shall be the duty of the arbitrator to conduct the trial, and at the conclusion thereof, to find and report the facts of the case in the form of a special verdict, together with the exceptions taken during the trial to the admission or rejection of evidence, and the points of law made by the parties, and his decision or ruling thereon, and his award or finding in the case. The award and accompanying papers before mentioned shall be by him filed in the prothonotary's office, within seven days after the finding thereof; upon which award so filed judgment shall be entered nisi to become absolute, if no exceptions to the ruling or decisions of law thereon, or motion to set it aside, as hereinafter provided, be made or filed within twenty days after the filing of said award. If exceptions be filed to the decisions or ruling of the law in the case by the arbitrator, the same shall be in the nature of a writ of error to the common pleas, or court in which the case is pending, to the decision of which, upon such exceptions, either party shall be entitled to take a writ of error, upon the usual conditions and restrictions.

SEC. 6. That the judgment nisi, on the award, shall continue to be a lien until final judgment.

SEC. 7. That the arbitrator shall keep a memorandum of his acts and proceedings, under and by virtue of the fourth section of this act and file the same with his award.

SEC. 8. That as compensation for his services the arbitrator shall be entitled to receive six dollars for the first day and four dollars for each subsequent day's service, necessarily employed in the hearing and determining the case. He shall also be entitled to receive two dollars for each adjournment upon application of either or both of the parties, at any time when no other proceedings are had; but he shall not charge or receive adjournment fees for any day when he shall charge or receive per diem compensation, which compensation shall be taxed and collected as costs in the case.

SEC. 9. That before entering upon his duties the arbitrator shall be sworn or affirmed, to perform the duties of his appointment with fidelity, which oath or affirmation may be administered by any attorney of any court of record of this Commonwealth, or by any officer having general authority to administer oaths, or by the prothonotary of the court.

SEC. 10. That the award may be set aside, and the case referred to the same or a different arbitrator, at the option of the parties, to be chosen at a time and place to be fixed by the court, within four days thereafter, in the usual manner, to meet not less than four nor more than ten days after said choosing for the following causes, to wit: For such misbehavior on the part of the arbitrator, as in the opinion of the court shall invalidate the award, in which case the arbitrator shall forfeit his compensation for testimony discovered after the trial, such as will justify the court in granting a new trial.

SEC. 11. That no rule to show cause why an award shall not be set aside for misbehavior on the part of the arbitrator shall be granted unless the party making the motion shall state the misbehavior in writing specifically which statement shall be verified by the oath or affirmation of the mover, or some person acquainted with the fact; and no award for the cause aforesaid shall be set aside unless the same be proved to the satisfaction of the court.

SEC. 12. That no application or motion to set aside an award, for after discovered testimony, shall be entertained or rule granted to show cause, unless the mover shall have reduced the facts, which he expects to prove, to writing; which statement shall be accompanied by the oath or affirmation of the mover or some one for him, that the same are true and were not known to the parties asking for the new trial, or either of them, at the time of the former trial, and that he expects to prove the said facts by a witness whose name and place of residence shall be given. On the hearing of the rule to show cause, the said witness may be examined as to his knowledge of the facts alleged.

SEC. 13. That no motion to set aside an award shall be entertained by the court, unless made within twenty days from the filing thereof in open court, if a court be in session, at any time during said twenty days, if not to a judge at chambers.

SEC. 14. That all subpoenas, executions, attachments, rules or orders, made or awarded by the arbitrator, shall be issued by the prothonotary, and he may issue subpoenas returnable before the arbitrator without a special order.

SEC. 15. That the parties or their attorneys to a suit pending, or hereafter to be brought, may amicably refer the trial and determination of the same to a legal arbitrator, and fix their own time and place of hearing with the same force and effect, and with the same incidents and rights to the parties as if the said suit had been referred by rule entered and arbitrator chosen, as hereinbefore provided.

Provided, Snyder county pay for the re-binding of the books.

On the question

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. GREGG and Mr. KELLER, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS.—Messrs. Baldwin, Coffey, Craig, Finney, Francis, Gazzam, Gregg, Harris, Myer, Palmer, Parker, Penney, Rutherford, Scofield, Shaeffer and Thompson—16.

NAYS.—Messrs. Blood, Brewer, Fetter, Keller, Marselis, Miller, Nunnemacher, Randall, Schell, Schindel, Steele, Turney, Welsh, Wright and Cresswell, Speaker—15.

ORDERS OF THE DAY.

"An Act to incorporate the Penn Warehouse company," came up in order on second reading. The question being upon the seventh section; it was agreed to.

The eighth was then read. Whereupon, Mr. BELL moved to amend, by striking out from the word "company," in the third line, to "respectively," in the fourth line, inclusive.

Mr. RANDALL asked the Senator from Chester to explain the effect of his amendment.

Mr. BELL stated that the amendment simply embodied a principle which had been extended to other corporations. The object was to make stockholders individually liable to the amount of their stock. This company, he said, proposes to take advantage of all the immunities and privileges extended to them; and it was not proper that they should go on and contract debts, perhaps to an unlimited amount, and yet not be individually liable for the indebtedness so incurred.

Mr. COFFEY explained the general rule with regard to the individual liability clause; in whose views Mr. RANDALL concurred, with the hope that the amendment would be voted down. Every necessary restriction had already been thrown around the grant, and he saw no necessity for the amendment.

The question being upon the amendment offered by Mr. BELL, it was determined in the negative.

On the final passage of the bill,

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. WRIGHT and Mr. RANDALL, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Baldwin, Coffey, Craig, Finney, Francis, Gazzam, Gregg, Harris, Miller, Myer, Purker, Penney, Randall, Scofield, Shaffer, Thompson, Welsh and Cresswell, Speaker—18.

NAYS—Messrs. Bell, Blood, Brewer, Fetter, Keller, Marselis, Nunnemacher, Palmer, Schell, Schindel, Steele and Wright—12.

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

BILLS CONSIDERED AND PASSED.

Mr. BALDWIN called up House bill No. 11, "An Act relative to the distribution of Rogers' geological survey."

Mr. TURNEY would state for the information of the Senate, that when this bill was before the Committee on Finance, he had called upon the Secretary of the Commonwealth to ascertain whether there was a sufficient number of copies on hand to meet the views of its framers. He had ascertained there was. He would further state that the work was already on hand, and had been paid for; consequently the distribution could entail no expense upon the State.

Mr. COFFEY inquired whether there was a sufficient number of copies on hand to supply all, or only those who have not received them?

Mr. TURNEY replied, only those who have not received them.

Mr. WELSH understood that there was but one volume of the work yet published. If the Senate pass the resolution, when the second volume is published, there will be a demand for it, thus entailing an expense upon the State.

Mr. TURNEY explained that the State had not contracted for one volume only, but for the second; also, with accompanying maps. The second volume comes with the first, and is already paid for.

Mr. WELSH, then, had no objection to the resolution.

Mr. GREGG inquired if any copies would be left in the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth after the supply contemplated; or whether they would be exhausted by the resolution?

Mr. TURNEY said there was sufficient to answer the object of the resolution, and a few extra copies be left.

Mr. TURNEY moved to amend by including the assistant Clerks; which was agreed to.

Mr. GREGG proposed further to amend by giving a copy to the Farmers' High school of Pennsylvania. Agreed to.

Mr. RANDALL moved to add the high school of Philadelphia.

On which,

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. RANDALL and Mr. COFFEY, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Brewer, Keller, Marselis, Parker, Randall, Schell, Shaffer, Schindel, Steele, Thompson and Wright—11.

NAYS—Messrs. Baldwin, Bell, Blood, Coffey, Craig, Fetter, Francis, Gregg, Harris, Miller, Myer, Nunnemacher, Palmer, Penney, Rutherford, Scofield, Turney, Welsh and Cresswell, Speaker—19.

So the question was determined in the negative.

The bill as amended passed finally.

On motion of Mr. COFFEY, Senate bill No. 2, "An Act relating to evidence," was taken up and having passed Committee of the Whole, lies over.

Mr. BELL gave notice of his intention to move to substitute Senate bill No. 114, for the above.

On motion of Mr. BELL, House bill No. 123, "A supplement to an act regulating boroughs, so far as the same relates to the borough of Phoenixville."

On motion of Mr. TURNEY, "An Act relative to recorders of deeds."

This bill having passed committee of the whole, lies over.

Mr. FINNEY called up Senate bill No. 4, "An Act to alter the districts of the supreme court;" which,

On motion of Mr. SCOFIELD, was amended by inserting, in the twelfth line of the first section the words "Warren, M'Kean," after the word "Fulton."

Mr. TURNEY moved further to amend by adding at the end of the third section the following: Provided, Such special courts shall not interfere with the regular terms.

The amendment was adopted, and the bill lies over on second reading.

On motion of Mr. GAZZAM, "A supplement to an act incorporating the Pittsburgh and Steubenville railroad company."

Mr. MILLER called up a joint resolution, relative to the pay of Thomas H. Porter and John H. Wells; and on his motion the clause relative to mileage was re-inserted.

Mr. TURNEY thought there should be no discrimination made between the present case and others which had come before the Senate. The law specifies the compensation to which members are entitled whose seats have been contested, and a decision made against them. It is the same as that of other members; and as Mr. Porter had occupied his seat one month—one third of the session—he thought he should be entitled to one-third pay; with that view he would propose an amendment, as follows—to strike out five dollars and insert seven; which was agreed to.

The bill as amended passed.

On motion of Mr. WRIGHT, House bill No. 264, "A supplement to the act incorporating the Commonwealth insurance company."

On motion of Mr. SHAEFFER, Senate bill No. 127, "An Act authorizing Peter Martin, and others, trustees, to sell a certain school house in Clay township, Lancaster county."

Mr. BELL called up Senate bill No. 47, "An Act concerning turnpike, plank road and bridge companies."

This bill was postponed for the present.

On motion of Mr. CRAIG, Senate bill No. 284, "A supplement to an act relative to sheriffs."

The SPEAKER announced that the Clerk had appointed John B. Steck as an additional Transcribing Clerk, who appeared and was duly qualified.

On motion of Mr. FINNEY, "An Act authorizing the trustees of the Associate Reformed, now the United Presbyterian congregation of the city of Erie, to sell certain property and remove the bodies of persons interred therein."

On motion of Mr. SCHELL, House bill No. 10, "An Act authorizing the commissioners of Bedford county to borrow money."

This bill lies over.

A message from the Governor was received and read, stating that he had approved and signed the following acts of the General Assembly:

"A supplement to an act to incorporate the Williamsport water company, and for other purposes."

"An Act to incorporate the Delaware dredging company."

"A supplement to an act to incorporate the Fayette County railroad company."

"An Act to attach part of Washington township to the borough of Edinboro', for school purposes."

"A further supplement to an act relative to the collection of taxes in Crawford county, and for other purposes."

"An Act to incorporate the Preachers' aid society of the First Methodist Protestant church of Pittsburgh."

"An Act to amend and extend the charter of the Mutual fire insurance company of Germantown and its vicinity."

"An Act to incorporate the town of Jefferson, in Cambria county, into a borough, to be called Wilmore."

The hour of one having arrived, the SPEAKER adjourned the Senate until to-morrow morning at 10½ o'clock.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

THURSDAY, Feb. 10, 1859.

The House met at 10 o'clock, and was called to order by the SPEAKER.

Prayer was offered by the Rev. Dr. Bartine, of the Methodist Episcopal church.

The Clerk read the Journal of yesterday.

The SPEAKER laid before the House an abstract of the affairs of the Mine Hill and Schuylkill Haven railroad for 1858. Laid on the table.

Mr. LAWRENCE, (Washington,) asked leave to make a statement. Leave was given.

Mr. LAWRENCE said, yesterday while the joint resolution in reference to the pay of Mr. Frazer, Canal Commissioner, was under consideration, I stated that Mr. F. had been notified by the Secretary of Commonwealth, to appear here on the 2d Tuesday of January, to assume the duties of his office, and in that communication said, that his duties would probably last six months or a year. This statement was made by me from my recollection of a verbal statement to me from Mr. Frazer. I find on examination of the correspondence referred to, the Secretary of State merely notified him of his election, and said nothing about the continuance of the office. I may have misunderstood Mr. Frazer, and at all events believe it due to the Secretary of the Commonwealth, to make this correction at the earliest opportunity.

BILLS CONSIDERED.

Mr. CHASE called the attention of the Chair to rule No. 57 of the House, which provides that on Thursday, after the presentation of petitions, bills may be called up according to the alphabetical arrangement of the members.

The SPEAKER replied that in his experience this rule had never been enforced, but it should be hereafter.

Mr. BARNESLEY called up House bill No. 160, "A supplement to an act to incorporate the Green and Coates Street passenger railway company, (Mr. LAWRENCE, (Washington,) in the Chair.)

The first section being before the committee, Mr. GOEPP moved to amend the same so as to make the route read as follows:

"Along Fourth street to the intersection of Jefferson street; thence by Jefferson street to the intersection of Eighth street; thence southwardly in Eighth street to Dickenson street; thence down Dickenson street, &c.;" which was agreed to.

The second section being before the committee,

Mr. GOEPP moved to amend the same by increasing the capital stock from $400,000 to $500,000, and to issue bonds not exceeding $300,000, and to the end of the section the following:

"And in addition, the said company shall pay over to the treasurer of the Commonwealth, for the benefit of the sinking fund, $50,000 in bonds of the said company, secured by the same mortgage, with twenty years to mature, and bearing an interest of seven per cent. per annum, payable semi-annually;" which was agreed to.

Mr. THORN moved to amend by adding: "And which shall be secured as the first mortgage upon the said road;" which was agreed to.

Mr. HAMERSLY moved to amend by still further adding, "and upon its franchises;" which was also agreed to.

And the section as amended was agreed to.

Mr. SMITH, (Berks,) offered the following, to come in at end of the section:

Provided, That the said company, before commencing to run their cars on said streets, or before authorizing or contracting with any other company to run cars on said streets, shall purchase, at the option of the owners, the stock of horses, omnibuses, sleighs and harness owned and used for the lines on said streets, at a price to be assessed in the following manner: The said owners shall choose one disinterested person, and the said company shall choose a second disinterested person, and the two thus chosen shall choose a third disinterested person, who, having been sworn before the court of common pleas faithfully to perform their duties, shall appraise the said stock as the same is used and running on the said streets, and the value thus arrived at by them, or a majority of them, shall be binding and final on all parties.

Which was agreed to.

The committee then rose and the chairman reported the same with amendment.

The bill was read the second time.

The second section being before the House,

A motion was made by Mr. WILEY to amend the same by adding the following words:

Provided, That before the said company shall use and occupy said streets, the consent of the city councils of Philadelphia shall be first obtained; and said consent shall be taken and deemed to have been given, if said councils shall not within thirty days after the passage of this act, by ordinance duly passed, signify their disapproval thereof; and the said company shall also be subject to an ordinance of the city councils, entitled "An ordinance to regulate passenger railways within the city and county of Philadelphia," approved seventh day of July, 1757; which was not agreed to; and the section, as amended, was agreed to.

Said bill was then read the second time.

Mr. HAMERSLY said that some days ago, it had been ordered that all the bank bills should be printed and placed on the desks of members before being considered. If the members would turn to their files, they would find that the Germantown supplement was not printed, and now it was asked that a rival project be considered. He did not mean to charge design upon any one, but the fact was evident, the Germantown bill was not printed.

Mr. WALBORN, as chairman of the Railroad Committee, said that he had put a batch of railroad bills into the hands of the printer. The Germantown had not been among them, but had been in possession of the secretary of the Committee on Railroads. He had asked for, but had not obtained it, and had forgotten to ask for it a second time. Why it had not been given him, he did not know. All the bills had been printed which were in his possession. It was, however, on the desk of every member in the Senate file.

Mr. HAMERSLY said that he had not charged any one with design, in not having had it published. He had only said that it was not on the House file, as was required by the rules of the House.

Mr. WALBORN reiterated his assertion that it was on the Senate file.

The question then recurring on the motion to postpone.

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. FISHER and Mr. NEALL, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS.—Messrs. Abbott, Balliet, Bertolet, Brodhead, Custer, Dismant, Evans, Fisher, Fleming, Foster, Galley, Good, Gratz, Gray, Hamersly, Hill, Jackson, Laird, McClure, McDowell, Neall, Quigley, Rohrer, Rose, Stephens, Stoneback, Taylor, Thorn, Warden, Wiley and Woodring—31.

NAYS.—Messrs. Barnesley, Barlow, Boyer, (Clearfield,) Boyer, (Schuylkill,) Bryson, Burley, Chase, Church, Durboraw, Eckman, Ellmaker, Fearon, Goepf, Graham, Green, Keneagy, Ketchum, Kinney, Lawrence, (Washington,) Mann, Mehaffey, M'Clellan, M'Curdy, Miller, Nill, Oaks, Palm, Patterson, Peirce, Pinkerton, Price, Proudfoot, Rouse, Shafer, Sheppard, Smead, Smith, (Berks,) Stuart, Styer, Wagonseller, Walhorn, Walker, Whitman, Wigton, Williams, (Bedford,) Williams, (Bucks,) Wilson, Withrow, Wolf, Wood, Zoller and Lawrence, Speaker—52.

So the question was determined in the negative.

Said bill was then read the third time;

And on the question,

Will the House suspend the rule, and read the bill the third time by its title?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. THORN and Mr. NEALL, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS.—Messrs. Barnesley, Barlow, Bayard, Boyer, (Clearfield,) Boyer, (Schuylkill,) Bryson, Burley Chase, Church, Durboraw, Eckman, Ellmaker Fearon, Goepf, Graham, Green, Keneagy, Ketchum, Kinney, Lawrence, (Washington,) Mann, Mehaffey, M'Clellan, M'Curdy, Miller, Nill, Oaks, Palm, Patterson, Pennell, Peirce, Pinkerton, Price, Proudfoot, Rouse, Shafer, Sheppard, Smead, Smith, (Berks,) Stuart, Styer, Wagonseller, Walhorn, Walker, Whitman, Wigton, Williams, (Bedford,) Williams, (Bucks,) Wilson, Withrow, Wolf, Wood, Zoller and Lawrence, Speaker—54.

NAYS.—Messrs. Abbott, Acker, Balliet, Bertolet, Brodhead, Custer, Dismant, Evans, Fisher, Fleming, Foster, Galley, Good, Gratz, Gray, Hamersly, Hill, Jackson, Laird, McClure, McDowell Neall, Quigley, Rohrer, Stephens, Stoneback, Taylor, Thorn, Warden, Wiley and Woodring—31.

So the question was determined in the negative, two-thirds not voting in the affirmative.

Mr. BERTOLET called up House bill No. 132, "A supplement to the act approved April 10, 1826, an act to protect the public in the full benefit and enjoyment of the works constructed for the purpose of inland navigation," (Mr. KETCHUM in the Chair,) which was considered, and passed finally; and ordered that the Clerk present the same to Senate for concurrence.

Mr. THORN rose to a privileged question. He moved that the House re-consider the vote by which they had refused to suspend the rules to pass bill No. 160 (Green and Coates Streets railroad supplement) to a third reading.

Mr. M'CLURE seconded the motion, and said in explanation that as it was very evident the majority of the House intended to pass the bill, they might as well re-consider the vote and pass it at once.

Mr. PATTERSON intimated that this sudden change in the views of those who had hitherto opposed the bill was strange, and to be regarded with great suspicion by its friends.

Mr. THORN reiterated the assertions of Mr. M'CLURE, that the movement was made in perfect sincerity and honor.

Mr. M'CLURE. Why, Mr. SPEAKER, what covert design can there be behind the motion?

The SPEAKER said that he could not see.

Mr. CHURCH, however, was inclined to be suspicious.

Mr. WILLIAMS, (Bucks,) thought that the friends of the bill had better hold it in its present position. He thought that there was "a nigger on the fence, sure."

Further rambling debate took place, until finally,

The question being taken, it was carried.

The question now recurring,

Will the House suspend the rule and read said bill the third time?

It was determined in the affirmative.

The bill was then read the third time and passed finally; and ordered that the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Mr. THORN called up House bill No. 202, "Resolution relative to the payment of certain moneys into the State Treasury by the Manufacturers' and Mechanics' Bank of Philadelphia."

Resolution was read a second time.

Mr. ROSE desired an explanation.

Mr. THORN explained.

Mr. ROSE would like to have a full examination. Would it not take money out of the State Treasury?

Mr. THORN said that it could take nothing out, because nothing had been put in.

Mr. ROSE suggested that it might prevent something from going in.

Mr. CHASE had given the bill a close examination and was satisfied it was all right.

Mr. ROSE moved that the further consideration of the bill be postponed until to-morrow.

Mr. WARDEN moved to amend by putting it off until next week; which was not agreed to.

Mr. ROSE'S motion was then put and carried.

Mr. CUSTER called up House bill No. 183, (Mr. PINKERTON in the chair,) "An Act to erect the counties of Clearfield, Jefferson, Elk and Forest, into a new judicial district to be called the Twenty-seventh;" which passed committee of the whole.

The bill was then read the second time.

And on the question,

Will the House agree to the bill?

Mr. ROSE moved that the further consideration of the same be postponed for the present.

Mr. M'CLURE moved to amend by making the postponement indefinite.

Mr. ROSE moved that the further consideration of the bill be postponed for the present.

Mr. ROSE said that there were several reasons why this bill should be postponed for the present. The gentleman from Tioga, (Mr. WILLISTON,) had requested that no action be taken on the bill in his absence, and the House owed it to him as an act of courtesy, that no further proceedings be had in the matter until he should return. Besides, he was opposed to the bill, and should vote against it on its final passage.

This was a very nice proposition indeed—it not only included the erection of a new judicial district, but also the election of a Democratic judge. Any member who would take the trouble to examine the election returns of those counties, would find that the district, if made, would be Democratic. Although he had been charged with being very generous towards the Democratic party, he was not generous enough to assist them in carving out a district for the express purpose of electing a Democratic judge; especially when the district is unnecessary. Every body knew that when Democrats were in power, they were the last men to assist the Opposition in carving out Republican districts. The experiment has been frequently tried, and it has always proved a failure. He regretted the necessity of putting this matter upon a political basis. But the Democratic party had set the example in the first place, and he felt very much like paying them back in their own coin. Last winter when this same bill was introduced it was made a party question, and on that ground it had passed the House. It is true, when the Senate had tacked on Judge Wilnot's district as an amendment, and the bill came back to the House for concurrence, Democrats were generous enough to vote against the amendment. But aside from this, it was made a party question. In addition to this, the district proposed was too small, and there was no absolute necessity for it, as he would show before the vote was taken on its final passage.

Mr. CHURCH favored the formation of the new district.

Mr. M'CLURE moved to postpone indefinitely. He supported his views by stating that the proposed new district would leave an adjoining one, (of Judge Burnside,) with only 24,500 population. He could not vote to create a new district which would have only about 30,000 population. It might be true that M'Calmont had too much work.

Mr. BOYER, (Clearfield,) then spoke as follows:

Mr. SPEAKER, I rise not so much for the purpose of opposing the motion of the gentleman from Mercer, (Mr. ROSE,) as that of the gentleman from Franklin, (Mr. M'CLURE,) but while up I shall reply to both. The plea that this question should be postponed, because the gentleman from Tioga, (Mr. WILLISTON,) is not in his seat, is, to say the least of it, a very poor one. For if this House is to have its regular business postponed, whenever it is convenient for the gentleman from Tioga to be absent, I fear we will suffer greatly by the delay of important business of this House.

As for the argument of the gentleman from Franklin, that this will make a very small and unimportant district, it is of course not founded on any facts with reference to the proposition now before the House. I beg to call the attention of the House to a few figures in this connection. The district which we propose to make, will have nine thousand and nine taxable inhabitants, while the Twentieth district, composed of the counties of Mifflin and Union, has but six thousand three hundred and ten taxables, and the Twenty-sixth district has but nine thousand and ninety-nine taxables. It will leave the Twenty-fifth district, from which it takes Clearfield, with nine thousand six hundred and ninety taxables. It leaves the Fourth district, from which Elk is taken, with ten thousand four hundred and twenty-four taxables, and the Eighteenth district, from which it takes Jefferson and Forrest, with eighteen thousand four hundred and six; thus leaving the Fourth district heavier than the Twenty-sixth, and the Twentieth and the Eighteenth districts heavier than the Twenty-sixth, the Twenty-fifth, the Twenty-second, the Twenty-first, the Twentieth, the Thirteenth, the Twelfth, the Ninth, the Eighth and the Fourth district; thus you see, sir, that this district is not as small as gentlemen are pleased to have us believe, nor will it reduce these districts, from which it proposes to take certain counties, to so ruinous a position as has been represented; but on the contrary, leaves them still with a greater number of taxable inhabitants than one-half of the other districts in the State.

In reply to the pitiful and beggarly cry of party politics, raised by the gentleman from Mercer, I hardly, in my astonishment, know what to say. That the plea of party should be raised in a question of this kind, is indeed a pity. Now I would, even under the most favorable circumstances, despise even the idea of ever for a moment yielding my feelings to party prejudices. It merits still greater astonishment, when we reflect that last winter, with an overwhelming Democratic majority in this House, they rejected with contempt the effort which was then made to annihilate Judge Wilnot's district. Then, Sir, they despised party feelings; but by a vote indicative of the best feelings towards their opponents, and worthy of all praise, sent the proposition back to the Senate, where the amendments originated. No, Sir, Mr. SPEAKER, party preferences have not been thought of by those who asked for the erection of this district. We do not, in our section of the State, suffer politics to enter into the official labors of our judges. They know no party. They are not in the habit of giving preference to political opinions; they know only their duty, and endeavor to do it faithfully. I trust, Sir, that this House will not suffer the motion of the gentleman from Franklin to prevail, but that the bill be suffered to go before the House on its merits, in order that it may have a fair and impartial hearing.

Mr. ROSE said he did not desire to make this a political question, but it necessarily assumed that shape from the fact that it had always been the policy of the Democratic party in making either representative or judicial districts, to take good care that the Opposition would not be in the ascendancy. The gentleman from Clearfield, (Mr. Boyer,) was mistaken when he charged him with dragging politics into this question. His own party had inaugurated this policy, and had necessarily forced it upon the Republican party as a means of defence. So far as relieving Judge M'Calmont was concerned, he would gladly do so at any time when the matter came up in proper form. He admitted that Judge M'Calmont's district was large and his labors too great, and his opposition to the measure was not out of any disrespect Judge M'Calmont. He was gratified to say that he entertained the highest respect for the ability and integrity of Judge M'Calmont, and he firmly believed that he was one of the ablest judges of the common pleas in the State of Pennsylvania. But he agreed with the gentleman from Franklin, (Mr. M'CLURE,) that the proposition to erect these counties into a new judicial district was simply absurd.

According to the census of 1850, and the report of the Auditor General, the county of Clearfield contains a population of 12,586, and the taxable inhabitants therein for the year 1858 only amount to 4,268. Jefferson county contains a population of 13,518, and its taxable inhabitants 3,646. Elk county contains a population of 3,531, and its taxable inhabitants 1,239, and the taxable inhabitants of Forest county only amount to 211. From this it appeared that the whole population of the district cannot much exceed 30,000, and the whole number of taxable inhabitants cannot exceed 9,367. He submitted that it would be bad policy to establish so small a district as the one in question. The county that he had the honor in part to represent contained more population than the district proposed. Judge M'Calmont could be relieved by annexing one or more counties of his district to adjoining districts.

Mr. HAMERSLY hoped that the House would let this matter lie over by common consent for a time. He wished to move that when the House adjourn it do so to meet to-morrow morning at ten o'clock.

On this question,

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. PINKERTON and Mr. QUIGLEY, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Abbott, Acker, Barusley, Bayard, Fearon, Fisher, Foster, Green, Hamersly, Harding, Irish, M'Clure, M'Dowell, Miller, Neall, Quigley, Rose, Taylor, Thorn and Lawrence, Speaker—20.

NAYS—Messrs. Barlow, Bertolet, Boyer, (Clearfield,) Boyer, (Schuylkill,) Brodhead, Bryson, Burley, Chase, Church, Custer, Dismant, Durboraw, Eckman, Ellmaker, Fleming, Goepf, Graham, Gratz, Hill, Jackson, Keneagy, Ketchum, Kinney, Laird, Lawrence, (Washington,) Mann, Mehaffey, M'Clain, M'Curdy, Nill, Oaks, Palm, Patterson, Peirce, Pinkerton, Price, Proudfoot, Rouse, Shafer, Sheppard, Smead, Smith, (Berks,) Stephens, Stoneback, Stuart, Syer, Thompson, Wagonseller, Walborn, Walker, Warden, Whitman, Wigton, Wiley, Williams, (Bedford,) Williams, (Bucks,) Wilson, Withrow, Wolf, Woodring and Zoller—61.

So the question was determined in the negative.

Mr. LAWRENCE, (Washington,) on leave, read a bill to authorize the Canal Commissioners to examine and adjust certain claims.

Mr. GRATZ, "An Act relative to the salaries of the judges of the district court in the city and county of Philadelphia."

The hour of one having arrived, the SPEAKER adjourned the House until this afternoon, at three o'clock.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The House resumed the consideration of the bill erecting a new judicial district out of the counties of Clearfield, Jefferson, Elk and Forest, to be called the Twenty-seventh.

The question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion proposed by Mr. M'CLURE, to postpone indefinitely the further consideration of the same?

Mr. GOEPP said that, although a friend of the bill, he should have voted to postpone its consideration out of regard for the member from Tioga, (Mr. WILLISTON,) who was absent.—Since the merits of the bill, however, were now under discussion, he should advocate its passage. It was the same one which had been introduced last session, and had been placed in the hands of a committee, who, after having given the subject close attention, had found all the statements in its favor entirely satisfactory, and had reported upon it favorably. Through some oversight, however, it failed to receive the signature of the SPEAKER of the Senate, and thus fell to the ground.

The sparse population of the contemplated new district had been called into question, but the extent of judicial business could not be well inferred from the census. Distance, the difficulties of proceeding from one court to another, and other things, were entitled to due consideration.

It was conceded that two districts would be benefited by the change, if it should be made.

But this district was demanded on legitimate grounds. It was in a section of the State where there were few facilities for travel, and where railroads were unknown. It was necessary for judges to travel from point to point on horseback, and often over bad roads. This consumed time, and to avoid the difficulty more judges were necessary. The movement was asked for by the people, and should not be viewed in a partizan light, for the appointment of the judiciary should not be influenced by politics. During last session, when the project was broached, it was voted for by men of both parties, and was only opposed by a few, because it was feared that a supplement would be added which would annihilate the Thirteenth judicial district of Judge Wilmot. A supplement which would have accomplished this object was actually proposed, but it was lost.

The gentleman from Mercer, (Mr. ROSE,) had admitted that Judge M'Calmont had too much to do. Why then should not a new district be erected to take off some of his counties? It was admitted that the province of Judge M'Calmont was too large, and although the proposed change might reduce the area of Judge Burnside, yet there were no objections to this. None of the friends of the latter gentleman had come forward and asserted that the movement would be improper.

He concluded by reiterating the assertion that the measure proposed should not be considered as one of a partizan character.

Mr. WILLIAMS, (Bucks,) declared his intention of voting against the indefinite postponement, because he was not willing by so doing to kill off a measure about the merits of which he knew nothing. He should vote for the postponement, however, as his friend from Tioga had so requested.

Mr. CHURCH had stated during the morning session, that he would favor a temporary postponement out of regard for his absent friend from Tioga, (Mr. WILLISTON,) who it was known was interested in the bill. One of the members, however, had since moved an indefinite postponement and evinced a desire to kill the measure. He was therefore ready to act upon the bill at once if it was necessary. As to the merits of the project, he understood that there was in the district a unanimous feeling in favor of the proposed movement. He believed that it would indirectly tend to exalt the judiciary.

Mr. CHASE said that as the motion to indefinitely postpone involved a consideration of the merits of the question, and as there was a degree of importance attached to the bill, he desired to make some suggestions, in reply to the gentlemen from Franklin, (Mr. M'CLURE,) Facts and figures had been given to prove that the formation of the district was entirely unnecessary, and that the population was insufficient. The source from which these figures had been drawn was the census of 1857. Since that time the population of all of the western counties had no doubt increased largely. He considered the premises of the argument not legitimate, inasmuch as, even admitting that the counties to be comprised in the new district were sparsely settled, they possessed, in many parts, neither railroads or turnpikes, and judges were obliged to make their way over the country on horseback, or as they best could. Now, in Susquehanna county, the judge was able to go from one court to another by railroad in four, six, or eight hours, but in the new district, he might, and probably would, have to spend as many days on a similar journey. He hoped that the motion to postpone indefinitely would not prevail.

Mr. BOYER, (Clearfield,) desired to impress upon the House the absolute necessity of the formation of this new district. The country had not the same facilities for travel which other sections possessed. In spring and fall was it particularly difficult. Owing to this cause it was very often the case, that Judge Burnside was unable to reach the place of holding court until Monday afternoon of Court week, and of course, business could not be commenced until Tuesday. Here was a day lost, and consequently additional expense in the pay of witnesses and jurors. Frequently, also, it was necessary to adjourn before the end of the week, in order that the judge might have an opportunity of reaching home. These things were productive of so much delay in business, that there was an evident disinclination to bring cases into court which should be properly disposed of there. Judge M'Calmont had told him that it was necessary for him to hold sessions during thirty-three weeks of the year.—His district was entirely too large, and if a portion of it was taken off, the result would be the formation of a new district sufficiently extensive for all practical purposes. Judge Burnside had said that he did not care whether he lost part of his territory, or not. The counties of Clinton and Centre were becoming larger in point of population every year. Even admitting that the district would be small, it would be productive of no bad result—prisoners would not be so long retained, and numberless other advantages would naturally follow. But in the large district, at present in charge of Judge M'Calmont, it was absolutely necessary for him to be upon the bench sometimes for eleven and twelve hours in the day, and in Jefferson county, it was said, that the business pressed so much that it was next to impossible to keep the record clear.

Mr. KINNEY wished to speak in relation to the postponement. He favored it, but not for an indefinite period. He deprecated the attempt which the gentleman from Mercer (Mr. ROSE,) had made to make of this a partizan question, and in regard to the gentleman from Tioga, (Mr. WILLISTON,) who had been alluded to as being always absent when important bills were up, he said that this was his first absence, and that any insinuation that he was addicted to vacating his seat was unfounded.—Mr. WILLISTON, he knew, did desire the postponement, and out of courtesy, the House should grant it.

Mr. M'CLURE said that the principal argument used in favor of the passage of the bill, was that it would relieve Judge M'Calmont; as if the only means by which he could be relieved was the formation of a new district!—Why, there were other ways, easily accessible, by which one-half or one-third of his territory could be properly disposed of.

Judge White had but thirty-eight thousand population in his district, and yet from this small territory it was proposed to take a county. Judge White did not actually sit five months during the year.

Then one county was to be taken from Judge Burnside. He did not sit for five months in the year, all told; and yet while these two judges had so little to do, it was proposed to give them less, and it was urged that the formation of the new district was absolutely necessary.

He was disposed to give the advocates of the bill due credit for meaning what they said, but let them turn to their maps and closely examine the subject. Let them look at Judge White's district. He could easily take Forest and Jefferson counties, in addition to what he had, and yet not be obliged to work more than six months during the year. The gentleman from Tioga, (Mr. WILLISTON,) had moreover stated that Judge White did not wish his district reduced. No doubt he would be glad to take the two counties. He had said that he had not enough to do.

If the real object of the friends of the movement was simply to relieve Judge McCalmont of too onerous duty, why not give one county to Burnside and one to White? Burnside did not sit more than five months in the year, and no friend of his could come upon the floor of the House, and say that he was overpressed with business.

He would willingly, if such a project was broached, vote to reduce the number of judges in the State one-fourth. The one who presided in his own district, over a population of 105,000, said that he would willingly take more responsibility, and be glad to get it; and yet it was proposed to make a 30,000 district with a judge who would sit a few days and then go fishing. It was an outrage to think of such a thing.

He continued further to argue in favor of his plan, for the distribution of the counties. What objection could there be to it? The neighboring judges would not object, and it would only carry out the views of the friends of the bill, if they really wished to say that one district was too large, and another was too small; but he was inclined to suspect, as a gentleman had said in the morning, in relation to another subject, that there must be "a nigger in the woodpile" somewhere.

He would resist the proposed measure, because it was entirely unnecessary, and would ask gentlemen, both Republican and Democrat, to look candidly at the subject; and then say whether, under the circumstances, they were prepared to erect a new district. He had taken the same position which he now assumed, when he was last year in the minority.

Mr. ROSE said that gentlemen seemed to be of opinion that he had dragged politics into the question. Now if it was apparent that there existed any necessity for the formation of a new judicial district, he would be the last one to oppose it; but as there was no necessity, it was natural to suspect that there was a "nigger in the woodpile" somewhere. And taking all the circumstances into consideration, it looked very much as if party feeling was at the bottom of the measure. Why it was made a party question last session by a Democratic Legislature! There was another ominous fact. What Democrat during the debate to-day had raised his voice against the bill? Not one on the floor of the House. In private conversation he had heard one member denounce it, and was glad.

He reiterated the assertion that if the district was necessary it should be formed, but there was no evidence of this. The plan of annexation of the different counties, which had been proposed by the gentleman from Franklin (Mr. McCLURE) was a good one. Judge McCalmont's district he knew was too large; but if he could get rid of two counties, would it make any difference how it was done. But for a proposition to be urged, which was intended to erect a new judicial district out of a section of country with a population of 30,000, looked very much as if party influence was in operation. He repeated that it had been a party question last winter. Who could name any Republican who had supported the bill at that time, or any Democrat, with the exception of the gentleman from Franklin, (Mr. NILL,) who had not favored it?

Mr. WARDEN suggested that Mr. SHIELDS, of Westmoreland, had opposed it.

Mr. McCLURE. There were several.

Mr. NILL said that a number of his party had voted against the project last winter. As far as he was concerned personally, however, he had never considered or acted upon it as a party measure.

He argued further that it would be unjust to reduce Burnside's district, and that it, with others, was already too small. The district consisting of the counties of Franklin, Fulton, Bedford and Somerset, with a population of 100,000, was presided over by a judge who did not sit twenty weeks during the year. Assuming the duties of this judge as a basis, the work of Judge Burnside could not be so very onerous. As far as McCalmont was concerned, his friends alleged positively that he was overtasked.

He continued to argue the impropriety of the establishment of the new district.

On the motion of Mr. McCLURE to indefinitely postpone the bill,

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. CUSTER and Mr. McCLURE, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Acker, Balliet, Barnsley, Barlow, Bayard, Boyer, (Schuylkill,) Bryson, Eckman, Evans, Ketchum, Kinney, Mann, McCLURE, McCurdy, Nill, Pennell, Peirce, Proudfoot, Rose, Rouse, Shafer, Smead, Taylor, Thompson, Walker, Williams, (Bedford,) and Wilson—27.

NAYS—Messrs. So the question was determined in the negative.

BILL CONSIDERED.

Mr. WOLF, on leave, moved that the House Committee on Railroads be discharged from the further consideration of Senate bill No. 132, "A supplement to the act to incorporate the Germantown passenger railroad company."

Mr. THORN moved to amend the same, so that said committee be discharged from all bills in relation to passenger railroads in the city of Philadelphia.

And on the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. EVANS and Mr. NEALL, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Balliet, Brodhead, Custer, Dismant, Evans, Fisher, Fleming, Foster, Galley, Good, Gray, Gritman, Hamersly, Hill, Jackson, Laird, McCLURE, McDowell, Neall, Quigley, Rohrer, Rose, Stephens, Stoneback, Thorn and Woodring—26.

NAYS—Messrs. Abbott, Acker, Barnsley, Barlow, Bayard, Bertolet, Boyer, (Schuylkill,) Bryson, Burley, Chase, Church, Durboraw, Eckman, Ellmaker, Fearon, Goepp, Graham, Green, Irish, Keneagy, Ketchum, Kinney, Lawrence, (Washington,) Mann, Mehaffey, McClean, Miller, Nill, Oaks, Palm, Patterson, Pennell, Peirce, Pinkerton, Price, Proudfoot, Rouse, Shafer, Sheppard, Smead, Smith, (Berks,) Stuart, Styer, Taylor, Thompson, Wagonseller, Walborn, Walker, Warden, Whitman, Wigton, Wiley, Williams, (Bedford,) Williams, (Bucks,) Wilson, Wolf, Zoller and Lawrence, Speaker—58.

So the question was determined in the negative.

The question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion proposed by Mr. WOLF?

Mr. THORN moved to amend as follows:

That the Railroad Committee be discharged from the further consideration of all bills the provisions of which contemplate the occupancy of Fourth or Eighth streets, or both.

And on the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

A discussion ensued between Messrs. THORN and PRICE.

Mr. WALBORN said that although there was still some action that should be taken by the Railroad Committee upon bills, he should not object to have the matter taken out of their hands.

Mr. SMEAD had voted with the majority a few days ago, to have the bills printed, but had no idea that that was but a prelude to taking the subject out of the hands of the committee, and debarring them from action, as it was now proposed to do. The resolution seemed to him to be premature. They had not yet had time to consider the bills. Whenever they had been allowed ample opportunity, and then refused to report, he would vote to withdraw the bills from their possession.

Mr. THORN did not think that the remarks of Mr. SMEAD were applicable to the amendment which he had offered. He continued further sarcastically to inquire why it was necessary to insult the committee by taking bills out of their hands, and stated, under such circumstances, if he was chairman of the said committee, he would at once resign, or else he wouldn't. He alluded to the fact, that the chairman of the committee, (Mr. WALBORN,) had been instructed to superintend the printing of all city passenger railroad bills, and with one exception, the Germantown supplement, had them printed.

Mr. SMEAD said that with regard to the Germantown supplement, he hoped the gentleman from Philadelphia, (Mr. THORN,) would recollect that it was on the desk of each member in the Senate file, and that consequently no one could complain of not having received a knowledge of its contents.

Mr. ABBOTT thought that the amendment of Mr. THORN was not disrespectful to the committee.

Mr. HAMERSLY desired to correct an error made by the chairman of the committee, and the gentleman from Bradford, (Mr. SMEAD,) that the Germantown supplement was on the Senate file. The bill that was there printed was different from the bill which had been kept in the possession of the chairman of the Railroad Committee. Not one gentleman outside of the committee had seen it.

Mr. WALBORN denied the charge of having kept it in his possession. It had been in the hands of one of his friends, the secretary of the Committee on Railroads. Why had it not been given him? Knowing this fact, was it fair for gentlemen to charge him with dereliction of duty?

Mr. PATTERSON said that this very morning he saw the bill handed over from the secretary to the chairman, who had not previously had it in his possession.

Mr. HAMERSLY said that this afforded no excuse for the chairman. It was his business and his duty to have procured the bill and had it printed. Was he going to say that he had forgotten it, when he had thought about it by day, and dreamed about it by night?

Mr. CHURCH called the previous question.

Mr. HAMERSLY said that he would like to see him gag his colleagues.

Mr. CHURCH withdrew the call.

Mr. SMEAD alluded to the matter which had been before the House during the morning, (Green and Coates Streets bill) and made some remarks relative to the countenance of Mr. THORN, during a certain portion of the morning session.

Mr. THORN replied.

Mr. McCLURE said that the history of the whole transaction was this. A few days ago the Railroad Committee met, and had in their hands a number of bills upon the same routes. They determined to report one bill affirmatively and refused to consider the others at all.

Mr. WALBORN interrupted and asked leave to explain.

Mr. M'CLURE granted it, provided the gentleman would not look at him so fiercely.

Mr. WALBORN said that, even if he did look fierce, he was perhaps all right. He wished to say, however, that a motion to read the bills had been made in committee, but was afterwards withdrawn. This was the reason why they were not read.

Mr. M'CLURE said that he would make a charge upon the floor of the House that the committee had refused, by a direct vote, to consider any bill but one. Besides that, a motion had been made in committee to report the remaining bills with a negative recommendation, and the chairman had not allowed it. There should be but one reported, and that one must be his own particular one. Afterwards, in the House, a motion to have the bills printed had been made. The chairman of the committee had protested against it as an insult, and had appealed to his own immaculate virtue, and solicited the members not to allow the resolution to pass, as it would be a direct reflection on the committee; and he did this, at a time, too, when the committee were actually refusing to act, and were withholding certain bills in their hands.—But that game did not win. The House very properly ordered the bills to be printed, notwithstanding the fact that the committee had put their fists upon them, and determined that they should not even be read, but should sleep the sleep of death. Well, in direct discourtesy to the committee, the House made it the duty of the chairman to have the bills printed and placed on the desks of each member. But the committee were determined, and the same old dodge was resorted to again. One bill was missing on the file, and that was the Germantown supplement. And why? Simply because the chairman did not want it to get into the House. Now, it turns up as before, after having been tried to be put to a final sleep, and got rid of by the rule of thumb.

He continued further, in illustration of the manner in which the bill had been treated.—Something, he said, was due to the House from its committees, and this was not to be illustrated by their obstinate refusal to do their assigned duty. Under existing affairs, however, it was necessary for the House to pass direct votes instructing them to bring out bills and fulfil their responsibilities.

Mr. LAWRENCE, (Washington,) would not permit such remarks to go without reply. Was it anything strange or new for a member to ask the discharge of a committee from the consideration of a particular bill? Was it not done day after day? Yet because in this instance the gentleman from York had moved to discharge the committee, it had brought down the reproach and abuse of special men, because they could not influence the committee to do as they desired.

Mr. M'CLURE positively denied having ever spoken to members of the Railroad Committee, or endeavored to influence them.

Mr. LAWRENCE, (Washington,) did not charge him with that, but did charge him with having asserted on the floor of the House that the Railroad Committee had refused to consider all the bills, and that its work was surreptitiously done. That assertion was false and untrue.

Mr. M'CLURE would not call the gentleman to order, but hoped that the SPEAKER might have done so.

He had not said, moreover, that the Railroad Committee had refused to consider all the bills, but he stood ready to prove that they had refused to consider all except one, on a certain route.

Mr. LAWRENCE, (Washington,) Prove it! I appeal to my colleagues for the truth of my assertion, that the bills were considered. Am I not right?

Cries of "no! no!" and "prove it!"

Mr. LAWRENCE continued. Was it fair to assert that so and so was done in committee? Might he not with equal justice say of Mr. M'CLURE, that he, as a member of the Judiciary Committee, had had a bill of his in possession for the last four weeks, and had not reported it?

Mr. M'CLURE said that the reason why he had not reported it, was because Mr. LAWRENCE had asked him to wait until he could come before the committee. This was disreputable.

Mr. LAWRENCE, (Washington,) denied having said that Mr. M'CLURE had acted with evil intent. Perhaps he had been absent so much that he had not found opportunity for its consideration. The legal practice of the gentleman no doubt consumes much time, and if he thought proper to pay more attention to that than to his constituents, it was perhaps all right.

If the gentleman would only intimate what the Railroad Committee should do to conciliate him, they would try to do it.

In reference to the printing of the bills, did the gentleman not recollect having said, when the measure was up, that it was not intended as a discourtesy to the committee, but merely for the benefit of the members?

As for the chairman of the committee, he had come to the SPEAKER this morning, and expressed sorrow that the Germantown supplement had not been printed. However, the bill was in the Senate file.

He said that the action of the committee on bills had been fair and honest.

Mr. M'CLURE had been charged with having retained a bill for four weeks. He repeated that Mr. LAWRENCE, (Washington,) had requested it not to be reported until he had an opportunity to go before the committee.

Mr. LAWRENCE. When?

Mr. M'CLURE. Within the last week. When the Judiciary Committee, he said, should imitate the Railroad Committee, he would be no longer a member. It was the duty of every committee to act promptly and fairly, and when the gentleman from Washington said that the Railroad Committee had so acted, it was not so.

He continued further to allege unfairness on the part of the committee.

Finally, Mr. WALBORN having the floor, the SPEAKER suspended the debate for the purpose of offering the following:

SENATE AMENDMENTS.

To House bill relative to the pay of sheriffs' and prothonotaries' costs in the county of Luzerne, were read, and on motion of Mr. KETCHUM, concurred in.

To resolution relative to the pay of Thomas H. Porter, late a member from Cambria county, and J. H. Wells, clerk of Contested Election Committee, were read, and on motion of Mr. GOEPP, concurred in.

The hour of five having arrived, the SPEAKER adjourned the House until to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock.

The undersigned citizens of Bucks county, in the Commonwealth aforesaid, respectfully represent: That they are subjected to trouble, inconvenience and expense on account of a continued influx upon them of fugitive slaves and manumitted negroes from other States. Fugitives are pursued to this State, and their reclamation is sometimes attended with mobs, and always with a degree of excitement in violation of the quiet of the people and the peace and dignity of the Commonwealth. Old and broken down negroes, set free by their masters, on account of their utter worthlessness, seek our shores only to become a public charge, or a prey upon individual charity; others, still more objectionable, commit petty and atrocious crimes, occupy the time of our courts, and fill up our jails and penitentiaries, and thus in various ways increasing the already enormous burthens of our tax-payers.

We, therefore, respectfully urge upon your honorable bodies the necessity of a general law prohibiting negroes and mulattoes from coming into our State with a view of acquiring a residence therein.

Mr. BELL, a memorial of citizens and members of the bar of the city of Philadelphia, praying for an increase of the salaries of the judges of the district court and common pleas in the said city; which, on motion, was ordered to be printed in the Record. It is as follows:

To the Honorable the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

The undersigned, citizens and members of the Bar of the City of Philadelphia, respectfully represent:

That in the opinion of your memorialists the salaries now paid the judges of the district court and court of common pleas for the city and county of Philadelphia, are entirely inadequate, whether considered as the salary of an office of such great responsibility, or as compensation for professional labor and services of a character so arduous and so valuable, and the annexed statements of the amount of business transacted in these courts, compiled and verified from the records, are submitted with the full expectation and belief, that the representatives of the people of this great Commonwealth, thus informed of the value of their services, will no longer consent that any portion of their judiciary, distinguished as our judges are for their learning and ability, shall be inadequately remunerated, for labors every year greatly increasing in responsibility and importance.

In 1840, the estimated population of the city and county of Philadelphia was 258,037. In 1850, 408,873; and now, 1859, it is believed to be about 600,000. Yet, in 1840, with a population not one-half of the present estimate, we had six judges of the court of common pleas, orphans' court, oyer and terminer, and quarter sessions of the peace, to perform the same duties now satisfactorily discharged by three; and each of those six received a larger salary than either of the three now receive.

The six judges continued in office until March, 1843, when the act abolishing the court of criminal sessions was passed.

The Legislature then considered the duties, to be performed by the three judges of the court of common pleas, too onerous, and authorized the appointment of an additional judge. This system was continued until 1849, when the act providing for the fourth judge was repealed.

The extent of the labors of the three judges, at present composing the court, may be seen, in part, upon a reference to the detailed statement of the amount of business transacted by them from December, 1851, to December, 1858, a period of seven years.

Since general equity powers have been conferred upon this court, its business, in this respect, has become of primary importance. During the last past year, the records show a large increase over any of the preceding years, and although the statistics of the number of suits instituted in several years are set forth, yet no account has been made of the large number of applications for injunctions argued and decided. It will also be remembered, that applications of this character are often made at unusual hours, at chambers, and, from the summary nature of the proceedings, demanding the utmost care and discretion, require a speedy decision. The judges of this court also hold the orphans' court; and, for the purpose of conveying some idea of the amount and extent of labor in that court, a statement of its business is herewith presented. A reference thereto will show, that in one branch of its jurisdiction, to wit, appointment of guardians, sales, and confirmation of sales, the increase of the last year's business, over the first, is 597 cases. These Judges also hold the register's court. But perhaps the most laborious and onerous of all the functions of these judges, are their duties as judges of the courts of oyer and terminer and quarter sessions of the peace, &c. A statement has also been prepared, of the number of jury trials in these courts, from December term, 1851, (inclusive,) to the end of October term, 1858. It will be seen that the whole number is 9,273 cases, and that 1,478 were tried during the last named year. Yet notwithstanding the large amount of business, no case in any branch of this court remains undisposed of, all their work is finished up.

No table is furnished of the "miscellaneous business," such as breaches of the peace, habeas corpus, apprentice and desertion cases, &c. These matters alone require always one day in each week, and often other days have to be set apart, in order to fully dispose of them.

The district court for the city and county of Philadelphia also consists of three judges, who, like those of the court of common pleas, sit for jury trials, for hearing arguments on regular argument days, and for other business at chambers, almost constantly during the whole year.

It is in this court that the great commercial and mercantile controversies of the city are chiefly decided. Its labors are incessant. The short vacation during the summer scarcely deserves the name, as during it, motions, rules, petitions, or warrants of arrest, under the act of 1842, require the constant attention of one, and sometimes two, judges.

Some idea of their duties and amount of labor may be gained from the fact, that during the last past seven years, 48,567 suits were instituted in this court. That during the last preceding terms, or one year, 9,999 were commenced, showing an increase of 4,623 cases over the first year, viz., 1851. This may appear incredible, but the records prove the fact, as stated. During the last year there were 2,186 cases upon the general motion and new trial lists, as reported in the Legal Intelligencer, when it is well known that this falls considerably below the exact number. The first year, i. e., December, 1851, March, June and September, 1852, 752 cases were reported, showing an increase, in 1858, of 1,434 cases. The statement annexed also shows a corresponding increase in other departments. No mention is made of the number of writs of venditioni exponas and levavi faicias, all of which are attended by an immense amount of interlocutory proceedings.

The following table, fairly compiled from data furnished by the last report of the Auditor General, will serve at the same time to show how large an amount of business and financial interests are under the care and control of the six judges of the city of Philadelphia, as well as the proportion of revenue paid by her into the treasury of the State. Nothing can place the justice and propriety of the proposed increase in a stronger light than does this exhibit. Showing that one-third of the ordinary revenue is paid by her industry and enterprise:

	In 1858, there was paid into the State Treasury in the whole State.	In Philadelphia,
From tax on real and personal estate,.....	$1,610,229 19	$510,800 00
Tavern licenses,.....	190,440 67	111,902 25
Retailers licenses,.....	190,664 24	100,994 96
Various licenses,.....	38,153 95	6,000 00
Foreign insurance agencies,.....	9,189 85	4,400 00
Tax on writs, wills, deeds, &c.,.....	78,586 97	18,126 58*
Tax on officers,.....	12,018 33	6,760 50*
Collateral inheritance tax,.....	92,318 89	31,500 00
Premium on charters,.....	97,086 20	37,000 00
Auctioneers,.....	70,600 00	69,000 00
Tax on bank dividends, and corporation stocks,.....	669,000 00	307,000 00
	$3,098,288 19	$1,203,484 29

*These two items are sufficient to pay all our city judges $4.00 per annum.

With respect to her judicial salaries, Philadelphia stands in striking contrast with her sister cities of the Union. The entire annual compensation of the six judges of the district court and court of common pleas amounts to $16,800.

In New York city there are twenty-one judges who receive $105,000 per annum. Six judges of the superior court, (corresponding to the district court,) each receives $6,000 per annum, while our judges receive but $2,800 each. In Cincinnati, Ohio, there are three judges of the superior court, who each receive $3,500, while in the country districts of that State, the same officers receive but $1,700. In Boston, St. Louis, New Orleans, Chicago, the salaries of the judges are about twice the amount of those of the country districts, showing a proper appreciation of the difference in the expense of urban residence.

Your memorialists, with entire confidence in the willingness of your honorable bodies, not only to take this matter into serious consideration, but to do ample justice to the judiciary, submit the facts and statements hereto annexed, which, if examined, they think will satisfy you of the entire propriety and necessity of an increase in the salaries, over and above the small amount now paid.

Your memorialists would also respectfully suggest the fact, that the expense of living in the city, has almost doubled within the few last past years. Rents, provisions, in fact all the necessities of life, have increased in price beyond precedent; so that a salary of $4,000 now, would be certainly no more than one of $2,000 a few years ago.

Mr. NUNNEMACHER, a remonstrance of citizens of Schuylkill Haven, against any alteration in the present proportionment of said borough.

Mr. MYER, a petition of citizens of Tunkhannock, Wyoming county, praying for an alteration in their borough laws.

On motion of Mr. STEELE, House bill No. 170, "An Act to incorporate the Luzerne powder company," was taken up.

Mr. WRIGHT remarked that there was a section of the bill, making the stockholders liable for certain debts, which does not go far enough to answer the objections which had been made by the Governor in similar cases. The section does not make the stockholders liable beyond a certain amount.

Mr. STEELE explained that it was merely a local bill, affecting only the interests of his constituents. There was nothing in it to which the people of his district objected, and he could see no necessity for any amendment.

Mr. SCHELL drew a distinction between this and other bills, and favored its passage.

On the final passage of the bill,

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. WRIGHT and Mr. STEELE, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Blood, Coffey, Craig, Gregg, Harris, Keller, Marselis, Myer, Palmer, Parker, Randall, Rutherford, Schell, Schindel, Steele, Turney, Welsh, Yardley and Cresswell, Speaker—19.

Mr. MCCLURE called for the reading of page twenty-eight of yesterday's Journal.

The SPEAKER directed the Clerk to read the same.

Mr. MCCLURE rose to a privileged question, and called for the reading of that portion of the Journal of Thursday, which related to the Green and Coates' Street railroad bill, being page twenty-eight.

The Clerk read the Journal, in which it was stated that the Green and Coates' Street railroad bill, after having finally passed the House, was ordered to be sent to the Senate for concurrence.

Mr. MCCLURE remarked, that from the reading it must be apparent to the members that the Green and Coates' Street railroad bill had finally passed the House, and that it had been ordered by the House to be then taken by the Clerk into the Senate for concurrence. Now this had not been done; the bill had been transcribed and was now, he understood, in the custody of the SPEAKER of the House, who would not send it into the Senate for six days. He wished to inquire whether he was correct in the statement that the SPEAKER had the bill?

The SPEAKER. The gentleman is correct.

Mr. MCCLURE. Then I simply desire to call the attention of the House to the fact, that it was ordered to be sent into the Senate.

The SPEAKER desired to reply. He said that by a standing rule of the House, it was possible for any gentleman to move a reconsideration of any bill within six days after its final passage. In view of the excitement which had attended the passage of this bill, and from intimations that he had received, he was inclined to believe that a motion to reconsider would be made in this instance, and had therefore deemed it his duty to retain the bill in his possession until the expiration of six days. He would, however, acquiesce in any decision which the House might make; but believing that his action had been just and proper, would not yield the document until the time specified, unless sooner relieved by the House.

Mr. MCCLURE said that the House had already relieved the SPEAKER of all responsibility in the matter, by ordering the document to be sent to the Senate. A thousand resolutions could do no more. The Clerk had informed him that he had called upon the SPEAKER for the purpose of obtaining the bill, and had been refused. Yet this withholding had been done in the face of direct orders of the House.

Mr. GOEPP called the gentleman to order. There was no subject before the House, and no motion pending.

Mr. THORN moved that Mr. MCCLURE have leave to make a statement. Leave was accordingly given.

Mr. MCCLURE had referred before to the order of the House, as it appeared upon the Journal. As for the allegation of the SPEAKER, that he would abide by any decision that the House would make, it was in effect asking them to repeat instructions which had already been plainly given. Neither would it do for the SPEAKER to fall back upon the rule which allowed the reconsideration of bills within six days, for support, because, although it was true that this privilege was accorded, yet there was no provision that the SPEAKER should for this reason, retain the bill, and he had no authority to do so. It was not the province of the SPEAKER to assume the right. It was true that a difficulty had occurred during the present session, because the House had desired to reconsider a bill which had gone out of its possession, but this argued nothing in favor of the prerogative assumed by the SPEAKER. It was on the Journal, in black and white, that the House had instructed its officers to send the bill into the Senate, and if the SPEAKER assumed the right to hold it, he did so in direct violation of the order. Look at the results which would follow such a custom. Why, during the six days preceding the end of the session, it would be impossible, if the SPEAKER chose to exercise the arbitrary power, to send any bill at all to the Senate, and the effect would be that the SPEAKER would be the sole legislator, and the one hundred men in the House would be ignored.

As for the plea of the SPEAKER that he had been notified that the Green and Conates street bill would be called up for re-consideration, it amounted to nothing. No evidence that was proper for him to receive had been adduced in support of this allegation. In fact, there was no means by which the SPEAKER could have been notified, except by the rising of some member in his seat in open House. A mere intimation in the ear of the SPEAKER conveyed no legal notice; and even if it did, he usurped his power and exceeded his authority when he held the bill for six days.

Mr. MCCLURE, repeated his argument that the course, as proposed, would, at the close of the session, make the SPEAKER the sole legislator.

The SPEAKER desired to reply. He was willing to admit that the House had ordered the bill to be taken into the Senate, but he denied that any time had been fixed. In support of this he referred to rule Twenty-three, and said that in the absence of any immediate instructions as to the time, he had felt bound to retain the document for six days. In the limited opportunity which he had had, he consulted authorities, and they all agreed that books, papers and documents were under the control of the SPEAKER.

It was not out of disrespect to the House that he intended to retain the bill for six days, nor was it for any partiality for, or opposition to its provisions. In fact, he knew nothing about the bill, or about the Philadelphia passenger railroad bills in general. In the course which he had adopted he was strictly endeavoring to do his duty.

Mr. PRICE. I desire the SPEAKER to retain the bill, and shall, within six days, move its re-consideration.

Mr. MCCLURE said that he had sustained the Chair in every decision but one, since the beginning of the session; and in that one, the SPEAKER pro tem. had not been Mr. LAWRENCE. But he wished to inquire now, whether the SPEAKER would exercise his alleged prerogative in the six days preceding the end of the session?

The SPEAKER said that under the rule he would not feel authorized to do so.

Mr. MCCLURE. Then you would refrain from it as a matter of choice?

The SPEAKER. Because the Chair would have no right to do so, it not being his province to obstruct legislation.

Mr. MCCLURE said that if the SPEAKER had a right now, he would have an equal right at the end of the session.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman has a right to his own construction of the rule.

Mr. MCCLURE said that he did not assume that the SPEAKER would attempt to clog the wheels of legislation, but in the future there might be worse SPEAKERS, who would act upon the precedent.

If under the instructions already given, the House has not ordered the bill to be taken into the Senate, then it never can be done, nor was it necessary to ask the consent of the SPEAKER. As for notice that the bill was to be re-considered, it had only been given recently; and even then, he contended, that it was no notice at all. Would the remarks of the gentleman from Lancaster, (Mr. PRICE,) appear upon the Journal, or would he be bound, after what he had said, to move to re-consider the bill? He might, or he might not do it. This, he again said, was not an adequate notice.

Mr. GOEPP asked leave to make a statement. Leave was given. He said that the bill in question had, in the usual manner, been ordered to go into the Senate; the order specified no time for the performance of the action by the Clerk; but merely instructed him, in general terms, to present it for concurrence to the other House. The course to be pursued must be in accordance with the custom in such cases; but the Clerk was not a discretionary officer, and it was palpable that there must be authority somewhere to guide and direct—this authority was vested in the SPEAKER alone.

It was true that the rule allowed six days for re-consideration—it was equally true that bills should be accessible to the House within this period. This was evinced by a difficulty which had already occurred during the session. In ordinary cases, he admitted, that it was the practice to take the bill over at once, but there must be a power somewhere to retain them, if it was thought advisable; and in cases where the SPEAKER was notified that a re-consideration was to take place, it was his duty to exercise this power. Although the SPEAKER could not disobey the orders of the House, yet the time for sending the document over was left to his discretion; provided, of course, that it was within the six days.

Mr. GOEPP said that the present discussion was altogether informal. No resolution or motion was before the House. If the gentlemen who had broached the matter wished to test it fully, why did they not put it in some tangible shape?

Mr. MCCLURE desired that the records of the House and the actions of its officers should be in accordance with each other. If the SPEAKER was to be allowed to retain the bill, then let some one move that that part of the Journal which ordered it to go into the Senate, be erased. He wished to read an extract from Cushing's Manual, a work which, on a previous occasion, the SPEAKER had quoted as good authority.

The extract in question being read, stated that the Clerk of the House was answerable for all documents, and that it was at his peril that he allowed them to go from his possession, without an order from the House.

Mr. HAMERSLY cited an extract from page 113 of the Pennsylvania Manual, (Sutherland's,) which said that after a bill had been read and passed, it should be taken by the Clerk, "as soon as he could conveniently leave the House, to the Senate." In support, also, of the authority quoted by Mr. MCCLURE, he denied that the bills belonged to the SPEAKER, or were in his custody. The Clerk had his own responsible duties, and in these was comprised the care of papers.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman state what book he has read from?

Mr. HAMERSLY. Sutherland's Manual.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman point me to any place in the records of the House, where that Manual was adopted for its government?

Mr. HAMERSLY. I think I can.

Mr. THORN considered this an important question. He reverted to the suspension in legislation which might ensue during the last six days of the session, in case the SPEAKER was allowed to exercise the arbitrary power. How was the SPEAKER to know when the end of the session approached? The result finally would be, that one-third of the members of the House, with the SPEAKER, might prevent a bill from passing during the last six days of the session, or becoming a law, if it did pass. He fully appreciated the embarrassing position in which the SPEAKER was now placed, and wished to conclude with an inquiry, viz: Did the SPEAKER intend to give orders to the Clerk that no bill should be sent to the Senate until six days after its passage?

The SPEAKER declined to decide any questions in advance.

Mr. THOMPSON supported the views of the SPEAKER, and reviewed the operations and intentions of rule twenty-three, relative to the re-consideration within six days.

Mr. HAMERSLY inquired whether Mr. THOMPSON, under his construction of that rule, considered that it was the duty of the SPEAKER to retain all bills for six days?

Mr. THOMPSON said that the intention evidently was to have all bills accessible within that time.

Mr. ABBOTT said that it was the regular course to send bills from the House to the Senate as soon as possible. The 23d rule, in his opinion, could not affect this regular mode of procedure, and could not recall a bill after it had gone out of the House, neither did it apply to the present case.

Mr. MCCLURE recapitulated all the circumstances of the case, and desired to take an appeal from the decision of the Chair—that the document was legally retained in his possession.

The SPEAKER said that this appeal was hardly proper, inasmuch as it was not actually based on any motion or business before the House.

Mr. PINKERTON moved that the further consideration of the subject be postponed.

The SPEAKER said he could not entertain this motion, because there was no "subject" properly before the House.

Mr. CHASE coincided with the views which had been expressed by the gentleman from Butler, (Mr. THOMPSON,) and argued that six days retention of all bills was necessary. This retention was due on one account to the constituents of members, to allow them an opportunity of remonstrating. But on the general ground, that the SPEAKER was the responsible officer of the House, and the Clerk but the instrument, he considered that the former should control the documents. It had been said that the Clerk must take the bills to the Senate as soon as he conveniently could. Why, this course would make the whole House subservient to the pleasure of the Clerk. Would they rather trust to him than the presiding officer? All authorities agreed that the general custody of papers was entrusted to the presiding officer.

As for the veto power, which was alleged would accrue to the SPEAKER by the exercise of the privilege, it was possible at any time to take it out of his hands.

Mr. BARNESLEY asked leave to offer a resolution at this time.

The resolution was read by the Clerk.

Resolved, That the use of the House should be granted after one o'clock, (the hour of adjournment,) to such members as desired to discuss parts of order. [Laughter.]

Mr. MCCLURE gave notice that he would offer a resolution.

Mr. CHURCH moved to extend the hour of adjournment until the subject was disposed of. Not agreed to.

Mr. THORN moved that when this House adjourns, it do so to meet at three o'clock p. m. on Monday.

On this question,

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. PINKERTON and Mr. PATTERSON, and were as follow, viz:

YEAS—Messrs. Acker, Balliet, Bertolet, Boyer, (Clearfield,) Fisher, Foster, Goepf, Gratz, Green, Hamersly, Ketchum, Laird, McClain, McClure, Miller, Neall, Proudfoot, Shafer, Taylor, Thompson, Thorn, Wagonseller, Warden, Witman and Williams, (Bucks,)—25.

NAYS—Messrs. Abbott, Barnsley, Barlow Bayard, Boyer, (Schuylkill,) Brodhead, Bryson, Burley, Chase, Church, Custer, Dismant, Dodds, Durboraw, Eckman, Ellmaker, Evans, Fearon, Fleming, Galley, Good, Graham, Gray, Hill, Hottenstine, Jackson, Keneagy, Kinney, Lawrence, (Washington,) Mann, Mehaffey, M'Curdy, Nill, Oaks, Palm, Patterson, Pennell, Peirce, Pinkerton, Price, Rohrer, Rose, Rouse, Shepard, Smead, Smith, (Berks,) Stephens, Stoneback, Stuart, Styer, Walborn, Walker, Wigton, Williams, (Bedford,) Wilson, Withrow, Wolf, Zoller and Lawrence, Speaker—59.

So the question was determined in the negative.

Mr. M'CLURE offered the following resolution:

WHEREAS, This House did, on the 10th inst., pass finally bill numbered 160, entitled "A supplement to the act incorporating the Coates and Green Streets passenger railroad company," and as appears by the Journal, instructed the Clerk to present the same to the Senate for concurrence:

AND WHEREAS, The SPEAKER of the House has taken said bill from the custody of the Clerk when it was transcribed and ready to be transmitted to the Senate, and refused to deliver the same to the Clerk until the time has expired on which, by the rule of the House, a motion to re-consider may be made:

Resolved, That the SPEAKER of the House be instructed to deliver said bill to the Clerk, so that it may be presented to the Senate for concurrence, as the House has directed.

The SPEAKER desired to explain. He recapitulated the views which he had already expressed, and re-asserted his right to retain the document.

Mr. M'CLURE said that the SPEAKER was mistaken as to the right. It had been shown that the bill was properly in the custody of the Clerk, and not of the Chair.

Mr. M'CLURE. Has the SPEAKER ever had the custody of any other bill?

The SPEAKER. Of all bills and papers.

Mr. M'CLURE. Does the gentleman decide that the Chair has control over the transcribing room?

The SPEAKER. I so decide.

Mr. M'CLURE asserted that the right which was given to the SPEAKER of controlling the officers of the House did not extend to the disposition of bills. It was an orderly supervision.

The SPEAKER decided that he would not entertain the motion of Mr. McClure, because it was not a correct recitation of the facts, and because that the Chair had decided in contradiction to its tenor, that the SPEAKER had the supervision over bills for six days.

Mr. McClure asserted the right of appeal. The SPEAKER said he would entertain the appeal.

Mr. McClure. Why is the resolution not in order?

The SPEAKER. It is not a correct recitation of facts.

Mr. THORN asked for the reading of rule 7th; which was read.

Messrs. McClure and TAYLOR offered the following appeal:

Resolutions relative to the custody of bill No. 106, being before the House, the Chair decided the resolution to be out of order, because it was not a correct recitation of facts.

From this decision, the undersigned respectfully appeal to the House.

A. K. McCLURE,
A. W. TAYLOR.

Mr. STEPHENS moved an adjournment; which was lost.

After further remarks of Mr. LAWRENCE, (Washington,)

Mr. HAMERSLY called the orders of the day. The hour of one having arrived, the SPEAK-ER adjourned the House till to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock.

In Wednesday's Record, on the joint resolution for the payment of William E. Frazer, for services as Canal Commissioner, Mr. WARDEN was represented as having moved to insert one-third instead of one-fourth. His motion was to amend by striking out one-third and inserting one-fourth; instead, it should have read thus:

Mr. WARDEN moved further to amend the amendment, by striking out one-third and inserting one-fourth.
